
COOK'S NEWSPAPER
SCRAP BOOK.

HEAVY CANVAS BACK AND CORNERS, PAPER SIDES.

No.	12	10 x 12	240 pages
"	012	10 x 12	240 "	Index in front and paged
"	14	10 x 14	240 "
"	014	10 x 14	240 "	" " " " " "
"	24	18 x 24	250 "

HEAVY CANVAS BACK AND CORNERS, BLACK CLOTH SIDES.

"	13	10 x 12	240 pages
"	013	10 x 12	240 "	Index in front and paged
"	15	10 x 14	240 "
"	015	10 x 14	240 "	" " " " " "

— MANUFACTURED BY —

JOSEPH F. COOK

244-246 MILK STREET
BOSTON, MASS.

FOR THE BOYS AT THE FRONT—New Bedford women, in old City Hall, making comforts for the soldiers of the Union. The photograph was taken by Bierstadt Brothers April 22, 1861.

IN CHILMARK—This photograph of the snow covered landscape at Chilmark, Marthas Vineyard was taken looking toward West Tisbury.

Feb. 20, 1927.

Frank M. Bates.

1927 Jan. 19.

Succumbs After Five Years of Ill Health---Lived in New Bedford and Fairhaven 54 Years

Jan. 31 1927

PAINTING CHURCH MURALS—Carroll Bill and his wife, Sally Cross Bill, Boston artists, are shown at work in St. James's Roman Catholic Church, where they have executed the new mural decorations. Mr. Bill also works in water colors, while Mrs. Bill is a portrait painter.

—Workmen are shown loading barrels of oil near the old stone building at Merrill's Wharf, foot of Walnut street. Apr. 3, 1927

FISHERM
LEA

Mar 7—

William T. L
in Ill He Nine M

Jurist's Son store Fisht Buzzar

William T. Dunn, sor of fishermen's r
Bay, died at his h street, Padanaram, been in ill health
and had been confi three weeks.

Mr. Dunn was b land, the son of S
Cushing Dunn. H former, Rhode Isla justice of the Rhod Court.

Mr. Dunn came t mouth 45 years ag had conducted a fi
He was always a fi
men's rights, and aft fishtraps in Buzzard

William T. Dun

hibited for 17 years he le to have them restored a opposition of the Old Co
His contention that Buzza was not a breeding place o but simply a feeding place ly supported and fishtra again in the bay.

Mr. Dunn also sponsored reducing the length of lobs could be legally taken in Ma setts waters from 10½ to nine

Mr. Dunn was an enth
Democrat. He was four times didate on the Democratic ticke the Sixth Bristol District bu succeeded in being elected.

He is survived by five son liam A. Leon T., Benjamin T uel and John S. Dunn, all of Dartmouth; three daughters, M
Eva Dunn, Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs liam Davis and Mrs. William erson, Falmouth; three gran dren, Misses Ruth and Eva
Falmouth, and Miss Ruby L
Dunn, South Dartmouth; two br
ers, George Dunn, Mattapoisett, John Dunn, Campello, and two ters, Mrs. Allen Gammons, Tops and Mrs. James Pollock, New ford.

A. F. Packard Photo.

REFLECTIONS Summer time is symbolized in this unusual view of the brook at Buttonwood Park.

DIES A

Mrs. Delia S. Gifford, Real Granddaughter of Revolution, Is Dead

Mrs. Delia S. Gifford, 87, widow of Charles F. Gifford, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward E. F. Potter, 100 Summer street, Sunday, after an illness of about two months. Mrs. Gifford had been in poor health for nearly a year.

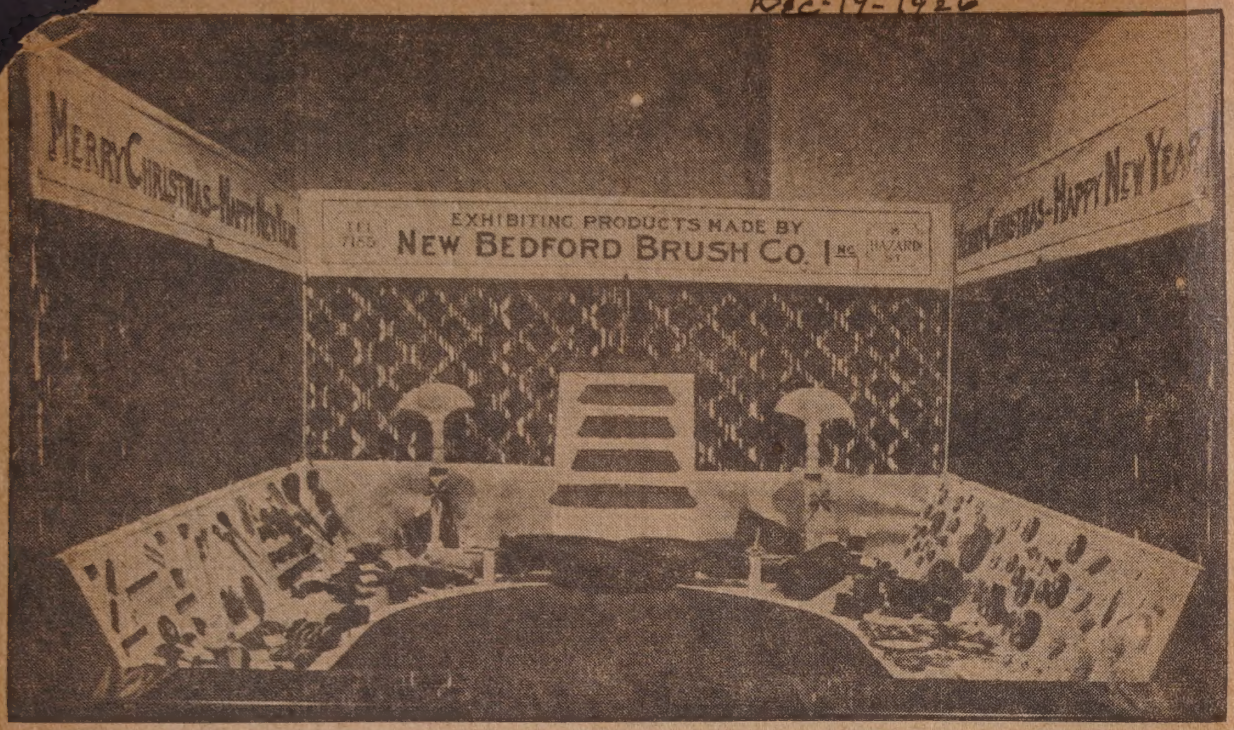
She was a granddaughter of John Harvey, a Taunton Revolutionary soldier. Mrs. Gifford was a member of Woman's Relief Corps, No. 95, and was second officer when Corps 53 was instituted. She was also a member of Stella Lodge of Rebekahs, and of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church. She had been a resident of this city for 54 years, and had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Potter.

Mrs. Gifford is survived by her daughter, two brothers, B. D. Harvey, Detroit, Mich., and A. Fred Harvey, Deland, Fla.; and a sister-in-law, Mrs. L. S. Harvey, who lives in California.

FAIRYLAND OF SNOW—Their branches bowed almost to the ground by heavy snow, following one of the winter's storms, these trees lining the old Indian Neck road, Wareham, presented a picture of rare splendor when the sun shone again.

EDFORD BRUSH COMPANY EXHIBITS AT THE FIRST NATIONAL

Dec. 19-1926

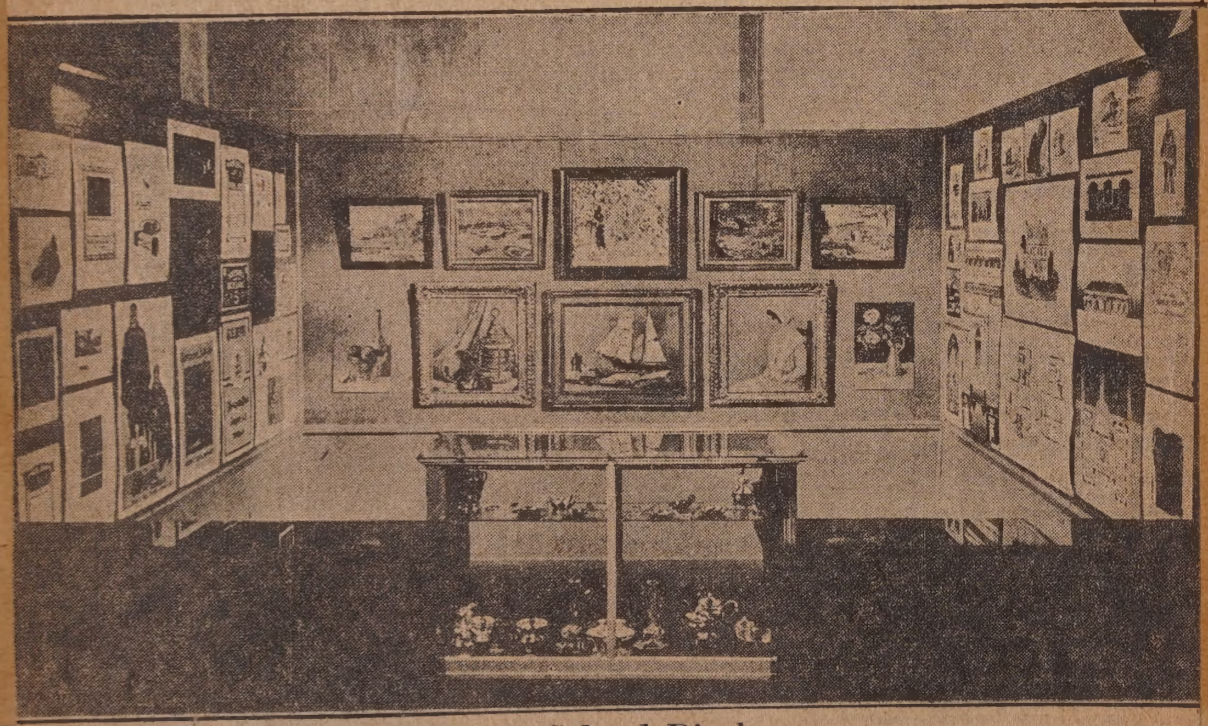


Bristles and Brushes

The photograph reproduced above shows the attractive display of New Bedford Brush Company products which will be open to the public at the First National Bank for two weeks, beginning Monday.

ART STUDENTS OF NEW BEDFORD EXHIBIT THEIR WORKS

7/16/1927



Swain School Display

The above photo shows the interesting exhibit of art works, products of those who have studied or are studying at the Swain School of Design.

—A. E. Packard Photo.

ENSHRINED—The Barnard monument at Buttonwood Park is showered with a strange light in this photograph, taken on a winter night.

HOUSED IN NEW BUILDING

1/16-27

Store of Hudner Markets, Inc.

Chief William T. Cole and His Family

Dec. 28, 1926.

William T. Cole, New Bedford's new police chief, is the head of the family of ten pictured here. From left to right those in the group are: Miss Mary A. Cole, Charles Cole, William J. Cole, Mrs. Cole, Richard A. Cole, Cyril Cole, Chief Cole, Henry A. Cole, Leo J. Cole, and Miss Lillian Cole.

A FOE OF SNOW—Tracks are quickly cleared when these powerful snow pushers plow their way through after a storm. A cleanly swept stretch of rails at Buzzards Bay is shown after a heavy

Jan. 13, 1927.

FILMED AT ROUND HILLS

Colonel Green and William Ritchie

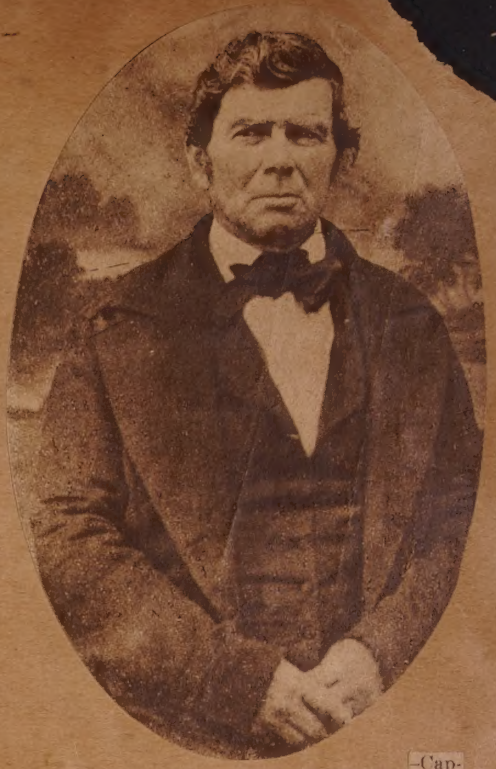
COLONEL GREEN SEEN IN FILM

11/2 1926

Greets William Ritchie in Community Fund Reel of Movies

Mar. 13 1927.—Oki Seizo Photo.

STUDENT IN MUSIC — Miss Lydia Coffin Prescott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Prescott, 401 County street, and North Dartmouth, is a student at Briarcliff School, Briarcliff-on-the-Hudson. She is doing special work in music. Miss Prescott will be graduated from Briarcliff next year.



—Captain Levi Smith for many years was keeper of the Dumpling Rock Lighthouse, South Dartmouth.

COAST GUARDSMEN

Left to right, in this photograph of the crew of the C. G. 237, Woods Hole, are, front row: J. R. Rizenback, G. F. Norris, and C. L. Davis; back row, J. P. Lynch, E. R. Williams, R. C. Demers, and J. Harrison. name revised Mar. 6, 1927

ACCEPTS CALL

March 14-27

The Rev. R. W. MacCaul Comes to Advent Christian Church Here

The Rev. R. W. MacCaul, pastor of the Advent Christian Church, Lynn, has accepted the call to the pastorate of the Advent Christian Church in this city. He preached at the morning and evening services here yesterday to a large congregation. He was pastor of the Lynn church for two years and five months.

Mr. MacCaul is a native of Nova Scotia, is married and has a daughter. He will remove with his family to this city as soon as arrangements can be made, and he will be the first minister of the church to occupy the parsonage at 178 Cedar street, which was given to the church under the will of Mrs. Mary A. Stanton. The parsonage is conveniently located near the church, and the present tenants have been notified to vacate to make room for Mr. MacCaul and his family.

SPEND LONG HOURS SPREADING CHRISTMAS CHEER 12/19-1927

TROLLEY MAN D
2/12-1927

Thomas B. Martin.

WAS MOTORMAN FOR 35 YEARS

Thomas B. Martin, 58, Dies After Illness of Five Weeks

Operated First Trolley on Mt. Pleasant-Dartmouth Street Line

RECTOR RESIGNS TO RECUPERATE

Dec. 30-27

The Rev. C. R. S. Pike Leaves Church of Good Shepherd

Forrest Lee Nicol, Theological Student, Is Filling Fairhaven Pulpit

The Rev. C. R. S. Pike, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, has resigned following the expiration of his leave of absence obtained because of ill health and is now recuperating at Walpole Island, Ontario, Can.

Forrest Lee Nicol, student in Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, who has been assigned to conduct the Sunday services at the Church of the Good Shepherd since Mr. Pike's health necessitated his retirement from the church here, will continue to carry on the services of the Fairhaven church until Mr. Pike's successor is named.

The Rev. C. R. S. Pike.

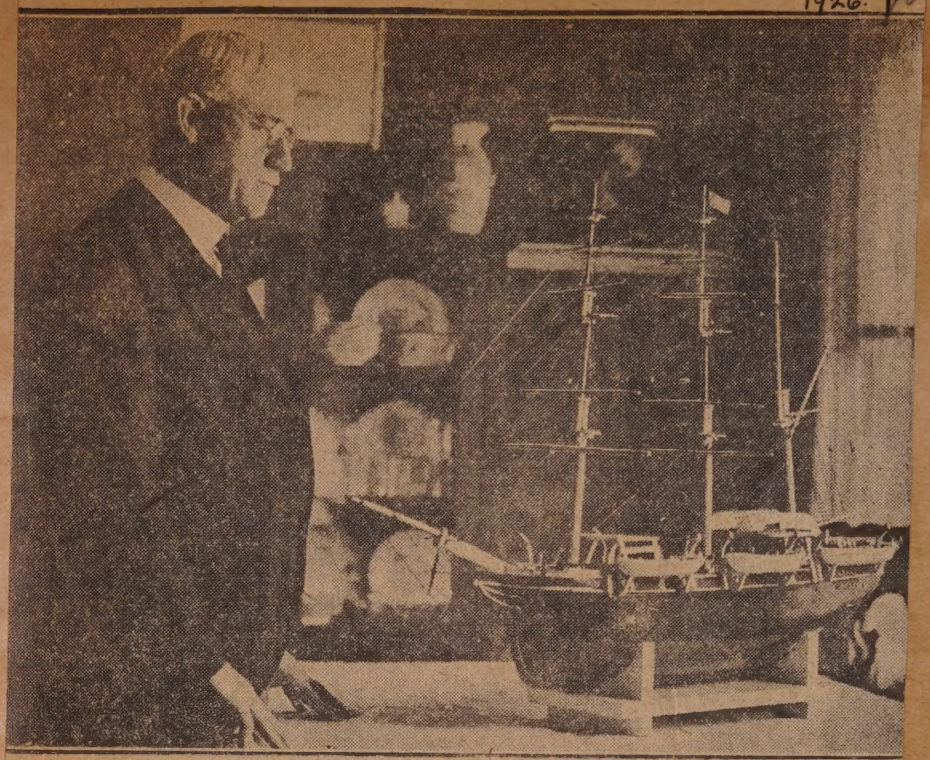
There is a possibility that Mr. Nicol may continue his work here until summer, when the new rector would be selected. Because he is not a fully ordained minister Mr. Nicol could not carry on the full duties as rector of the Fairhaven church.

Letters received from Mr. Pike and his family by his former parishioners assure them that Mr. Pike is feeling greatly improved in health. He is occupying a cottage at Walpole Island and is trying to obtain a complete rest. Walpole Island has a large summer colony and Mr. Pike has been asked to take over the charge of the Episcopal summer church on the island for the season. He has written to his friends here that he expects to accept the offer if his improvement continues.

BAPTIST PASTOR COMPLETES SHIP MODEL

1926. 1/8



Boat Is Miniature Whaler Lagoda

Dr. H. B. Williams, pastor of the First Baptist Church, has completed a model whale ship, a reproduction of the Lagoda. The pastor, who has a keen interest in the whaling history of New Bedford, began work on the boat as a hobby early last spring and has fashioned it in his spare time.

FESTOONED WITH ICICLES—The Mary R. Mullins, of the New Bedford fishing fleet, braves the winter weather with the rest of them, and presents a hoary appearance after a few hours at sea. Photo by E. D. Ashley.

URGE FURNA... AS TRADE ENVOY

New Bedford Man Talked of as Trade Commissioner to Latin America

2/27-27

New Appropriation Provides New Federal Agents to Aid in Export Trade

John E. Furnans, who was formerly a prominent New Bedford clothing merchant, and who has long been a resident of New Bedford, is talked of as a possible candidate for trade commissioner in the John E. Furnans.

United States Department of Commerce.

Mr. Furnans in recent years has been engaged extensively in commercial dealings with textile interests in Mexico, Brazil and other Central and South American states, and has made a number of trips to these localities as the special representative of some of the large American manufacturers of mill machinery and equipment. He has acted as United States purchasing agent for some of the Latin American industrial organizations and has arranged very considerable business in all sorts of material and supplies incident to textile manufacture. He has recently returned from an extended business trip to Mexico, and is planning very shortly to start on another business trip of a similar character.

LONG CAREER ENDS

Feb 23-27

Dr. John T. Bullard

PHYSICIAN DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Dr. John T. Bullard, 62, Was Former Member of Board of Health

In Active Practice Here 21 Years, Was Trustee of St. Lukes Hospital

PAINTER'S BOOK SUPPLEMENTS HIS CANVASES 11/21-26

Horace L. Humphrey,
apr 10, New Bedford, 1927

Clifford W. Ashley and His Work

Two of many whaling paintings: The Sunbeam, owned by Joseph L. Woolston of Philadelphia (above), and the Charles W. Morgan fitting out (below), owned by George H. Taber.

DATES TO COLONIAL DAYS

1/30-27

Minister's House Built by Town

The new home of E. A. Graham, Gibbs avenue, Wareham, was the first parsonage of the Wareham Congregational Church 144 years ago. Remodeled within and without, it now bears no evidence of age.

144 YEAR [illegible] HOUSE RENEW[illegible]

Remodeling Preserves Fine Features of Wareham Structure

Was Built by Town as Home for Congregational Minister

To the stranger passing along Gibbs avenue, Wareham, the new home of E. A. Graham, who recently came to that town from Berkley to be associated with Leslie B. Handy in the trout raising industry, would appear a handsome, modern dwelling, fresh from the builders' hands. In reality, the building stood completed in November, 1783, and housed the first resident pastor of the Congregational Church of Wareham, the Rev. Noble Everett.

Old Beauties Preserved.

Remodeling and several coats of paint have transformed the old dwelling into a fine modern residence. Mr. Graham, who acquired the property from the three Crocker sisters of Wareham, has endeavored to preserve as far as possible the original interior. The old wooden panels, the original fireplaces and built-in oven, even the ancient folding shutters on the windows are retained.

For generations after its building, the parsonage remained in the Everett family, passing later to the Crockers. It was built by order of the town shortly after the hiring of Noble Everett as pastor. The old contract calling for the building reads:

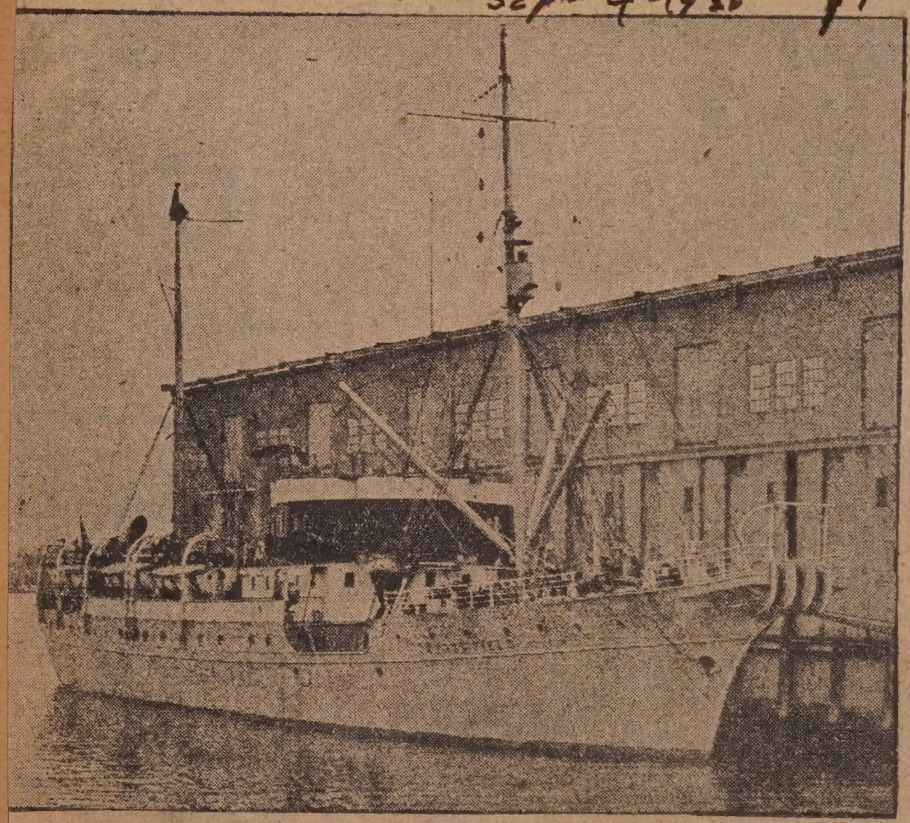
Deeded by Town.

"Whereas, several votes have been passed by the town at different meetings concerning Mr. Everett's settlement, and salary voted, that the whole of his settlement and salary be comprehended and established—first: that we give to Mr. Noble Everett for settlement the whole of the land lying south of, and adjoining to John Winslow's land, which was bought of Thomas Sampson for the purpose, and build him a dwelling house on the same, 36 feet in length and 28 feet in width, two stories high and finished in a decent and handsome manner with a cellar under the same, and completed by the last day of November 1783."

OCEAN GOING CABLE SHIP CALLS HERE

Sept 4-1926

9.4.26

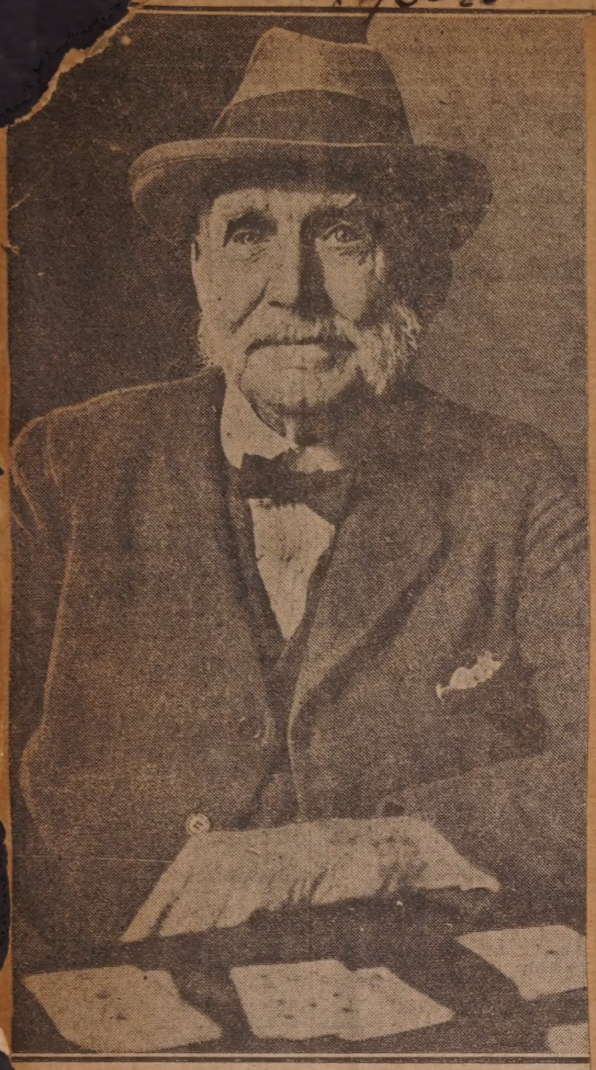


Steamer Cyrus Field

Apr. 3, 1927

GATHERING SEAWEED — these Westport farmers are shown gathering seaweed, to be used as fertilizer, at Horseneck Beach

WHALING MASTER DIES 12/3-26



Captain James Marquand

WHALEMAN IS DEAD AT 90

Captain James Marquand Succumbs After Illness of One Month

Went to Sea at Ten and Continued Voyages Until 1894

Captain James Marquand, 90, New Bedford's oldest whaling master, died yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital from a complication of diseases. He became ill about a month ago and was taken to the hospital, where he gradually lost his strength.

Active in Whalemen's Club.

Captain Marquand had been about engaged in the activities of the New Bedford Whalemen's Club, and was apparently as well as anybody could be expected to be at his advanced age. He never missed a clam bake, chowder or a lecture given under the auspices of the club while he was a member. He was a regular attendant every day at the club's headquarters in the New Bedford Five Cents Savings Bank Building.

Captain Marquand began to go to sea at the age of ten, and continued his seagoing until the year 1894, when he retired. He went for years on whaling voyages in different vessels, finally shipping as mate of the schooner Lottie Beard, which made trips to St. Helena from this port to bring back whale oil. He alternated with Captain Washington Perry in command of the craft for 14 years.

AT WORK HERE Jan 29 27

Mrs. Blanche M. Tulloch Meets Parents of Church School Pupils

Mrs. Blanche M. Tulloch, the new director of religious education at St. Martin's Episcopal Church, is now at work in the parish, meeting with teachers and parents of the church school scholars. She was for two years with the Episcopal City Mission, Boston, under Archdeacon Ernest J. Dennen and has written several successful pageants.

Dartmouth Almshouse Apr. 18 1927.

McKAY CLIPPER REPRODUCED

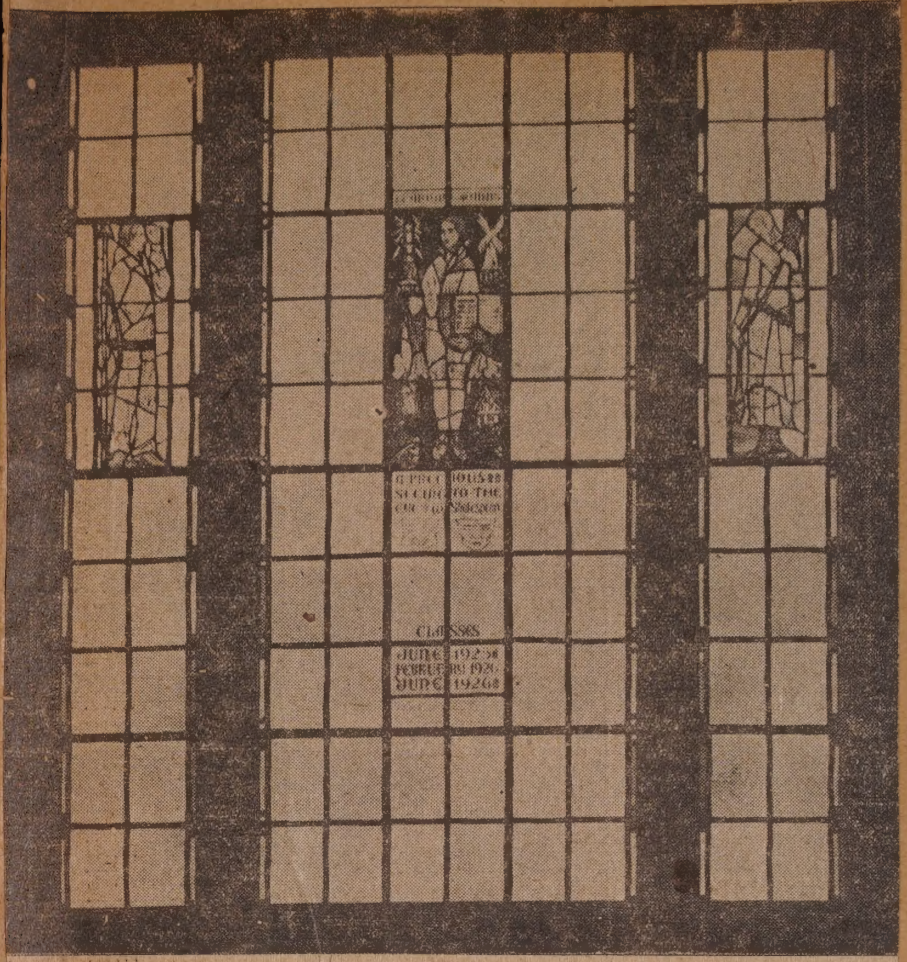
Edwin S. Tallman and Model

RETIRED ROPE MAKER EXPRESSES LOVE OF SEA BY MODELING SHIP 1/16-27

Edwin S. Tallman Was Denied Youthful Ambition to Go Whaling---Was School Janitor 33 Years---Makes Miniature of Famous Clipper, Sovereign of the Seas

NEW WINDOW TO INSPIRE STUDENTS

12/28-26



Given by High School Graduates

GIFT WINDOW IS INSTALLED

Figures in Stained Glass Recall History of New Bedford

Window Given by Three N. B. H. S. Classes Faces Inner Court of School

A new stained glass window, the gift of three graduating classes of New Bedford High School, has been installed at the landing of the front stairway in the high school building. The fund with which it was purchased was established by the classes of June, 1925; February, 1926, and June, 1926, who were aided by funds from a group connected with the art department.

The window, which faces the inner court of the building, is not visible from outside. It was bought at cost of approximately $500, of which $360 was contributed by the classes, as follows: June, 1925, $125; February, 1926, $104, and June, 1926, $131.

One large pane and two smaller ones, one on each side, make up the window. In the right hand panel a young woman carrying some flax is represented, symbolic of weaving and the mills as factors in New Bedford's history. In the panel on the left is represented a young man with a harpoon, symbolizing the whaling industry.

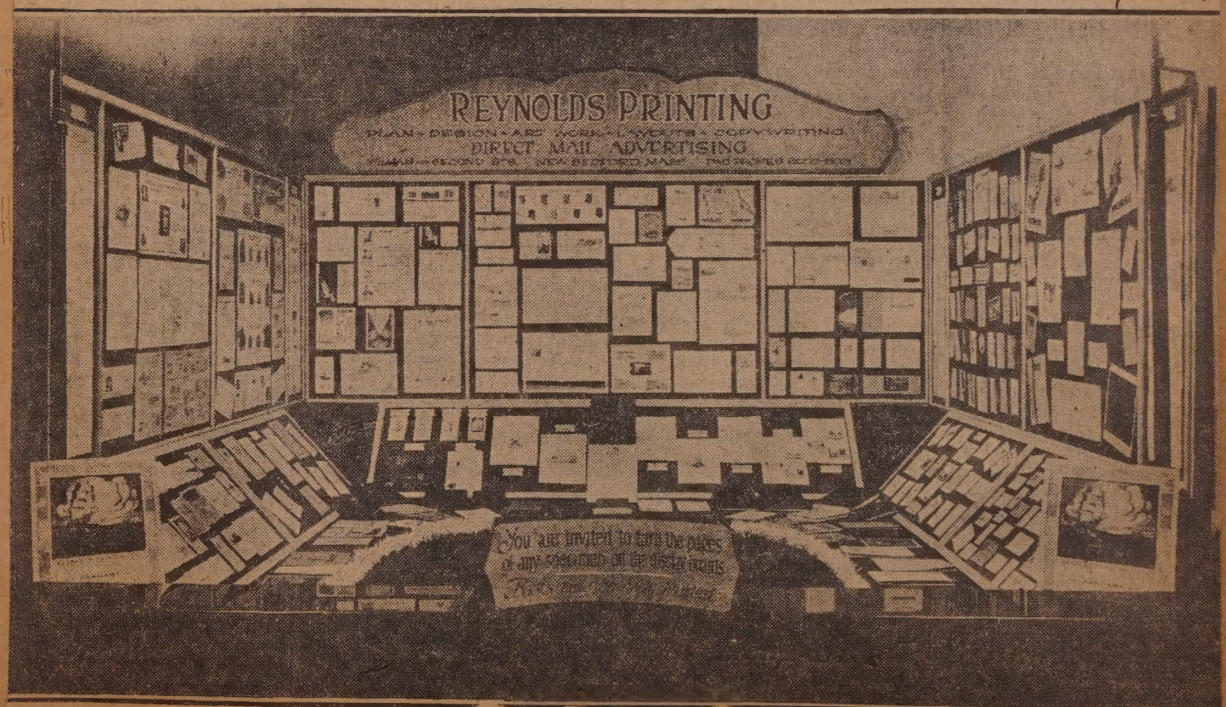
The central panel, representative of learning, the outstanding figure is a young boy holding a light in one hand and an open book in another. In the upper right hand corner of the panel is a small windmill, while in the lower corners a house and a ship are represented.

The inscription, "learning adds a precious seeing to the eye," taken from Shakespeare, appears beneath the central panel, and beneath it are still two more figures. Each of the pictures is surrounded by glass of different hues, giving a brilliant appearance to the whole.

The School Committee, in May, 1925, voted to provide for a cathedral glass base for the window, and also voted to install it when it was presented by the students.

REYNOLDS PRINTING CO. DISPLAYS ITS PRODUCTS

1/2-27



At First National Bank

The photograph reproduced herewith shows the interesting and attractive display of the local company's wares which will be on view to the public tommorow.

...NT REDSKINS' PLACE OF WORSHIP TO BE RESTORED

11.21.C9.2

THE SEA COAST DEFENCE CHAPTER
DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION
VINEYARD HAVEN MASS
ERECTED THIS TABLET
WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF MANITOWATTOOFAN
THE ANCIENT TOWNSHIP OF THE PRAYING INDIANS
SET APART IN 1670 BY JOSIAS THE SACHEM OF TAKEMMY
AND LATER CALLED CHRISTIANTOWN
TO COMMEMORATE
THE SERVICES OF GOV THOMAS MAYHEW
AND HIS DESCENDANTS MISSIONARIES WHO HERE LABORED
AMONG THE NATIVE INDIANS
THE MEETING HOUSE OPPOSITE ERECTED IN 1829
REPLACED THEIR ORIGINAL HOUSE OF WORSHIP
A NO THIS BOULDER
MARKS THE PATH TO THEIR BURYING GROUND

Memories of Christian Indians

The Mayhew Chapel on the north shore of Marthas Vineyard, the tablet placed by Sea Coast Defense Chapter, D. A. R., on a boulder near the Indian burying ground. Right and left, Indian graves.

Theodosia D. Chase Photo

MATTAPOISETT QUAKER — This portrait of Edward Hiller, 84, Pine Island Corner, Mattapoisett, is another example of Miss Chase's work. Mr. Hiller is an ardent Quaker.

Mar. 20, 1927

Mar. 20, 1927. Theodosia D. Chase Photo

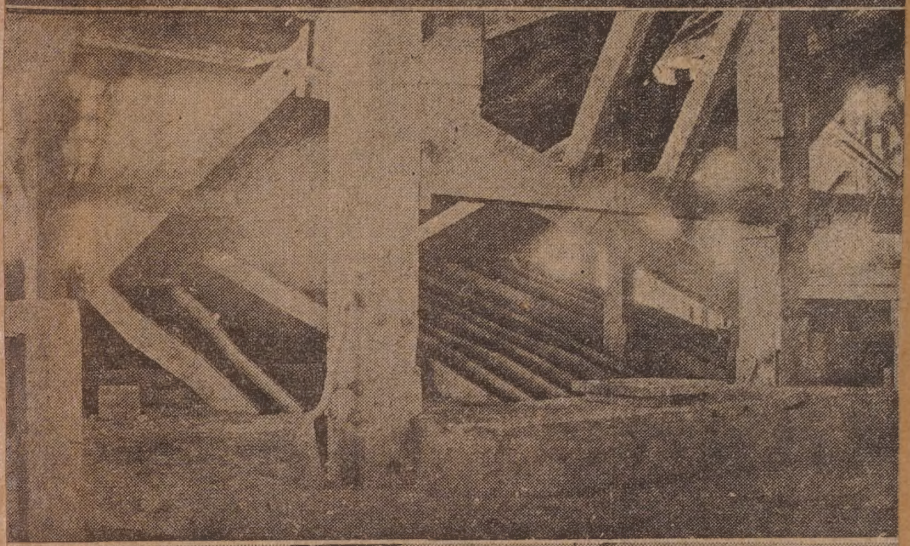
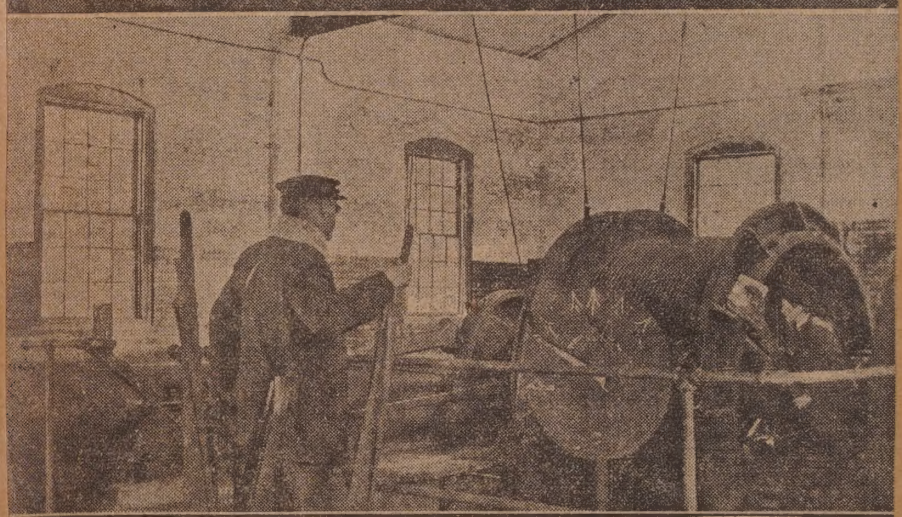
Miss Caroline Akin is photographed in the old house at Padanaram where Dick Canfield spent his boyhood. The house is now owned by Mrs. Rhoda Kimball Howes.

ABANDONED RHODE ISLAND COAL MINE

1/16 27





Not Worked for 20 Years

Above, breaker building; center, coal chutes; below, hoisting engine with indicator.

SHOE DEALER DEAD AT 53

2/4

1927

Charles F. Trull Jr. Prominent in Masons and Musicians' Union

Carried on Shoe Business Here 26 Years; Suffered Long Illness

Charles F. Trull Jr., 53, shoe dealer in this city for the past 26 years and financial secretary of the New Bedford Musicians' Union for 19 years, died at his home, 360 Mill street, about 9 last night following a long illness.

Came Here at Age of 3.

Born in Lynn, Mr. Trull came to this city with his parents when he was three years old. He secured his education in the public schools of this city, and at an early age went to work in the old Hathaway, Soule & Harrington shoe factory, where for the latter part of his working there he was foreman of one of the departments for eight years or more. In 1900 Mr. Trull opened a shoe store on Purchase street, near North, and continued in that stand until 1918 when he opened a store at the corner of High and Purchase streets remaining there until a year ago last September when he opened a new store in Mechanics lane. Mr. Trull was a member of the Masonic Order in this city, and a 32d degree Mason. He was a member of the Eastern Star, Sippican Tribe of Red Men, Camp 150 Sons of Veterans, financial secretary of the New Bedford Musicians Union, which position he has held for 18 or 19 years, and he was thought so highly of by that organization, that although he was ill at the latest election of officers of that body, he was elected just the same and his son, Carleton, has been doing his duties since his election. Mr. Trull was also a member of the Azab Grotto of Fall River, and a member of the Azab Grotto band, which has taken several prizes in competition. He is survived by his wife, Laura, two sons, Carleton and Walter, a mother Mrs. Sarah Trull, and three sisters, Mrs. William F. Dammon, Mrs. Mary Winslow and Mrs. Frank Parker. He is also survived by five grandchildren.

Charles F. Trull Jr.

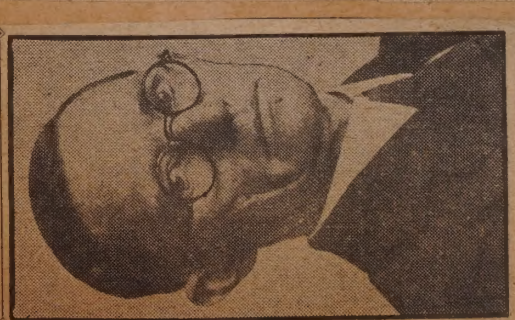
NEW ORGANIST



B. FRANK MICHELSEN, 21 Lincoln street, will assume his new duties ar organist of the First Presbyterian Church, on Sunday, March 6. Mr. Michelsen was formerly organist of Union M. E. Church, Fall River, going there from the North Christian Church where he was organist for a number of years.

FEB-26-27

...KES FAMILIAR FIGURE ...ACTIVITIES OF GRAND ARMY

1/13-27

...H. Lawrence Dies at Age of 83 After Illness of Nearly Month---Served with Union Forces in Civil War---Participated in Defense of Washington

John H. Lawrence, 83, Civil War veteran and former New Bedford business man, died last evening at his home, 14 Rotch street, where he had been confined since Dec. 17 with pleurisy. He would have been 84 on March 13.

The death of Mr. Lawrence marks the passing of a Civil War veteran who linked New Bedford of the past with the modern city. He was active in the business life of the city for more than half a century. Born in Brighton March 13, 1843, Mr. Lawrence removed to this city at eight. Here he received his education in the public schools, and he had always continued a resident of New Bedford, except during his Civil War service and a period spent in Westport Factory and a longer period in Taunton. In later years he had been in business as a roll top coverer, but he retired from this some years ago and used his leisure to enjoy life thoroughly.

Left School at 12.

When Mr. Lawrence left school at 12 it was to go to work in a paper mill on Wall street. After four years there he went to work for Damon brothers, confectioners, having a place of business under old Liberty Hall, Purchase and William streets. He remained in this employment until 1860, when he went to work as a stationary engineer for the late David A. Snell, who was baking hard bread for the Union Army. He was in this employment when he decided to enlist as a private in Company B, Third Massachusetts Heavy Artillery. Mr. Lawrence remained in the Army until the close of the Civil War.

Though the regiment in which he served never saw active field service in the war, Mr. Lawrence had a fund of recollections of the war through having served with his regiment in the defenses of Washington. Company B, which had been organized here, saw home duty for a time, then was sent to Boston. Finally the regiment went to Washington to ...e the place of the regiments sent ...m that city to reinforce the Army of the Potomac under General Grant, then about to march on Richmond. Mr. Lawrence was with his regiment at the time of the second inauguration of Abraham Lincoln and he was also there at the time of the assassination.

Recalled Lincoln.

While in Washington Mr. Lawrence came to see a good deal of the martyred President. His recollections of the war-time President included a story of how he and another member of his company one day found their way into the White House, which even in those Civil War days, was more or less unguarded and open to strollers. Mr. Lawrence told how he and his companion looked about and saw about all of the official part of the building, the pair wandering about until they approached the private quarters of the President.

Mr. Lawrence had often told how he had stood within a few feet of platform from which Lincoln read his second inaugural address in 1865. He was also there when Lincoln was assassinated, and his company was among the other armed forces thrown about the city to prevent the escape of Booth, who had, however, fled over the Potomac river bridge before the order was given to stop all going into Virginia.

Married in Wartime.

Mr. Lawrence married Miss Lucy R. Hedge in this city April 27, 1864, and he left his young bride to accompany his regiment to Washington in the spring of that year. Returning from the service, Mr. Lawrence entered the employ of J. H. Burgess in the manufacture of soap, remaining in this employment for a year, after which he went to Westport Factory to become overseer in the plant of the Westport Manufacturing Company, continuing in this ...yment for ten years.

In 1876 Mr. Lawrence became a partner in the Taunton firm of Pierce, Lewis and Company, engaged in the manufacture of ring travelers used in ring spinning. He continued this business connection until 1889, when he bought out the business of the New Bedford Top Roll Company, and he continued to carry on the business of top roll covering until he retired a number of years ago. The business was conducted for many years at 169 North Second street.

Mr. Lawrence always took a deep interest in the affairs of the veteran organizations. He was for many years senior vice commander of William Logan Rodman Post One, G. A. R., and as a delegate of this post, he attended many state and national encampments. He always liked to join his comrades in revisting scenes of the past. Even when he had reached advanced years it was his custom to attend the national encampments. He attended that at Des Moines, Ia., in the fall of 1926.

John H. Lawrence.

He served as president of the Third Massachusetts Heavy Artillery Association, a veteran organization formed in 1883. The regiment went to Washington with 1,800 men, 12 companies of 150 each. When the veteran association held its annual reunion here in 1924, when Mr. Lawrence was elected president, 178 members of the association were living. Mr. Lawrence lived to see this number further reduced. He took a prominent part in Memorial Day and Fourth of July parades, serving as chief marshal on numerous occasions.

Mr. Lawrence was one of the oldest continuous subscribers of The Standard. Mr. Lawrence once said that his family first subscribed to The Standard in 1866, and in the 60 years since then, he said, The Standard continued to be a daily visitor at his home and in later years The Sunday Standard was included as a weekly visitor.

Mr. Lawrence and his family lived at 66 Parker street for 28 years, removing to 14 Rotch street, where Mr. Lawrence has since resided. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Charles F. Bliss, Boston, and Mrs. E. H. Chamberlain, New Bedford; four grandchildren, Harold L. Bliss, Boston; John S. Chamberlain, New Bedford, and Dorothy and Hazen Lawrence, Arlington, and three great grandchildren, Barbara and Lucille Bliss and John S. Chamberlain Jr.

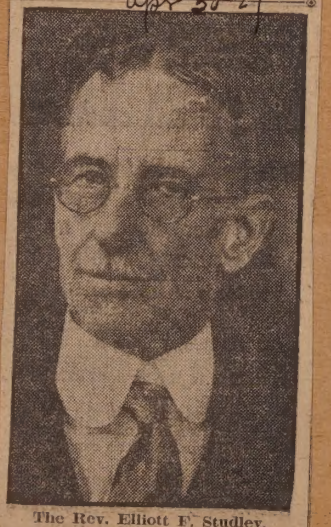
Mar. 20, 1927.

Philip C. Mosher Photo

ARRIVES AT LAST—One year from the date its purchase was voted by the residents of Vineyard Haven, the new weather vane for the town hall was put in place. Thus the building was dressed up for the annual meeting, and the townspeople were put at ease regarding weather probabilities.

CAPE COD NATIVE

Apr 30-27



The Rev. Elliott F. Studley.

PASTOR ASSIGNED TO ROCHESTER AND MARION ONCE HERE

The Rev. Elliott F. Studley Was at Old Fourth Street M. E.

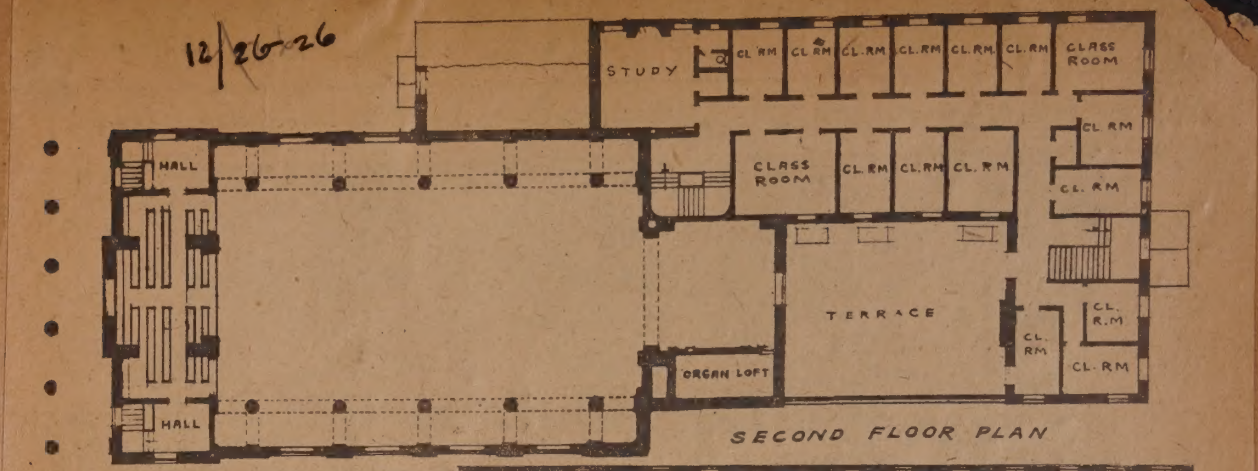
ASSIGNED HERE

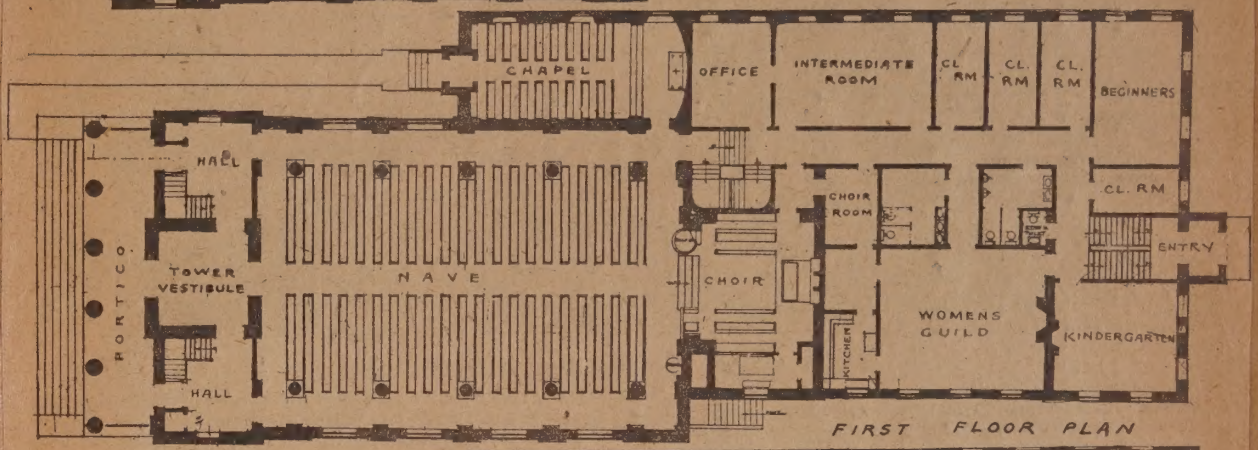
FORREST LEE NICOL, student in Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, has been assigned to the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fairhaven, to conduct Sunday services in March. Mr. Nicol will occupy the pulpit in place of the Rev. C. R. S. Pike, rector, who recently obtained a leave of absence because of his ill health.

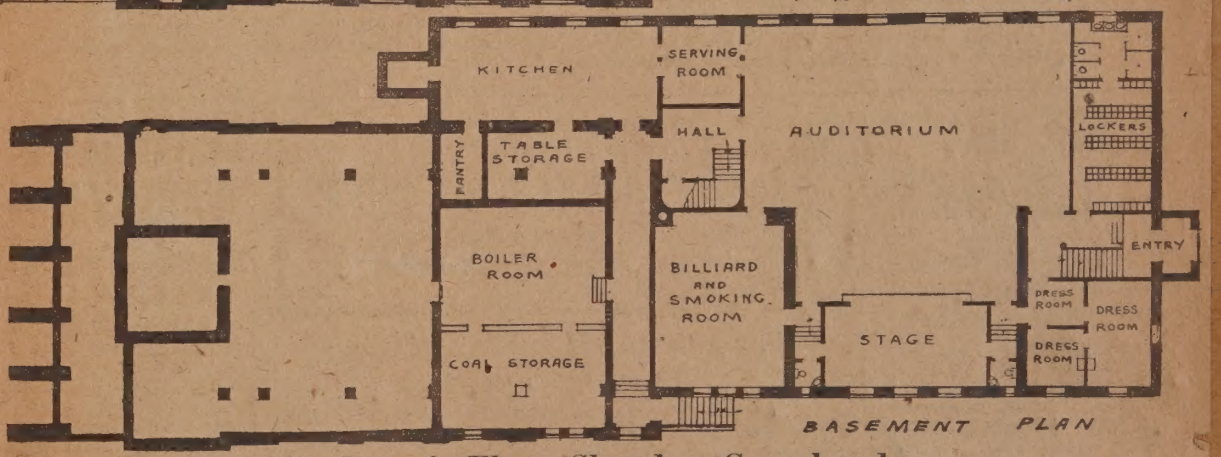
3/12-1927

NEW TRINITARIAN CHURCH PLANNED AS COMMUNITY CENT

12/26-26







Architect's Floor Sketches Completed

SEIZED FOR USE OF PUBLIC—Former Vineyard Grove Company's beach at Oak Bluffs was seized by the town by the right of eminent domain. The beach had been the center of controversy since the town voted to take it over in February. Sept. 12, 1926.

—Photo by Jack Harper.

MENDING THE NETS—A Study in Angles has been suggested as the title for this photograph of a fisherman mending his nets. It was made at City Pier No. Three. Mar. 20, 1927

LIGHT AND SHADE—This delightful study of light and shadow was made on the Horseneck Dunes. It is reported that the spot is now fenced off from the public. —Photo by Jack Harper. Mar. 20, 1927.

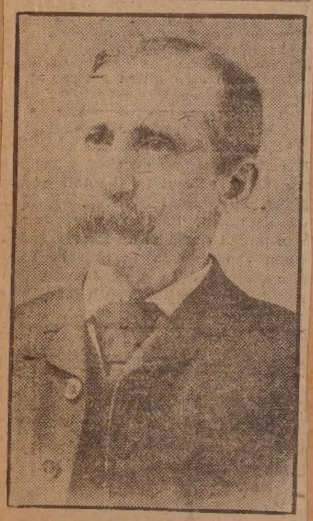
POST 190, G. A. R., VETERAN DEAD

George L. Jennings, 87, Succumbs to Heart Disease After Six Years of Ill Health

Apr 20

George L. Jennings, 87, a member of Post 190, G. A. R., died of heart disease Easter Sunday morning at his home. He had been in ill health for six years but was confined to his bed for only two months.

Mr. Jennings was a native and lifelong resdent of this city. He was for 40 years an oil refiner at the Young and Kimball Oil Refining Company here, retiring six years ago because of poor health. He was the oldest charter member of the New

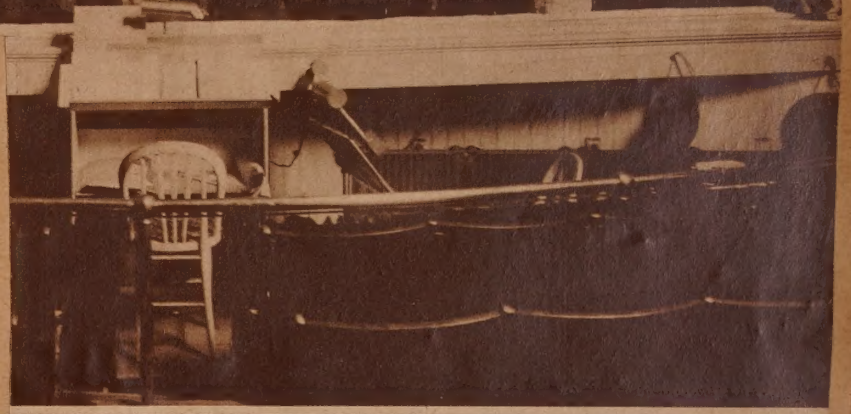


George L. Jennings.

Bedford Fire Department, having worked out of Station No. 4 when hand engines were used. August 11, 1864, he joined the Army and served as secretary to General Pierce at Readville, until he was honorably discharged Nov. 26, 1864.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Harriet Thorpe Jennings, and a brother, William H. Jennings, New Bedford.

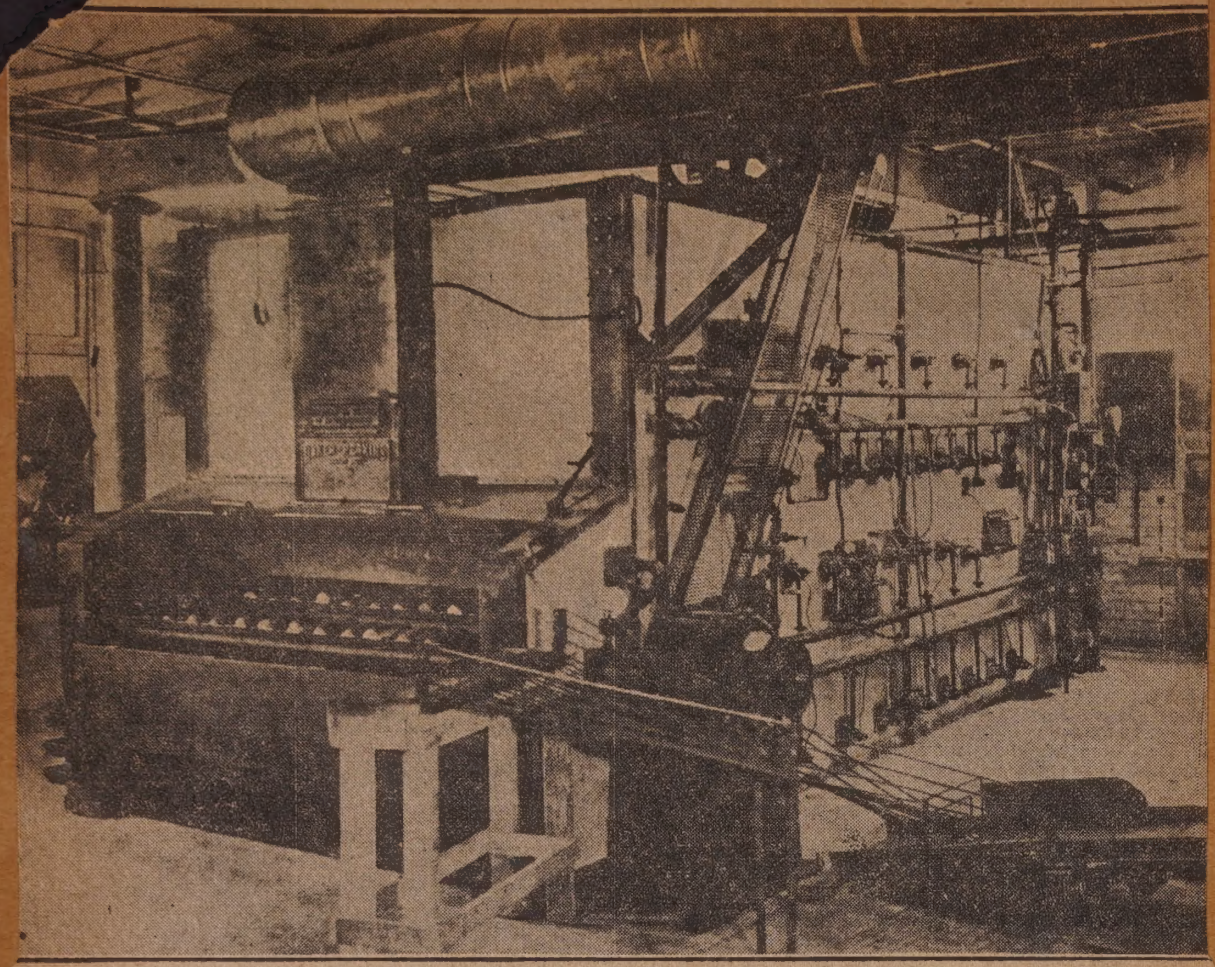
His funeral was held from his home this afternoon, the Rev. Frank E. Ramsdell, pastor at North Congregational Church, officiating. Four Sons of Veterans were bearers. Many members of the New Bedford G. A. R., were present.



LONERGAN GAMBOL—In the old Hathaway Theater, where he appeared with the Lonergan Players, Lester Lonergan, Broadway actor, gave this party to his New Bedford friends, both in and out of the theatrical fraternity. The picture was taken 12 or 13 years ago. Paper of April 17, 1927.

OLDTIME SOCCER TEAM—These boys made up the soccer team of the Manomet Mills some 15 years ago. Left to right, back row: William Millward, James Cassidy, James Burns, Ambrose Whalley, Manuel Gouveia, Louis Woollam, Arthur Haworth, William Bibby and Joseph Kay; middle row: George Roebottom, John Higginbottom and Harry Ripley; front row: James Reedy, Harry Stringer, Thomas Whalley, Charles Moreau and Joseph Symer. April 17, 1927.

OVEN WHICH CAN BAKE 43,000 LOAVES A DAY 1/16-27



Has Traveling Hearth

The newest thing in baker's ovens, this gas-burning traveling-hearth oven made by Baker-Perkins, has been added to the equipment of New Bedford's baking industry. Attended by only two men, it can produce 1,800 loaves of bread each hour.

FIREMEN COMPLETE 30 YEARS AS REGULARS

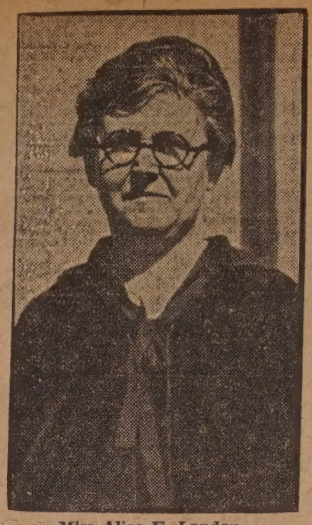
March 27-27

Smoke Eaters All Veterans on Force

Photographs show, left to right, Captain Thomas H. Forbes, Kempton Street Station; Captain James L. Haskins, Hillman Street Station; George H. Baylies, mechanician at Repair Shop, foot of Franklin street.

TEACHERS ASSIGNED TO INSTRUCT JUNIOR HIGH PUPILS

Adolph J. Schabel
Printing Instructor, North School.



Miss Alice E. Landon
English Instructor, South School.

Miss Elizabeth V. Foster
Mathematics Instructor, South School

Frank F. Hutchings
Science Instructor, North School

Miss Julia C. Gifford
Mathematics Instructor, South School

Charles J. Hines
Electrical Instructor, North School

John Sharp
Electrical Instructor, South School

Miss Clare J. Hayden
Instructor in Social Studies, South School

Miss Lillian B. Ross
General Language and French Instructor, North School

Simeon Livesley
Shop and Machine Work Instructor, North School

Raymond P. Dooley
Mechanical Drawing and Drafting Instructor, South School

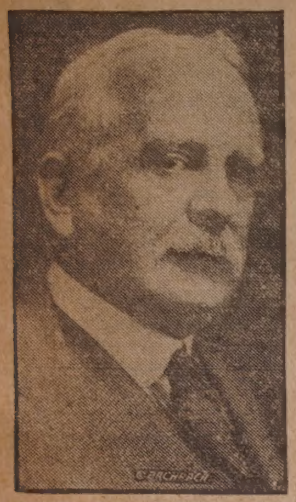
Mrs. Jane Fenwick Kilpatrick
English Instructor, South School

Lincoln Today

2/12-27

By George H. Tripp

Librarian of the Free Public Library, written in co-operation with the New Bedford Council of Churches.



For a man to rise from obscurity and poverty to the presidency of the United States; to endure during his lifetime the sneers and criticisms of his enemies, and often the supercilious attitude of his friends, and yet to triumph over all to the successful fruition of his life work is the record of an unusual career. The wonder grows when we find this same man acclaimed as one who ranked with Washington, as one of the two greatest names in our history, and by his tragic death and the sober consideration of his virtues to receive practically the unanimous approval of a nation, not only of those who upheld his policies during the Civil War, but those who were on the opposite side, so that now 60 years after his death the interest in Abraham Lincoln is so great that within three years 40 books, and at least 70 magazine articles have appeared describing some phases of his character and life; and the amazing feature is that probably the best books, on the life of Lincoln have appeared within the last five or six years.

The life of Lincoln presents to the world a remarkable example of sterling honesty, regulated and enforced by common sense, and an unfailing sense of humor. So marked has been the silence of criticism since Lincoln's death in contrast to the incessant fault-finding which was aimed against him during the whole of his latter years that now the only voices which arise in censure are the occasional snarls of those who are trying to find flaws in the moral character of his ancestry. These mephitic scoundrels should take a lesson from what befell the reputation of one Captain Wright, who recently assailed the moral character of Gladstone with the result that his venom was turned back upon his own sordid self. Again, certain of the so-called intelligentsia are trying to prove that Lincoln was irreligious, the general character of these assertions being that because he had never allied himself formally with any church he didn't believe in Christianity; but those who have studied the character of Lincoln know absolutely that he was profoundly religious, without being what might be called a religionist.

One covert sneer has recently appeared by another of the critics who is apparently riding the top wave of popularity, a man who has assailed by innuendo the literary value of the Gettysburg address, but most of us believe that the stirring words, the concise sentences, and the wonderful spirit shown in the wording of that address which has been proclaimed as a masterpiece of English will last vastly longer than anything his critics have, or ever will put forth.

JOINS JUNIOR HIGH FACULTY

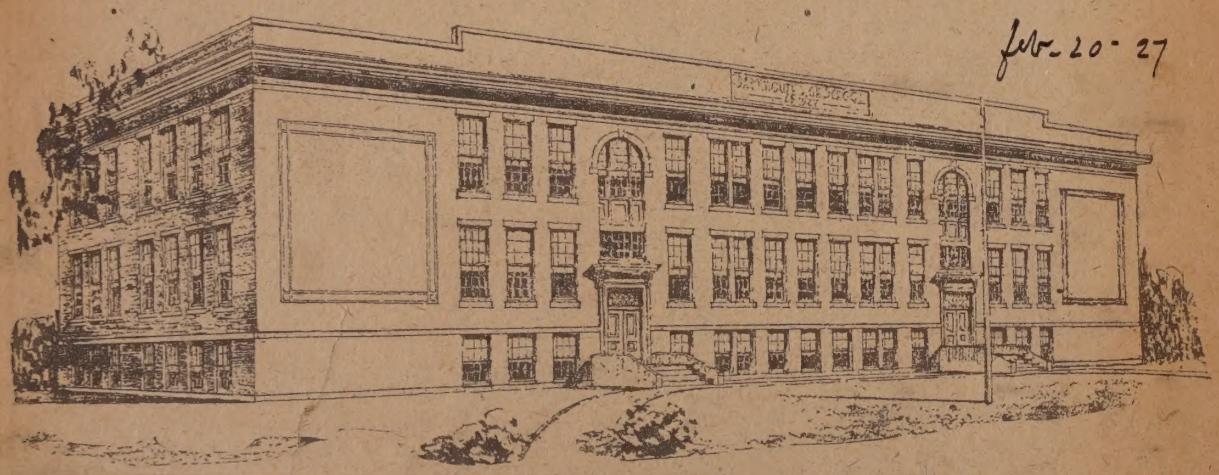
2/7-27

Miss Alma L. Pommer

The instructor in vocal music at the South End Junior High School will be Miss Alma L. Pommer, formerly on the teaching st[aff] of the Parker Street School.

GLANCE INTO FUTURE SHOWS DARTMOUTH HIGH

feb-20-27



Footings Are Going In

Here is shown the new Dartmouth High School building as it will appear when completed. The plans showing the two-story and basement building are by Brown and Poole, and Olson and Appleby are the general contractors. The basement excavation work has been completed and the footings are now going in. The building will be of red rough texture brick. The site chosen for the building is near the geographical center of the town, on the east side of Slocum road, south of Kempton street. The town has appropriated $150,000 for the construction and furnishing of the school building.

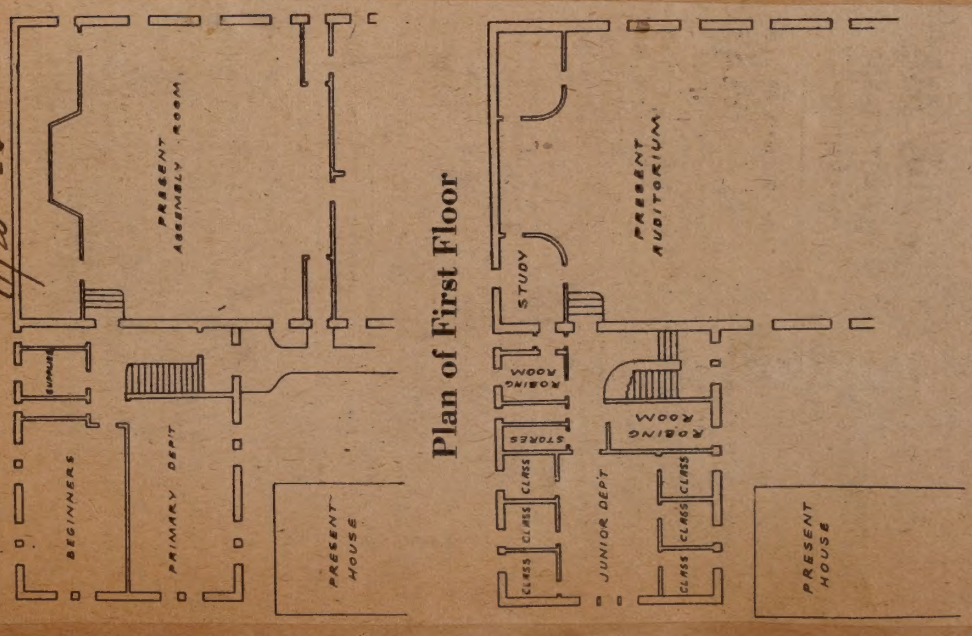
ROOTERS' PARADE—Leading the merrymaking at the opening of the New Bedford-Fall River soccer game, were Jack Frasier and Howard Ames, a couple of fellows who certainly go to extremes. This is a part of the Boosters' Club parade. Apr. 10, 1927.

AT HEAD OF PARADE—When New Bedford met Fall River in the first round of the national soccer cup competition, this quartet led the parade of rooters for the Whalers. Left to right, Mrs. Annie Heffernan, secretary of the Boosters' Club; Jack Frasier, Mrs. Andy Stevens, wife of the New Bedford center forward; and, in front (and below) Howard Ames. Apr. 10, 1927

←

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH ADDITION

11/20 - 26



The proposed plans for the addition to the First Baptist Church recently accepted by the congregation are shown above. The proposed structure would join the present church at the west, occupying the north end of the property recently purchased by the church just west of the church. The addition plans are designed to provide ample room for the Sunday school departments.

...g of the Cape Cod Canals July 29. 1914.

ON OFFICIAL BOAT—Here are the guests on the official boat making the t the canal, which, when completed, represented the fulfillment of dream far back as Myles Standish.

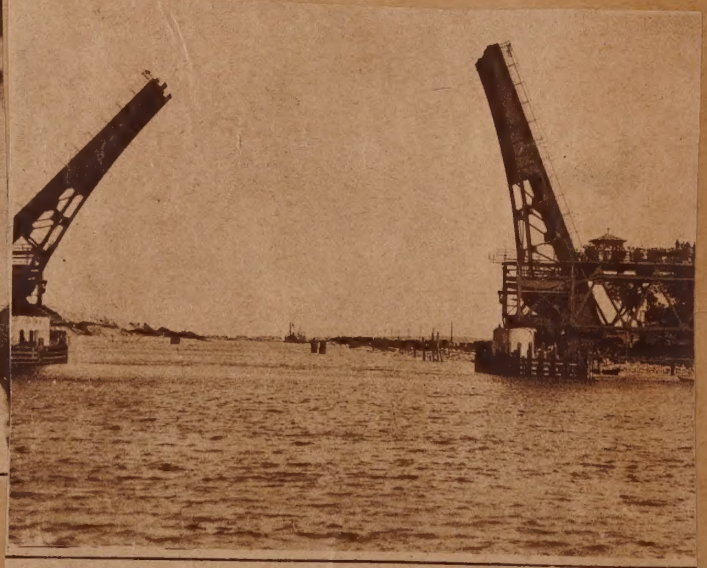
OFFICIALS CONFER—August Belmont, left, head of the Cape Cod Canal Construction Company, and P. C. Headley Jr., who represented the company in this section, are shown conversing on the opening day. Mr. Belmont and Mr. Headley now are both dead.



APPROACHING THE BRIDGE—Way is made for the Rose Standish as it carries the official party through the canal. The bridge at Sagamore is shown opening as the boat approaches, crowds lining its stationary sections to watch the event.

PROMINENT FIGURES—Senator David I. Walsh, left, then Governor of Massachusetts, and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont were among those present at the opening of the canal, July 29, 1914. Next Tuesday a celebration at Hyannis will mark the passage of the canal into U. S. government control.

rip through s traced as

AT BOURNEDALE — This view shows the ferry Bournedale, carryin passengers across t
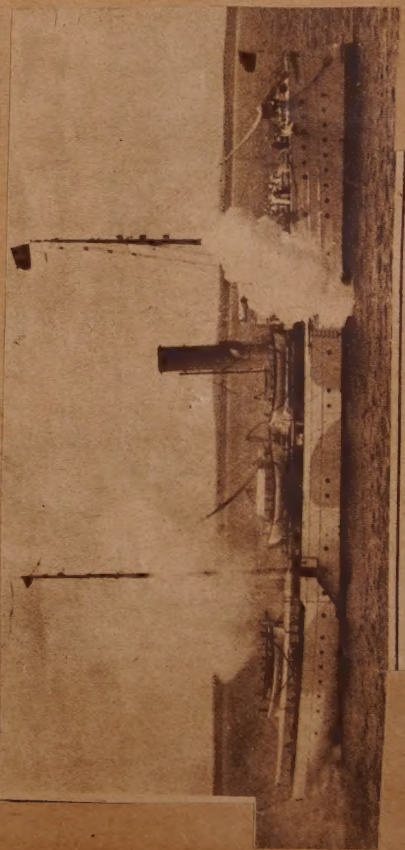
ly created water

CANAL NEAR BOURNE—The newly completed project presented this aspect when viewed from the Bourne bridge, looking eastward, on the day of the opening.



FIRING SALUTE—The revenue cutter Gresham is shown firing a salute near the Buzzards Bay entrance of the canal as a part of the opening day exercises.

MAKING OFFICIAL TRIP—Three New Bedford men who were guests on the Rose Standish on her official trip at the opening of the canal are, left to right, Joseph T. Kenney, John Duff and Walter H. B. Remington.

—Photo by Birdsall.

ON LOOKOUT FOR SWORDFISH—Swordfish spotting is not as easy as it appears to be here. On these men depends the catch. At the top is A. R. Dorman; lower left, Harold E. Willey, New Bedford High School instructor; right, William H. Hand Jr. Sept. 12, 1926.

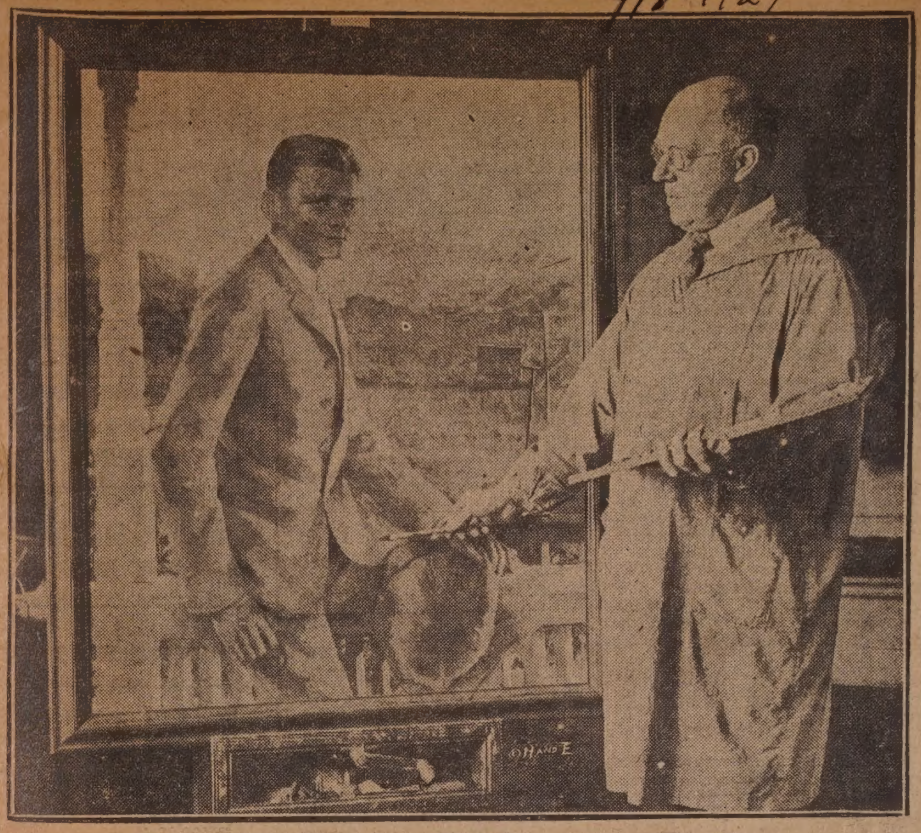
AT UPPER END—The Buzzards Bay entrance to the canal is seen in this photograph, taken looking toward the bay and the railroad bridge.

1926.

FORMER SASSAQUIN PHYSICIAN'S FAMILY—Dr. Sumner H. Remick, former superintendent of Sassaquin Sanatorium and former director of the Division of Tuberculosis, State House, Boston, is now medical director of the Rockhill Sanatorium, Cincinnati, Ohio.

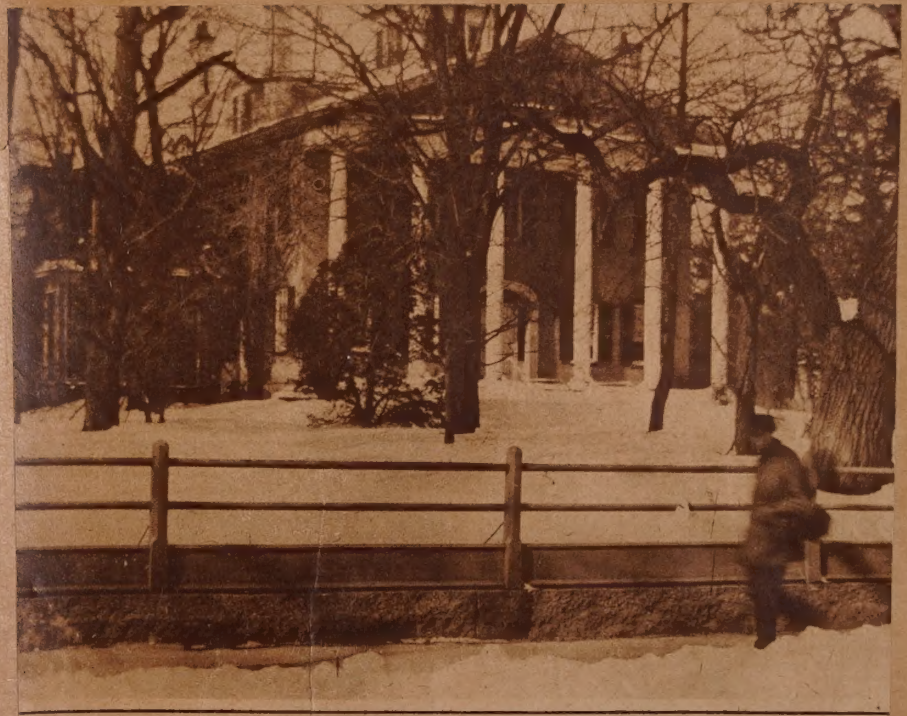
PAINTS PORTRAIT OF CALVIN COOLIDGE JR.

2/18. 1927



Eben F. Comins Working on Picture

Eben F. Comins, pictured with his portrait of Calvin Coolidge Jr., was director of the Swain Free School of Design in this city for four years. He resigned in August, 1907. Until recently he was a resident of Boston.



MADE WAY FOR HIGH SCHOOL—The Morgan House, the present site of the New Bedford High School, was an impressive sight on the hill looking down William street. The city bought the property for the high school at the beginning of the 20th century.

SQUIRE LUC... IS DEAD AT...

May 4-27

Civil War Veteran, Familiar Figure About Center of City, Dies at Hospital---- Was Hurt by Auto

Squire H. H. Lucas, 85, 114 Mill street, a familiar figure about the center of the city, died at St. Luke's hospital Monday night. He was a Civil War Veteran.

Mr. Lucas was admitted to the hospital, April 22, following injuries received when he was struck by an automobile. At the hospital it was said that Mr. Lucas's death was attributed more to complications he suffered than to the injuries he received in the accident.

A police report of the accident disclosed at the time that Mr. Lucas was walking east on the south side of High street, and stepped from the curbing to cross Pleasant street when he was struck by a machine which Albert H. Giroux, 129 Arlington street, was backing in Pleasant street.

Witnesses at the time reported to police that Mr. Giroux backed his car a little more than a foot when someone on the sidewalk shouted and he stopped. Getting out of his car, Mr. Giroux found Mr. Lucas lying on the street in the rear of the vehicle, with his cane beside him. Mr. Giroux then put Mr. Lucas into his machine and conveyed him to the hospital where he was treated for bruises.

Squire H. H. Lucas.

Was Native of City.

Mr. Lucas was a native and lifelong resident of New Bedford. He was graduated from Parker Street School and for years worked in the shoe factory here. In recent years he made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Greene, 114 Mill street. His wife died about 10 years ago.

The only near relatives are a sister, Mrs. Charles Watley, Minneapolis, Minn., and a nephew, Gideon Gifford, New York and Westport Point.

As a Civil War veteran, Mr. Lucas actively participated in the affairs of G. A. R. Post No. 1, of which he was a member.

—Walter Birdsall Photo.

AFFIXING ST. KILIAN'S CROSS—Workmen are shown placing in position the cross on the new spire of St. Kilian's Church (right). Above are the men engaged in the work: left to right, Luther Small, Elzear Melanson, Nezeire [illegible] and Ernest Houghton.

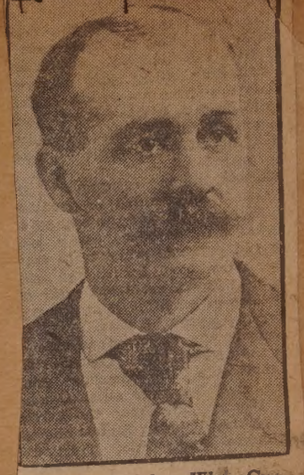
PETITION ASKS THIS BE KOSCIUSZKO SQUARE

3/13-1927

Where Boulevard and Avenue Meet

Councilman Walter Arendt (insert) who last week presented a petition to Mayor Ashley asking that the junction of Ashley Boulevard and Acushnet avenue, pictured here, be named Kosciuszko Square after the Polish patriot.

WAS IN COUNCIL



John A. Taylor Was Councilman Under Mayor Ashley in 1897

John A. Taylor, a member of the Common Council under Mayor Charles S. Ashley in 1897, died at his home, 21 Dartmouth street, a week ago. He was 73. He had been ill about a year. Death was due to heart disease. He had been a member of the Trinitarian Church for 53 years and for many years was a deacon there. He affiliated with the new Pilgrim church when it was organized and served as a deacon there also. He was a member of the Masons.

Mr. Taylor is survived by his widow, Mrs. Clara A. (Baird) Taylor, and one sister, Miss Susan A. Taylor, his city.

DIES, AGED 62

1/13-1927

Walter A. Jenney, Former Alderman, Was Native of This City

Walter Ames Jenney, 62, alderman from Ward Three in 1907, died at his residence, 119 Rotch street, Tuesday night, following an eight weeks' illness.

Mr. Jenney was born in New Bedford, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry P. Jenney, and had always lived in this city. For many years he was associated with his father in the firm of Perry P. Jenney and Son, dealers in hardware and bicycles, whose place of business was for years at 732 Pleasant street. About six years ago Mr. Jenney retired from business.

His first wife, Mrs. Eliza G. Macomber Jenney, died at her summer home in Westport in September, 1924. Mr. Jenney later married Mrs. Sophia Vaughan Russell, formerly of Fall River.

Besides his wife, Mr. Jenney is survived by a stepdaughter, Miss Esther Vaughan Russell, New Bedford.

SILKS AND RAYONS FEATURE IN GOSNOLD MILLS DISPLAY

March 13-27

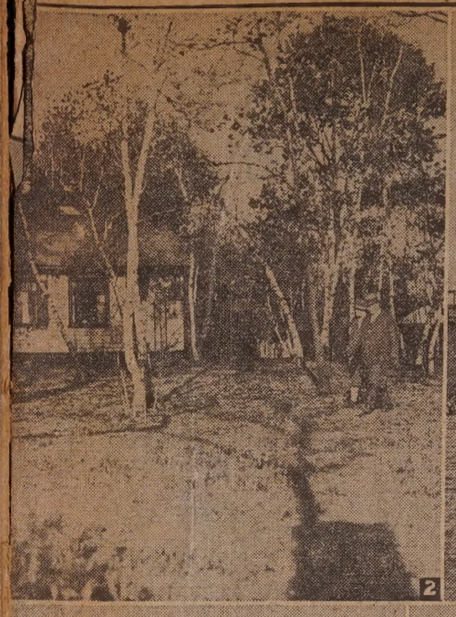
At First National Bank

This attractive and colorful display of cloths made by the Gosnold Mills Company will be on view to the public at the First National Bank for two weeks beginning tomorrow.

NEW BEDFORD PROTECTS WATER SOURCE BY LAND PURCHASE

November 14, 1926

1

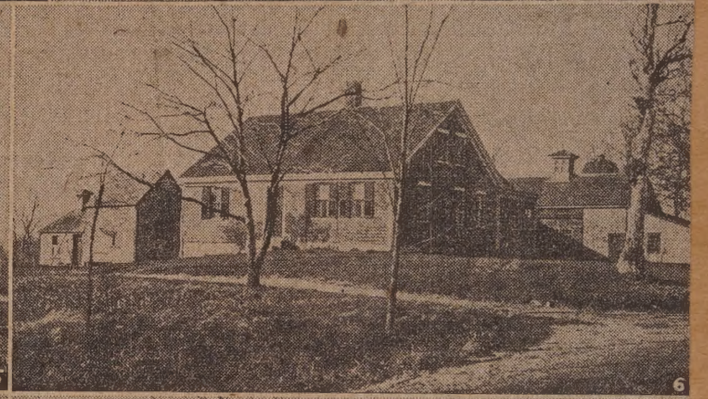


2

3

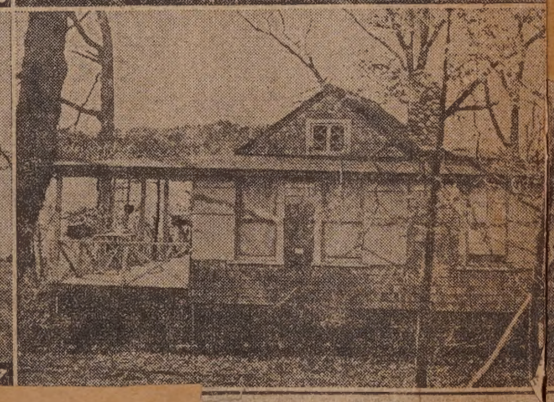
4

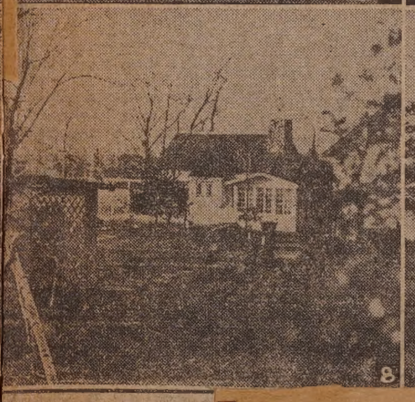
5



6

7





8

9

Scenes of Watershed Improvement

1—Property in Owl Swamp taken by New Bedford. Cottages are to be removed.

2—View of main house on estate of Frederic H. Taber.

3—New meter house and channel built in connection with installation of Venturi meter system between Pocksha and Great Quittacus.

4—Where work of removing cottages has already begun in Owl Swamp.

5—General view of colony at Lakeside high on bluffs above Assawampsett.

6—Farmhouse on the Taber estate.

7—Old farmhouse on the 308 acre estate of late William M. Wood.

8—General view of the Buchanan, Richmond and Webb colony.

9—Homestead on the Chester E. Weston farm.

Gordon Holmes to Be Graduated at Amherst on June 20

June 12, 1927

Gordon Holmes, son of Mrs. Albert W. Holmes, 333 Union street, will receive his A. B. degree from Amherst college at commencement exercises to be held on Monday, June 20. Mrs. Holmes and her other son, Albert W. Holmes Jr., will attend the commencement exercises.

On July 2 Mr. Holmes expects to sail from Montreal with a travel party conducted by Roland Guild, son of Dr. and Mrs. Roy B. Guild, and will spend the summer abroad. He will enter the employ of the National Shawmut bank, Boston, upon his return in the fall. He is a member of Chi Phi fraternity at Amherst.

CITY PHYSICIAN

Dr. Albert H. Sterns's Election Follows Marriage Less Than Week Ago

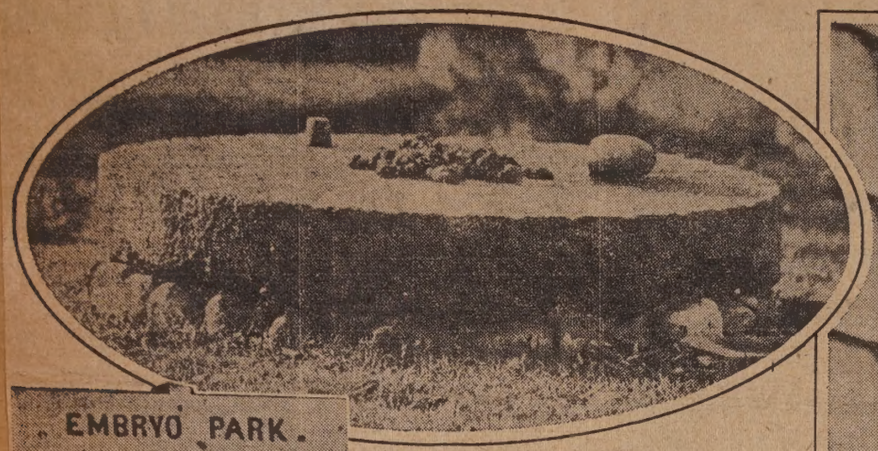
Married and appointed to an important city position within a week is the unusual record of Dr. Albert H. Sterns, who was named city physician by Mayor Ashley last evening. He succeeds Dr. D. J. Lowney, who was appointed by Edward E. Hathaway. The appointment of Dr. Sterns came as no surprise. The salary is $2,000 a year. Dr. Sterns was graduated from Tufts Medical College in 1920 and has been practicing in the city for five years.

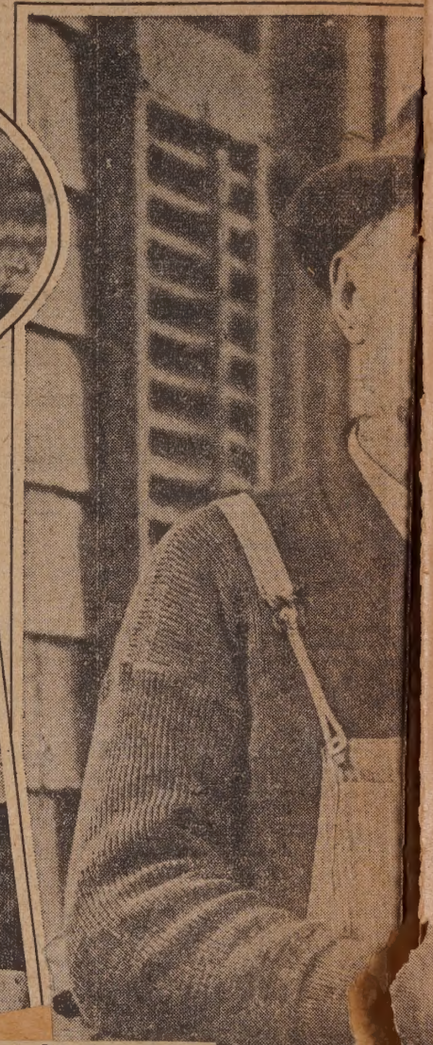
He was married last Sunday afternoon to Miss Marian Martin, Stamford, Conn. They had planned a Caribbean cruise as a honeymoon trip, but were prevented from leaving the city by the serious illness of the physician's mother.

LLER PACES BROOK WHICH RUNS FOREVE

ames Allen, 2d, Has Owned and Operated Little Grist Mill for 50 Y ears, with Destruction Stream of Indian Lore Tamed to Do His Bidding--Philosophizing "Miller Jim " Loves His Pipe, Dogs, and Birds

12/5-1926





James Allen, 2nd, His Friends and Mill

In the center is "Miller Jim," James Allen, 2d, with Captain, his buddy, in his arms. Upper left, an old mill wheel, now resting in Mr. Allen's dooryard, which for more than a century was used in the mill he now owns. Lower left, interior view of the only water-run grist mill in this vicinity, showing the 56-year-old stove and corner where the farmers used to sit and wait for the grinding of their grain. John Sheehan, manager of the mill, has one of the neighbor's little youngsters with him. Insert, the sign post, Mr. Allen has erected in his park. Upper right, another interior view of the mill, showing a portion of the machinery which does the work of grinding. Lower right, John Sheehan with a sack of meal.

GATE'S BUILDER HONORED

Lucky 12-27

IN MEMORY
OF
COLONEL GEORGE CLAGHORN
BUILDER
OF THE
UNITED STATES FRIGATE CONSTITUTION
BORN JULY 6, 1748
AT CHILMARK, MARTHA'S VINEYARD
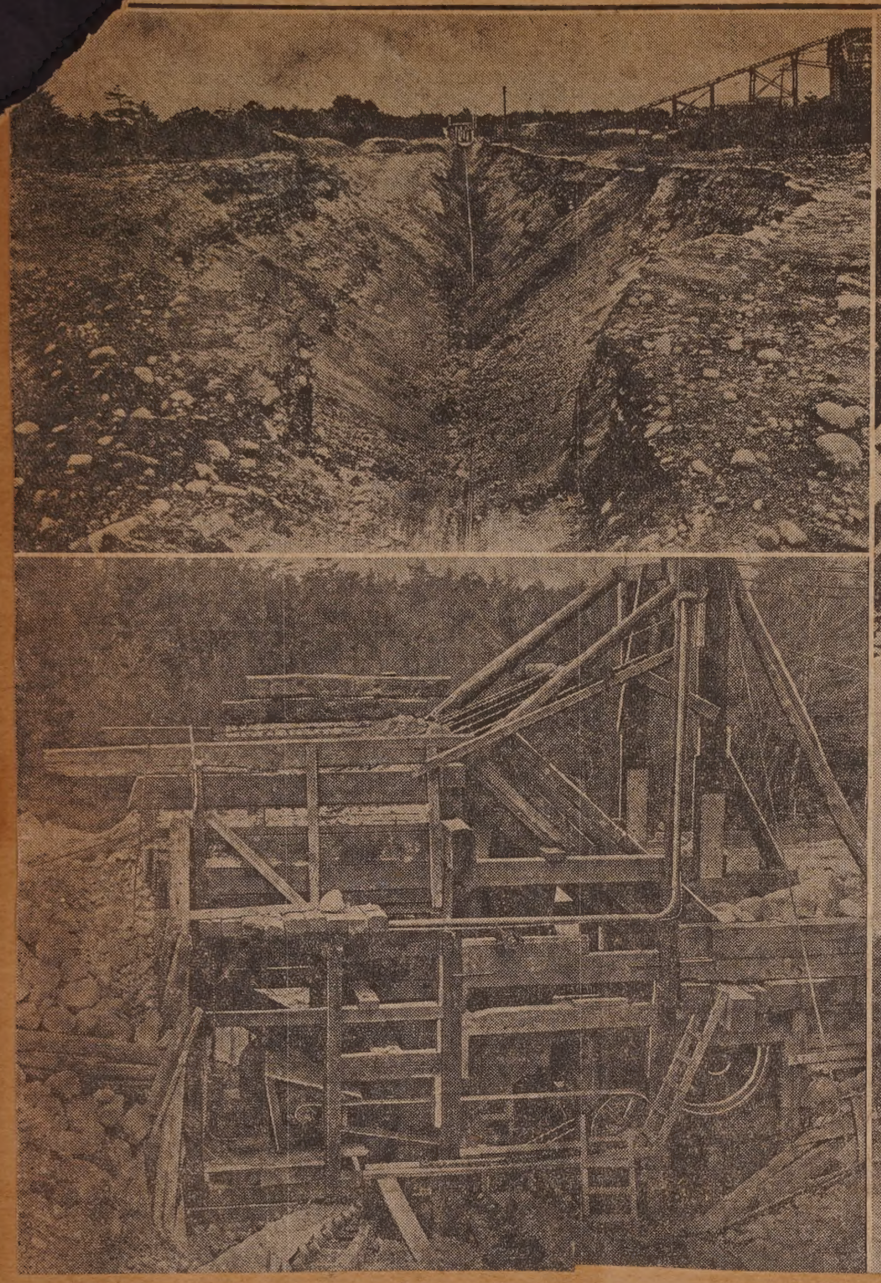
DIED FEBRUARY 3, 1824
..... THE LOSS OF LIFE OF A SINGLE CITIZEN WOULD MAR THE SATISFACTION AND PLEASURE THAT THE CONSTRUCTION WOULD OTHERWISE ENJOY OF BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTING FOR THE OCEAN A POWERFUL AGENT OF NATIONAL JUSTICE, WHICH HOPES THE STATES MAY BECOME THE PRIDE AND ORNAMENT OF THE AMERICAN RACE.
GEORGE CLAGHORN"
NAVY YARD, BOSTON, SEPT 18, 1797.
PRESENTED BY CITIZENS OF MARTHA'S VINEYARD, MASSACHUSETTS.

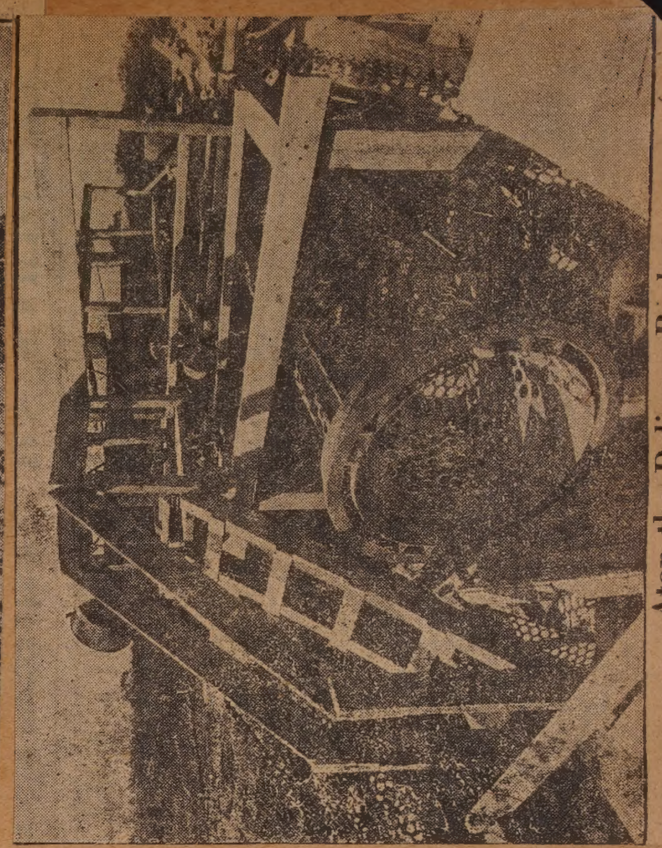
Colonel Claghorn Born on Vineyard

The Marthas Vineyard man who was master builder of the frigate Constitution is to be honored by the placing of this tablet on one of the masts of the reconditioned frigate, about five feet above the spar deck. Funds are being raised by the Vineyard Gazette and administered by the Dukes County Historical society. The design was executed by A. Chapman Fernald, Edgartown, as a contribution to the memorial. Colonel George Claghorn, thus commemorated by his native island, was a famous shipbuilder of his time. Old Ironsides was built under his supervision at Hartt's shipyard in Boston. The inscription on the tablet is taken from a circular written by Colonel Claghorn prior to the launching date. The plan is to have the tablet placed with the completion of repairs now in progress on the famous vessel.

NE MAN AND SOME MACHINES TAKE 600 TONS OF SAND AND STONE FROM THE EARTH EACH DAY

Oct 31-1926





Atop the Delivery Pocket

The long rotary screens mounted on the delivery pocket of the Sullivan Granite and Con Company's plant at Dartmouth. Belt conveyors bring sand and gravel and crushed stone to th driven screens which in turn separate and classify the materials into all varieties and deli their individual compartments within the pocket to await loading into trucks. Blow torc screens in cold weather so that the sand will not adhere to the gravel, and water destroys in damp weather.

10/31-

Plant in Dartmouth

The photographs reproduced herewith depict a little of the mechanism controlled by one man which extracts 20 tons of sand and 40 tons of crushed stone and gravel per hour from the 20-acre plot of the Sullivan Granite and Construction Company on the old Westport Road. Upper left—Looking down the drag line into the sand and gravel pit which the bucket, seen at the far end, has gouged into the earth. Upper right—The two endless belts, each 300 feet long, laden with crushed stone and sand and gravel, which carry the material from the crusher and the first rotary screens up a long incline to the delivery pocket shown in the background. Lower left—Looking down the incline (The crushed stone-conveying belt can be seen at the right bottom margin and the sand and gravel belt at the left) to the stone crusher, motor-driven, the hopper, and grizzly bars, which separate the materials as they are brought up from the pit by the drag line bucket. Lower right—The loader mounted on a tractor, gouging its way into a ridge of loam and loading a truck.

NEW TREASURER OF PAGE MILL

4/17-1927

Francis O. McDevitt

SOCIETY'S HOME TO BE OPENED

Chatham Historical Organization Will Occupy Town's Oldest House

Residence, Traced Back to 1752, to Shelter Treasures of Past

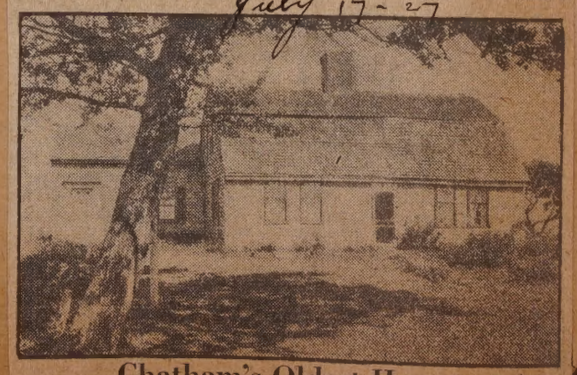
(Standard Cape Cod Bureau.)

Chatham, July 16.—Sometime in August the new home of the Chatham Historical society, the Atwood house, oldest in the town, will be opened to the public. Many old treasures have been given to the society and they will be placed in the old house, which is now being redecorated and repainted in the interior.

Among the exhibits of great interest is a section of the first Atlantic cable, and a book case used by Admiral Rockwell, famous Chatham sailor. They have been given by his descendants. The piece of the first ocean cable is a large twisted hemp rope, of three strands, with the wires buried in it.

WILL HOUSE RELICS OF PAST

July 17-27



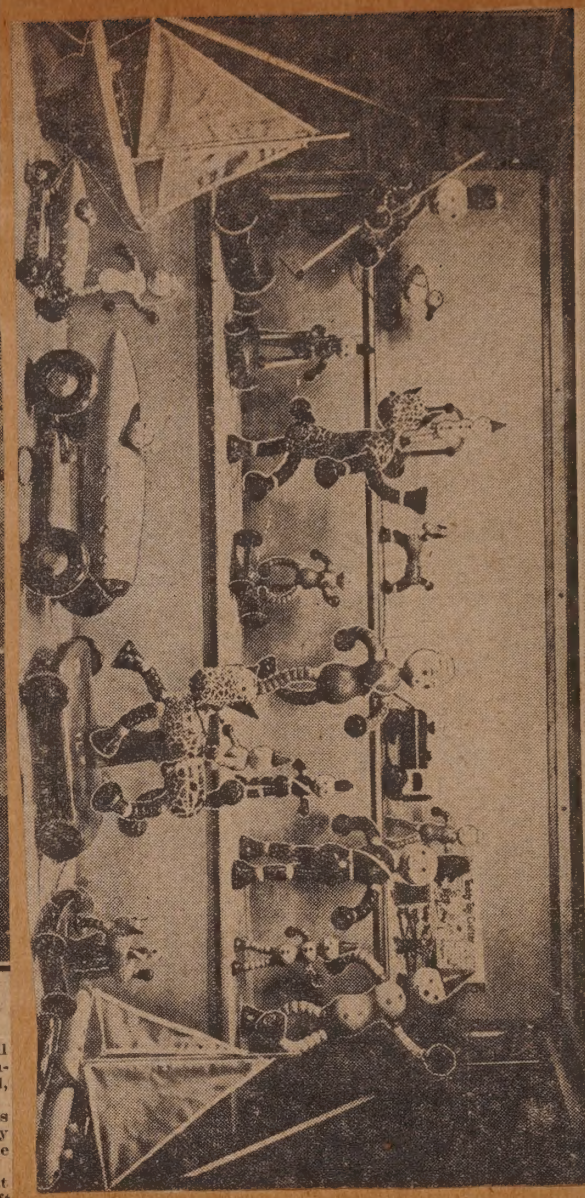
Chatham's Oldest House

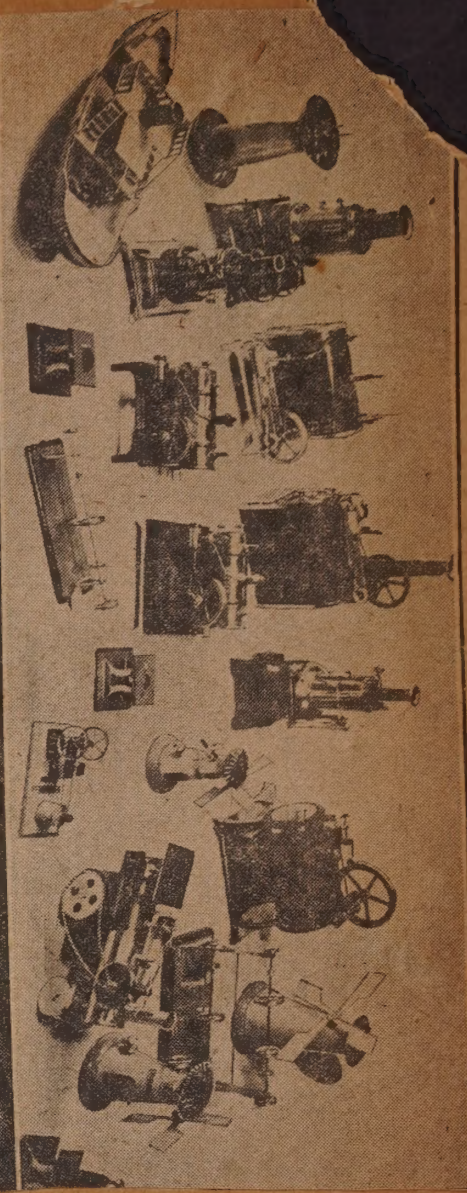
Examples of What They Will Show

Top picture shows only a few of the wide variety of toy steam engines and accessories that will be shown at the New York Toy Fair next month by the Weeden Manufacturing Company. New numbers added this year include the toy windmills at the right and toy trip hammer in right foreground, also the toy fountain at left. Note steam roller at right and steamboat at left.

Second picture shows some of the Ted Toys that will be shown at the Toy Fair. The giant models are new this year, made after the same designs as the smaller toys. Note the jointed arms and ability to assume varying poses. The newly designed waddling duck is shown at upper left corner while the Teddy Toy Crafter building set is at the upper right.

Lower pictures show the Acushnet Process Company's line of boats. The motorboat shown at bottom is a new number that is expected to prove more or less spectacular. The tiny motorboat is of soft rubber and made for use in bathtubs. The newest model of this kind is the soft rubber canoe, for bathtub use.





BEDFORD PRODUCTS TO SHINE AT TOY FAIR 1/23-27

Bakerville Woman Puts Up All Of Colonel Green's Preserves

Mrs. Clarence F. Gardner Turns Out Jelly by Hundreds of Jars

COLLEGE STUDENT SON AIDS HIS MOTHER

Canning Helps Merrill F. Gardner Through University

Mrs. Clarence F. Gardner

IS ELECTED AT ST. LUKE'S

2/12 1927

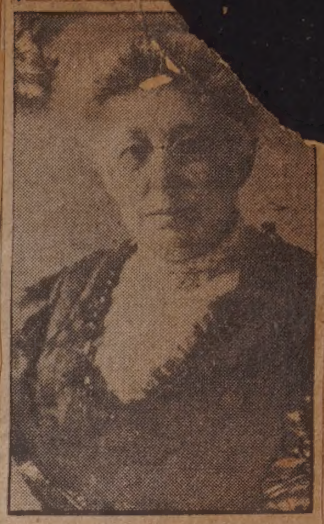
Dr. Joshua H. Weeks, Former Brown Football Star, Chosen to Associate Staff of Hospital

Dr. Joshua H. Weeks, 33 Seventh street, who has been practicing here since the latter part of 1926, when he received notice of having passed the state medical examination, has been elected a member of the associate staff of St. Luke's Hospital. Dr. Weeks was graduated from New Bedford High, and in his school days won fame as a football player. At Brown University he played end on the varsity team, and is rated today as the best end Brown ever had, and as one of the greatest the game has produced. From Brown he went to Harvard Medical School, being graduated in 1924. The next two years he spent under Dr. John B. Deaver, the noted Philadelphia surgeon, as resident physician at the Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia, where he had a very considerable experience in surgical work.

Dr. Joshua H. Weeks.

OLD TIME MEMBERS—Seven members of the old Washington Club, left to right: George Broadbent, Joseph Taylor, James Taylor, Robert Taylor, Wellington Hartley, and seated Sam Jordan and Anthony Nuttall. The picture was taken 30 years ago.

OF FIGH



Mrs. Mary K. Bosworth

2/17-1927

FORMER W. R. C. HEAD IS DEAD

Mrs. Mary K. Bosworth Was Granddaughter, Wife and Grandmother of War Veterans---Dartmouth Native

Mrs. Mary Keith Bosworth, past president of Woman's Relief Corps, No. 95, and a granddaughter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, died yesterday at the age of 85 after an illness of several months.

Since the death of her husband, Peleg Bosworth, a Civil War veteran, about 10 years ago, Mrs. Bosworth had made her home with her only daughter, Mrs. Edward G. Davis, 189 Shawmut avenue.

Mrs. Bosworth was born in Dartmouth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Keith Turner. She was educated in the New Bedford schools. She was a member of Pleasant Street Methodist Episcopal Church all her life. Besides her daughter, she leaves one son, Calvin T. Bosworth, this city, and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Bosworth was the granddaughter, wife and grandmother of war veterans. Her grandfather, Bethuel Turner, Bridgewater, was the youngest of three brothers in the Revolutionary War, his two older brothers dying in the war. Her husband, Peleg Bosworth, served with the 9th Rhode Island regiment in the Civil War. Her grandson, Rathburn T. Bosworth, served in Italy in the World War.

—Photo by Jack Harper.

COMPLETING MODEL—Arthur D. Swift, 76 Hillman street retired, is shown completing a model of the famous frigate Const—

Bakerville Woman Puts Up All Of Colonel Green's Preserves

Mrs. Clarence F. Gardner Turns Out Jelly by Hundreds of Jars

COLLEGE STUDENT SON AIDS HIS MOTHER

Canning Helps Merrill F. Gardner Through University

Mrs. Clarence F. Gardner

IS ELECTED AT ST. LUKE'S

Dr. Joshua H. Weeks, Former Brown Football Star, Chosen to Associate Staff of Hospital

Dr. Joshua H. Weeks, 33 Seventh street, who has been practicing here since the latter part of 1926, when he received notice of having passed the state medical examination, has been elected a member of the associate staff of St. Luke's Hospital. Dr. Weeks was graduated from New Bedford High, and in his school days won fame as a football player. At Brown University he played end on the varsity team, and is rated today as the best end Brown ever had, and as one of the greatest the game has produced. From Brown he went to Harvard Medical School, being graduated in 1924. The next two years he spent under Dr. John B. Deaver, the noted Philadelphia surgeon, as resident physician at the Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia, where he had a very considerable experience in surgical work.

Dr. Joshua H. Weeks.

OLD TIME MEMBERS—Seven members of the old Washington Club, left to right: George Broadbent, Joseph Taylor, James Taylor, Robert Taylor, Wellington Hartley, and seated Sam Jordan and Anthony Nuttall. The picture was taken 30 years ago.

OF FIG

Mrs. Mary K. Bosworth.

FORMER W. R. C. HEAD IS DEAD

Mrs. Mary K. Bosworth Was Granddaughter, Wife and Grandmother of War Veterans---Dartmouth Native

Mrs. Mary Keith Bosworth, past president of Woman's Relief Corps, No. 95, and a granddaughter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, died yesterday at the age of 86 after an illness of several months.

Since the death of her husband, Peleg Bosworth, a Civil War veteran, about 10 years ago, Mrs. Bosworth had made her home with her only daughter, Mrs. Edward G. Davis, 189 Shawmut avenue.

Mrs. Bosworth was born in Dartmouth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Keith Turner. She was educated in the New Bedford schools. She was a member of Pleasant Street Methodist Episcopal Church all her life. Besides her daughter, she leaves one son, Calvin T. Bosworth, this city, and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Bosworth was the granddaughter, wife and grandmother of war veterans. Her grandfather, Bethuel Turner, Bridgewater, was the youngest of three brothers in the Revolutionary War, his two older brothers dying in the war. Her husband, Peleg Bosworth, served with the 9th Rhode Island regiment in the Civil War. Her grandson, Rathburn T. Bosworth, served in Italy in the World War.

—Photo by Jack Harper.

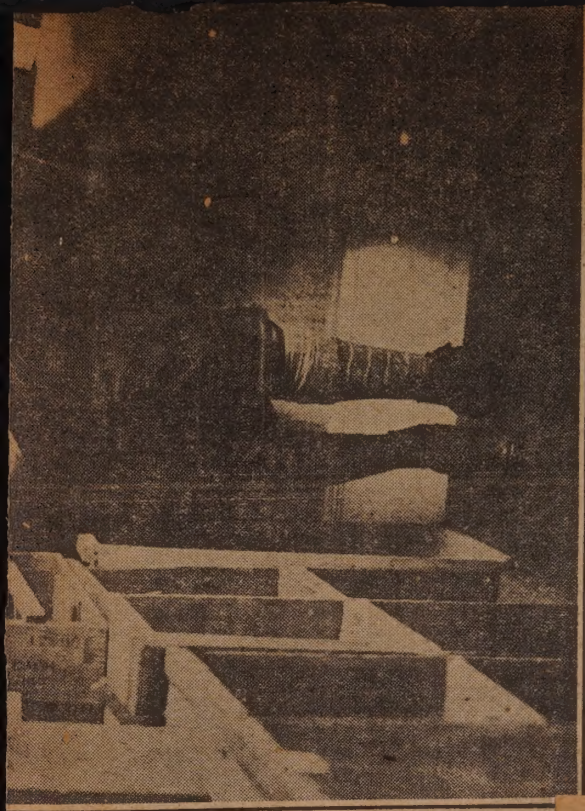
COMPLETING MODEL—Arthur D. Swift, 76 Hillman street retired, is shown completing a model of the famous frigate Const-



Trimount Theater Company at Work

Above, left, David Hendrick, seated, and Philip Taber paint scenery in Da Beaman's workshop. Right, stage set for Felix the Cat. Observe Felix, a black ject at the base of the white cloud. Below, left, Goldilocks and the Three Be keeps all hands busy. Big Bear occupies the stage. Mother Bear, grasping wrecked chair, is held by Philip Taber in readiness to go on the stage. Left to rig
David Hendrick, Tommy Akin, David Beaman, Philip Taber. Right, scene back-sta Tommy Akin and David Beaman.

—Photos by Bachrach.

ORGANIST SINCE 1902 → Although Robert Allen has played much longer, he got his first position as organist in 1902, at the North Christian Church. He now plays at the First Congregational Church, Fall River, and lives at 434 Court street, New Bedford.

DEBUTANTE ENGAGED

2 col 15-27

Miss Helen Luce Prescott

The engagement of Miss Helen Luce Prescott to John Conrad Rueter, Boston, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Prescott, 401 County street, New Bedford, and North Dartmouth. Miss Prescott made her debut at this season's Thanksgiving Assembly. Mr. Rueter, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Conrad J. Rueter, is a member of the junior class at Harvard. No date has been set for the wedding.

PREPARING THE MENUS—Besides such general duties as supervising the the dining rooms, visiting the dietetic clinics, and teaching nurses, Miss Helen M. Bruce, dietitian at St. Luke's Hospital, has the responsibility for planning and preparing some 1,500 meals daily. She is shown at work in her office.

Workers of the Instructive Nursing Association Nov. 4, 1927.

WHITE HOME CHEFS — At the White Home for Nurses, John E. Gianelle, right, is head chef, and Paul Jeaningros is his assistant. They prepare food for about 175 persons.

SARAH CARTER BROOKS is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brooks, 215 Hawthorn street. apr 18, 1926.

Photo by Theodosia P. Chase.

JAMES STANTON, six, is son of Mr. and Mrs. Seabury Stanton, 398 County street. Apr. 18, 1926.

IN MAIN KITCHEN—Left to right in this picture, taken in the main kitchen, are: Charles Davis, who has charg of the cafeteria; and Adrien Riche and Joseph Mello.

THEIR KITCHEN SHINES—If you can judge a cook by the appearance of his pots and pans, the chefs and helpers at St. Luke's Hospital must be good ones. Left to right in this photograph, taken in the main kitchen, are: Adrien Riche; John Fernandez; Nazaire Lamothe, chef, main kitchen; Paul Rauch, assistant chef, main kitchen; John E. Gianelle, chef, White Home; and Paul Jeaningros, assistant chef, White Home.

NAMED HEAD OF ROTARY CLUB

Clark W. Holcomb. 1927.

HAS CHARGE OF CAFETERIA.

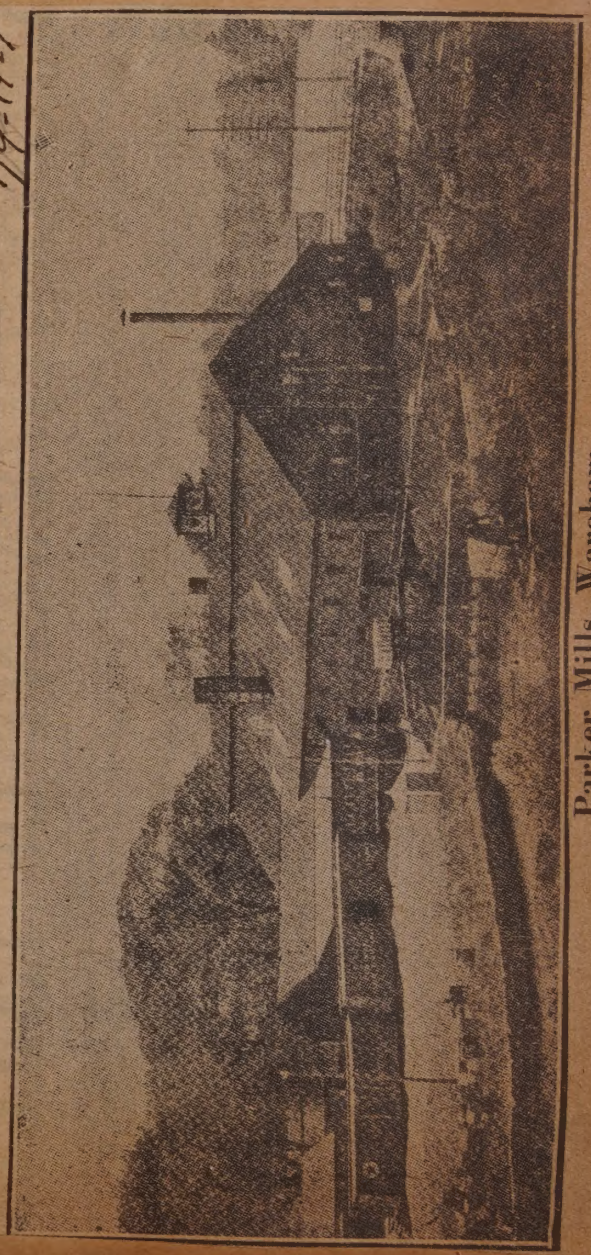
Charles Davis, shown in a corner of the hospital's new cafeteria, has charge of serving meals to some 95 persons who are employed in the institution. Miss Bruce is proud of the equipment, which she says is "ideal."

COOKING IS THEIR BUSINESS.

Presiding over the main kitchen at St. Luke's are Nazaire Lamothe, right, chef, and Paul Rauch, assistant chef, both experienced cooks.

WHERE NAILS ARE MANUFACTURED

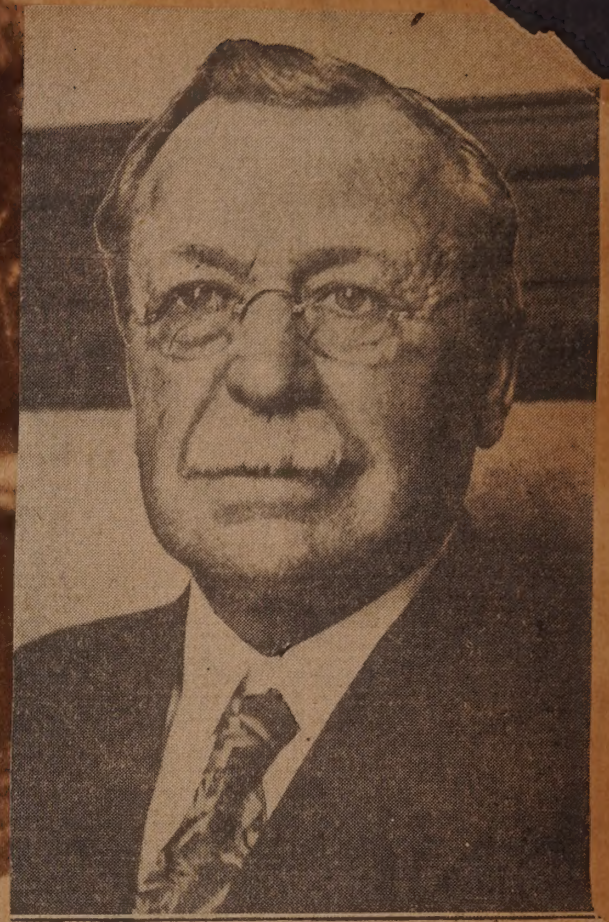
1/9-1927



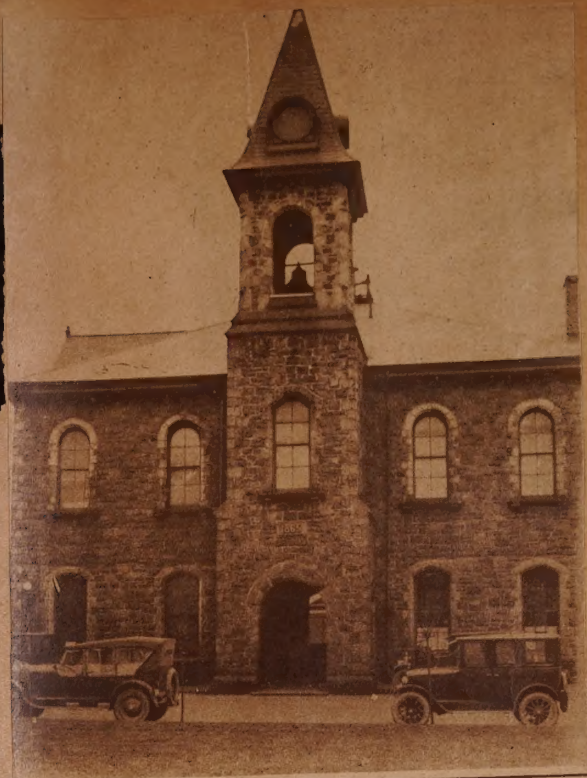
Parker Mills, Wareham

—Photo by Lynwood M. Chace.

MORNING SHADOWS — A willow-bordered pond in Rural Cemetery, New Bedford, is shown in the morning light, sunshine and shadow playing upon its placid water. May 1, 1927.



George Fred Davis July 17, 1927.



TAUNTON'S OLD BELL—Placed in the railroad station tower originally to warn prospective passengers when their trains were due, this bell at Taunton later was then used as a fire alarm gong, affording protection both to the city and the railroad property. May 1, 1927.

—Photo by Michael Greenan.

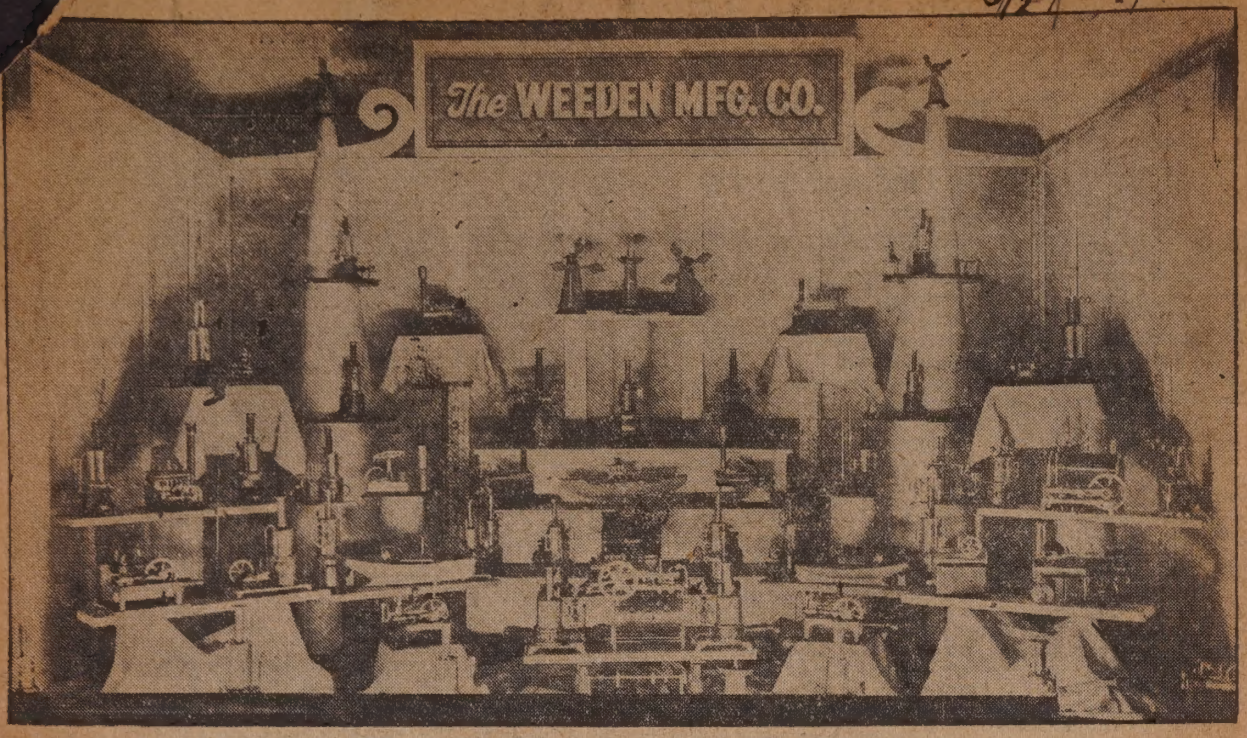
A KINDLY LOT—The cows look out upon the barnyard with friendly interest, hoping in their wistful bovine way that someone will offer them a bite more of feed. The chickens upon the feed floor add to the rusticity

—A. F. Packard Photo.

HONORS PILGRIM WOMEN—This monument at the foot of North street, Plymouth, was erected by the Daughters of the Revolution in memory of the women of the Mayflower. Canopied Plymouth Rock is at the right of the image as it faces the historic harbor. May 1, 1927.

CIALISTS IN TOY STEAM ENGINES DISPLAY PRODUCTS

3/1/27 27



Weeden Manufacturing Company

In a setting of silver and gray, the glittering, steam-operated toys which make up the line of the Weeden Manufacturing Company go on display for two weeks beginning tomorrow as the next in the series of Made-in-New Bedford exhibits arranged by the First National Bank.

WILL BE DARTMOUTH SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL

2/6-27

Boulder to Rest on Town Hall Lawn

This 18-ton boulder, from the woods at Russells Mills, has been skidded down to the edge of the highway just east of the village, and is to be brought to a resting place in front of the Dartmouth Town Hall, where with a bronze name tablet upon it, it will serve as the town's permanent soldiers' memorial. The huge stone is soon to be transported to the town hall lawn.

VETERAN DIES

May 10-27

Joseph Rock Jr., Comrade Pierce Post, G. A. R., Dead at 80

Joseph Rock Jr., 80, a comrade of R. A. Pierce Post No. 190, G. A. R., New Bedford, died Sunday at the home of a daughter in Pawtucket.

Mr. Rock was a resident of New Bedford for about 30 years, leaving here four months ago to go to Pawtucket. He was a city employe for 12 years, and the first Civil War veteran employed by the city to ask for a pension under the retirement act of 1911. He served 18 months in the Civil War, enlisting in December, 1863, and receiving his discharge in July, 1865, from Company L, First New York Engineers, which he entered as a private. He became a member of Post 190, Nov. 29, 1924.

A resident of Massachusetts and Rhode Island since the Civil War, Mr. Rock was born in Schuyler Falls, N. Y. He leaves two daughters, one of whom kept house for him during his residence in New Bedford.

RODUCTS OF NEW BEDFORD SPINNING COMPANY

April 10-27

At First National Bank

This attractive display of handkerchief cloths, fine voiles and plain and fancy silk and cotton mixtures provides evidence of the progress being made at the New Bedford Spinning Company which, in the past few years, has deserted the tire yarn business for weaving fine cotton goods.

HEAD NEWLY FORMED CHURCH CHORUS

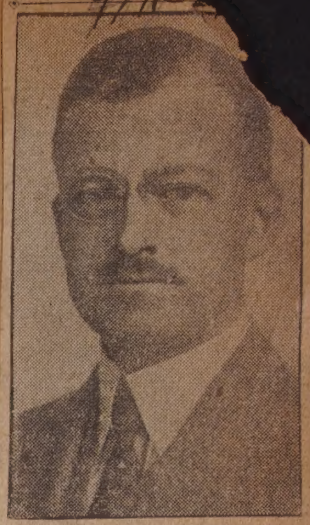
2/6 1927

North Christian Choral Officers

The chorus of the North Christian Church has formed a permanent organization and elected officers. They are, reading from left to right, the Rev. H. M. Hainer, pastor of the church; Alexander K. Brown, president; Mrs. G. B. Armitage, secretary; Harold Wall, organist and musical director, and Albert Ramsden, treasurer. The chorus has appeared at the evening services of the church recently.

PNEUMONIA

4/11

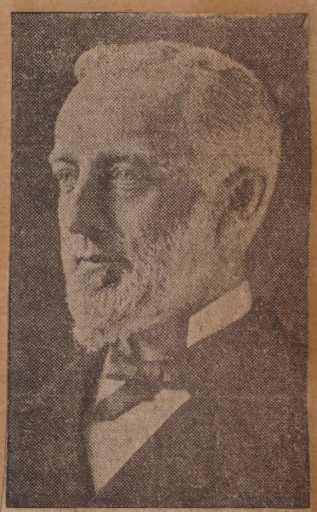


Ralph Myers Whitman.

COTTON BROKER IS DEAD AT 50

Ralph Myers Whitman, Ill 10 Days, Succumbs to Pneumonia

Was Captain of Machine Gun Company---Served in Boston Police Strike



Dr. S. Wight Butler Expects to Return to Parish

Mar. 26, in May 1927

After a temporary leave from the pulpit of First Presbyterian Church, Hughsonville, N. Y., since last Thanksgiving, Dr. S. Wright Butler, veteran minister in his 87th year, at one time pastor of the North Christian Church in this city, expects to return to his parish again in May.

Dr. Butler, who has been a preacher for 60 years, has been spending his temporary leave in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., enjoying his home and garden and driving his car around the country.

FAIRHAVEN MAN DIES, AGED 86

Nov 8

Samuel S. Bumpus, Veteran of Civil War, Was Born at Wareham 1927.

Served on Gunboats; Masons to Conduct Rituals at Funeral Thursday

Samuel S. Bumpus, 86, 3 Washington street, Fairhaven, veteran of the Civil war, a resident of Fairhaven for 42 years, died last night at his home. He had been in failing health for several years, death resulting from complications of diseases.

SAMUEL S. BUMPUS.

CAPT. JAMES F. AVERY, 77, VETERAN WHALING MASTER, DIES

4/8
27

Commanded Bark Bertha, Last Square Rigger Launched Here---Ribs Broken by Whale's Flukes When Golden City's Boat Wrecked---Was Born in St. Eustatia

Captain James F. Avery, for many years a whaling master out of this port and later interested as an owner of whaling vessels hailing from this port, died at his home, 192 Main street, Fairhaven, yesterday afternoon at the age of 77. He had been confined to his home for the last five weeks. The cause of death was a general breakdown due to advancing years.

Injured by Whale.

Captain Avery was born in St. Eustatia, West Indies, and came to this country on an American whaler commanded by the late Captain Clay of this city, and his early years in this country were spent at Provincetown, prior to his removal to this city. Captain Avery came to the command of the schooner Golden City as a young man, and he made a number of successful voyages in her. While in command of the Golden City on one of her early voyages, Captain Avery was in charge of a boat's crew that had struck a whale, when the whale, in its fury, lashed the boat with its flukes, smashing the boat and throwing all its occupants into the water. Captain Avery suffered three broken ribs in the mishap.

Dismasted in Gale.

While captain of the old bark Tropic Bird, the vessel was dismasted in a gale off Bermuda in August, 1884, and Captain Avery worked her into Bermuda, where she was condemned and broken up. He was also master of the brig Petrel, the schooner Franklin and was last in command of the bark Bertha, the last of the square riggers launched in New Bedford. He commanded the schooner E. B. Conwell for a short period, and for a longer period he was her owner and agent while others went as master of the schooner. He had also been interested in the schooners T. Towner and the Bertha D. Nickerson, acting as the agent of the owners. He was at one time agent of the bark Wanderer, the last of the New Bedford barks to go to sea and which was wrecked in the gale off Cuttyhunk in the summer of 1924. His last interest was in the schooner Margaret, now in the Cape Verde packet trade.

Captain James F. Avery.

Captain Avery had an unusual experience, when he sailed as supercargo out of here on the schooner Roessner, Captain Andrew A. Cory, going out to Dominique to take out supplies to the American whaling fleet and to return with the oil left there by American vessels. On April 4, 1907, when the Roesner was 200 miles off Dominique, a three masted schooner was sighted flying signals of distress. A boat's crew was put off from the Roesner, and going aboard they found that the captain of the schooner, the Duchess of Cornwall, Falmouth, Newfoundland, had gone suddenly insane as the result of a sunstroke. The captain was John Collier, and there was no one aboard the schooner able to navigate her. Captain Avery and Captain M. F. Santos, who was also in the Roessner as supercargo, went aboard the Duchess of Cornwall and took her into Dominique. The Duchess of Cornwall was loaded with molasses bound for New foundland.

Captain Avery figured in another unusual incident, when as the agent of a whaling vessel he was appealed to in behalf of the wife of a captain of one of his vessels at sea. The wife of the captain was dying of cancer, and it was hoped that the woman's husband might be reached to return to the side of his wife before her death. Captain Avery put to sea in a tug, located the whaling vessel and returned with the captain in time for him to see his wife.

Twice Married.

Captain Avery married as his first wife the daughter of Asa T. Stowell. He married the second time, and his second wife survives him as do two daughters, Mrs. Ralph Stitt and Mrs. Alois Gast. He also leaves a sister, the widow of the late Captain Henry Clay, who now makes her home in New London, Conn., and a brother, Carel Avery in St. Eustatia.

Captain Avery was president of the New Bedford Whalemen's Club and was a member of Sutton Commandery, Knights Templars, this city.

He was also an honorary member of the Boston Marine Society.

LETTER CARRIER RETIRES AFTER WALKING ROUTE FOR 34 YEARS

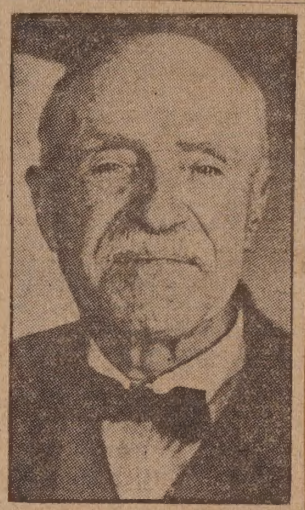
March 4 - 1927

John J. Cunningham, Well Known in Southwest of New Bedford, to Go to Summer Home in Westport---Was Appointed in 1894 by Ashley, Then Postmaster

After 34 years as a letter carrier, in which time he has covered more miles in walking his route through the southwest section of New Bedford than he dares to estimate, John J. Cunningham, 67, who has lived for 25 years at 23 Washington street, has retired.

Will Go to Summer Home.

He is planning to spend most of his time in the future at his summer home on the east bank of the Westport river in Westport, where he owns four acres of land formerly a part of the old Abner Fisher farm, across from the Drift road. The home is a four-room bungalow named Bras d'Or Villa after the Bras d'Or river in Cape Breton, N.



John J. Cunningham.

S., Mrs. Cunningham's "down east" home. She was formerly Miss Annie L. Murphy, a private nurse, born at Cape Breton.

Mr. Cunningham was born in Hollingsworth, Cheshire, England, coming to the United States when about 10 to join his father, who had been here then about a year. The family lived for five years or so in Fall River, where Mr. Cunningham attended the public schools. When he was about 15, the Cunninghams moved to New Bedford and he went to work as a loom fixer. He was employed about 15 years in that capacity at Potomska Mill No. 1 and for a short time at the Acushnet Mill. His father was for many years a mulespinner at the Potomska Mill.

Miss Eleanor Stansfield to Be Director of Religious Education at St. Martin's Church

July 1-27

Miss Eleanor Stansfield, who is to begin her duties as director of religious education at St. Martin's Episcopal church on Sept. 1, was graduated this spring from the Philadelphia Church Training and Deaconess house.

At present Miss Stansfield is taking a part of her practical training in social service at the Convalescent hospital, Broomall, Delaware county, Pa. During her course, Miss Stansfield did settlement work and for a year worked at the Jewish mission in Philadelphia in religious education work. For the past year, Miss Stansfield has been doing social case work at the city mission besides church school work at Old St. Peter's church under Dr. Edward Jefferys.

MISS ELEANOR STANSFIELD.

Miss Stansfield is especially interested in young people's work and is looking forward to her work with the young people of St. Martin's church.

Miss Stansfield's home is in Boston. She was born in England and obtained the greater part of her education there before coming to America.

William Riseborough Succeeds Miss Newcastle as High School Supervisor

William Riseborough, who will succeed Miss Lena M. Newcastle as supervisor of practical arts at the High school is a graduate of Massachusetts Normal Art school. He received mention at the school for his work in water colors and for his thesis. Mr. Riseborough was certified in engineering from Arcadia university where he won the class prize. He has taught in Shirley and Belmont and comes to New Bedford from Arlington.

WAS POLICEMAN

John Frederick Oliver.

Apr. 4, 1927.

FRED OLIVER, 62, IS DEAD

Retired Policeman Passes After Long Period of Failing Health

Deputy Chief McLeod Pays Tribute to Former Patrolman

John Frederick Oliver, 62, a retired policeman, died a this home, 290 West Elm street, at 11:45 last night following a long period of failing health. Death was attributed to complications which had confined him to his home since last September.

Appointed in 1893.

Mr. Oliver, who was better known as Fred Oliver, was a member of the New Bedford Police Department for 33 years. He was appointed July 13, 1893, and, for the greater part of his service, worked out of the West End Station. He was retired Oct. 10, 1926.

Mr. Oliver was born in New Bedford, Oct. 1, 1864, and always lived here. After receiving an elementary education in the public schols, he went to work for the firm of Haskell and Tripp, dry goods merchants, and remained there for 14 years, working as a delivery clerk. After leaving his employment there he was appointed to the police force.

Deputy Chief Samuel D. McLeod paid tribute to former Patrolman Oliver this morning by asserting that "Fred, as I knew him, was well liked by his superior officers and by every man in the department. He had a kindly nature, and I regret his passing very much."

Son Killed in France.

Mr. Oliver is survived by his wilow, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Garrison) Oliver, three children, J. Frederick Oliver Jr., Garrison L. Oliver, and Miss Marjorie E. Oliver; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Esther Oliver, and eight grandchildren. One of his sons, Hubert V. Oliver, was killed in France while fighting with Company C, 367th Infantry. He also leaves a half brother, Isiah King, New Bedford.

Mr. Oliver was a member of the New Bedford Police Association, the Massachusetts State Police Association and a stauneh member of the Bethel A. M. E. Church.

HARNESS MAKER IS DEAD AT 88

4/11 4/17-27

Joseph N. Gage Learned Trade in New Bedford About 70 Years Ago--- Prominent in N. E. O. P.

Joseph N. Gage, veteran harness maker, whose acquaintance in that direction extended to many cities of New England, died yesterday at his home, 43 Centre street, Fairhaven, aged 88 years.

Mr. Gage was born in Hyannisport, on Sept. 22, 1838. When about 18 years of age he came to this city and learned the harness business with William H. Lovell, who conducted a place of business on the southeast corner of Purchase and Elm streets.

Joseph N. Gage.

He continued in the harness and leather business for more than half a century. For a number of years he was located on Pleasant street and at another period had a shop on the south side of Union street, just east of the old Savoy theater.

Mr. Gage was a prominent member and past officer of Bay State lodge, New England Order of Protection.

NEW MANAGER OF HOTEL HERE

apr 26-27

Warren M. Goodspeed, Native of Boston, Has Had Seven Years' Experience in New York

More than a decade of experience in hotel management is brought to this city in the person of Warren M. Goodspeed, Duxbury and New York, who will take up his duties as manager of New Bedford Hotel, May 1. Mr. Goodspeed arrived here yesterday with his wife and has taken up quarters at the hotel.

Mr. Goodspeed is a native New Englander, was born in Boston and, aside from seven years spent in New York, has lived in this state practically all his life.

Warren M. Goodspeed.

Before going to New York seven years ago, Mr. Goodspeed was for several years at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, Boston. In New York, he successfully managed the Whitehall Club for some time, and more recently was in charge of the Bresl'n Hotel of that city.

During the World War, he served in the commissary department of the U. S. Navy. He was educated in the Boston schools and at Colby College. Mr. and Mrs. Goodspeed will live at the New Bedford Hotel.

OLD WHALE SKIPPER D

Captain Edward D. Lewis, Once Master of Lagoda, Dead at 88

3/31

Left Home as Boy to Join Bark Peri, via Erie Canal Boat

27

Captain Edward Darwen Lewis, 88, former skipper of New Bedford whaling craft, died at the Masonic Home, Utica, N. Y., last week. Captain Lewis was master of the bark Roscoe for one voyage, which ended when his craft was crushed in an ice pack off Point Barrow, Alaska. He then commanded the bark Lagoda for three voyages. He retired in 1886, taking up his residence in Utica, near which city he spent his boyhood days.

Drove Canal Boat Mule.

Captain Lewis was born in Wales, March 22, 1839, his parents moving to the United States shortly afterward, settling near Utica, where his mother died. His father went to California leaving the boy with relatives with whom he stayed until he was 14, when he took a job driving mules on an Erie canal boat, leaving home without giving notice to his relatives. He made his way to New York where he signed as cabin boy on the bark Peri, Captain George H. Macomber. On two voyages in this vessel he rose from cabin boy to third mate.

Captain Edward D. Lewis.

In July, 1860, he sailed as fourth mate of the bark Roscoe, coming back as third mate in 1864. In 1865 he again sailed on the same vessel and rose to first mate. On the next voyage, in 1870, he commanded the craft, though only 31. On this, his first voyage as master, his vessel was lost in the ice off Point Barrow, Alaska, the master and crew escaping to the Live Oak, which was crushed in turn 36 hours later. The captain and his crew abandoned this vessel and boarded the Jireh Perry, by which they were taken to San Francisco.

Took Command of Lagoda.

Coming back to New Bedford, the captain was given the bark Lagoda, which he commanded for three voyages before retiring.

The last visit of Captain Lewis to New Bedford was in 1916, when he attended the dedication of the replica of the Lagoda, which is housed at the Bourne Whaling Museum.

Captain Lewis leaves no near relatives. His nearest of kin are Mrs. Evan T. Jones, Samuel R., Ben M. and Miss M. Ella Lewis and Mrs. F. A. Clark, all of Utica; Mrs. George Keim, Buffalo, and George Bennett, Albany, all second cousins.

VETERAN WHALEMAN

7-27

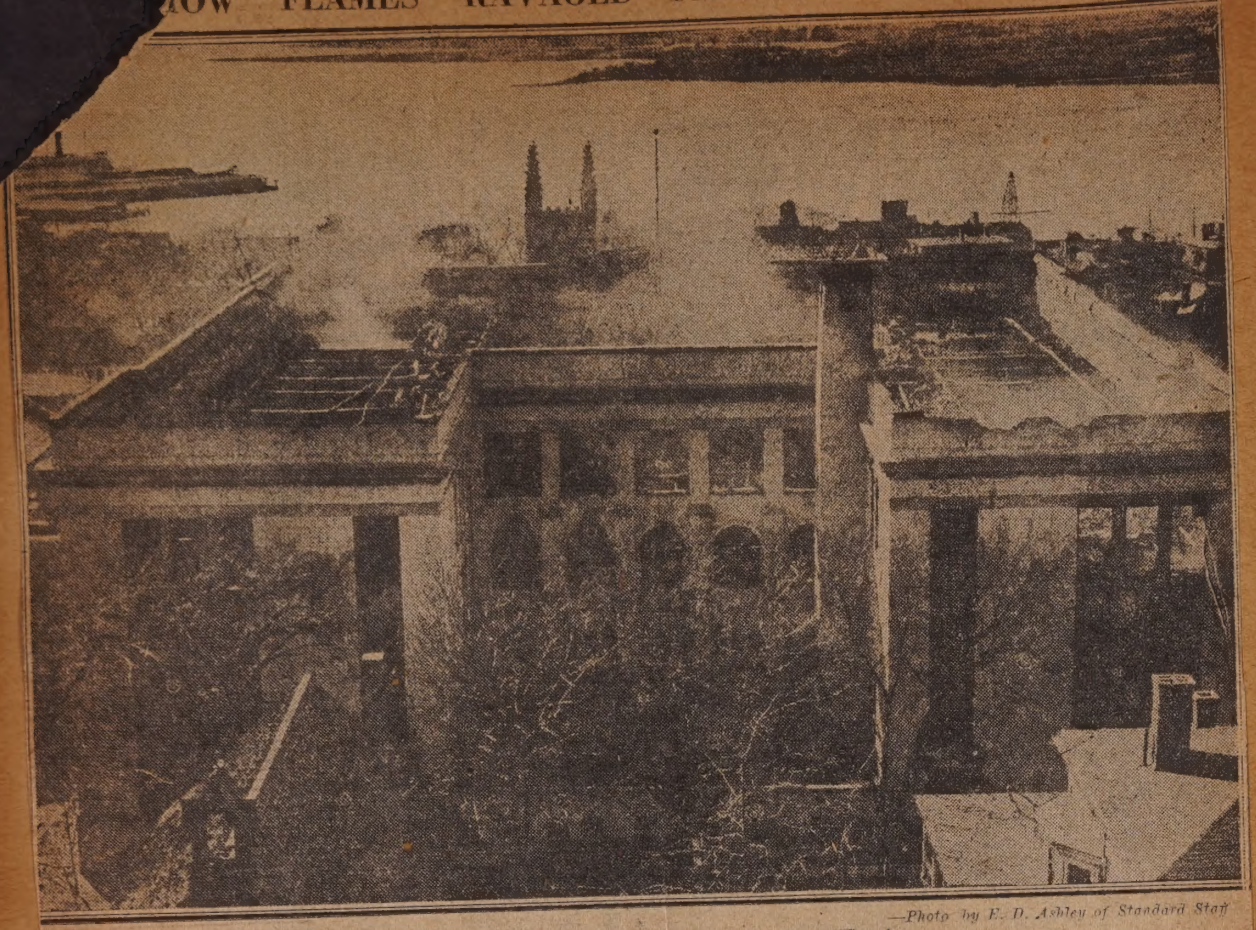
CAPTAIN JOSHUA S. NICKERSON, last of Provincetown whaling masters, who died at his home this week at the age of 85.

Mrs. Grace Allen Thompson.

May 1, 1927.

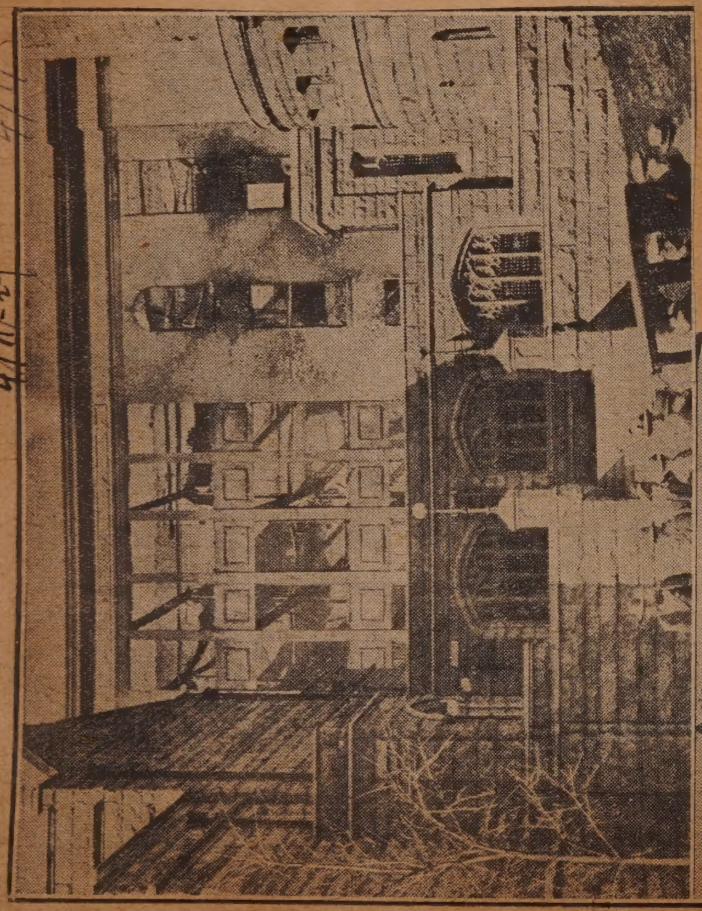
...OW FLAMES RAVAGED FALL RIVER SCHOOL

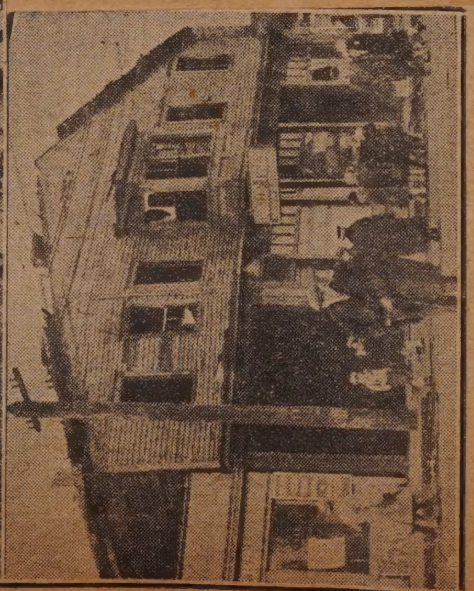


—Photo by E. D. Ashley of Standard Staff

Technical High School in Ruins

HOLLOW SHELL IS ALL THAT RESISTS FIRE



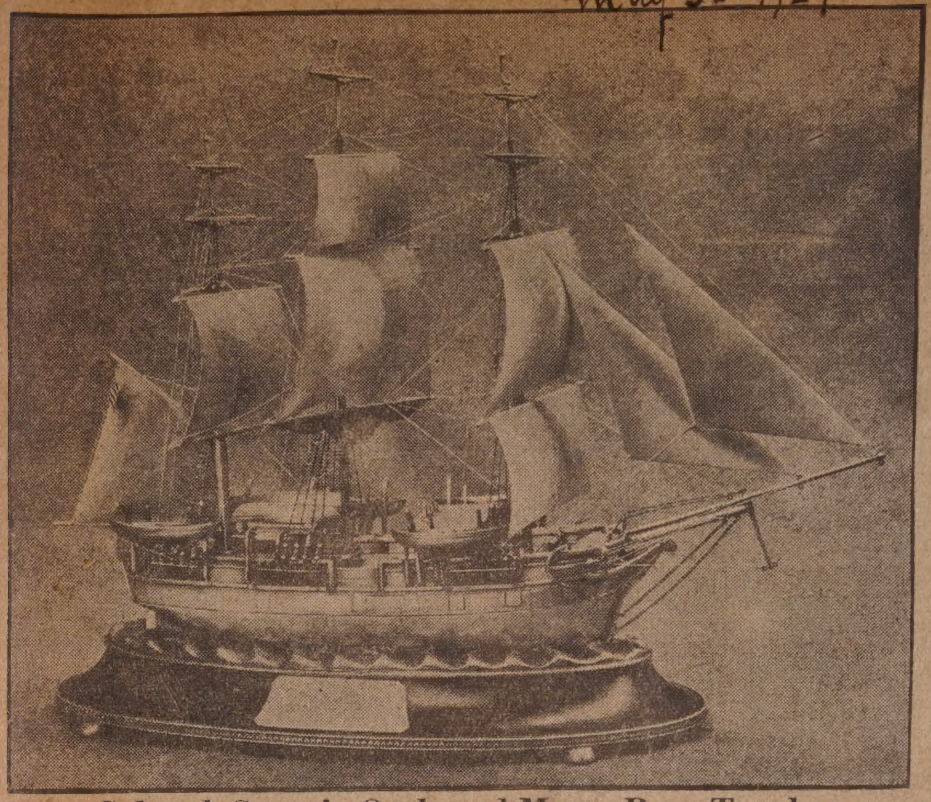


Fall River Fire Pictures

Above, a view of Fall River Technical High School destroyed by fire yesterday, and (below) E. P. Winward Company storehouse which caught from the school fire.

WHALER MORGAN GLEAMS IN SILVER

May 3 - 1927



Colonel Green's Outboard Motor Race Trophy

OFFERS MORGAN MODEL TROPHY

Colonel Green Has Two Silver Miniatures of Whaler Made Here

To Be Outboard Motor Race Prizes at Dorchester and Long Island

By WILLIAM H. TAYLOR.

Colonel Edward H. R. Green, of Round Hills, South Dartmouth, has offered two silver models of the whaleship Charles W. Morgan as trophies to be raced for in motorboat regattas during the coming summer, one at the New England National Regatta at Dorchester Bay June 17-18 and the other at the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club, Long Island in August.

The models are duplicates, made by the Fairpont Corporation here, and though less than a foot long are painstakingly accurate in detail, showing the old whaleship just as she is, with topsails, headsails, spanker, foresail, and main topgallantsail set.

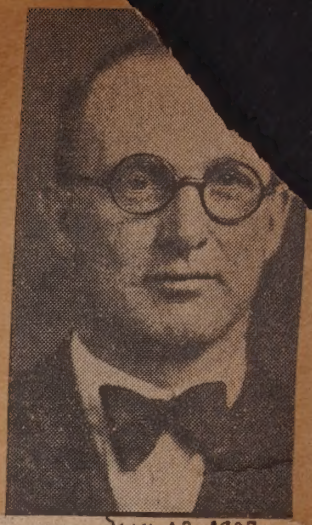
Both trophies will be raced for in the outboard motor classes, in which Colonel Green became much interested while watching the powerboat regattas at Miami in 1926 and 1927. In 1926 he also donated a handsome silver perpetual trophy to be raced for by these small craft each year, a replica, however, to become the permanent possession of each winning skipper.

Colonel Green has made the gift of these trophies through the American Powerboat Association, which handles motorboat racing on a national scale, and is behind the big speedboat regatta to be held at Boston in June, where one of the silver models will be raced for.

Attain 30 Knot Speed.

Outboard motors were once considered as makeshifts for converting rowboats into power-dinghies, but in the regatta at Miami Beach last winter, at which Colonel Green was a spectator, the "vest-pocket" motors drove specially-designed boats at a rate of approximately 30 knots, and these records will probably be broken this summer at Dorchester Bay and Manhasset when the "bugs" go after the Charles W. Morgan trophies.

While Colonel Green has done little active yachting on Buzzards Bay of recent summers, his interest in the sport is well known to members of the New Bedford Yacht Club, for whom he supplies the committee boat for the annual Race Week regattas. He does a good deal of yachting in Florida, winters, and his fleet there includes the Colonel, a 130-foot houseboat, Mabel G., a 65-foot high speed cruiser, Friday, a sea-going type of craft, and other boats.



Nov. 12, 1927.

Frederick A. Wilmot, Former Pastor Here, to Talk on Lausanne Conference

Frederick A. Wilmot, religious editor of the Providence Journal, will address the church night meeting on the subject, In Quest of Unity at Lausanne, at North Christian church, Wednesday at 7:30. Mr. Wilmot is remembered here as pastor of the First Universalist church from 1917-21. He attended the World Conference on Faith and Order at Lausanne last summer as a representative of the Journal and since his return has lectured on that subject frequently.

—Photo by M. Goulart.

SUNSET—With rare fidelity the camera has caught the mood of the waning day in this sunset scene taken in Padanaram.

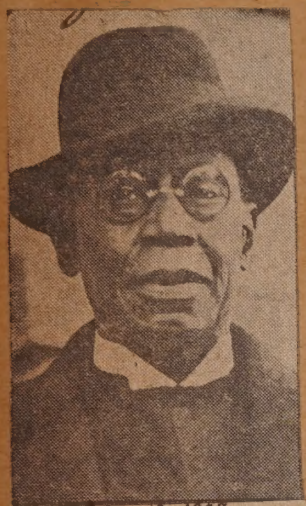
TOWN CLERK AT 80 IS ENTHUSIAST FOR BASEBALL

rdello R. Swift Elected to Joint Office for 42d Time, Is Active at Municipal Hall Every Afternoon, Studying Records and Finances---Was Postmaster 25 Years

3/30 1927

(Special to The Standard.)

Bourne, March 19.—His 80 years prove no handicap to Ordello R. Swift in efficiently filling the office of Town Clerk and Treasurer of Bourne, to which he was elected for the 42d time last Wednesday. Vigorous and active, Mr. Swift is busy at the town hall office every afternoon, and at his home every morning, looking after the records and finances of the town.



The Rev. J. B. Wallace Continues at A. M. E. Zion Church

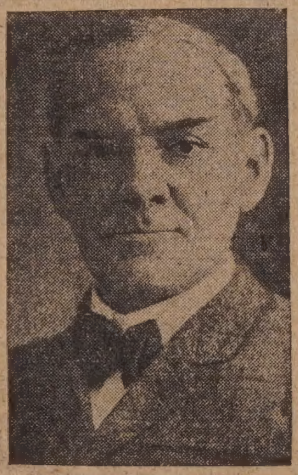
June 13, 1927.

Elected in 1885.

In 1885, one year after the town of Bourne was incorporated, Mr. Swift was elected town clerk and treasurer. At each successive election in the 42 years since then, the Bourne voters have gone to the polls and returned him to the office. For 20 years or more, no one has even ventured to oppose him.

There were occasions back in the early days of his occupancy of the office when candidates came out in opposition, but never successfully. William A. Nye was the first town clerk of Bourne, serving the initial year of the town's organization, and then giving way to Mr. Swift.

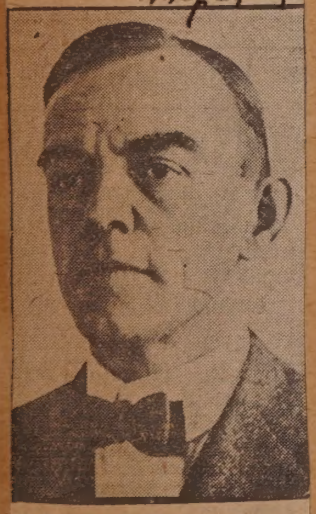
The veteran town clerk and treasurer was born in a house across the street from the one he built in 1883 and since has occupied, near the Bourne post office. For 25 years he was postmaster of Bourne as well as serving the town as its clerk and treasurer. The postmastership he relinquished to his daughter, Miss Margaret M. Swift, in 1912, when at 66 he was one year too old to take the required Civil Service examination.



Ordello R. Swift.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

May 27-27



Winthrop D. Bassett Is New Head of Square and Compass Club

The Meaning of Lent

Feb 26-27

By the Rev. F. Taylor Weil

Rector of St. Andrew's Church. Written in co-operation with the New Bedford Council of Churches.

Next Wednesday is Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, or Quadragesima, the Christian season which lasts 40 days not including the six Sundays. The word Lent if we take its derivation from the German means spring or the lengthening days, if we prefer the Anglo-Saxon root. As this Christian season comes in the spring of the year and also at the time that the days begin to lengthen noticeably, the season received the name Lent. The fourth Sunday in Lent is called Mid-Lent or in England, Mothering Sunday, from the custom that used to prevail of having all the girls who were working away from home return home for the day with a special cake as a gift for their mothers. The sixth Sunday is called Palm Sunday. The week before Palm Sunday is called Passion Week and the week following, Holy Week.

We have then in this season of Lent 40 days, not including the Sundays, and the question each one should ask himself is "Just how shall I use this period to the best advantage?"

How we use this period depends upon what we believe the church wishes us to do and to what extent we are willing to enter into the spirit of Lent. To the writer Lent is a season when each individual should examine carefully his own self and life and seek to know God better, and to master himself so that he may live his life as his Saviour Jesus Christ would have him live it. Just so far as he honestly does what he believes to be most helpful for his spiritual growth and that of others, so far he is living up to the spirit of Lent.

The spirit of Lent is a positive spirit, positive in that everything that one does is done to make one a better Christian. Self denial and fasting are useless unless thereby one seeks to come closer to God. How much satisfaction there is in taking some of the money, at other times of the year spent on unnecessary luxuries and using it to help other people! During this season many of the festivities of our everyday life are put oneside, not because they are evil but because we need the time for more important things. Lent is not a gloomy and a sad time, for the more the Christian knows God and the closer he comes to Him, the happier the Christian becomes.

The importance of Lent is being recognized more and more and its proper observance is becoming more widespread. The New Bedford Council of Churches is again planning to have noonday services each day during Holy Week and prominent speakers have been obtained. Some of the churches are holding weekly services throughout Lent.

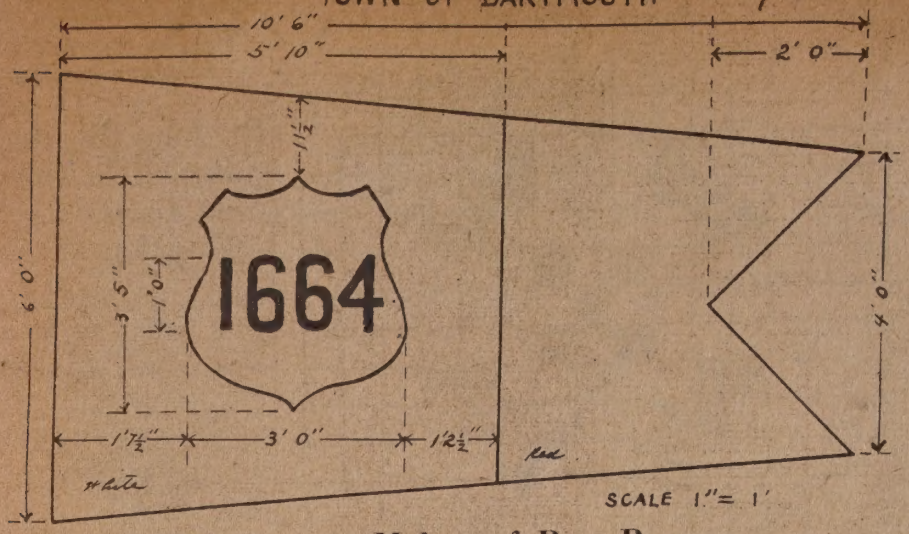
Forty days plus six Sundays for self examination and the developing within ourselves better knowledge of and love for Christ and the life He would have us lead, the life of Christian service. We shall find help in the church services, in study and in meditation and service. May we each one try to use Lent as a time for special mission, conducted by ourselves and for ourselves, with the help of the Church. Thus on Easter Day we shall know in our hearts the blessed assurance of resurrection and the joy of Church's presence in daily life.

Apr. 18, 1926.

SAMUEL APPLETON SMITH is the one year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Abbott M. Smith, 122 Clinton street.

HOUSE FLAG
TOWN OF DARTMOUTH

1/9-1927



$100 Goes to Maker of Best Banner

BLUE SHIE... TO BE ON W...

Dartmouth House Flag W... Have Red Figures and Swallowtail at End

Here are the dimensions and general description of the House Flag for the Town of Dartmouth, designed by Harry Neyland.

Colonel E. H. R. Green has announced that he will give $100 to the Dartmouth woman who makes the best flag according to these detailed instructions. The flag will be flown from the masthead of the whaleship Charles W. Morgan, enshrined on the Green estate at Round Hill.

The dimensions of the flag are given on the plan. The shield is to be blue on a white background, with red figures and red swallowtail at the end, from the line indicated on the design. The opposite side of the flag should be reverse.

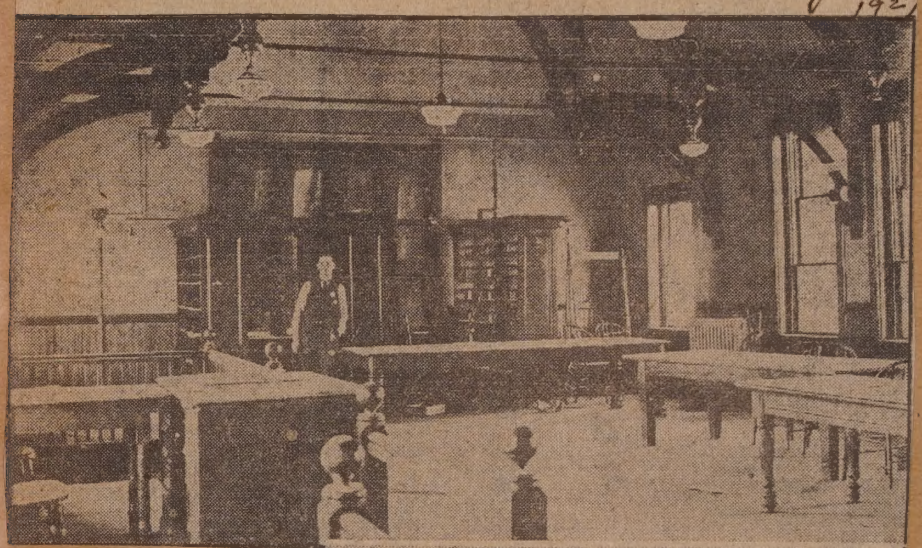
In addition to the details as given in the plan, there should be a one inch canvas strip with brass eyelets, one at the top and one at the bottom, on the left end of the flag.

As drawn by Mr. Neyland, the flag must be 10½ feet long and six feet deep at he wide end. The V in the swallowtail goes two feet into the flag. The line of the swallowtail is five feet, ten inches, from the left end. The shield is three feet wide and three feet, five inches high. It is not centered in the space from the line of the swallowtail to the left end, but should be a foot, 2½ inches from the swallowtail line and a foot, 7½ inches from the left border.

The end of the swallowtail is four feet across.

MORE ROOM NEEDED FOR POLICE

Feb 8 1927



May MISS MARY WIGGINS 11 '27

Remodeling Planned

Upper—Interior view of room at South End Police Station formerly used as a public library and now unused. Lower—Exterior view of South End Police Station.

NAMED HEALTH BOARD MEMBER

May 26- 27

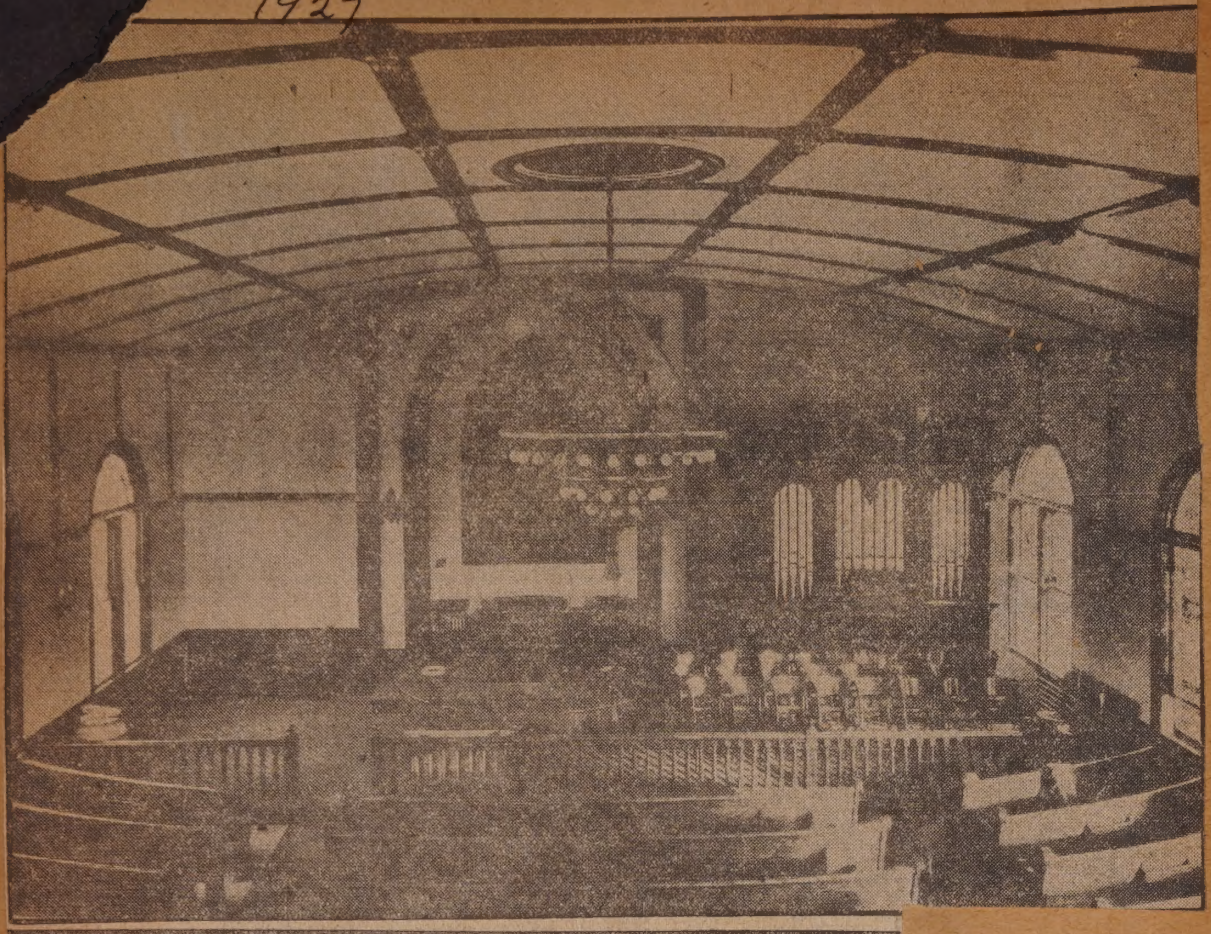
Dr. S. A. Lamoureux Unanimously Confirmed by Aldermen

Successor to Dr. Paquin Has Been in Practice Here 17 Years

DR. S. A. LAMOUREUX.

REMODELED CHURCH HAS MODERN PLANT

1927



Provides for Development

Above, Auditorium of South Primitive Methodist Church; below, glimpse of model kitchen.

DIES IN BELMONT

June 4-27

Dr. Middleton Was Dentist Here and for Time Active in Politics

Dr. James E. Middleton, formerly a dentist in this city, died yesterday mornin gat 4 at his home, 147 Fairview avenue, Belmont, following an illness of extended duration.

He will be buried with an Elk's funeral tomorrow afternoon, Cambridge lodge, B. P. O. E. officiating.

Dr. Middleton was active politically in New Bedford several years ago when the Fusion party was in existence. He left the city in November, 1923.

WINS SCHOOL HONOR

June 9-1927

Andrew G. Pierce 3d to Give Welcome Address at Newton Exercises

Andrew G. Pierce 3d, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. Pierce, 99 Madison street and South Dartmouth, as president of the senior class of the DeWitt Clinton Hebberd school, Newton, will make the address of welcome at the commencement exercises Saturday morning at the school. Mr. Pierce was recently voted by his class the best all-around student. He is associate editor of the school year book and captain of the baseball team.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce will go up to Newton Saturday to attend the commencement exercises.

WILL ASSIST PASTOR HERE

Miss Evelyn Marriner 12/31/1927

BEGINS DUTIES HERE MONDAY

Miss Evelyn Marriner to Assist Pastor at Trinitarian Congregational Church---Will Lead Young People

Miss Evelyn Marriner, Watertown, will begin her duties Monday as pastor's assistant at the Trinitarian Congregational Church.

Miss Marriner has conducted various departments of churches in Watertown and Boston recently, and has had experience in directing church pageantry and dramatic activities. She attended the Whitney Studios, Boston, studying pageantry and dramatics.

Her chief responsibility at the Trinitarian Church will be the leadership of the young people of the church, and she will act as assistant to officers and teachers of the church school and other departments of the church. She will reside here at 180 Clinton street.

May 24, 1927.

MRS. FRANK M. HOWES.

Mrs. Marion T. Howes, wife of Dr. Frank M. Howes.

—Okl Seizo Photo

IN WEDDING GOWN—Miss Georgia K. Cook, 254 Hawthorn street, former educational director in Providence store, bride of Hugh Sears Ferguson, Boston, spends honeymoon in California. They were married May 28. July 3, 1927.

Mrs. Dexter B. Goodwin is the new president of New Bedford Woman's Club. 1926

KNIGHTS TEMPLARS ATTEND EASTER SERVICE

Apr 18

Sutton Commandery Marches to First Baptist Church

At left, Sutton Commandery, Knights Templars, marching east on Union street after leaving the Masonic Temple, County and Union streets, to attend Easter service at the First Baptist Church; at right, the commandery with Eminent Commander Dexter B. Goodwin in the lead entering the First Baptist Church on William street.

GREETING CRUISING PENNSYLVANIANS

1926

TOOLHOUSE, FORMER CHURCH, IS CENTER OF CONTROVERSY

Hardware Dealer Condemns Expenditure of $5,000 to Repair Building at Bliss Corner ---Water Department Superintendent Defends Expense-- Declares Money Saved

Built originally as a community church for residents in the vicinity of Bliss Corner, then used as a schoolhouse, and for the past 18 years serving as repair shop for thee Dartmouth Water Department, the little white building next to the grain and feed store at Bliss Corner was the subject of heeated argument at the recent Dartmouth town meeting.

Expenditure Questioned.

The Dartmouth Water Department, under the supervision of Superintendent Jacob A. Handy, spent something more than $5,000 last year in repairing the building. Joseph Lardner, who conducts a hardware store almost across the street from the place, questioned the expenditure of such an amount in the repair of a building, when he said, "a new repair shop could be built for that." "It merely means incompetency on the part of the superintendent of the Water Department", Mr. Lardner told the voters.

Residents of Bliss Corners say that the building was put up generations ago to serve as a community church. Members of the community contributed lumber, money equipment, and labor for the structure. It was located on the Russells Mills road near Bliss Corner. Later the town moved the building to the site of the present Bliss Corner School, and it was used as a schoolhouse during the week and for church services Sunday.

When the Water Department was organized in 1914 the building was moved to its present location and has since served as repair shop for the department. Deed to the land where it stands is held by the town, according to Mr. Handy. A church building, according to law, must be unused for church purposes for 40 years before reverting to the town. There are no known persons now living who have an interest in the original church, and the town has had free use of the building.

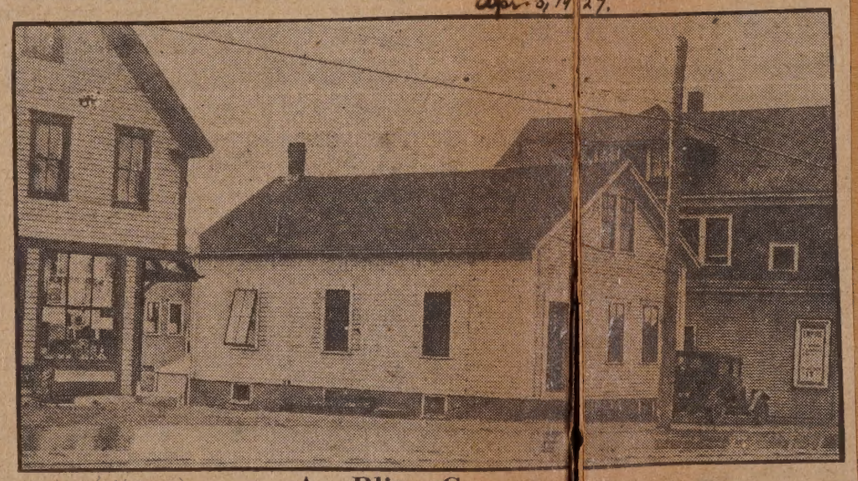
Foundation Put In.

Before being repaired by the Water Department, the structure was of one large single room with high ceiling. Mr. Handy has lowered the ceiling, partitioned it off into several rooms, put in a concrete foundation and basement, for the storage of tools and trucks, and made of it a building suited to the needs of the department. The repair of the building, which constituted almost an entire making over, was an economic move on the part of the Water Department, Mr. Handy says.

A building was needed and the other alternative would have been to buy another property and make it over at an expense which would have much exceeded the amount spent on the present place, the superintendent declared.

FORMER HOUSE OF WORSHIP NOW CONTAINS TOOLS

Apr 3, 1927.



At Bliss Corner

ADVERTISING STAFF MAN DIES

Harry A. Golden, 37, Stricken Suddenly Following Operation

Standard-Mercury Employe Had Lived Here for Last Nine Years

1927-1952

Harry A. Golden, 37, 602 Cottage street, died Wednesday night at St. Luke's hospital. Thirteen days ago he underwent an operation for appendicitis and was apparently recovering when embolism set in and caused his death.

Mr. Golden had resided in New Bedford for the last nine years and during this time was connected with the advertising department of The Standard-Mercury. He was born in Portland, Me., in January, 1890 and was graduated from the Portland High school. He was married about 13 years ago.

After attending the Lithograph school in Indianapolis, Ind., Mr. Golden became manager of retail stores for the Hope Rubber company in Providence and Newport, R. I. Later he was employed by the Sampson Murdock company, Boston, publishers of city directories, and left the employ of this concern to join The Standard-Mercury advertising staff.

He leaves a widow and two children, Richard and Billie Golden.

HARRY A GOLDEN.

Meet Cruise Leaders

Upper, left to right—Arthur W. Forbes, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce; William Ritchie, president; Francis J. Hall, president Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce; Roy S. Shoemaker, admiral of the cruise. Lower—Franklin Moore, chief of staff; Mayor George A. Hoverter; in front, D. D. Hammelbaugh, Harrisburg, secretary of the Harrisburg school committee.

FAIRHAVEN'S MOSQUITO INFESTED AREAS

2/7-27

Field of Town's Proposed Battle

Shaded areas show mosquito breeding places in Fairhaven.

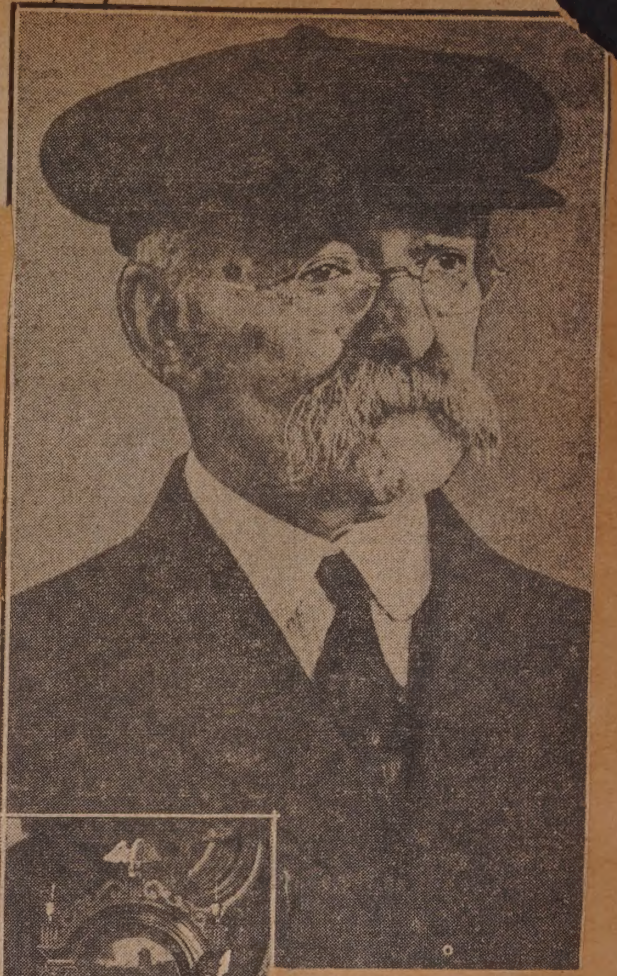
AN ISLAND SUNSET—This unusual photograph was taken at West Tisbury, overlooking the Tiasquam river, the glint of the setting sun sparkling on its waters.

VETERAN WOOD WORKER PLIES HIS TRADE THREE SCORE YEARS

"Macy's", Well Known Bedford Street Establishment, Where Old Furniture Is Renewed, Reveals Grandmother's Clock, Specially Made by Proprietor

ROLAND MACY, FURNITURE DO

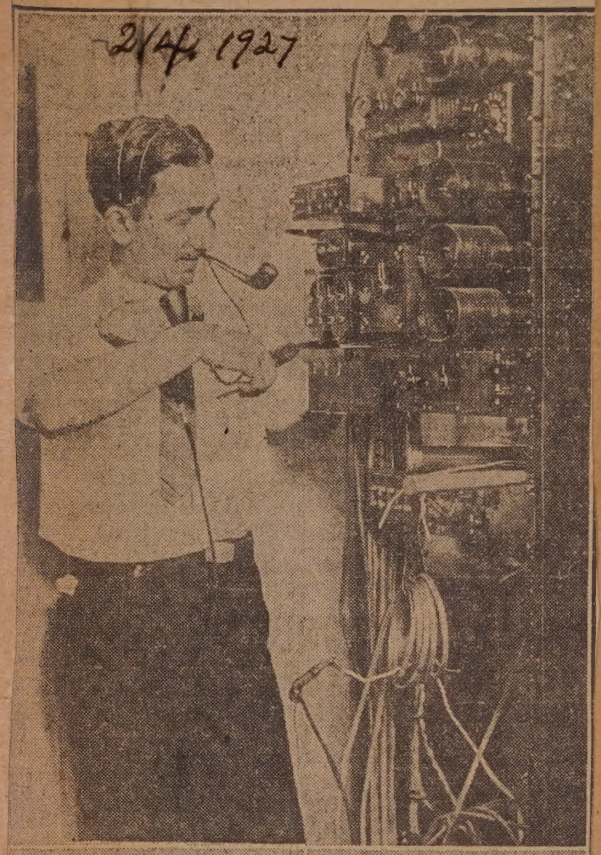
1927

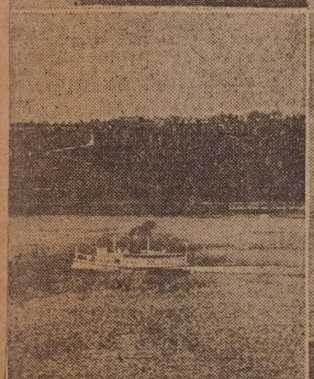


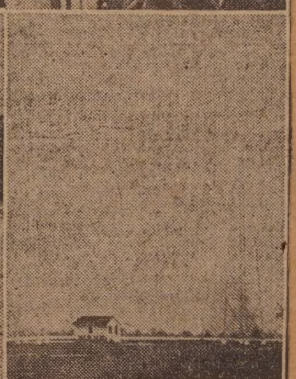
Photographs show Roland Macy, expert repairer of furniture, and a grandmother's clock in his shop.

ASSISTANT CHIEF ENGINEER

2/4/ 1927







William DeMello

The New Bedford boy is shown testing one of the remote control lines by which programs at various outside points are brought to the studio of station WRNY for broadcasting. The studios are in New York, while the apparatus is in Coytesville, N. J. Below, left, view of the antenna from New York City; right, close view of antenna and transmitter house.

FOREST EXPERT

1927 June 27

PAUL RUPERT GAST.

STUDIES LIGHT MEASUREMENTS

Paul Rupert Gast Receives Doctor of Science Degree at Harvard

Conducts Research Work in University Forest Preserve at Petersham

ATTRACTIVE COTTAGE AT PADANARAM FURNISHED WITH ANTIQUES

Feb 13-2

Walter A. Swan, 67, Was Gilder for Quarter of Century

Aug. 7, 1927

Walter A. Swan, 67, died at his home, 235 Chancery street, yesterday, following a lingering illness. Death was attributed to paresis.

For more than 25 years, Mr. Swan was a gilder here, working much of this time with the Taber Art company, which was supplanted by the Taber-Prang company, Springfield.

Mr. Swan was born in New Bedford and, with the exception of about four years spent in New York, made his home in New Bedford.

In more recent years, Mr. Swan had been employed in janitorial capacities, working in the Co-operative bank building and serving as sexton of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, here.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Mary E. Swan, Mr. Swan leaves a daughter, Mrs. Edith A. Richards, New York; and two sisters, Mrs. Frances Wilson and Mrs. Margaret Buchanan, both residents of Newport, R. I.

Death of William M. Wood Feb. 8, 1926.

CUTTYHUNK NEIGHBOR PRAISES WOOD AS LOVER OF HUMANITY

Islanders Loved Wealthy Summer Resident for His Democracy—Considered Him as True Gentleman—Millionaire Was Leader in Bringing Many Improvements

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor P. Sylvia's Home

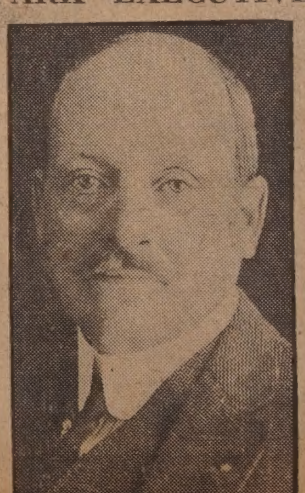
PADANARAM HOME REPRODUCES CHARM OF CAPE COD COTTAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor P. Sylvia's Quaint House Forms Appropriate Background to Fine Collection of Antiques—Hooked Rug in Hall Bids Guest Welcome

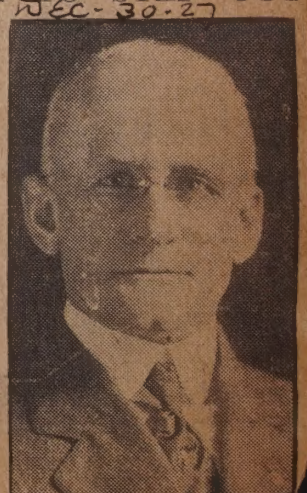
The indefinable charm of a Cape Cod cottage, enhanced by substantial Colonial furniture, is felt in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nestor P. Sylvia, Rockland street, Padanaram. For two years, Mr. Sylvia has been an enthusiastic collector of Early Americana, and when he had accumulated enough, he built a house around it.

PARK EXECUTIVE TO STEP OUT

DEC. 30. 27



EVERETT B. SHERMAN.



WILLIAM P. COVELL.

Mr. Sherman today announced his coming retirement as superintendent of parks. Mr. Covell, chairman of the park board, is slated to take the place.

Apr. 3, 1927.

RELIEF FOR CREW—This photograph shows a crew being transferred from the lighthouse tender Anemone to the Handkerchief Shoal lightship, to relieve the men on duty.

June 17, 1928 —Bachrach Photo.

ATTENTIVE—Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton C. Fisher, 85 Mill street.

CENSUS SUPERVISOR

Sept 3, 1929

ROBERT A. McINTYRE.

WHERE DISCARDED RICE HULLS AND STRAWS BECOME CELLUL

2/27-27

Massasoit's Southern Branch

This group of bright new buildings is the Louisiana plant of the Massasoit Manufacturing Company, Fall River, in which rice hulls and rice straws are reclaimed and converted into cellulose, the chemical base for rayon. The upper picture provides a panorama of the plant, showing, from left to right, the power house, chemical house (incomplete), the mill proper, and laboratory. The lower picture shows the storage warehouse of the plant, which is also visible at the extreme right in the upper view.

NEIGHBORS—The memorial library and Lawrence High school, Falmouth, share the same beautiful grounds.

DAVID O'BRIEN is son of Dr. and Mrs. Daniel P. O'Brien, 330 Union street.

NITOR TRIES TO FAN EMBERS OF INDIAN FIR

Leroy C. Perry, Methodist Preacher on Sundays, Providence Sch ool Engineer Week Days, and Chief Ousamekin of Wampanoags Desires to Perpetuate Ideals and Traditions of His Aboriginal Forefathers

Jan 23-27

All Interested in Reviving Indian Traditions

Left Valeria Perry, one of the four children of the Indian herb doctor, William Pequot Pelowauquo Perry, who are the last representatives of their race left on the Indian reservation at Indian Town, Fall River. She shows how her ancestors used to grind corn. The stones are family relics. Center, the Rev. Leroy C. Perry (of another Indian family), at the desk he uses as head janitor of the Hope Street High School, Providence. Right, Mr. Perry in his garb as Chief Ousamekin of the Wampanoags. Ousamekin means Yellow-Feather, and Mr. Perry holds a yellow feather in his right hand. Below, Mrs. Leroy C. Perry, a full-blooded Caucasian.

M'KINSTRY IS MADE CAPTAIN

Jan 11-1928

Police Lieutenant Heading Civil Service List Promoted by Mayor

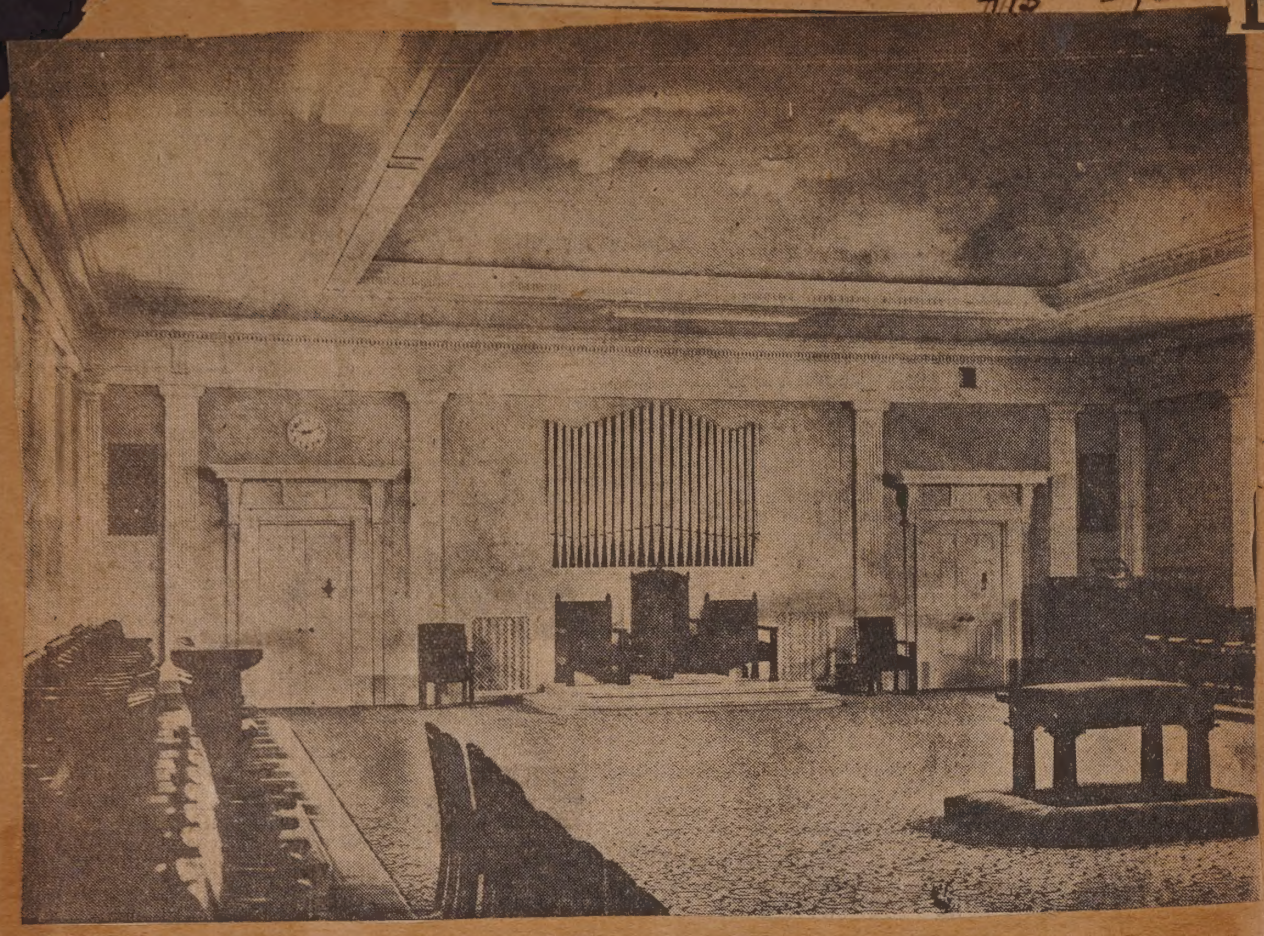
Albert B. MacKinstry has been appointed a captain in the Police department to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Captain Frank W. Sylvia. The appointment was made by Mayor Ashley in response to a request by Chief of Police William T. Cole that the vacancy be filled.

ALBERT B. MacKINSTRY.

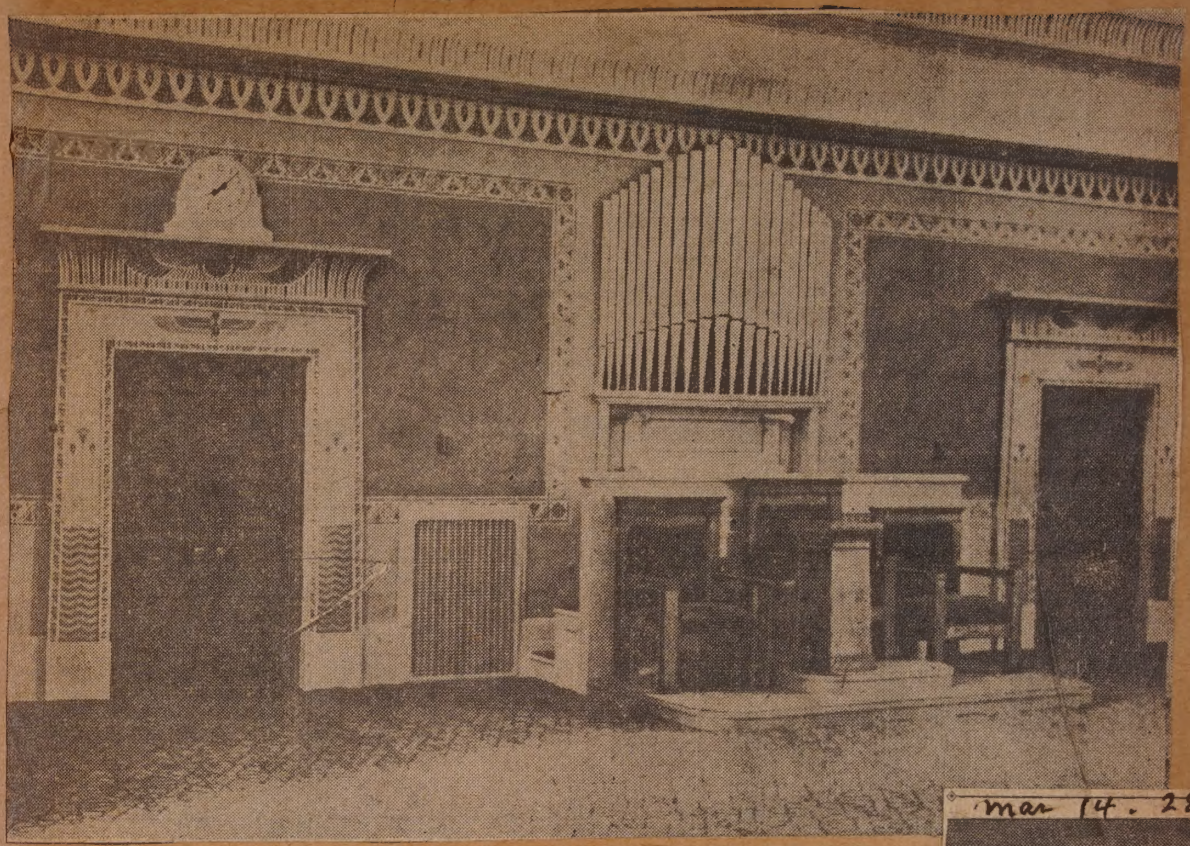
BEAUTIFUL MASONIC LODGE

4/13-27-

E



IS AWAITING DEDICATION



In New Temple

First interior views of the new Maconic Temple at County and Union streets. Upper left: East end of the upper hall. Note the cloud effects in the ceiling panel. Upper right: West end of the upper hall. Center: East end of the lower hall, with the elaborately decorated entrance doors. Bottom of members of New Bedford Masonic bodies who served in the World War.

mar 14. 28

MISS C. MELISSA TASKER.

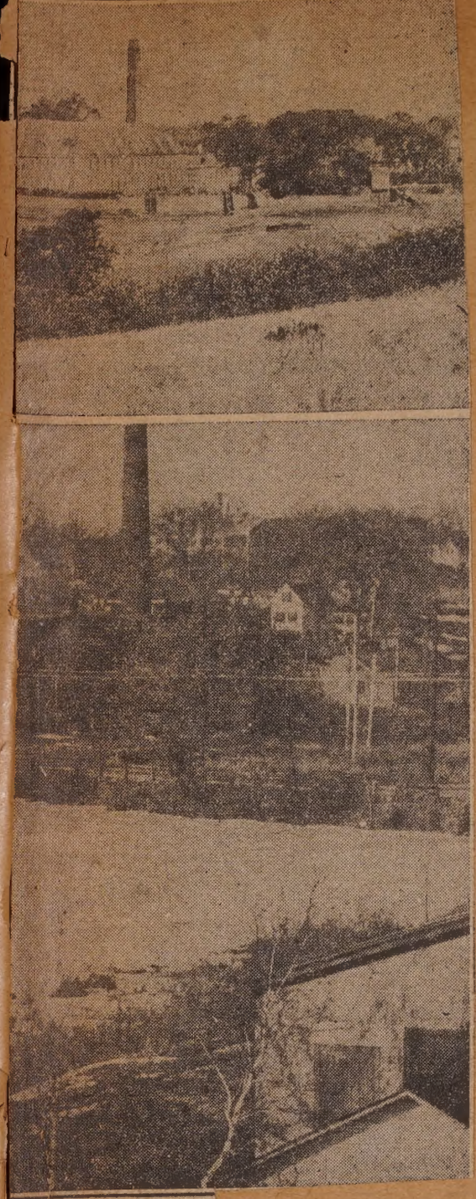
DONAGHY TEACHER NAMED LEADER OF ASSOCIATION HERE

Miss C. Melissa Tasker Succeeds Miss Julia C. Gifford as President

Miss C. Melissa Tasker was elected president of the New Bedford Teachers association at the annual meeting at the high school auditorium last night. She succeeds Miss Julia C. Gifford. Miss Tasker, who is a teacher at the Donaghy school, has served as vice-president of the organization the past year. She is a former president of the Business and Professional Women's club.

NEMASKET RIVER RIPARIAN RIGHTS PAID FOR BY T

REE CITIES 1927 1/2



Plant of Nemasket Worsted Company and Middleboro Ligh

Upper—Plant of the Nemasket Worsted Company on Nemasket River, Middleboro. Under an agreement signe River and Taunton, this concern is to be paid $25,000 for damage to its water power and process water rights throu waters of the Nemasket river under the Tri-City water bill. New Bedford pays 40 per cent of the cost, Fall River 40

Lower—The electric light plant owned by the town of Middleboro on the Middleboro shores of the Nemasket. Ne Taunton have agreed to pay Middleboro $25,000 for the loss of water power rights by this plant. The town also gets undeveloped water power privilege.

Station

by New Bedford, Fall the legal taking of the hd Taunton 10 per cent.
Bedford, Fall River and $5,000 settlement for an

Feb. 13, 1927.

AN EDGARTOWN HOME — Formerly owned by William M. Butler, this is one of the fine old homes of Edgartown, photographed with its covering of snow.

CHOSEN TO HEAD GARDEN CLUB

Mrs. Etta A. Horton Elected President at Annual Meeting - 28

Jan. 5

MRS. ETTA A. HORTON.

ILLNESS FATAL
Dec 20-27

JOHN W. DONAGHY.

DISTRICT CHIEF DONAGHY DEAD

Fire Official Succumbs to Pneumonia Attack in His 62d Year

Born in New Bedford, He Was with Department About 40 Years

First District Chief John W. Donaghy, 61, associated with the New Bedford Fire department for the greater part of his life, died at his home, 60 Sycamore street, late yesterday following an attack of pneumonia. He had been ill since Wednesday, but the end came unexpectedly.

Mr. Donaghy was born in New Bedford, March 13, 1865, the son of Thomas and Martha Donaghy. His father was a prominent here for many years. The Thomas Donaghy school was named in his honor.

Educated in Schools Here.

As a youth, Mr. Donaghy spent much of his time about station four and when still in his teens he became a substitute member of the station. In 1892 he joined the department as a regular member. Previously he had been educated in public schools and when he reached the proper age he entered the Bryant-Stratton Commercial college at Providence.

His first position was in the employ of his father. Later he was a bookkeeper for David A. Snell and a shipping clerk at the Delano oil works. Feeling the call to be with the fire department again, Mr. Donaghy rejoined as a substitute or call member in 1889 and in 1892 was named a spare driver for the department.

Shortly after his appointment he was made regular driver of truck three. He drove this piece of apparatus for five years, and then in 1897 was made captain of station six. On Jan. 11, 1917, at the time the New Bedford department was reorganized on its present basis with district chiefs, he was elected third district chief by the City council. Following the death of Deputy Chief Frank R. Pease, he became first district chief of the department.

Had Deep Interest in Masonry.

Mr. Donaghy was a member of the Fireman's Mutual Aid society, the New Bedford Veteran Firemen's association and the state firemen's organizations.

For many years Mr. Donaghy had taken a deep interest in Free Masonry and was affiliated with the following Masonic bodies: Star in the East lodge, Adoniram Royal Arch chapter, New Bedford council, Royal and Select Masters, Sutton commandery, Knights Templar, Palestine temple, Mystic Shrine, Providence; Dartmouth chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, and the New Bedford Square and Compass club. He was also a member of the New Bedford grange. In these organizations and outside he had a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Donaghy married Miss Carrie L. Tripp, the city, who survives him with three children, John W. Donaghy Jr. who is connected with the Nyanza mills, Woonsocket; Thomas Donaghy 3d, with the Kilburn Mills company, Providence and Miss Martha Donaghy, resident anaesthetist at St. Luke's hospital.

He is also survived by a grandson, John W. Donaghy 3d; a grandson, Thomas Donaghy Jr., three sisters, Miss Mary E. Donaghy, Mrs. Louise Briggs and Mrs. William M. Emery New Bedford, and two nephews, George E. Briggs Jr., exporter, New York city and Dr. Thomas H. Tabb, U. S. N. Washington, D. C.

JUNIOR HIGHS TO HAVE BEST OF FACILITIES

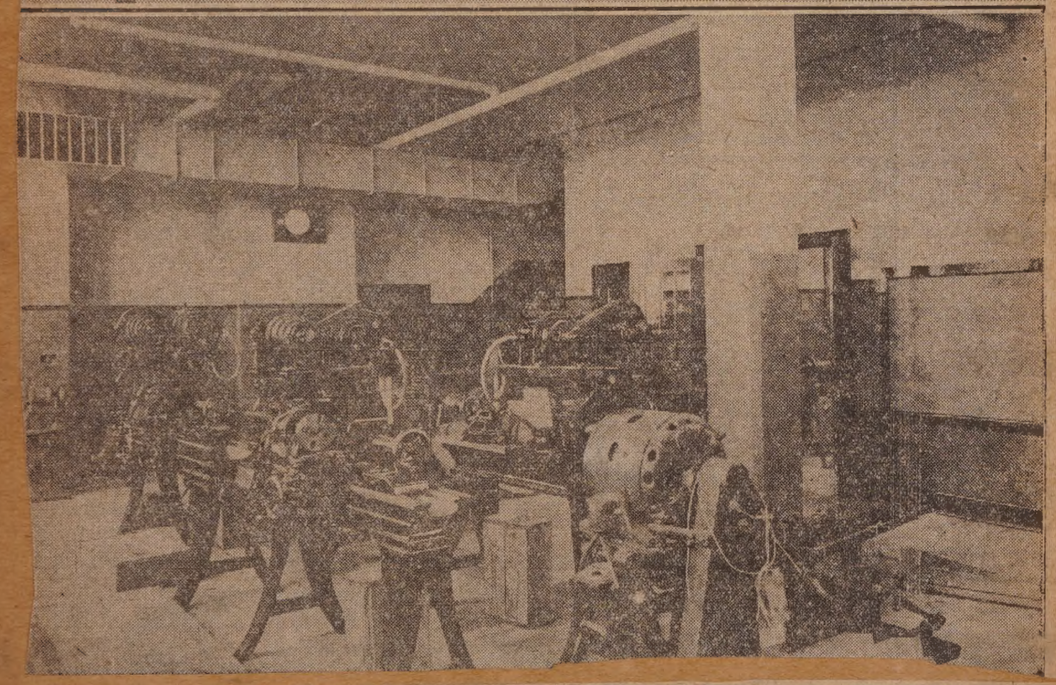
Glimps of the interiors of New H ford's two new junior hig schools which will be denied heir pupils for some wee longer are here afforded S dard readers. On the left is series of interiors at the Sou End Junior High. On the rig the pictures reveal the N th End Junior High.

Workme are still busy in the gymna m at the South End but t picture suggests the faciliti for athletic exercises and por games which the big floo ill eventually afford. Man windows provide plenty of li .

←

Each sch has a well equipped p ting class room in which actical printers will give de instruction. This happen to be the North End room. s type cases and machines a duplicated in the other sc l.

→

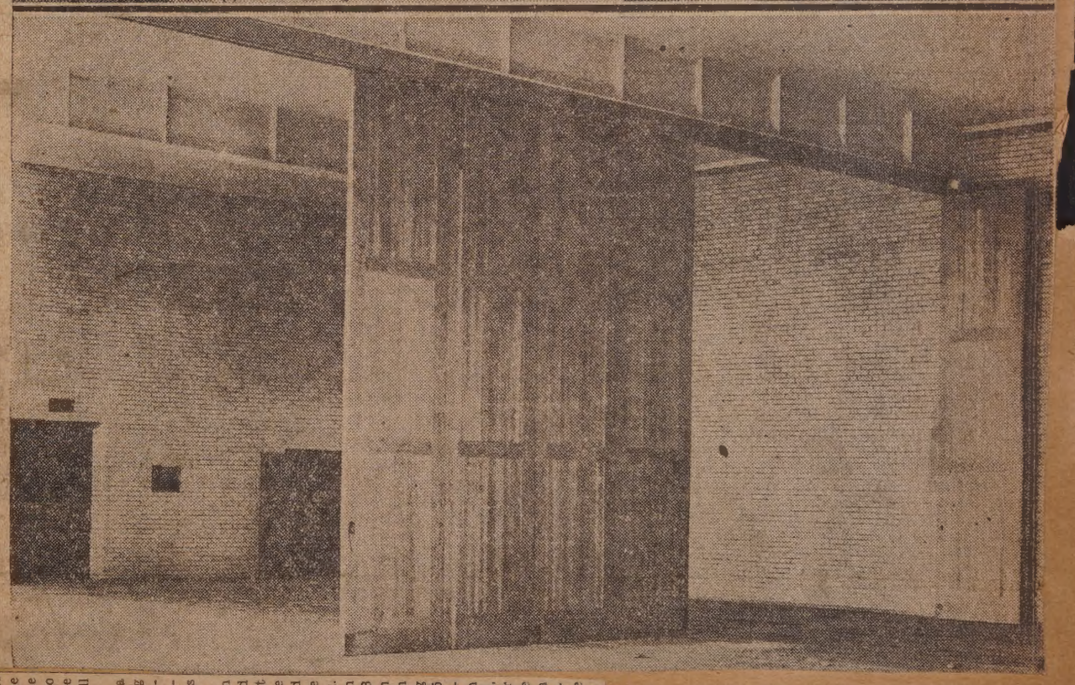


This nest machinery suggests a corn in a well equipped manufa y more than it does a scho oom. It is suggestive of vocational emphasis whic inds a place in the modern ior highs. This is the mach e shop at the South End ool.

←

For comp sen across the page here is e gym at the North End ool. It has an interesting f ure in the sliding partition ich makes possible two ac ties at once. In this picture indows are absent but am light is provided.

→



JOINT AUTHORS 27
11-8

HENRY W. NICHOLS

WILLIAM H. BROOMHEAD

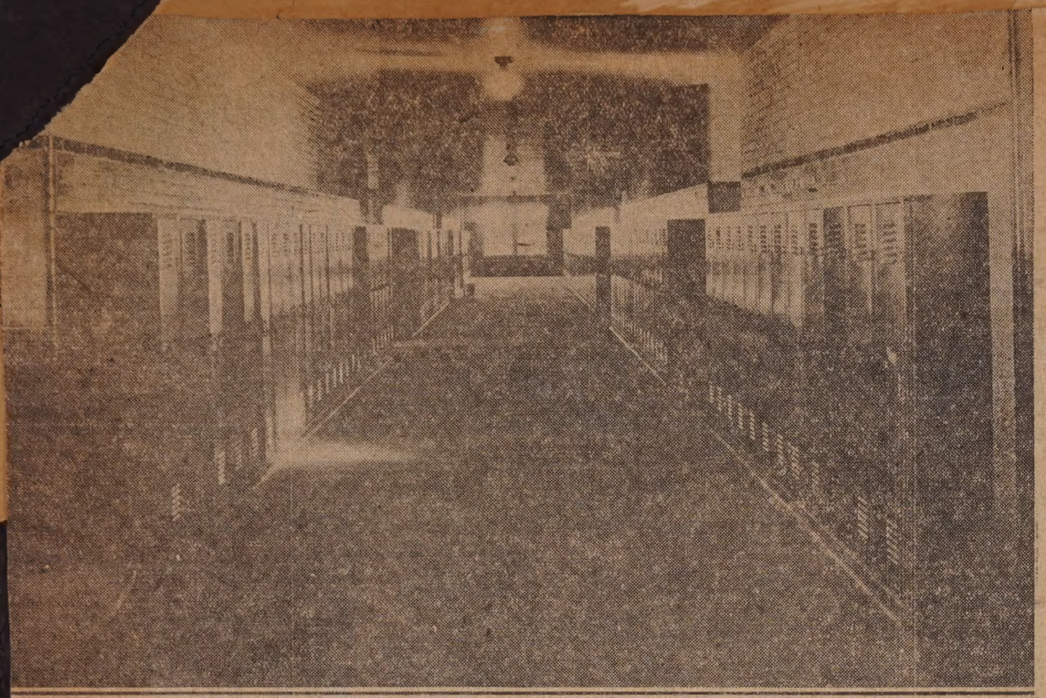
Writers of New Book on Cotton Fabrics Are Practical Mill Men

Henry W. Nichols, principal of Bradford Durfee Textile school, aFll River, was graduated from Colby college in 1895 with the degree of A. B. and spent the period from his graduation to the fall of 1899 in working through the St. Brainwick

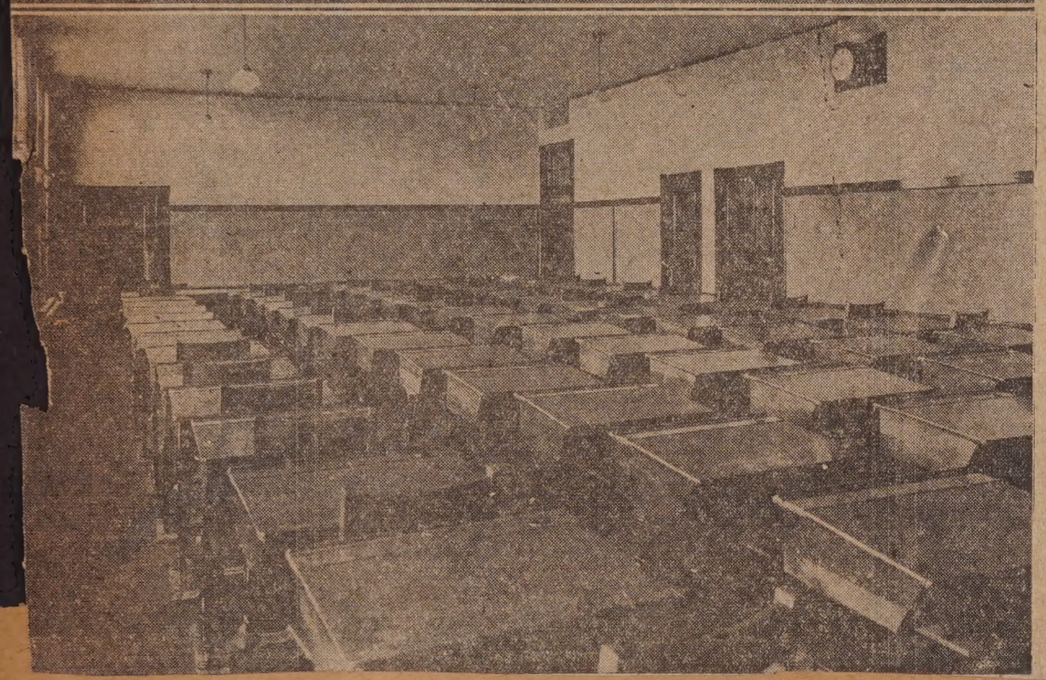
In 1900 he graduated from the New Bedford Textile school after having taken a special course in designing and weaving. From 1900 to 1904 he conducted the textile department of the International Correspondence school at Scranton, Pa., and in 1904 became principal of the New Bedford Textile school, a position which he filled up to 1917, when he became principal of the Bradford Durfee Textile school in Fall River.

In 1915, Mr. Nichols published a book entitled A Method of Determining Costs in a Cotton Mill, which attained immediate favor and is sought today as one of the most valuable books issued on the subject.

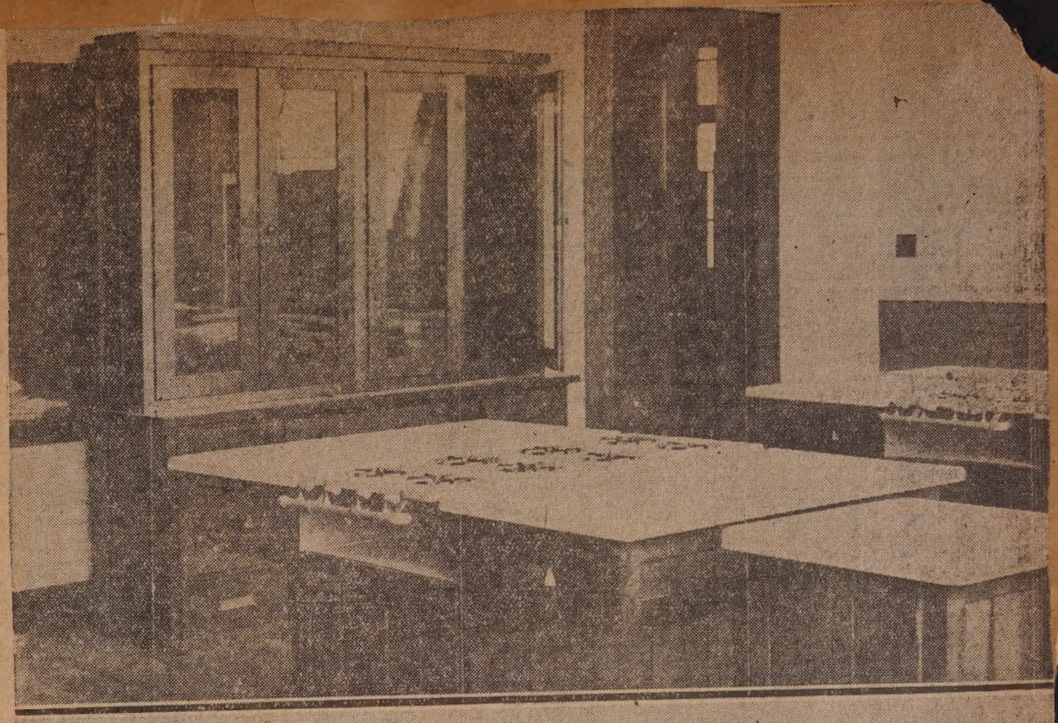
William H. Broomhead, instructor in weaving and designing in the Bradford Durfee Textile school, Fall River, is joint author with Henry W. Nichols of the new book Standard Cotton Cloths and Their Construction, that is just off the press and is being announced this week. Mr. Broomhead is a practical cotton manufacturer, and from 1883 to 1888 served as second hand in weaving in the Wampanoag mill, Fall River. From 1888 to 1892 he was overseer of weaving in the same mill, and from 1892 to 1895 he served as overseer of spooling, warping, slashing and weaving in the cotton manufacturing plant at North Pownal, Vt. In 1895 he returned to Fall River as overseer of weaving at the Granite mill where he remained up to 1909. In 1910 he became instructor at the Bradford Durfee Textile school, where he has been ever since.



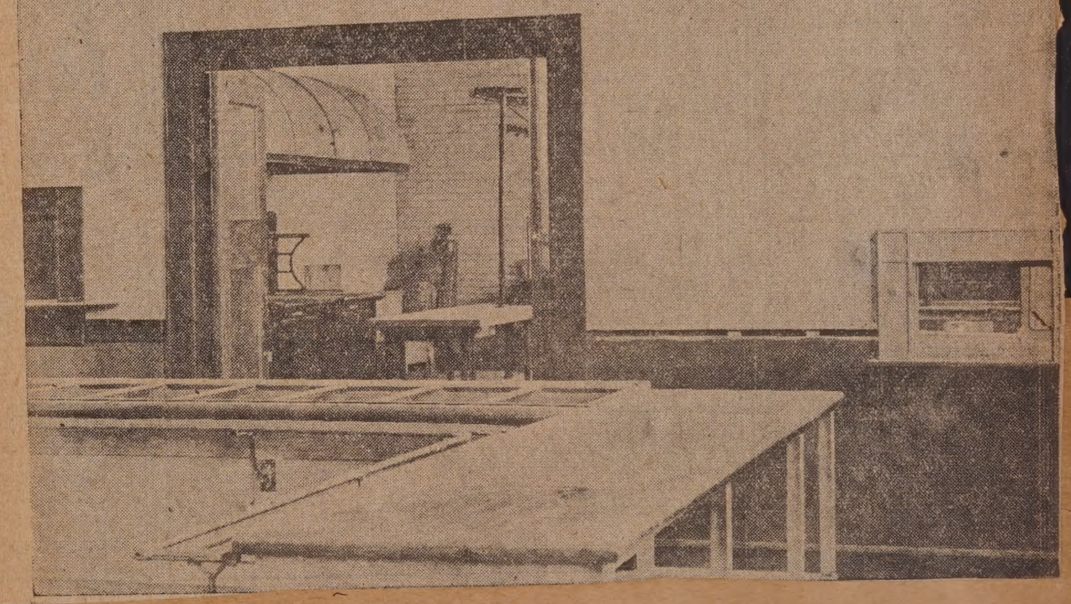
Characteristic of wide corridors and their ization to save the space locker rooms is this hallw in the South End school. is notably wide of passag There should be no conge n even with large classes go to and fro.



Cooking school ll keep regularly in sanitary d wonderfully equipped kitchen which should be th envy of many housewives. re is a corner of the room t the North school. Am table room, many pantrie nd the best of cooking sto can be glimpsed here.



This is an especially big class room but it is typical of the arrangement of rooms in the two new schools. Here will some day be seated 70 pupils. It is the largest room in the building and it will be used as a study room. Modern methods demand that recitation classes be smaller.



Cafeterias will take care of the inner youth and both menu and service are planned to be attractive to the youngsters. Warm lunches so appetizing and so beneficial are thus provided. This is a peek into the cafeteria system at the North End.

Everything pictured here looks about ready to get into but as the photographer took the pictures workmen were still busy all over the buildings. Mayor Ashley said yesterday he is going to hustle things up all he can. Everybody who looks at these indications of what is in store for junior high pupils will agree with Mr. Keith that they ought to have the use of them as soon as possible.

SOCIAL WORKER TO COME HERE

Jul 9.28

The Rev. Arthur O. Dewey, Providence, Chosen New City Missionary

Minister, Twice Associated with Y. M. C. A., Begins Duties March 1

The Rev. Arthur O. Dewey, service secretary of the Providence Y. M. C. A. and former Americanization secretary of the New Bedford Y. M. C. A., was chosen missionary of the Ladies' City Missionary society at the monthly meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Free Public library.

Mr. Dewey will take up his new duties on March 1, succeeding the Rev. John M. Trout, who resigned as city missionary last autumn.

Twice Associated Here.

The new missionary has twice been associated with the New Bedford Y. M. C. A. He was secretary of the industrial work of the Y. M. C. A. for 2½ years and he left to go to Pittsburgh where he remained for a short time, returning East on account of illness in the family.

He served for 2½ years as American citizenship secretary but in 1925 when the association's drive for funds fell [illegible] the personnel service [illegible] Gospel, the Americanization work was dropped and Mr. Dewey left in August to enter the Providence association where he is still located.

THE REV. ARTHUR O. DEWEY.

Served as Chaplain.

Mr. Dewey is a native of Iowa. He studied at Iowa State college and obtained an A. B. degree at Simpson college.

Later he obtained an S. T. B. degree at B. U. School of Theology, Boston, and was ordained to the ministry. When United States entered the World war, Mr. Dewey served as a chaplain at Fort Munroe and Camp Eustice, Va. He began his work as industrial secretary of the New Bedford Y. M. C. A. after completing his duties as chaplain.

Comments on Policy.

During his former residence here, Mr. Dewey lived in Fairhaven and his wife, Mrs. Julia Dewey, was active in the Fairhaven Woman's club. She was chosen president of the New Bedford College club in 1923.

Commenting on his policy as city missionary Mr. Dewey said today that he planned an all-around development of the city mission, placing equal emphasis on religious, social welfare and community activities.

89 YEARS OF AGE

11/16/28

Mrs. Sarah Law, Onset, Though Ill, Observes Birthday Cheerfully

One of the pioneers in clearing the entrance to Cape Cod, Mrs. Sarah Law, Onset, celebrated her 89th birthday Sunday, Nov. 4.

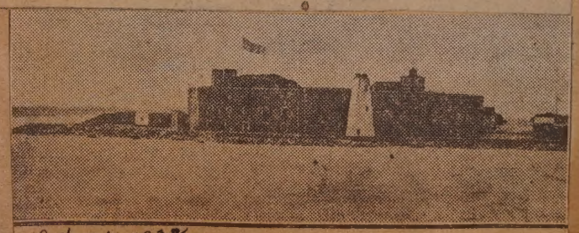
Though confined to her home for the last year with a severe illness and unable to leave her chair on her birthday, Mrs. Law greeted the day and the friends and messages it brought from all over the country with her customary radiance and [illegible]

OCATIONAL SCHOOL LACKS SPACE, LIGHT AND RIGHT LAYOU

1927 1/2

Director Mackintosh Makes Best of Crowded Conditions

Above, left to right—Old wooden building and bridge connecting with stone structure; Director William R. Mackintosh; home nursing room. Below, entrance to automobile department; corridor used as ...atroom; a tiny classroom.



Oct 24, 1928

OLD VIEW OF FORT RODMAN

DR. SYLVESTER E. CORRIGAN.
Dr. Corrigan, interne at St. Luke's hospital, has received the degree of doctor of medicine from Harvard Medical school. Dr. Corrigan is a graduate of Holy Family High school and Holy Cross college, class of 1923. He is a nephew of the late Dr. Sylvester Donovan. March 4, 1928

DIRECTOR SADLER DIVIDES TIME WITH CONTINUATION SCHOOLS

Edward T. N. Sadler, Former Principal of Clifford and de Valles Schools, Is Native of This City---Junior High Task Will Be Co-ordination of Work in Two Schools

Edward T. N. Sadler, recently appointed director of New Bedford's junior high schools, is also director of continuation schools, a post he has held since 1920. He will divide his time practically equally between his two charges. His work in the junior highs will be largely that of co-ordinating the courses of study in the two schools and of co-operating with the principals in supervising the teaching.

The continuation schools, he states, still require and will always require active leadership, but are now so well organized that the heads and teachers are able to take over much of the detail work which formerly required his own personal attention.

Directs Teacher Training Course.

While swinging these two jobs, Mr. Sadler also carries on the evening vocational teacher-training courses of the State Department of Education for the New Bedford-Fall River district, which he has directed for two years.

Mr. Sadler is a native of New Bedford. He was graduated from St. Joseph's High School, now no longer in existence, in its last class, that of 1900. He went to work for one year; then entered Bridgewater Normal School, and was graduated from the four-year training course in 1905. He was a school principal in Hamden, Conn., for two years, and in East Hampton, Conn., one year. Then he became a supervising agent of the Connecticut State Department of Education, supervising union school districts and doing educational inspection work for the State outside his districts. These included Chatham, Goshen, Cromwell, Lyme, and Oxford.

Mr. Sadler has taken special courses in education at Danbury, Conn., and Hyannis Normal schools, and more recently at Harvard and Boston University. He studied vocational guidance at Harvard; junior high school methods, secondary school problems, and philosophy of education at Harvard.

Former School Principal.

From Sept. 1911, to Feb., 1914, Mr. Sadler was principal of the Clifford School, this city. He was transferred in 1914 to the Katharine street school, later renamed the de Valles, where he remained in charge until promoted to director of continuation schools in 1920. He has been vice-president of the Bristol County Teachers Association, and a member of the latter's executive board for a number of years. He has lectured on continuation school work at summer sessions of Fitchburg Normal School.

Edward B. Gray

Edward T. N. Sadler

Dec 17-26 Elwyn G. Campbell

Vermonter Has Been New Bedford School Head Since 1901

The principal-elect of the new South Junior High School, Elwyn G. Campbell, has been a New Bedford grammar school principal since 1901, entering the School Department at the same time as his colleague, Edward B. Gray, who is to head the North Junior High.

Mr. Campbell, coming to this city from Malden, was placed in charge of the Middle Street School. For 21 years, until the Clarence A. Cook School was opened to replace the antiquated Middle Street building, Mr. Campbell continued in the same position and then moved with the school. He has been head of the Cook School since it was opened, in September, 1922.

Born in Vermont.

The little village of Sutton, Vt., was Mr. Campbell's birthplace. He was graduated from Linden Institute, Linden, Vt., in 1891, the same year that Calvin Coolidge was graduated from St. Johnsbury, in the next town. Mr. Campbell played in all the Linden-St. Johnsbury interscholastic games, but if the future president was among his opponents he is unable to recall the fact, or anything about him at that time.

Walter E. Ranger, now Commissioner of Education of Rhode Island, was principal of Linden Institute. Through his influence Mr. Campbell became interested in going to college. He went to Bates College, Maine, which has a reputation for having turned out more teachers, proportionately, than any other institution of its kind in New England. One of the activities by which he worked his way was teaching in small country schools. The Bates curriculum was especially arranged to give its students an opportunity to teach during the winter term. He was a member of the varsity teams during the entire four years.

Succeeded George H. Tripp.

Graduated from Bates in 1895, Mr. Campbell turned immediately to teaching. He served two years as a grammar school principal in East Weymouth, and four years in Malden. Then he came to New Bedford to succeed George H. Tripp, now librarian of the Free Public Library, as principal of the Middle Street School.

Mr. Campbell has done postgraduate work in education at Harvard. He has served as president of the New Bedford Teachers Association and as secretary of the Bristol County Teachers Association. His athletic interests are still evidenced in golf and tennis, and, vicariously, in the activities of the Cook school boys. He has been active in the Congregational Church of Fairhaven, and in various civic affairs. His home is 84 Laurel street, Fairhaven, where the younger members of his family of seven children are still with him.

TO GO TO THIRD NEW SCHOOL

Principal-elect at North Junior High at Knowlton School 20 Years

Teaching and Business Experience Preceded Appointment in 1901

When Edward B. Gray closes his desk at the Hosea M. Knowlton School next month to open a new one as principal of the new North Junior High School, he will have rounded out just 20 years as principal of the Knowlton School, and 25 years and five months in the New Bedford school department.

Mr. Gray's three principalships, so it happens, have each begun in a new school. His first New Bedford appointment, in 1901, was as principal of the then just completed John H. Clifford School. It was so far north, and the territory about it was so sparsely built up, that many people thought the city had been foolish to build such a big school "away out there." It drew pupils all the way from Linden street to Brooklawn Park. It was something of the same story with the Knowlton School, which Mr. Gray opened in January, 1906. Now Mr. Gray is to open a new school, more pioneer in character than either of the others.

Native of Tiverton.

About ten years of teaching and several years in business preceded Mr. Gray's appointment to the New Bedford School Department. Born in Tiverton, R. I., and educated there and in Fall River, he was graduated from high school in Fall River in 1882 and from Harvard College in 1886. He entered Gray Brothers grocery company, which conducted several stores in this city, immediately after his graduation, and remained in business three years. Then he was called to Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., as a member of the faculty in mathematics.

Returning to Fall River after two years, Mr. Gray went back into business for a short time. In 1893 he finished out a term as principal of the Head of Westport School. Then he went to Wallingford, Vt., to serve three years as pri... High School.

In 1896 Mr. Gray was ca... Fairhaven to take the joint pos... of principal of the high school a... superintendent of schools. The following year his job became exclusively a superintendency, with oversight of the union district of Fairhaven, Mattapoisett, and Acushnet. It was from this duty that he came to the Knowlton School.

Mr. Gray has done postgraduate work at Harvard summer school. In common with most other grammar school principals, he has departmentalized the work in the upper grades of his school during the last few years, in anticipation of the transition to junior high schools. He was president of the Bristol County Teachers Association at one time, and served four years as its secretary.

Has Summer Place in Maine.

Summers at his country place in Maine, with fishing and boating as diversions, are Mr. Gray's time for recreation. His New Bedford home is at 745 County street. His daughters, Misses Irene B. and Mildred E. Gray, are teachers in the New Bedford public schools, the former in the department of physical education, and the latter in the French department of the high school.

1/28 28 At Rodman School

Bust of Washington is presented Thomas R. Rodman school by the graduating class. J. Earle Johnson, left, presents the bust, and is accepted by Robert Fitzgerald Jr. Johnson was also winner of a medal presented by the Sons of the American Revolution.

EQUIPMENT USED AT GOSNOLD IN TURNING OUT FINE SPECIALTY CLOTHS

Efficient Arrangement

Upper left—General view of the silk and rayon processing department of the Gosnold Mills Company with warpers in the right background. Middle left—Close-up of frames winding rayon yarns direct from skeins onto wooden bobbins. Lower left—Section of the weave shed, showing dobby looms on two-beam work in the foreground and Jacquard looms in the rear. Upper right—Looking down the aisle in one of the Gosnold's four weave rooms; in this room there are 1,760 looms; Jacquard looms are shown here at the right. Lower right—Sizing equipment; the large metal box is the hot air cabinet in which rayon yarns are dried as they pass from the sizing bath to the beam in the process which combines warping and sizing in one operation.

IN ANTIQUE GLASS

Chancel Window

WINDOW WILL BE DEDICATED

Unveiling to Be at South P. M. Church Sunday at 3 P. M.

Members of Ladies' Aid Society, Donor of Gift, to Officiate

Rev. George B. Krantz, Jr.

The Rev. George Buckley Krantz, Jr., Arrives to Begin Service at St. James's Episcopal Church

Apr. 24, 1927.

IRON CAVALRY—Three members of New Bedford's new military unit, the Ninth Company, Tank Corps, U. S. A., are shown with their "steeds." Left to right, are: Corporal A. F. Wilson, Sergeant J. D. Bernier, and Private, First Class, N. D. Newton.

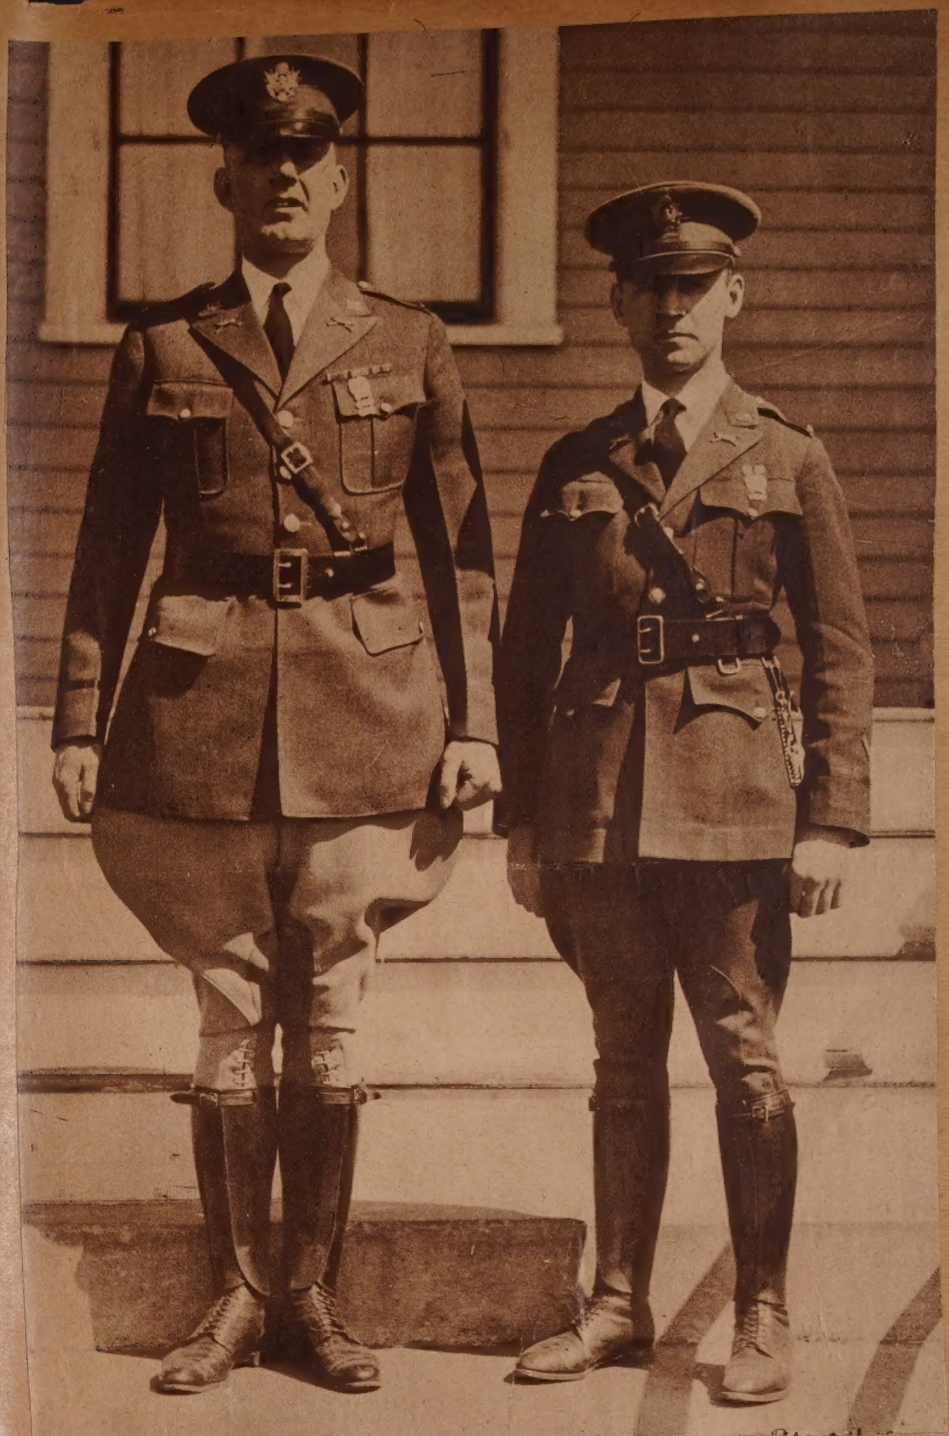
Apr. 24, 1927.

HERE ARE THE BOYS —From chef to mascot, this is the personnel of Ninth Company, Tank Corps, U. S. A. This photograph was taken on the front steps of one of the barracks at Fort Rodman, where the men are stationed.

ROBERT REID, MEMORIAL CHURCH WINDOW DESIGNER, DIES AT 67

ROBERT REID.

Dec. 31 1927



Apr. 24, 1927.

COMMANDS CORPS — Lieutenant S. M. Hall, left, is commander of the tank company, which has taken up headquarters at Fort Rodman. He is shown with Lieutenant William H. Speidel, his junior officer

TO PREACH L… SERMONS HERE

may 7-27

The Rev. Charles H. Kershaw to Make Farewell Appearance in South P. M. Church Tomorrow

The Rev. Charles H. Kershaw, pastor of the South P. M. Church here for the past 14 years, will preach his last sermons as pastor of that church tomorrow.

Mr. Kershaw has accepted the pastorate of the Ebenezer P. M. Church, Providence, and following the annual session of the Eastern Conference of the denomination to be held at the Matthews Memorial Church, Lowell, from May 11 to 16 he will begin his new duties. The Rev. Joseph Holden, formerly pastor of the Second P. M. Church, Fall River, is to succeed Mr. Kershaw here.

THE REV. CHARLES H. KERSHAW.

Delegates to the annual conference have been named by both the South P. M. and First P. M. churches. James Talbot, Miss Estella Bateman and Mrs. C. H. Kershaw are the official delegates from the South P. M. Church with Miss Sarah Ellen Anderton, Mrs. James Talbot and Mrs. James W. Ainsley as the alternates. From the First P. M. Church Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. William Hall and the Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Butterfield will be the official delegates with Mrs. John Walmsley and James Wilde as alternates.

Thomas Rawcliffe, Mrs. Bertha Crumley and Mrs. Ada Rawcliffe, of the South P. M. Church attended the meeting of the Central district of the denomination held Wednesday at Greystone, R. I., at which preparations for the annual conference were made.

Dec. 2, 1928

BAY OF ISLANDS, NEW ZEALAND: A SPOT THE WHALEMEN KNEW

—Photos by H. S. Henderson for The Standard

April 24, 1927

BEACH AT PAIHIA—The Bay of Islands, frequently visited by the whalemen half a century ago, is one of New Zealand's most picturesque harbors.

HOT SULPHUR SPRINGS—Ngawha Springs, or sulphur springs, in the Bay of Islands district, afford a natural bath that is said to be just comfortably warm.

MAORIS AT THEIR BATH—Protected from the sun by an improvised shade, these Maoris seem to be enjoying their warm bath at Ngawha Springs, Kaikohe.

AN ISLAND CHURCH—Amidst the luxuriant foliage that covers the islands of New Zealand, the villages present a picturesque appearance. This picture shows the church at Paihia.

BULLOCK TEAM — Down the street at Kaikohe, passing the Bank of New Zealand, comes this string of oxen, pulling a small portable house.

KERIKERI FALLS—Not the least beautiful of New Zealand's natural sights, by any means, are the waterfalls. This one is at Kerikeri.

ON PLACID WATERS—Surrounded by the virgin forest, this party is enjoying a boat ride on the placid inland waters of Motu-wharangi.

A NEAR PARADISE—The famous Waitangi Falls, also known as "weeping water," is shown in this idyllic scene. The profuse foliage is shown to splendid advantage.

—Photo by Grace Le B. Cole. Mar. 27, 1927.

IN WINTER'S GRASP—The Mattapoisett river, looking south from the herring weir, presented this aspect one day just before the warm days broke winter's firm grasp.

Oct. 10, 1926.

TWO OF A NAME—It is unlikely that these two fellows would ever be mistaken for each other, except in the telephone book, but they have the same name—Howard Ames. The one on the right is a veteran horseman and dog fancier. The other recently inherited $20,000.

RESIDED HERE ALL HIS LIFE

Feb 9

John L. Galpin, 82, Was Born in New Bedford; Wed Westport Woman

28

Served in U. S. Navy in Civil War, Stationed on Ship Ada

John L. Galpin, 82, died at his home, 1360 Rockdale avenue, Saturday night. He had been ill for a little more than two months with heart disease, and that and old age caused his death.

Mr. Galpin was born in New Bedford in 1845 and had made his home here all his life. He attended the Rockdale school as a boy, and shortly after leaving school, enlisted in the United States Navy with which he served throughout the Civil war.

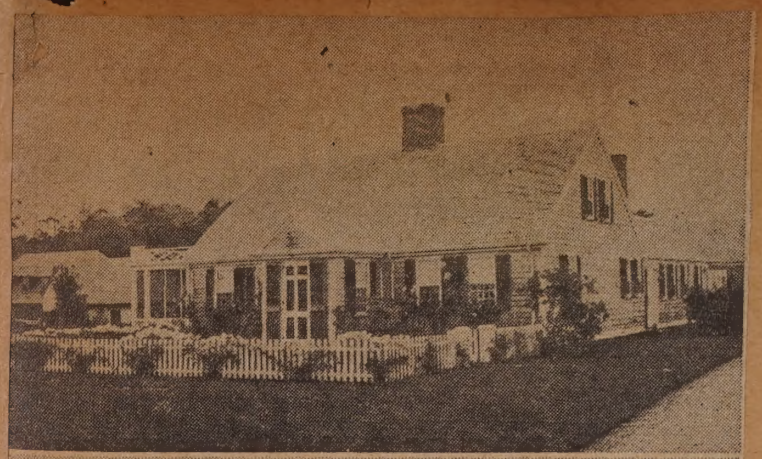
JOHN L. GALPIN.

PAUSING ON THE BEACH—Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Driscoll, New Bedford, enjoy a visit to Nantucket and pause for a moment to survey the quiet beauty of the beach. 1926.

Photo by Redfearn

CONFIRMATION CLASS — St. Andrew's church confirms large class this year.

July 3, 1927.

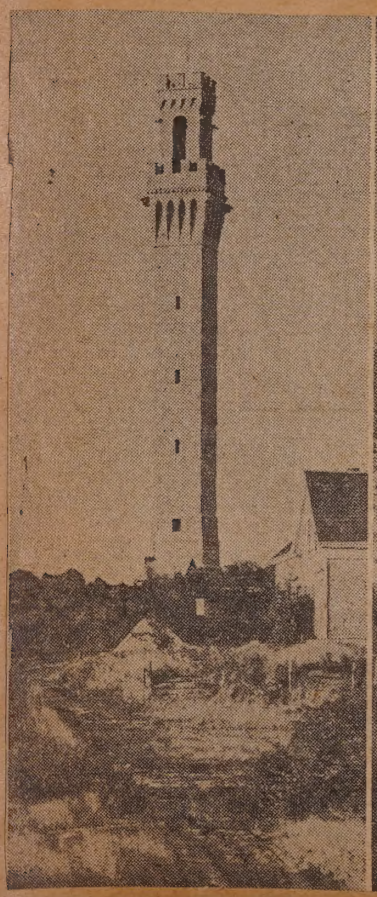


STUDENT WINS CUP

June 11-27

RUFUS A. SOULE 3D.

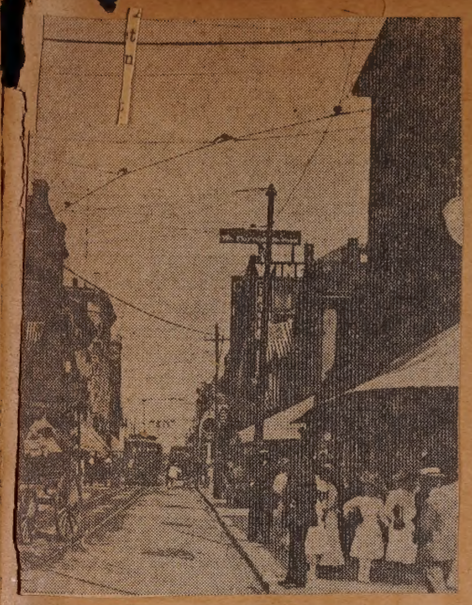
Mr. Soule, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus A. Soule Jr., 21 James street, was graduated from Tabor academy yesterday afternoon with honors. He was awarded the Hamilton Thayer cup for the best general record of the year and received the Sons of American Revolution medal for distinction in U. S. history.

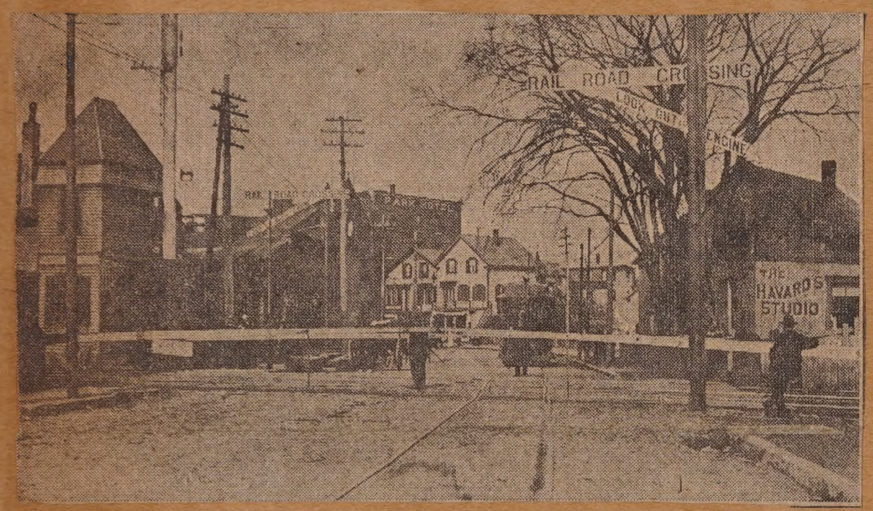


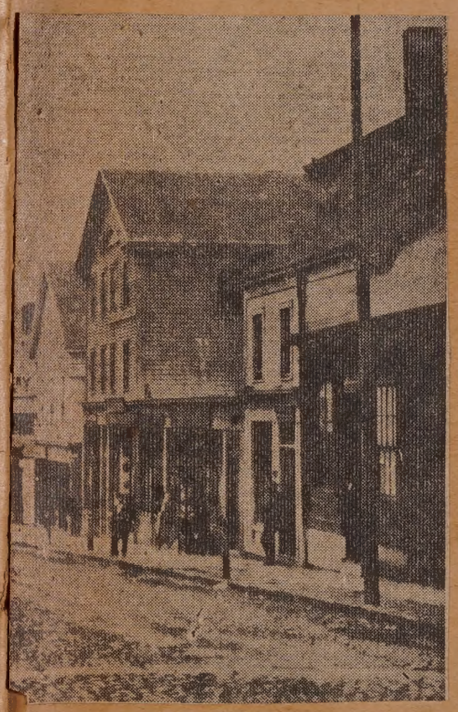
Aug. 29, 1926.

Provincetown --

Upper left—A typical Cape Cod cottage. The old homes have not been destroyed but restored in this very attractive manner. Below—Chatham Light at Chatham, Mass. Center—The majestic Pilgrim Memorial Monument. Right—A street in Provincetown.



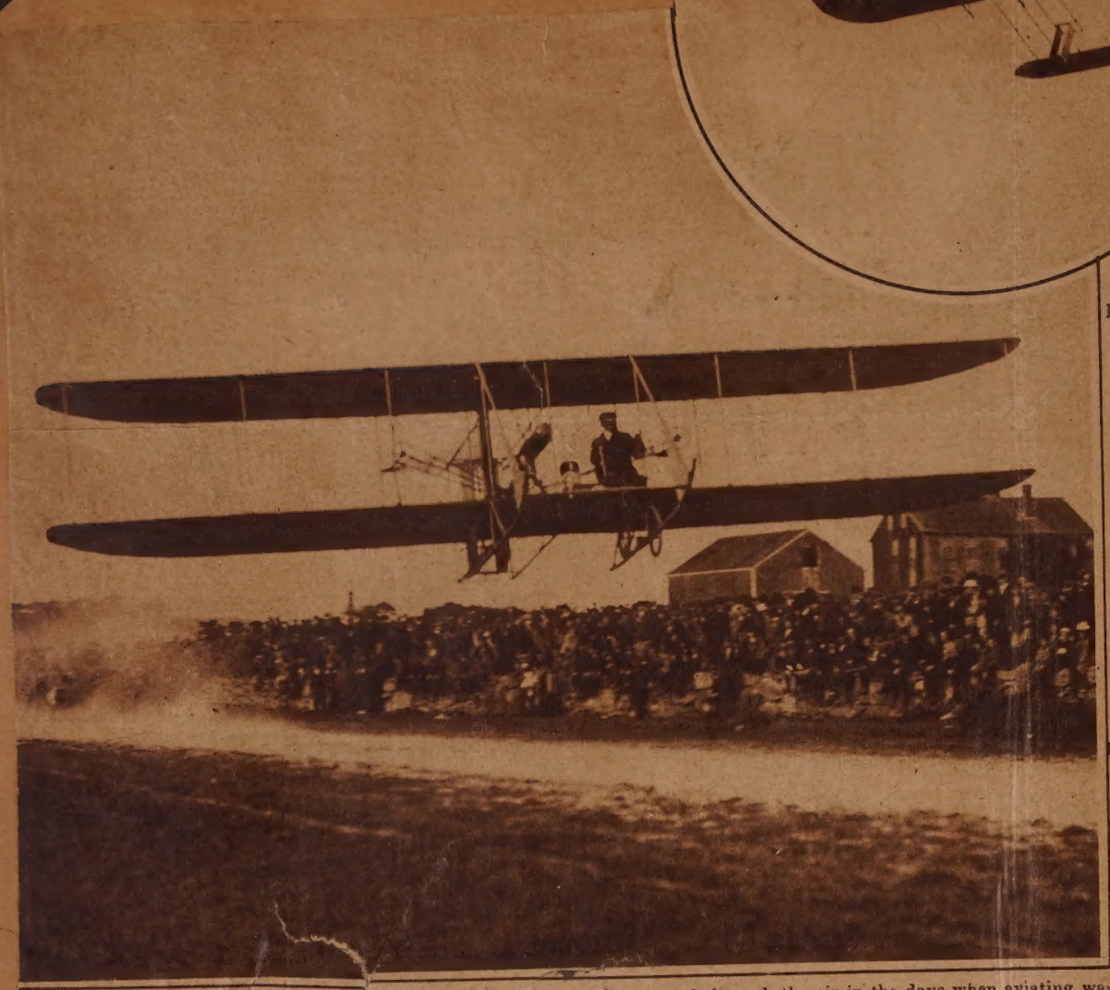




Memories of New Bedford Streets

May 23, 1926.

Above, left to right, Purchase looking north from Union; Purchase looking north from Union during old home week in 1907; Hawthorn once upon a time. Center, Weld street before the grade crossing disappeared; a busy moment at Union and Purchase. Below, Sears Court in a peaceful past; William street looking east from Purchase.

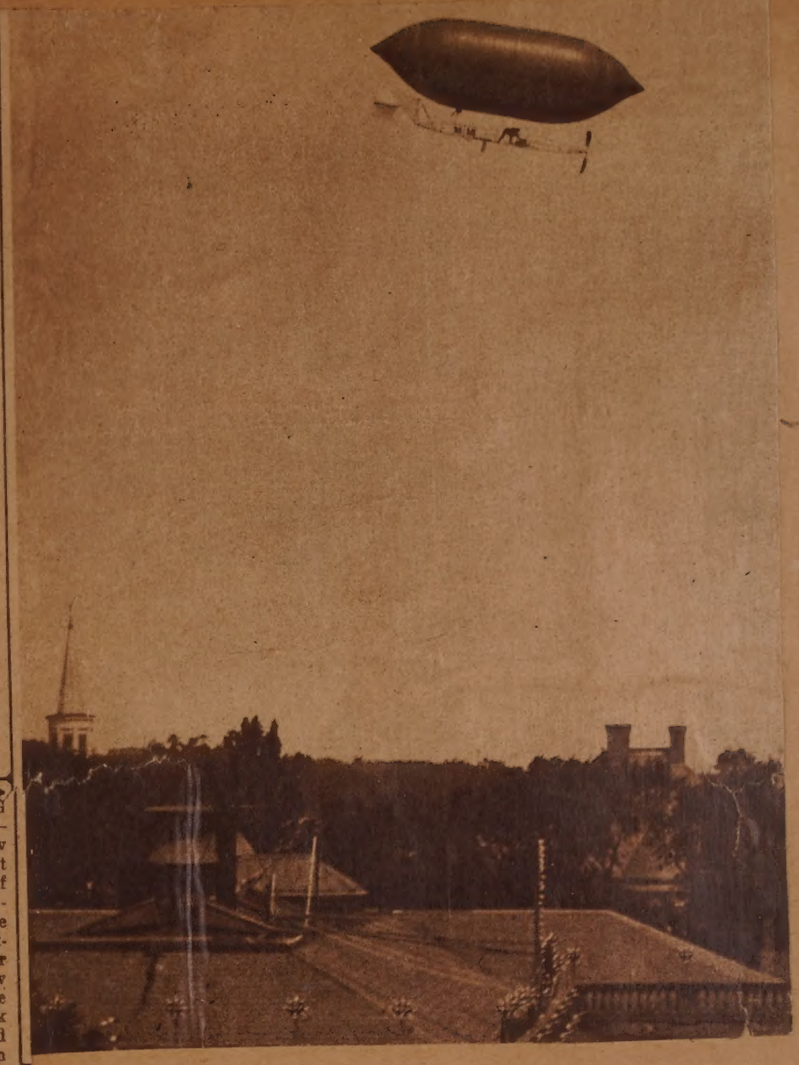


ON THE UP AND UP. Harry N. Atwood was always that way as he sailed through the air in the days when aviating was something to worry about. Hundreds watched him take off at the Old Point Road, New Bedford, in 1911.

WHEN AIRPLANES WERE NOT FOOL PROOF.

Not that they are now, but in the days when Harry N. Atwood, Boston, cut pioneer trails through the ozone, a life insurance agent wouldn't even look at an aviator. The picture shows Atwood flying over the Old Point Road here in 1911. As you may surmise, the aviator is in the cockpit, though he can not be seen. His father and grandfather were born in Carver.

THE SAILING SAUSAGE — Lincoln Beachey took a short flight, instead of a walk, after every meal. He thoroughly explored all air pockets over New Bedford and gave the natives neck strain during Old Home Week in 1907.



NEW TREASURER

ALLAN BARROWS.

TAKES CHARGE AT GOSNOLD

Allan Barrows Named Treasurer as Successor to Charles M. Holmes

Rated as Cotton Expert, Is Well Known in Manufacturing Circles

Allan Barrows has been named treasurer of the Gosnold mills, and will take active charge of the corporation Aug. 1 as successor to Charles M. Holmes, the present treasurer. Mr. Holmes tendered his resignation as treasurer some time ago, to take effect as soon as a suitable successor could be found. He announced yesterday that Aug. 1 he would turn over the active direction of the corporation's affairs to Mr. Barrows.

Allan Barrows is the son of the late John H. Barrows, treasurer of the Taunton-New Bedford Copper company and has had a long period of training in the cotton manufacturing business. He is a graduate of the New Bedford High school and of the New Bedford Textile school, and for a number of years was employed in the Holmes mill in this city, where he rose to the position of assistant superintendent.

DEANS OF GIRLS ARE APPOINTED

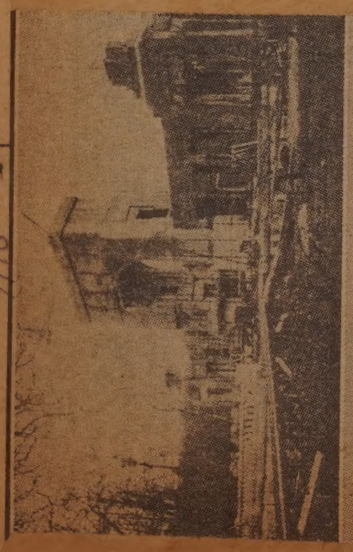
School Board Approves Keith Plan to Give Misses Shennan and Lord Special Supervision of High School Girls at Work and Play

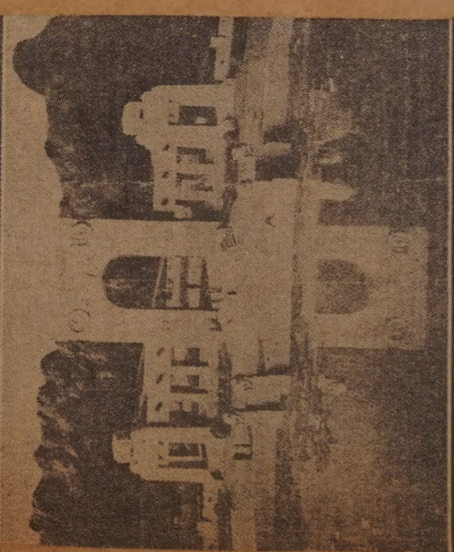
Miss Susan E. Shennan (left) and Miss Marion E. Lord (right), were appointed as deans of girls at the High school upon recommendation of Superintendent of Schools Allen P. Keith at the meeting of the School committee last evening. Miss Shennan will be dean of the academic work and Miss Lord will serve as dean of the social work. Each will give half her time to teaching and the other half to the duties of dean. Both were characterized as admirably qualified for their new posts.

Miss Shennan, who is a graduate of Radcliffe college, was awarded the degree of Master of Education by Harvard university last year. She is an instructor in the Latin department at the High school and her ability as a teacher has won wide commendation. Miss Shennan is a former president of the New Bedford College club and is prominent in its activities. She won high honors in scholarships at high school and college. Miss Lord is a graduate of Bates college and is an English instructor. She is well liked by the students and has come in contact with them at many social gatherings of the undergraduates.

Miss Lord was preceptress at Leavitt's institute, a private school at Turner, Maine, for three years. Before her appointment as a member of the New Bedford High school faculty she was head of the English department at the Westbrook, Maine, High school. She had charge of the school dramatics there. Since coming to New Bedford she has coached several high school plays and is coach in argumentation for one of the debating societies.

WHERE AIR HEROES WILL LIE





Tribute to Memory

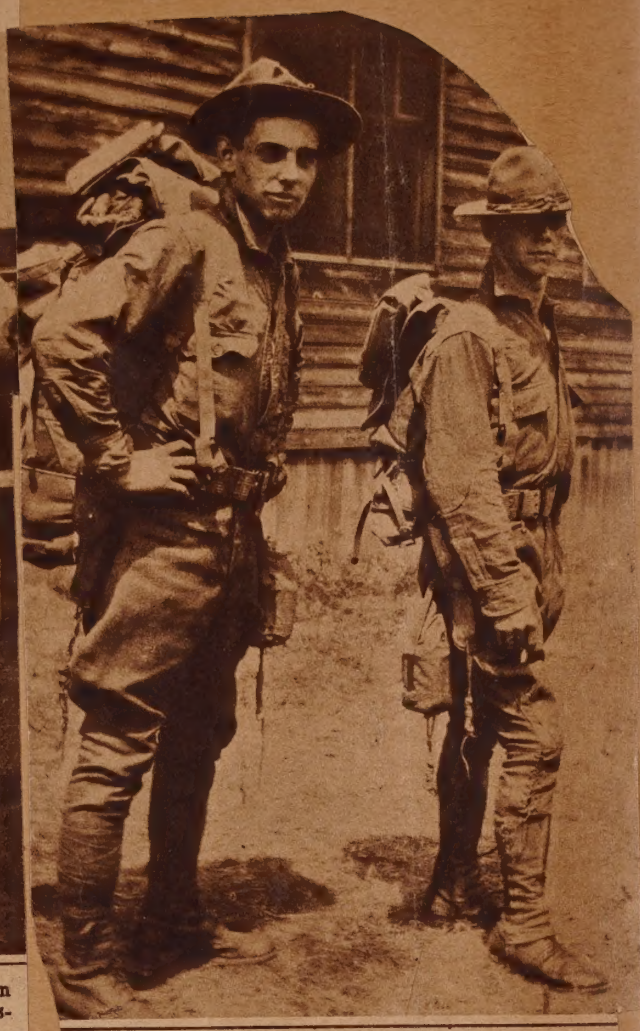
The Lafayette Escadrille memorial as it looks now (above) and how it will appear when completed (below).

NEW BEDFORD AIR HERO'S BODY TO REST IN CRYPT NEAR PARIS

Beautiful Sanctuary in Historic Parc de Villeneuve l'Etang to Be Last Resting Place of Frank Leaman Baylies, Sergeant Pilot of Lafayette Escadrille, Killed in War

BATTERY D AT SUMMER CAMP

A STURDY MOUNT—Corporal Eugene Wertzel is shown mounted on one of the artillery horses of Battery D, 101st Field Artillery, Massachusetts National Guard, at Camp Devens.



READY FOR THE FIELD—John Donahue, left, and Corporal Arthur Lewis are shown with full pack, ready for the field.

END OF THE DAY. Even the six-horse teams that draw the caissons get a little fatigued as the end of the day's drill is reached.

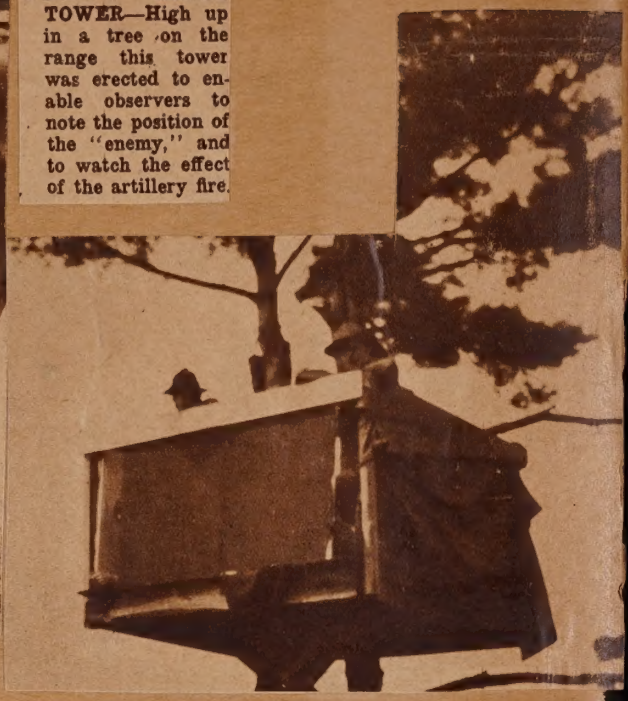
FIRING PRACTICE—This photograph shows the gun crew of the Second Section, Battery D, on the range, under the command of Sergeant John Downey.

ON BIVOUAC — In the Army, as elsewhere, men have to shave. Albert Suffern is shown, left, performing this daily task with the advisory assistance of Amos Dupuis.

"COUPLA OFFICERS"—Captain Charles F. Perry, left, and Lieutenant Charles A. Stanley are having a little talk along with a bit of a rest.

BILL" AND BILLY — Stable Sergeant William "Bill" Walsh is putting the trick horse, Billy, through some of his repertoire of equine feats.

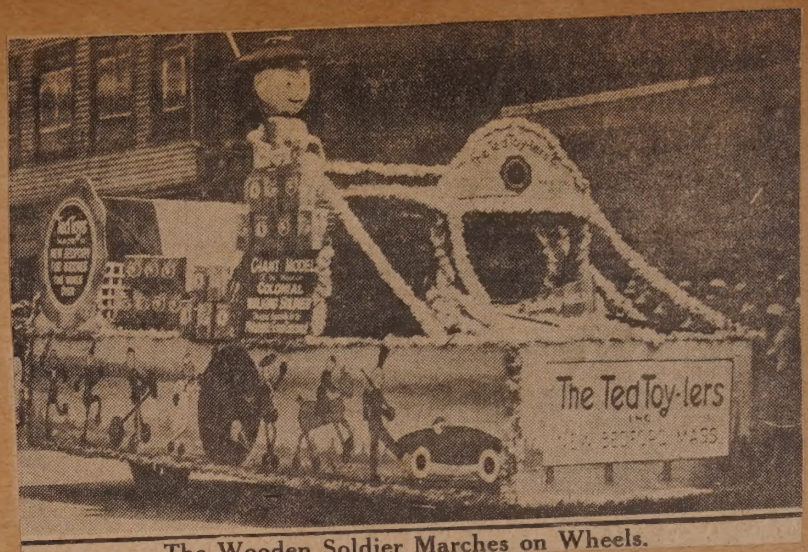
BELOW — RANGE TOWER—High up in a tree on the range this tower was erected to enable observers to note the position of the "enemy," and to watch the effect of the artillery fire.



ROMAN RIDING — Corporal Lucien Cloutier does some trick riding, mounted on a pair of splendid artillery

WATCHING 'EM HIT — Colonel Daniel Needham, left, and Major Harold Winslow are watching shells burst on a target from the vantage point of an observation tower.

Parade of July 4, 1926.

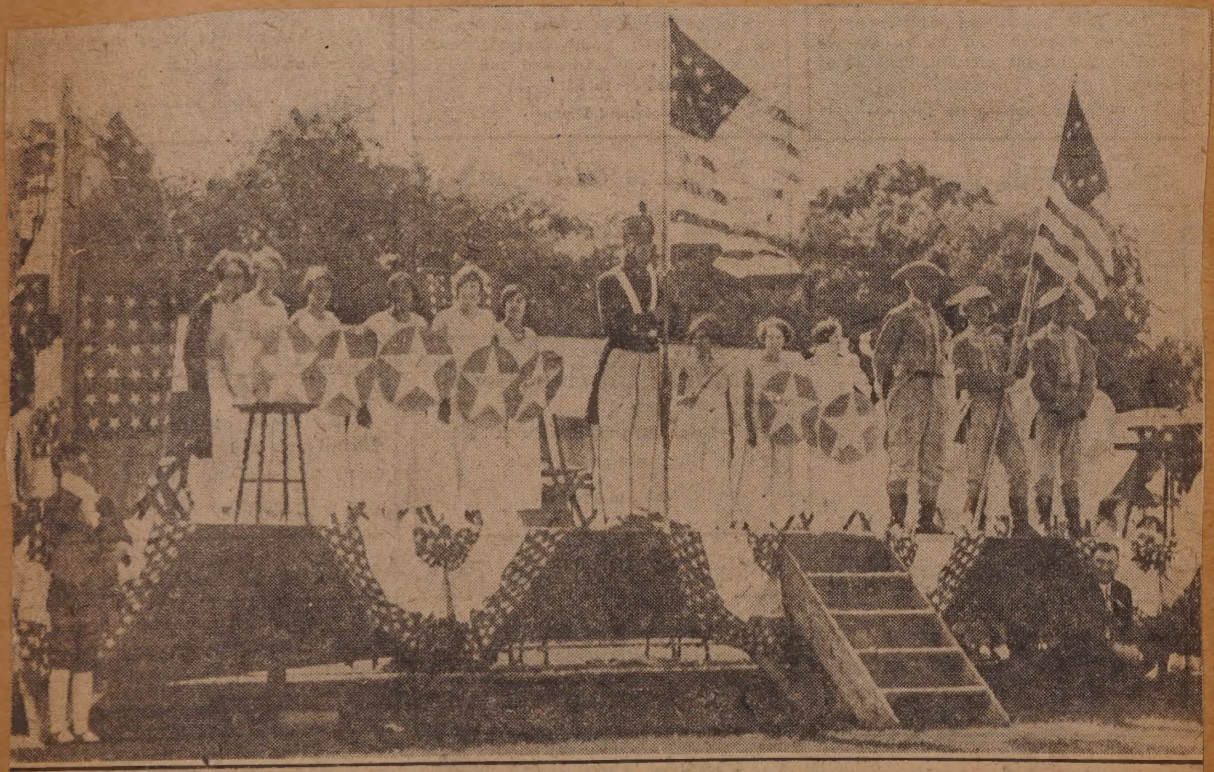


The Wooden Soldier Marches on Wheels.

Commemorating Italian Independence, 1870, as well as American, 1776.

Knowlton School Teachers' Float Symbolizes Education.

Standard Bearers in Pageant



"The Thirteen Colonies" in Pageant at Buttonwood.

Historic Figures in the Holiday Pageant.

Kiwans Club's Display of White, Gold and Blue.

Misses Louise Stubbs and Doris Nelson Head Mother Gridley Auxiliary

Former Mayor Charles S. Ashley heads Battery D Veterans.

CAMP MEETING—This shows the Warren, R. I., delegation at a Methodist camp meeting in the days of the old Marthas Vineyard Campmeeting association.

The New Bedford Almshouse.

Life at the Almshouse

1 Jan 9-27.

Upper row, left: Men's enlarged dormitory at Almshouse. Center: Chief Engineer Edward Broadbent of Almshouse, Arthur Goulart, John J. Gobell and Alfred Frigault, members of Board of Public Welfare, oversee weighing of a keg of butter. Right: Interior view of men's new recreation room. Center, left: Joseph Ellis feeds Almshouse flock of White Leghorns. Right: Exterior view of new recreation hall.

Lower row, left: Inmates assist in sawing wood. Right: Leander Ross with one of his special charges.

June 12- Miss Charlotte Bonney 1927

A post as assistant in the department of Health Education, Teachers' college, Columbia university, New York, next fall, awaits Miss Charlotte Bonney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Bonney, 241 Reed street, who received her bachelor's degree from Columbia June 1. She will go on with her studies so as to complete the requirements for an M. A. degree in February, 1928. Miss Bonney has been second assistant at an intensive training course for swimming counselors run by the Camp Directors' Association of America. She teaches swimming and canoeing at Camp Anawan, a private girls' camp on Lake Winnepesauke. She is a graduate of Children's hospital, Boston.

Miss Anna Ricketson

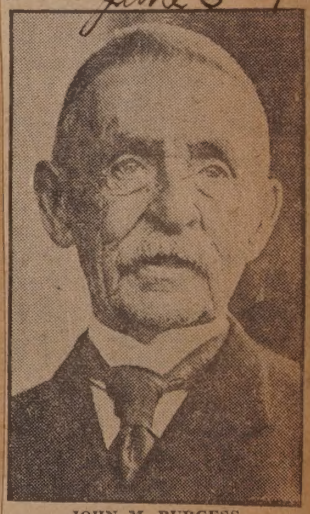
June 24 1927.

SISTER OF LATE SCULPTOR DIES

Miss Anna Ricketson, 91, Daughter of New Bedford Historian, Succumbs to Long Illness

IS 92 TODAY

June 3-27



JOHN M. BURGESS.

Mr. Burgess, 39 Foster street, who celebrates his 92d birthday today, is in good health in spite of his advanced age. One of his chief pleasures is in caring for pigeons, which flock to his home for food. He has planned no special observance of his anniversary.

PORTUGUESE JOURNALIST RECENT VISITOR

June 15- 1927

Antonio Ferro with New Bedford Men

Antonio Ferro, Portuguese journalist and author, who was a visitor last week and the early part of this week to Portuguese colonies in New Bedford and neighboring cities, is shown in the center, with Dr. John C. S. Pitta on the left and Antonio de Freitas Jr. on the right.

A SPRING BRIDE—This bridal portrait is of Mrs. Charles Weston, who before her marriage was Miss Lydia G. Bullard, 428 County street. Mr. and Mrs. Weston are in Europe on their wedding trip. May 22, 1927. —Photo by Bachrach.

WEATHERING AWAY—Encroaching sands and weathering winds deal harshly with vessels that are beached. Here is the wreck of the Basile on the south shore of Marthas Vineyard, a few years later.

CHILDREN EXPLORE HER—Provincetown youngsters delight in exploring the hold of the Annie L. dler, Nova Scotia, beached at Race Point four years ago. Until they were removed as unsafe th of the schooner provided fine swinging, too.

ATTORNEY DIES AT AGE OF 46

June 6-27

Frank L. Rogers Stricken Suddenly at His Home Sunday Night

Twice Served on School Committee; Was Last Member of Family

FRANK L. ROGERS.

This view of the beach at Oak Bluffs may be somewhat out of date, but then, apparently, so was the town's valuation of a small part of it. A Superior Court jury decided upon a price 10 times as great as the town contemplated when it seized the land for park purposes.

CAST UPON BEACH — The photograph shows the wreck of the schooner Basile, Nova Scotia, on the shore at Quinames on the south side of Marthas Vineyard, March 22, 1913.

—Photo by Birdsall.

PIONEERS — The site of the first house in Plymouth is shown in this picture.

WINS LICK FELLOWSHIP

may 12-1927

Miss Lois T. Slocum Will Study Astronomy at University of California

New Bedford Woman Is at Present Instructor at Wellesley College

Miss Lois T. Slocum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Slocum, 70 Cottage street, has received the distinguished honor of a Lick fellowship for a year at University of California, two of which fellowships are awarded each year.

Miss Slocum, who is at present an instructor in astronomy at Wellesley college, is to report July 1, at Lick observatory, Mt. Hamilton, for the beginning of her advanced studies which will occupy the first half of her year, the remaining part being spent at the University of California, Berkeley.

MISS LOIS T. SLOCUM.

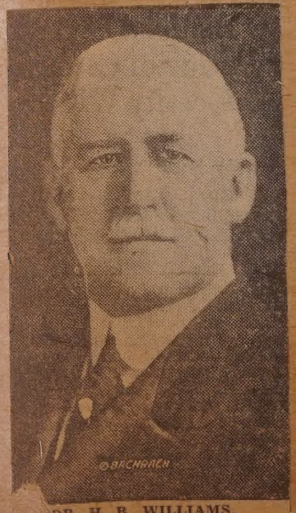
Miss Slocum is a niece of Prof. Frederick Slocum, Middletown, Conn., internationally known as an astronomer and former head of the department of nautical science, Brown university. She received her early education in this city, being graduated from New Bedford High school in the class of June, 1917. She then entered Smith college, being graduated in 1921, with the A. B. degree. She received her master's degree at Smith college commencement in June, 1924. After serving two years as assistant instructor in astronomy at Smith, in February, 1924, she was appointed instructor in the same subject. In 1925, she resigned to take a similar position at Wellesley.



DR. H. B. WILLIAMS.

DIES AT 84 AT VETERANS' HOME

1927 - July 7

Man Who Fought in Civil War Was Organist at A. M. E. Church

Musician Held All Offices but Pastor and Sexton

Thomas W. Jackson, 84 597 West Maxfield street, Civil war veteran and former organist of Bethel A. M. E. church, died Tuesday at the Civil war veterans' home in Chelsea where he had been for the last six weeks.

Mr. Jackson had been ill for 23 weeks at his home here before he became a patient at the Chelsea home.

Mr. Jackson was one of the oldest members of Bethel church and had held every office of the church except that of pastor and sexton. He was a musician, giving vocal and guitar lessons, when he was a younger man. He was the first to play the church's old reed organ when it was purchased at the close of the Civil war and when the church purchased a new organ in 1925 he was the first to play it.

THOMAS W. JACKSON.

Came Here as Boy.

Mr. Jackson was born in Boston, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jackson, and came to New Bedford when a boy. He had worked as a barber but retired about 16 years ago.

He served as a sergeant with the 54th Massachusetts regiment in the Civil war and was a member of post No. 190, G. A. R.

He is survived by his second wife, Mrs. Annabelle Jackson, a son, Ralph H. Jackson, Brooklyn, N. Y., and a brother, Enoch Jackson, Cambridge.

PHYSICIAN, LONG ILL, DIES HERE

May 22-1927

Dr. Frank H. Jordan Began Study of Medicine at Age of 28

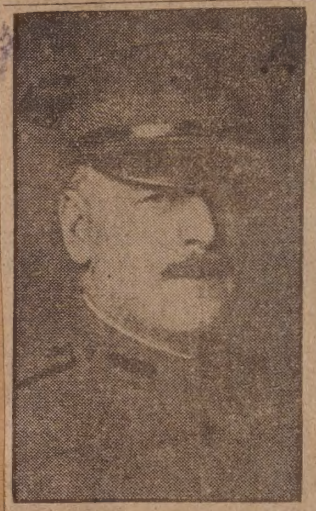
Twice Promoted in World War; Active in Fraternal Organizations

Dr. Frank Herbert Jordan, a practicing physician in this city since December, 1919, died at his residence, 439 County street, at 3:30 A. M. yesterday as a result of a complication of troubles. He had been in ill health for some time, though he had been able to be about more or less. Dr. Jordan was 68.

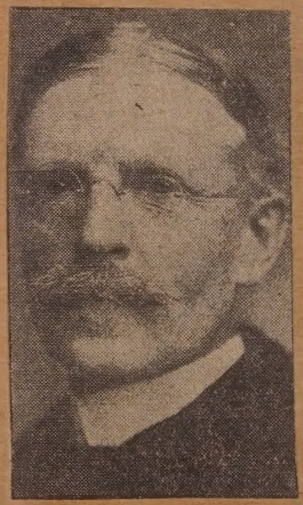
Dr. Jordan was born in Milton, Stafford County, New Hampshire, Sept. 13, 1868, the second son of George Ivory Jordan and Elizabeth A. Downs Jordan.

Leaves School at 12.

He left the public schools at the age of 12, to learn the trade of a shoemaker, continuing at this work until 24, when he decided to continue his education. He entered the New Hampshire Literary and Biblical Institute at New Hampton, N. H., completing the classical



Dr. Frank H. Jordan.



Dr. Edward Dwight Eaton

First Pastor of Pilgrim Church.

5-21-27

HEADS Y.

May 18-

Miss Lydia M. Chace Elected President by Directors of Association

Miss Lydia M. Chace was elected president of the New Bedford Young Women's Christian association by the board of directors yesterday, succeeding Mrs. G. Walter Williams. Mrs. William G. Potter is first vice president, succeeding Mrs. Willis E. Lougee. Mrs. Walter H. Underdown was re-elected second vice president; Mrs. Arthur Seabury, treasurer; Mrs. Fred R. Fish, assistant treasurer.

Miss Chace has been a member of the Y. W. C. A. board for five or six years. She is an executive of E. Anthony and Sons, Inc., publishers of The Standard.

Directors of the association, and a clerk, Mrs. Francis J. Denby, were elected at the annual meeting held last month.

Edward McD. Hamilton,

Edward McDowell Hamilton, boys' secretary and young peoples' worker at the City mission

May 14-27

Dr. H. B. Williams

Pastor of the First Baptist church.

...H BAPTIST CHURCH REOPENS

June 18-27

Remodeling Is Completed

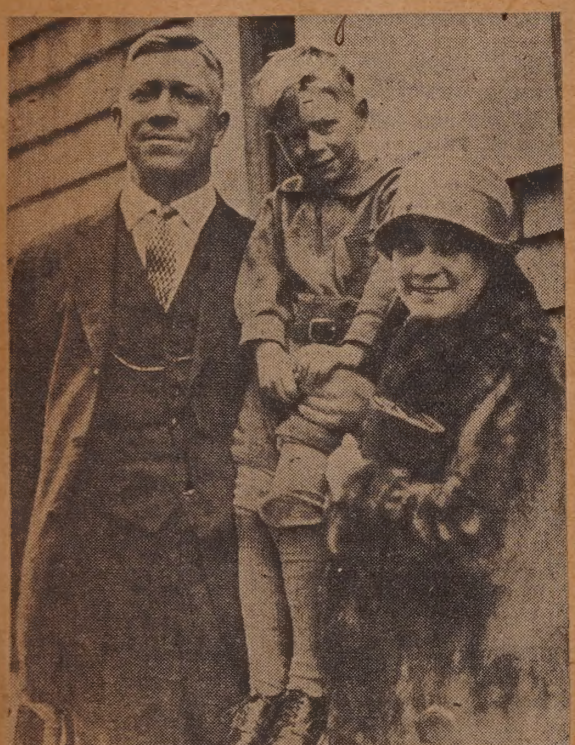
The North Baptist church, which has recently been carrying on a remodeling and redecoration program, will reopen tomorrow with special services. The photograph shows the exterior of the church, which has recently been painted and improved.

CLASS BOOK HONORS TEACHER

June 26-27

Miss Marion Lane

The New Bedford High school senior class book has been dedicated to Miss Marion Lane, teacher in the history department of the school. Miss Lane has been granted a year's absence to pursue graduate studies at Harvard.



May 1, 19 27

Starts at Howard M. E. Church

The Rev. Fred W. Knickrehm, who comes to the Howard M. E. Church from the Church of Christ, Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H., where he was assistant pastor, is shown here with his wife and son Charles, five. Mr. Knickrehm will preach his first sermon at Howard Church today.

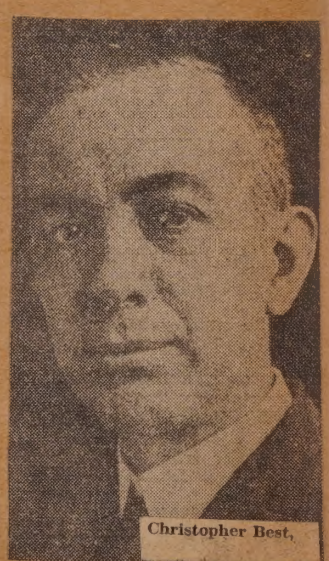
ASSISTANT TO LEAVE CHURCH

The Rev. H. J. Walter Coutu to Take Fellowship at Wisconsin

Clergyman to Pursue Studies for Doctor's Degree at University

June 1927

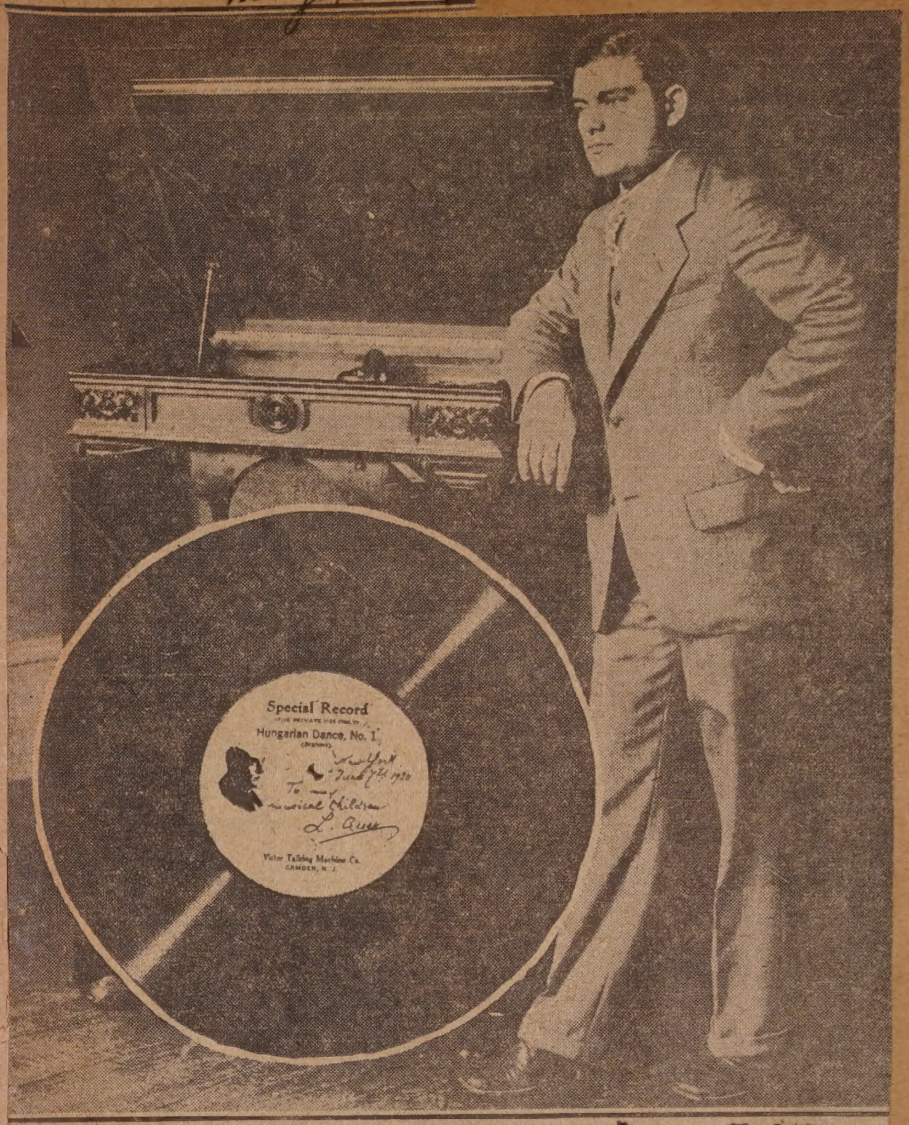
THE REV. H. J. WALTER COUTU.



Christopher Best,

YOUNG VIOLINIST

May 15 - 27



Orcha Halprin May 15, 1927

FINDS BONES IN ASSONET NECK

June 18 - 27

Professor Edmund B. Delabarre Believes Human Remains Buried in Peat Are 1,000 Years Old

Providence, June 18 (AP)—Prof. Edmund B. Delabarre, Brown university, has found human bones he believes to be 1,000 years old at Assonet Neck, Mass., it has been announced here. The bones, which are bits of human skull and leg bones, were buried under a thick layer of peat at a spot covered by water at high tide, and were grouped in an area scarcely a foot in radius. The bones, Professor Delabarre believes, may have been preserved from some prehistoric cremation, or may have been in the stomach of some predatory animal when it died.

PROFESSOR DELABARRE.

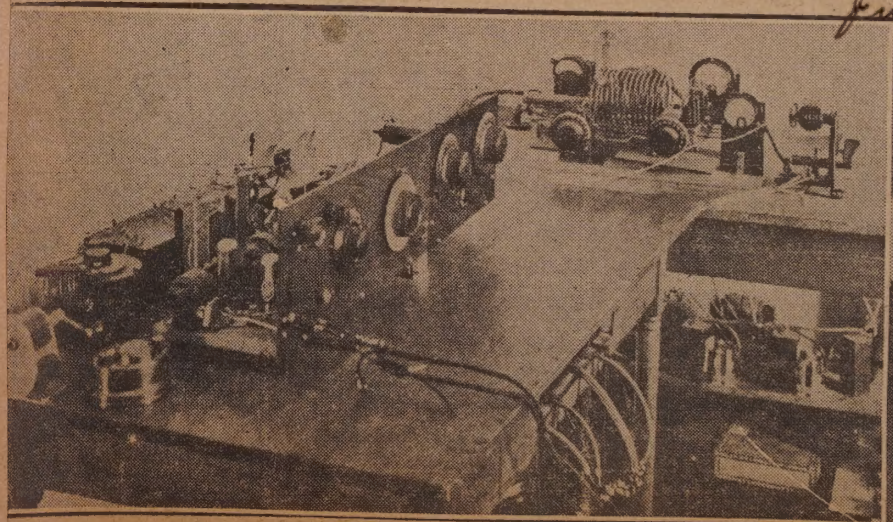
It was Professor Delabarre who last fall deciphered hieroglyphics on Dighton rock in Assonet cove as inscriptions left by the lost Portuguese navigator Miguel Cortereal, which led Portuguese savants to reaffirm their claims that there was a pre-Columbian discovery of America by a Portuguese. Cortereal, Professor Delabarre believes, became an Indian chief in his enforced exile in Narragansett bay.

COURT STENOGRAPHER IS WIRELESS AMATEUR

June 29 - 27



Talks with Many European Stations

At left, Elwin H. Hauver's powerful sending and receiving apparatus; at right, Mr. Hauver.

EDFORDITES SUN THEMSELVES AT MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

Mar-20-27

Winter Colony Attends Social Events

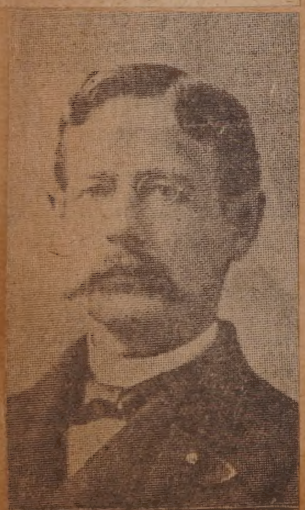
A group of New Bedfordites sunning themselves at North Beach, Miami. Reading from left to right, they are Irving A. Brown, Miss Cleone E. Bates, Mrs. J. Paul Smith, Fall River, Mrs. Walter I. Brown, Walter I. Brown and Mrs. Irving A. Brown.

FORMER PASTOR HERE IS DEAD

May 14-27

The Rev. Prentice A. Canada, 67, Stricken by Heart Attack

Was Eight Years Preacher at Middle Street Christian Church



THE REV. P. A. CANADA

ALUMNI REUNION

June 28, 1927

CHARLES E. DAVIS JR.
Re-elected Alumni Secretary-Treasurer.

MISS KATHRYN B. JUSTLEY.
Winner of Song Competition.

June 28, 1927.

June 28, 1927

C. GARDNER AKIN.
Elected to Head High School Alumni

CAPTAIN TOUCHETTE STRICKEN SUDDENLY DIES AT AGE OF 48

LOST TO FORCE

North End Police Head Is Victim of Fatal Heart Attack

Feb 20 1926

Captain Mermes E. Touhcette.

DEATH SADDENS POLICE FORCE

"Flower of Department," McLeod Characterizes Dead Captain

Officers and Men Deeply Affected by Loss of Touchette

PRESENTS HER CLAIMS

Feb 9-26

MRS. KATHERINE GILLESPIE IMBRIE of New Bedford and her husband, Major Robert W. Imbrie, who was assassinated in Persia. Mrs. Imbrie appears before a House committee in Washington today to press her claims for greater indemnity.

MRS. IMBRIE WAS RESIDENT OF THIS CITY MANY YEARS

Widow of Vice Consul Went to St. Joseph's School; Brothers Here

Mrs. Katherine Gillespie Imbrie, widow of Major Robert U. Imbrie, American vice consul who fell beneath the clubs and swords of a Persian mob, made her home in this city for many years. She attended St. Joseph's School here, later studying at Boston University. For several years Mrs. Imbrie was an assistant buyer at Filene's in Boston. In 1919 she went to Basra, Turkey, as director of a Near East Orphna Asylum. There more than 500 refugee children were under her care. In 1922 she was married to Major Imbrie at the Chapel of the Benedictine Monks in Constantinople.

Mrs. Imbrie has two brothers in this city, Eugene H. Gillespie and John R. Gillespie. A sister is Sister Mary Borgia, Mount St. Mary convent, Fall River.

MISS HILDA COOK TO BE

Feb

Engagement of Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving W. Cook to Allan C. Steele Is Announced at Tea Given for Her Wheaton College Schoolmates

The engagement of Miss Hilda Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving W. Cook, 264 Hawthorn street, to Allan C. Steele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Steele, 3 Stetson street, was announced yesterday afternoon at a tea given by Miss Cook to a large gathering of her schoolmates at Wheaton College, Norton.

Miss Cook, who is a senior at Wheaton, was graduated from New Bedford High School with the class of 1922. Mr. Steele was graduated from New Bedford High School in 1921 and later studied at Wentworth Institute. He is in the employ of the J. W. Bishop Company.

may 17-27

Veteran Trolley Worker Served More Than 31 Years as Motorman

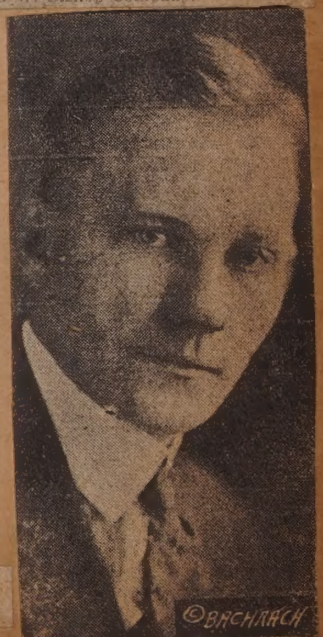
Death of

CHARLES A. MERROW.

June 18. 27

REV. JOSEPH HOLDEN.

Pastor of the South Primitive Methodist church.



6-11-27

Rev. R. Walter Anderson

Presbyterian Church.

TYPICAL SCENE—This photograph of the water's edge at Edgartown, Marthas Vineyard, shows a typical winter view. The colorful scene of summer, when sky, land and sea are bright and attractive, has given way to the sternness of black and white and gray. Feb. 27, 1927.

Here is the first hotel at Oak Bluffs, on Marthas Vineyard. The photograph is said to have been taken in 1870 or 1871.

WHERE FISHERMEN MEET—A congregating place for the fishermen of Provincetown, both active and retired, is the Sandbar club, headquarters of which are shown here. Captain William J. Wolff, oldest sea captain in the town, is near the center of the picture.

—Photo by Birdsall.

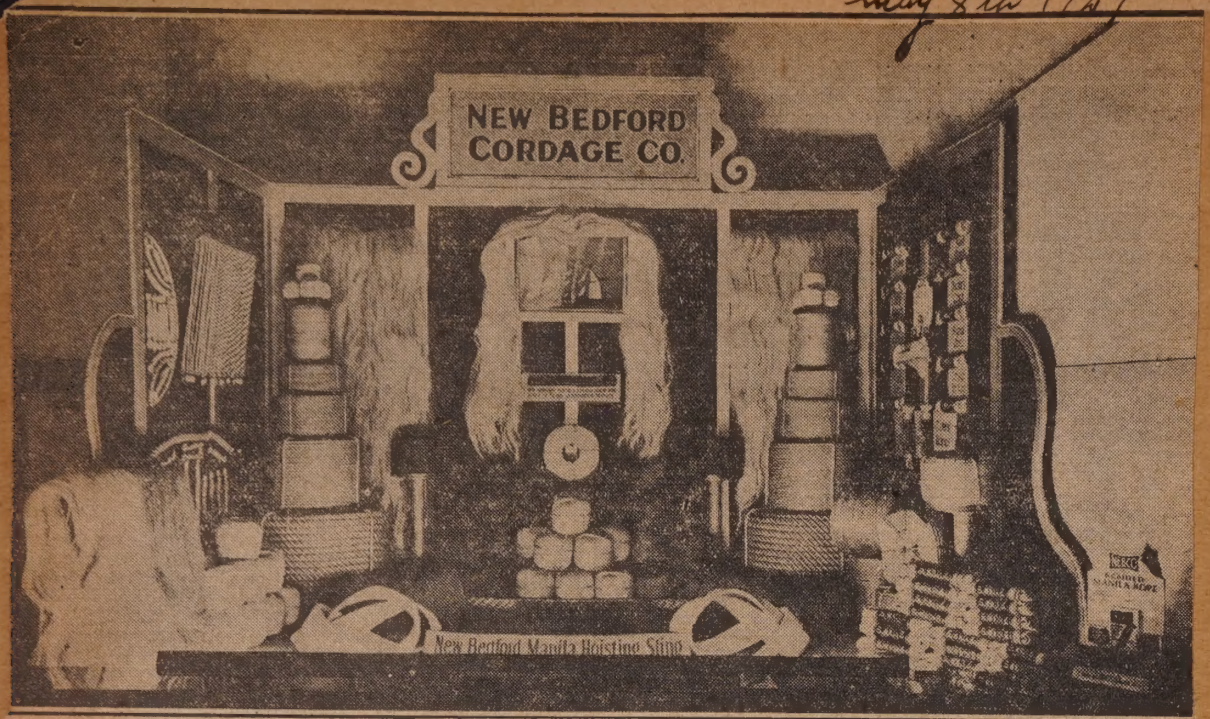
OVER THE HILLS TO GRANDFATHER'S HOUSE.—Like the horse in the poem, "Alice Mack," driven by Abner Potter and owned by James F. Smith, champed at the bit and fretted in her anxiety to be over the flakes and into the open country. The photo was taken in January, 1916.

—Photo by Bachrach.

RECENT PORTRAIT—Mrs. Winston R. Hindle, the former Miss Eleanor Gage Potter, is shown in a recent portrait. Mr. and Mrs. Hindle live in Padanaram. May 22, 1927.

...DUCTS OF NEW BEDFORD CORDAGE COMPANY ON DISPLAY

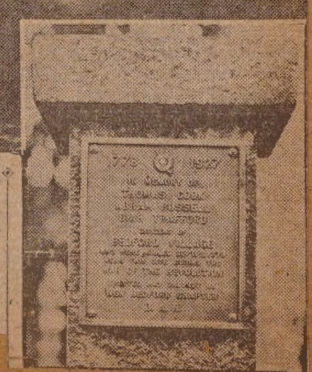
may 8th 1927



At First National Bank

New Bedford's only makers of hard-fibre cordage open this exhibit of their wares at the First National Bank for two weeks beginning tomorrow.

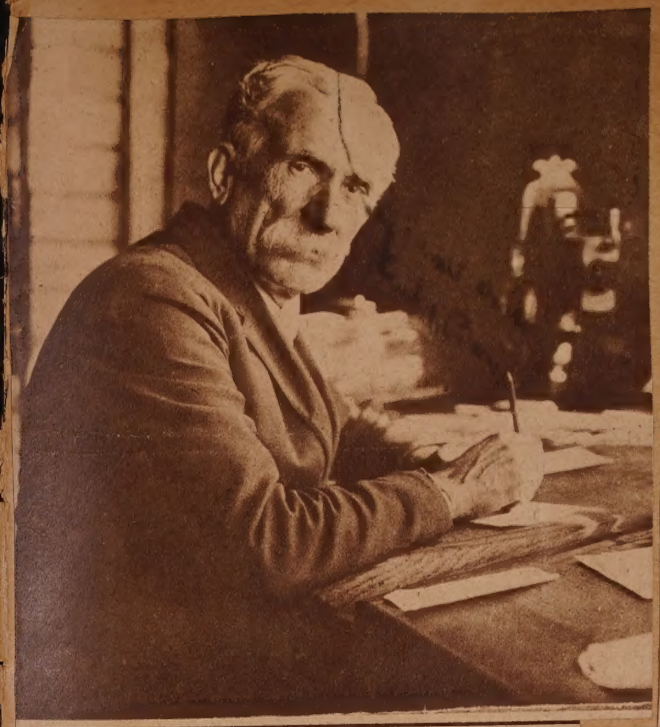
TABLET COMMEMORATES BEDFORD VILLAGE MARTYRS



D. A. R. Chapter Dedicates Bronze Marker

on may 25 1927

A bronze tablet commemorating the patriotism of the first three citizens of Bedford Village to fall when the British invaded Bedford in 1778 was dedicated yesterday afternoon by New Bedford chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The tablet has been placed on a stone post on the William O. Devoll property at North and County streets, the site of the engagement. The picture shows a group of D. A. R. members standing beside the tablet. Mrs. George J. Dodge, regent of the chapter, stands directly at right of post. Mrs. E. Stanley Swift, chairman of committee on preservation of historic spots, who participated in the exercises, is the second figure from left of the post. She is standing beside Mrs. W. H. Chapin. Insert shows the tablet as it is set on the stone corner post.



HE MAKES WEIGHING AN ART—For 38 years, Thomas E. Day, 76 Mill street, who recently celebrated his 60th birthday, has weighed coal for the David Duff Coal Company's Fish Island Office. Nov. 8, 1925

ALLEN STREET RESIDENCE SOLD

May 22-27

A. Frank Clark House

CLARK HOUSE SOLD

Dr. Fausto Lage Buys Allen Street Property

The A. Frank Clark residence, north side of Allen street, facing Dartmouth street, has been sold by the executors of the estate to Dr. Fausto Lage, who will make it his residence. While no price is stated, there has been the report that the property sold for $18,000.

This is a 12-room house, built for the late Thomas B. Tripp, and the property as Mr. Clark acquired it included a large lot of land. The executors have sold 35.50 rods of land with the house, retaining a considerable tract east of the house. The extension of Orchard street has been proposed from its present terminus south of Bedford street to Allen street, and in the event the street is extended, it will go through this property retained by the executors of the Clark estate. The Board of Aldermen will view the proposed extension on the next visiting trip.

UNION NAVY VETERAN DIES

May 25 1927

Albert Henry Pollock, 83, Succumbs After Cerebral Hemorrhage

Has Been in Ill Health Since Six Years Ago, When He Suffered Shock

Albert Henry Pollock, 83, a Civil war veteran and member of G. A. R. post, No. 190, died Sunday night at his home. He suffered a shock six years ago and had been in ill health since. Last Christmas he fell and bruised his back in such a manner that he was unable to lie down and had slept in an easy chair since his fall.

Friday night at 9, Mr. Pollock reclined into his chair and began reading a book as he often did, so that a little later, his wife, Mrs. Eliza H. Lush Pollock, thought nothing was wrong when she found him seemingly fast asleep with the book on the floor nearby. She went to bed and Saturday morning found him in the same position. When she brought breakfast to him and he did not rouse, she called Dr. Charles A. Pratt, who found that Mr. Pollock had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and that death would come in a few hours. Mr. Pollock died Sunday night without recovering consciousness.

ALBERT HENRY POLLOCK.

Mr. Pollock was born in this city and, when he was 14, sailed as a cabin boy on a New Bedford whaler. He made one trip and, on his return, found all his old friends gone to the Civil war, so he too enlisted in the Navy. He served as a seaman on the U. S. Hartford, flagship of the Asiatic squadron. After his three months enlistment had elapsed, he remained and served three more years. At the time he left he had risen to the rank of petty officer.

He entered the revenue service after his honorable discharge from the Navy. Later he became an iron molder at the old Edmond Grinnell foundry on Water street and then worked at the Swift foundry on First street. This last place was his final employment, as he retired at 70.

Mr. Pollock was one of the first members of the Independent Boat club and his boat, the Eliza H., named after his wife, won many prizes in races here.

He is survived by his widow, who is 73, a half brother, John Pollock, Los Angeles, Cal., two nieces, Mrs. Grace Dunn and Mrs. Mabel Hartley, Padanaram, and two nephews, Edgar W. Russell, Fairhaven, and Edmund A. Pollock, this city.

FAMILY REUNION ORGANIZER DIES

July 2-27

George L. Randall Was Author of Genealogical Works --- Interested in Work Through Aunt

George L. Randall, 62, author of many genealogy books and secretary for family reunions held in this vicinity, died about 11 A. M., yesterday following a three years illness. He had made his home at 300 Acushnet avenue for the last six years.

For about 25 years, Mr. Randall has been arranging family reunions and solving genealogical puzzles. He had an aunt who wanted to possess a family tree and he became interested in the work. He decided to go into the business and thought the best way to go about it was to arrange family reunions.

GEORGE L. RANDALL.

After acting as secretary for many family reunions in this vicinity, Mr. Randall was commissioned to prepare genealogies for families and had continued this until illness prevented him from working.

Mr. Randall was the corresponding secretary of the American Randall family which includes Randall descendants from all of North America.

He was born in Rochester and had spent the major part of his life in New Bedford. He was a charter member and one of the founders of the New Bedford Grange, a member of the International Order of Good Templars, and for 14 years was treasurer of the Bristol district lodge No. 9, Good Templars. Mr. Randall was a spiritualist.

He is survived by one son, George, New Bedford.

STYLES OF YESTERYEAR—Officers and employes of the R. A. Mc Whirr company, Fall River, "dressed up" for its 50th anniversary. Left to right: Mrs. William H. Fournier, James Greggan, Mrs Richard S. Thompson, Richard S. Thompson, secretary-treasurer Miss Margaret McWhirr, Asa A. Mills, president; Mrs. James H Mahoney, James H. Mahoney, vice president; Mrs. Harriet Mc Kenzie, and J. Edward Bannister. June 5, 1927

—Oki Seizo Photo

MISS VIRGINIA SEABURY — Miss Seabury is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Seabury, 216 Hawthorn street.

May 27, 1927.

NEW CURATE

Dec 1-27

THE REV. TEOFILO P. OLIVEIRA. The Rev. Father Oliveira arrived here Friday and began his new duties as curate at the Mt. Carmel church, assisting the pastor, the Rev. Antonio P. Vieira. Father Oliveira was ordained two years ago and comes here from St. Michaels, Azores.

BREAKS THIGH

Nov. 18 27

Francis Woodward, Retire Cotton Broker, Seriously Ill at Hospital

Francis Woodward, 78, 197 Cottage street, retired cotton broker, is on the danger list at St. Luke's hospital today in consequence of a fall suffered Monday in which he fractured a thigh bone. The accident occurred in the washroom of the Wamsutta club. It was stated at the hospital this morning that Mr. Woodward had suffered a turn for the worse in the night.

Mr. Woodward was a partner in the brokerage firm of Rhodes, Woodward and company, which discontinued business two years ago.

CLUB HEADQUARTERS—This venerable house in Marion, interesting both for its age and its beauty, is the home of the Sippican Woman's club, Marion. July 10, 1927.

1927.

—Wide World Photo

HISTORICAL CAPE COD—This old water wheel mill at Brewster, on the Herring brook in that town, is the one in operation on the Cape. This mill, dating back to Revolutionary times, is generating electric power.

George T. Ferguson, New Bedford High School.
June 20, 1926.

ONE OF THE FIRST FLYERS — Walter Rhino, Vineyard Haven, was one of the first aviators of this vicinity. He served in the World war in the famous Lafayette Escadrille, and lost his life in the conflict.

—Oki Seizo Photo.

MISS ELIZABETH READ—Miss Read is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Read, 163 Hawthorn street. Mar. 27, 1927.

Photo by George H. Atwood

Old Herring brook, Brewster.

—Oki Seizo Photo

MRS. EDMUND ANTHONY —Mr. and Mrs. Anthony reside at 12 Lincoln street. Mar. 27, 1927.

EARLY COTTON MILL—This old structure, on the site of which a park is planned, housed one of Fall River's first cotton mills. Little but spinning was at first done here, the cotton being distributed to housewives for picking and returned to them for weaving after it had been spun.

June 5, 1927.

EDITOR DIES

Oct 11 27

QUIRINO de SOUZA.

DEVOTED LIFE TO NEWSPAPERS

Quirino de Souza, Poet and Playwright, Is Dead at Age of 58

Was Author of Several Books, Some of Plays Produced in This City

Quirino de Souza, 58, who for more than 30 years has been engaged in newspaper work in New Bedford, died at 9:15 Sunday morning at his home, 20 Windsor street, following a heart attack.

Mr. De Souza worked as usual Saturday morning at the office of O Independente, Portuguese newspaper on which he was employed as an editor, but complained somewhat of a pain in his side.

Early Sunday morning, he suffered a severe attack from which he died.

Was Poet and Playwright.

As poet, critic, and playwright, Mr. De Souza was well known to the members of the Portuguese colony here, in which he was one of the oldest newspaper men, in point of service. He was the author of several books, one of which, a volume of verse, was called As Facas de Ouro (The Knives of Gold). Some of his plays have been presented in New Bedford.

Born in Lisbon, Portugal, Mr. De Souza followed newspaper work practically all his life. At various times he was employed on several of the Portuguese newspapers published here. He spent a number of years on O Independente before its ownership changed within the last few years, and had been employed under the new owner for about a year at the time of his death.

FLAGS OF ALL WARS—Banners of the major military conflicts in which the United States has engaged were borne at Buttonwood park Independence day a year ago. Left to right: Frank D. Sylvia, World war; George H. Walker, Spanish-American war; George Alden, G. A. R. Post 190 commander, and Nahum F. Nickelson, G. A. R. Post 1 commander, Civil war; H. A. Manchester, war of 1812; and John Burgess, Fairhaven, Revclutionary war. July 3, 1927.

JOINS COTTON FIRM
Apr 29, 28

John C. Shaw Jr., to Return to New Bedford as Cotton Merchant

John C. Shaw Jr., for many years identified with the cotton trade of New Bedford and New England, will soon join Foley, Rogerson and company, cotton merchants of New Bedford and Boston. He will become a partner in the firm, it is understood and will make his headquarters in New Bedford, returning to this city to live.

Mr. Shaw was in the cotton business in New Bedford for a number of years, being for some time the New Bedford agent of S. M. Weld and company, and later having a cotton business of his own, which he closed out several years ago to enter the chemical and dye business, becoming New England agent for a large manufacturer of such products for use in the textile industry.

Paper of July 24, 1927.

—Photo by Lowe

VENISON FOR DINNER—Mayor Ashley and prominent French people of New Bedford gathered at Sniptuit pond about a dozen years ago to partake of a venison dinner, when John Ricard killed a deer. Among those present were Stanislaus Desautels, Rodolphe Carrier, Napoleon Ricard, Alphonse Perrault, Prudent LeBeau, Alphonse Query, Arthur Balthazar and Dr. S. A. Lamoureux.

EXPIRES AT 19

NOV 30 '29
ALBERT LUCIAN LAMARRE.

DIES IN WEST OF APPENDICITIS

A BOY WITH THE REST OF THEM—Charles S. Kelley isn't averse to a bit of boyish fun, now and then, as all his friends know. This is the way they shot off firecrackers when he was a lad, and, for safety's sake, he still fires 'em this way, when the Fourth of July comes around.

July 3, 1927.

—Photo by Lowe

OUT FOR A GOOD TIME — Members of the Plymouth club were caught by the camera while they were on an outing about 20 years ago at Fairhaven. 1927-20=1907

DIES SUDDENLY

Dec 16 27

FRANK P. LAUGHLIN.

DEPUTY HEART ATTACK VICTIM

Frank P. Laughlin, 41, Dies Suddenly in Early Morning at Home

Officer Who Was Married but 20 Months Ago Held Post 16 Years

Frank P. Laughlin, 41, for 16 years deputy sheriff of Bristol county, died suddenly from a heart attack at his home, 93 Hazard street, at 2 A. M. today. Apparently in the best of health yesterday and up to an hour before he was stricken, Mr. Laughlin's death came as a distinct shock to his family.

The deputy sheriff was at work yesterday as usual. He had supper downtown last night, Mrs. Laughlin said. About 1 this morning he got up from bed, his wife said, and was apparently feeling in good health. Shortly before 2, the sudden attack came and he died within a few moments.

Attended Schools Here.

Mr. Laughlin was born in this city, Sept. 16, 1886, the son of Patrick and Catherine Laughlin. He attended the schools here, and while still a young man received appointment as deputy sheriff.

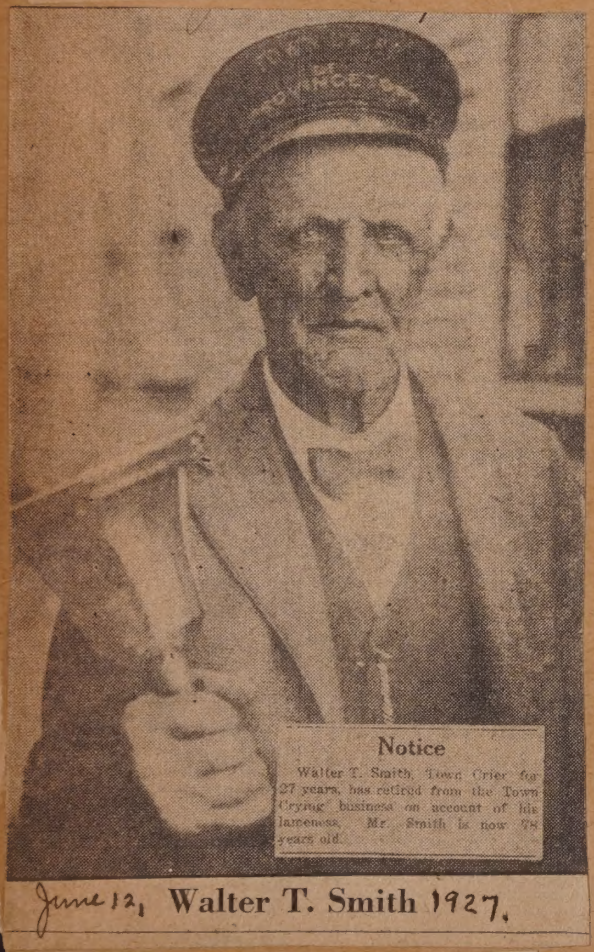
Mr. Laughlin was married, Easter Monday morning, April 3, 1926 to Miss Helen L. Mahoney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mahoney, 155 Princeton street, at St. Kilian's church by the Rev. James J. Brady.

He was a communicant of Holy Name church, a fourth degree Knights of Columbus, and a member of the Deputy Sheriffs' association.

Surviving are his widow, his parents, a brother, William Laughlin, Waltham; and a sister, Miss Mary Laughlin, this city.

1927. —Redfearn Photo

ON ANNUAL OUTING—Alumni of New Bedford Textile school are shown on their annual outing, held this year at Sylvan Grove.



Notice

Walter T. Smith, Town Crier for 27 years, has retired from the Town Crying business on account of his lameness. Mr. Smith is now 78 years old.

June 12, Walter T. Smith 1927.

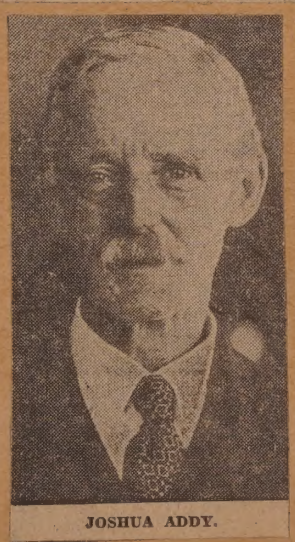
Last Town Crier

Province-town Functionary for 27 Years

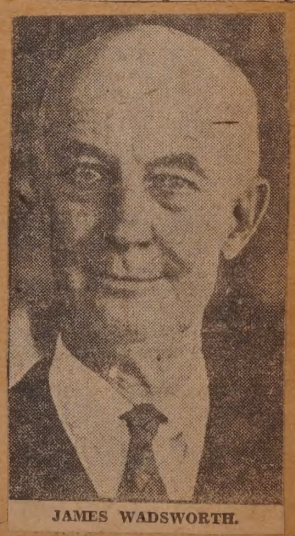
VETERAN PRINTERS END LONG SERVICE ON THE STANDARD

James Wadsworth, for 54 Years, and Joshua Addy, Linotyper, 46 Years in Trade, Receive Gifts from Fellow Workmen After Hearing Their Last "Time" Called

Two printers of the old school emptied their last galleys and laid down their type gauges for the last time in the composing room of The Standard at 3:45 yesterday afternoon. June 19, 1927



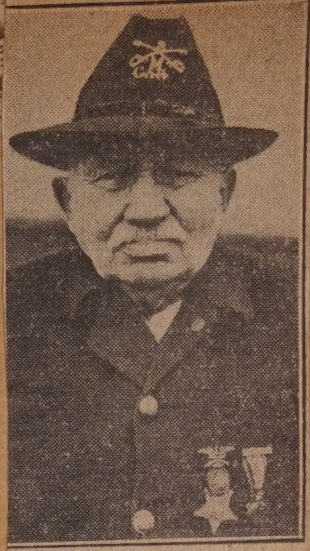
JOSHUA ADDY.



JAMES WADSWORTH.

OCTOGENARIAN

Nov 6. 28



WILLIAM H. BRYANT.

Mr. Bryant, 75 Fort street, Fairhaven, celebrated his 80th birthday Monday. He is a brother of County Commissioner John I. Bryant and makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. John Karl. He donned his Civil war uniform yesterday in celebration of the anniversary.

VENERABLE CHURCH — This old church at Sandwich has stood for many years, one of the centers of community life. It is to be remodeled and used by the Masons for a meeting place.

June 5, 1927.

OLD SEA VIEW HOUSE—Another large mecca for summer visitors on the sands of Oak Bluffs.

GENERAL STORE — In these days of specialization, even in grocery stores, the old time general store would be a revelation. One could purchase anything and everything needed for housekeeping.

BOARD WALK An excellent view of the famous bathing beach and walk at Oak Bluffs.

1927.

ON A SPREE—The employes of the street department held an outing recently at Perry's grove. In the picture, left to right, are: Edward D. Hayden, 1890; George P. Borden, 1907; David Allard, 1907; Manuel Ferriera, 1906; Patrick P. Reardon, 1891; Govanni DePiro, 1912; James P. Meaney, 1919; Joseph Frasur, 1890; Elijah Knox, 1912; Xavier Jeffries, 1900; William H. Chase, 1895; Joseph H. Gero, 1907; Patrick Gordon, 1914; John Quinn, 1904; James Damzell, 1893; Joseph P. Sylvia, 1890; John Gifford, 1890; John DeS. Machado, 1906; Charles E. Hoarde, 1890; Manuel Perriera, 1896; Michael Leary, 1912, and William L. Deasey, 1912. Photo above at left shows second oldest street employe, Joseph P. Sylvia, Mill and Beech street, who has been with the Street department for the past 37 years.

ISLAND HOUSE—One of the large hotels at Oak Bluffs.

TABERNACLE — A view of a Marthas Vineyard camp meeting.

CAMP MEETING— A large group of enthusiastic persons are seen in one of the famed tabernacles on the island.

FOND MEMORIES — This picture of the Old Sea View wharf and antiquated railroad train with the side wheeler, Monohansett, in the background, will bring back memories to those who visited the island years ago.

—Photo by Howard M. Wood.

ON VINEYARD SOUND—Harleck's Pond, one of the beauty spots of Marthas Vineyard, affords this outlook on Vineyard Sound. It is situated on the north side of the island.

RETAIL PAINT MERCHANT DIES

Dec 7 - 1927

Thomas B. Norris, 61, Was Charter Member of Art Club Here

Was Ill for Week; Painted Landscapes in His Younger Days

Thomas B. Norris, 61, for many years in the retail paint supply trade in this city died at his home, 33 Keene street, about 5 P. M., Monday, after nearly a week's illness.

Mr. Norris suffered a slight shock while at his place of business, 738 Pleasant street, last Tuesday afternoon and failed to recover. His death was attributed to embolism.

Born in Bristol.

Mr. Norris was born in Bristol, R. I., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Norris, and came to New Bedford when he was about 20. For some years he lived in Chicago, doing work as a pastel artist. After some time spent in painting, he engaged in newspaper work and finally came back to New Bedford about 29 years ago.

THOMAS B. NORRIS.

He was for 17 years connected with the F. T. Akin company and in March, 1916 opened his own paint shop at 738 Pleasant street. He later extended his paint and painters' supply business to include hardware.

Mr. Norris was a charter member of the New Bedford Art club and was deeply interested in art. Although he had not painted much recently, in his younger days he was particularly interested in painting landscapes.

Mr. Norris was a member of the New Bedford Board of Commerce, the Square and Compass club, Star in the East lodge, A. F and A. M., and Dartmouth Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. He attended the First Universalist church.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Amy Norris, he is survived by a son, Thomas Lee Norris, New Bedford; a brother, Charles Norris, Westerly, R. I., and two aunts, Mrs. Fred Damon, New Bedford, and Mrs. Henry Shepard, Everett.

Mrs. O. H. Robertson and Children

June 5, 1927

Photographs show Mrs. O. H. Robertson, wife of Dr. O. H. Robertson, recently of Peking, and their three sons, who are already at home at their grandmother's place in Westport, although their feet first touched American soil in Boston a week ago. With their mother they are, left to right, Donald, 4½; Robert, 2½, and Allan, 7½. On the right the boys, with Allan in the middle, show some of their Chinese clothing and a sunshade.

At Woods Hole Now

The Wyanda, mother ship of the Nantucket Coast Guard base, which yesterday moved up to Woods Hole. Lieutenant, junior grade, Charles W. Lawson, former commander of Base 3 at Nantucket, who becomes executive officer of Base 18 at Woods Hole.

The Rev. Herbert M. Hainer, North Christian Church, First Minister Here, to Put Markers on Car—Tags Correspondent to Physicians

May 26, 1927

The Rev. Herbert M. Hainer, pastor of North Christian church, is the first minister of this city to obtain the special clergyman's automobile plates recently authorized by the state.

The plates, showing a cross surmounting the two hemispheres, are placed beside the automobile licenses and correspond in purpose to the physician's automobile plates. The cross and hemispheres of the clergyman's plate are in white against a background of blue.

SOLOISTS WITH NEW BEDFORD CHORISTERS

about 4-26

Miss Gladys Carroll

VETERAN DIES AT AGE OF 83

Dec-3-27

Charles H. Harrison Was Last Survivor of Attack on Fort Wagner

Born in This City in 1844, He Served Two Years in Civil War

Charles H. Harrison, 83, veteran of the Civil war, and last of New Bedford's survivors of the assault on Fort Wagner, died Thursday at his home, 281 Elm stret. He spent all his life as a resident of New Bedford.

A shock suffered two weeks ago caused his death. Until he was recently stricken he was in fairly good health considering his advanced age and was able to get around and do odd jobs without difficulty.

Born Here in 1844.

He was born in New Bedford, Nov. 7, 1844. For more than 50 years he worked as a stone mason and retired about 10 years ago. He married Elizabeth Johnson about 41 years ago in New Bedford. She died 30 y ears ago. About 17 years ago he was married to Susan Hansen, whose address is unknown to the family.

CHARLES H. HARRISON.

Enlisting as a private under Captain Garth W. James in Company C, 54th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, Feb. 14, 1863, he served in the Civil war more than two years, and was discharged Aug. 20, 1865 at Charleston, S. C., when he was 20. At the time of his death he was the sole survivor of the 40 men from New Bedford, who participated in the assault on Fort Wagner. He was a member of the famous "Black Phalanx," which led the night charge against the fort.

Member of Shaw Post.

He was a member of C. G. Shaw post No. 146, an organization of Negro veterans of the Civil war; an honorary member of Jane A. Jackson Circle, No. 11, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic and the William H. Carney Elks lodge. He also held membership in Bethel A. M. E. church, which at various times he served as steward, trustee and class leader. At one time he was grand presiding prince of the Knights and Daughters of Tabor.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Robert Jackson, New Bedford; a brother, Edward R. Harrison, New Bedford; and several sisters and brothers-in-law, as well as a number of nieces and nephews.

WHERE OCEAN'S POPULATION IS STUDIED

June 26-27

Woods Hole

In the upper photograph a pleasing and familiar landmark to steamboat passengers passing to and from Nantucket and the Vineyard is revealed. It is the main building of the Bureau of Fisheries at Woods Hole. The lower picture is that of Little Harbor looking out toward Marthas Vineyard from Woods Hole.

PICKING CRANBERRIES — A scene familiar on Cape Cod in autumn is this one, showing cranberry pickers at work in one of the many bogs of Barnstable and Plymouth counties.

WOMAN'S CLUB LEADERS PAST AND PRESENT

Coming Anniversary Recalls Their Work

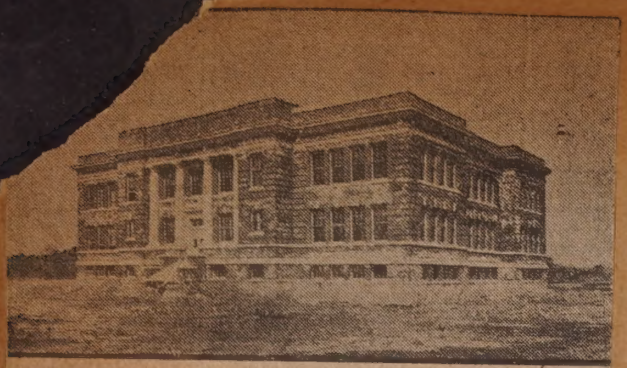
The New Bedford Woman's Club attributes its 30 years of unbroken progress in large measure to its able presidents, a number of whom will attend the 30th birthday celebration at the club house, Wednesday. Pictured above are:

Left to right, top row, Mrs. Walter H. Bassett (1918-1920); the late Miss Mary E. Austin (1910-1911); Mrs. Dexter B. Goodwin (1926-); Mrs. Charles E. Woodworth (1905-1907).

Lower row, Mrs. A. L. Shockley (1922-1924); Mrs. Hosea M. Knowlton (1900-1902); Miss Mabel L. Potter (1913-1915); Mrs. William G. Potter (1924-1926).

Photo by George H. Atwood

THE WANDERING BROOK—Winding through the fields near Russells Mills, this tiny river offers hundreds of views as picturesque as this.



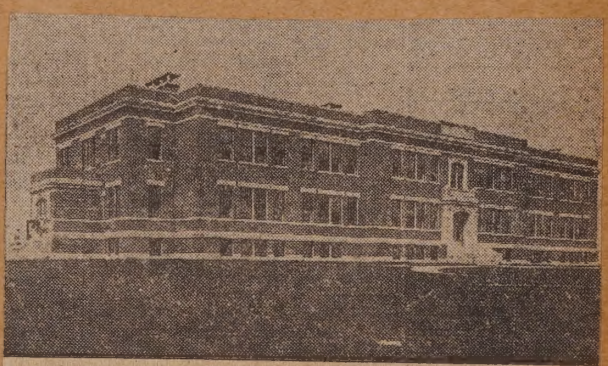
Betsey Winslow School May 8, 1927

Ingraham School May 5, 1927.

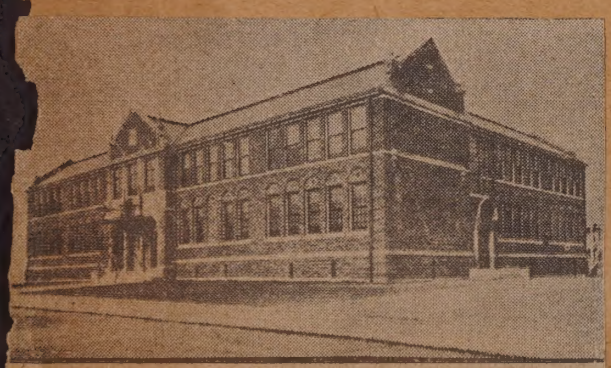
Congdon School May 5, 1927

Lincoln School May 8, 1927.

Donaghy School May 8, 1927

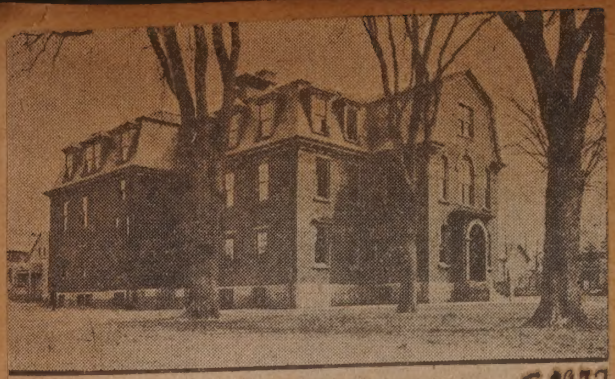


Mt. Pleasant School May 8, 1927

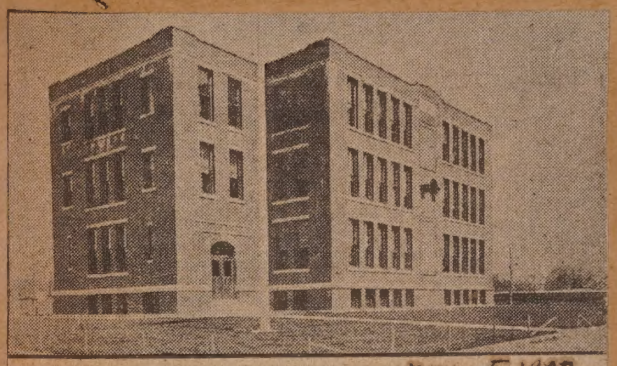


John Hannigan School May 5, 1927.

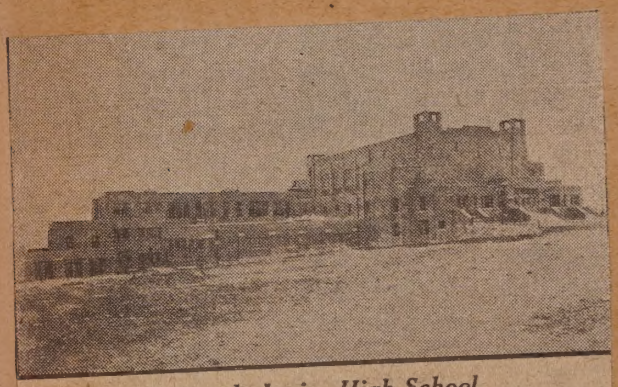
1927 Normandin Junior High School May 8



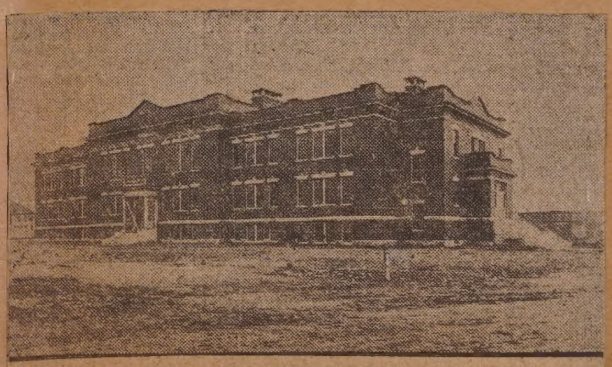
Parker Street School May 5, 1927



Rodman School May 5, 1927



Roosevelt Junior High School
May 5, 1927.



John B. deValles School May 8, 1927

PASTOR IS HAPPY TO REGAIN U. S. CITIZENSHIP THAT HE RENOUNCED

1925 Jan 17

The Rev. John A. MacColl, Formerly of North Congregational Church, Became British Subject at South African Friends' Urging—Ever Regretted Action

Today Rev. John A. MacColl, former pastor of the North Congregational church will be an American citizen again after seven years as a citizen of South Africa and subject of King George of England, and five years, as he phrases it, "a man without a country."

Mr. MacColl, who renounced the American citizenship to which he was born, at the urgent persuasion of friends in South Africa during the period he spent there as a supply preacher, regretted his action even as he took the oath, said yesterday he would never have yielded had he not been persuaded that his influence would be greater with his South African parishioners, he said.

Extremely Happy.

Wareham is henceforth to be Mr. MacColl's legal residence, no matter where his calling may take him, he asserted. He was in New Bedford today on his way there, to have the citizenship papers recently issued to him by Judge Lowell in Federal Court, Boston, stamped by the Wareham Board of Registration. He was brimming over with delight at the prospect of his full reinstatement to citizenship, which has been one of his dearest objectives since he returned to this country in 1920.

The Rev. John A. MacColl.

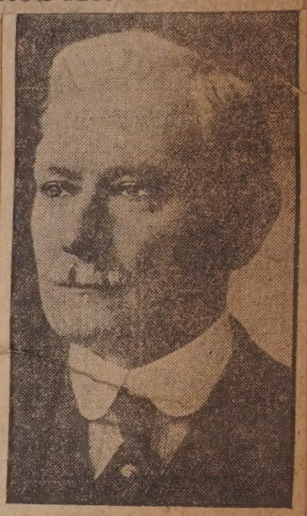
Mr. MacColl's choice of Wareham as his home, rather than New Bedford, which he had in mind originally because of his long pastorate here, is due in large part to the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Warr, of Parkers Mills, Wareham, who invited him to make their residence his for official purposes.

Once pastor of the Congregational Church of Wareham, in which he has again taken out membership, Mr. MacCall rebuilt and dedicated debt free a new church building there since partly destroyed, the remaining part of which is incorporated in the present structure. That fact, and the Warr house itself, one part of which dates back to the 18th century, and the other to 1765, are among the bonds that draw him to Wareham.

For the present, Mr. MacColl has no permanent charge, but is supplying under the direction of the Pastoral Board of Supply of Congregational Churches in Boston.

South Africa not only made Mr. MacColl a Britisher for a time—it even turned him temporarily back into what his parents were, a Presbyterian. That phase of his career also is closed. He closed it by transferring his letters from the official Presbyterian Church organization of South Africa to the Bennington County (Vermont) Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers shortly after his return to the United States.



DR. CHARLES A. B. PETERSON.

March 10, 1928

PHYSICIAN HERE 41 YEARS DIES

Dr. Charles A. B. Peterson Specialized in Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Work

Admiration of Alaskan Scenery Caused Him to Take Up Art Studies

Dr. Charles A. B. Peterson, for 41 years a practicing physician here, where he specialized in diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, and during the last 12 years of his life prominent as an artist, died yesterday at his home 44 State street, after a lingering illness. He was 72.

Descended from an old Plymouth family, Dr. Peterson was born Nov. 12, 1855, in Philadelphia, the son of Charles Peterson and Thankful Clark Peterson, formerly of Plymouth.

He was educated in Philadelphia and when still a boy removed with his parents to Plymouth, where he continued school. He studied medicine at the University of Michigan, was graduated from Long Island College hospital in 1886, and began his practice in this city in 1887. For a time he studied at Boston City hospital, where he was associated with Dr. John Morgan, famous as an eye specialist.

Impressed with Alaskan Beauty.

In 1912 Dr. Peterson traveled to Alaska, where he was so impressed by the grandeur of the scenery that, although he never studied art, he began to sketch and paint. He maintained the hobby for the rest of his life, winning high praise from recognized art authorities.

In 1914 he married Miss Mabel A. Gifford, daughter of T. Merritt Gifford, of this city. Four years later he was appointed by the overseers of the poor as specialist of the department, an office he held until he resigned several months ago because of ill health. For three years he was a member of the board of overseers of the poor.

Dr. Peterson was a member of the American, Massachusetts, Bristol County and New Bedford Medical societies, and the Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three daughters: Mrs. Frank Ricketson, Taftville, Conn.; Mrs. Albert Kenyon, Newton, and Mrs. Albert Bancroft, West Newton, and nine grandchildren. Funeral services will be private.

Faculty Members of 1927

Members of New Bedford High school faculty in 1927: Front row, left to right—Ralph P. Dow, Dr. Ralph H. Tukey, Sumn[er] E. Marvell, Edwin H. Whitmarsh, Edmund D. Searles, Principal G. Walter Williams, Miss Marion E. Lord, Miss Susan E. Shennan, Eugene F. Du[bois], Rodolphe Godreau; second row—Miss Mary E. Ryan, Miss Marion I. Colby, Miss Helen E. Morrison, Miss Catherine V. Winsper, Miss Margu[erite] L. Hussey, Miss Doris I. Eccleston, Miss Helen L. Hadley, Miss Mary F. Hitch, Miss Lena M. Newcastle, Dolor J. Bourret, George F. Cronin, Milfred I. Baker, Joseph A. McDonnell; third row—Mrs. Lydia M. Sargent, Miss Alice M. Richardson, Miss Alice Craig, Miss Helen A. Stedman, Miss Wilhelmine B. F. Ernst, Miss Edna W. Simmons, Miss Mabel Rand, Miss Mabel W. Cleveland, Miss Lillian J. Hopkins, Carl F. W. Bergstrom, Harry S. Goodwin, Arthur W. Wathen, Alfred L. Lawrence, Guy A. Senesac; rear rows—Miss Marion E. Peterson, Miss Mary F. Livingston, Miss M. Evelyn Rutter, Miss Mary E. Carroll, Miss Gladys Blackmer, Miss S. Elsie Hayes, Miss Jessie M. Barbour, Miss Ethel M. Perry, Miss Lillian J. Hopkins, Frederick E. Kelley, George H. Gardner, Winifred L. Johnson, Fay H. Newland, Miss Helen G. Fisher, Miss Edith F. Walker, Miss Gladys M. Wilbur, Miss Edna T. Wilson, Eddy P. Howard, Miss Bertha E. Piggott, Miss Theresa C. Fitzgerald, James A. Worden, James C. Comiskey, John D. Connors, Frederick W. Ringdahl, Dana C. Sanborn, Alton B. Paull, William L. Lillie.

DR. GARRY DE N. HOUGH, LONG CITY'S LEADING SURGEON, DIES

June 1-27

Appointed Medical Examiner by Governor Russell---Gained Wide Repute as Medico-Legal Authority in Howard Trial --- Plan for Relief in Disaster Used in Epidemic

[Special to The Standard]

Vineyard Haven, June 1.—Dr. Garry de N. Hough, for many years New Bedford's leading surgeon, died here late yesterday afternoon. He had been in poor health since a shock which stopped his active work about six years ago. Since then, Dr. Hough had spent most of the time at his summer home on the heights above this town.

Recently Visited Son in Springfield.

He had recently returned from a winter visit to his son in Springfield. He was 66.

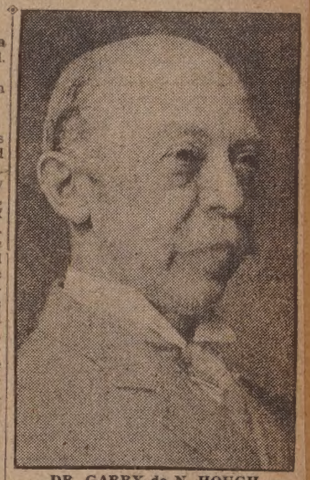
The funeral will be Friday afternoon from the home here.

Dr. Garry de Neuville Hough was born in Holmes Hole, now Vineyard Haven, the son of Dr. George F. Hough, who had come there from New York in the practice of his profession, and Maria Presbury (Smith) Hough of Vineyard Haven, on April 19, 1861. After coming to New Bedford at the age of 12, he got his preparatory school education at Friend's academy. He graduated with high honors from Harvard university in 1881, and took his doctor's degree at Bellevue Hospital Medical college, New York, in 1884, ranking first in his class. For the following year he remained as an interne on the Third (Bellevue college) Surgical division of Bellevue hospital, and then entered upon the practice of medicine with his father in this city.

Dr. Hough became visiting surgeon at St. Luke's hospital in June of 1886 and remained continuously on the hospital staff.

When Dr. George T. Hough retired from practice because of ill-health in 1891 (deceased in 1898) Dr. Garry Hough succeeded to that practice, building up thereafter a wide-spread clientele and developing great skill as a general practitioner and surgeon.

In 1891 Governor Russell appointed him medical examiner of the fourth Bristol district and he remained continuously, by various gubernatorial reappointments, in that office, the last appointment being by Governor Coolidge in 1919 for the seven-year term.



DR. GARRY de N. HOUGH.

927. Photo by George H. Atwood
WSTER—Driven by an unfailing ill at Brewster grinds on despite other forms of power. An electric e lantern above it produces a novel

WORLD'S SERIES DAYS—Crowds such as this one, photographed while watching returns of a world's series baseball game a year or so ago, attest the popularity of the national game, as the season is again upon us for such gatherings. 1927.

COLONEL GREEN'S $100 FLAG PRIZE AWARDED

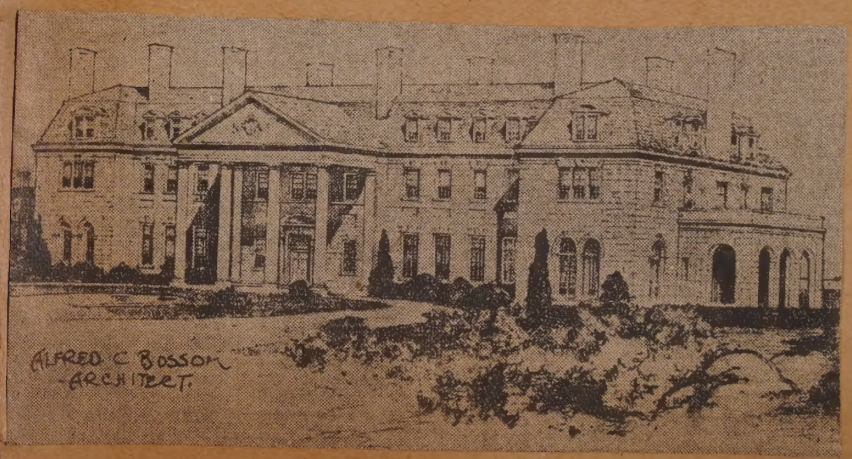
June 9 - 1927

Mrs. Clarence H. Brownell Raises Dartmouth Emblem

1. Mrs. Clarence H. Brownell raises the flag which won her Colonel Green's $100 prize, while Captain George Fred Tilton of the Morgan assists. 2. Walter Slocum, chairman of Dartmouth Selectmen, presents the bag of prize money in gold pieces to Mrs. Brownell. 3. The winning flag. 4. Mrs. Lillian G. Wilson, who will present her flag to the new Dartmouth High school.

Alfred C. Bossom, New York Expert Who Designed Colonel Green's Massive Round Hills House.

May 2, 1926.



EDWARD A. KIRBY IS FOUND DEAD IN WASHINGTON HOTEL

82-Year-Old New Bedford Citizen Succumbs While on Annual Spring Trip to Big League Baseball Games---Death Believed Due to Heart Attack

Edward A. Kirby.

PAINTER OF MARINES DIES

May 1927.

Edmund N. Russell, 75, Was Resident of Padanaram for 35 Years

West Tisbury Native Gave Up Sea Career to Follow Art

Edmund N. Russell, 75, marine painter, died yesterday at his home, 24 School street, Padanaram, following an illness of about a month.

Mr. Russell had made a specialty of painting old whaling vessels and among the best known of his works were paintings of the whaling vessel General Pike, the bark Swallow, the bark Rousseau and the Charles W. Morgan.

Edmund N. Russell.

Born in West Tisbury.

Mr. Russell was born in West Tisbury. When only a youth he went on three whaling voyages to the Arctic with his uncle, Captain John Oliver Norton, Edgartown. After satisfying his desire to follow the sea, Mr. Russell decided to become a painter and for some time studied at an art school in New York city.

He located in Padanaram about 35 years ago and had since lived there. Although he spent the major part of his time in marine painting, he did some painting and decorating in churches and theaters of this vicinity.

He also painted a number of marine pictures used by a Providence calendar company Mr. Russell did some decorating at the Unitarian Church and the New Bedford Theater within recent years.

He was foreman of the jury in the Warner-Fuller case which attracted so much attention in 1922.

NEWEST OF NEW BEDFORD FISHING FLEET

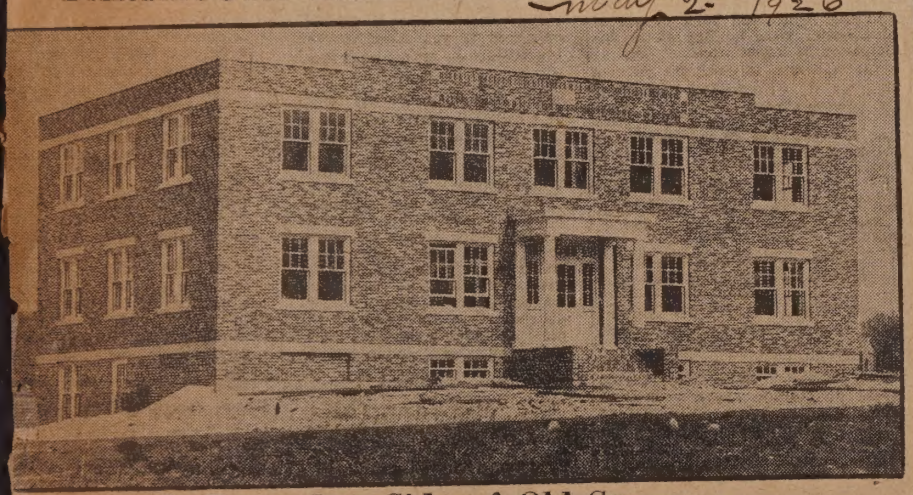
may

Schooner Charles S. Ashley and Master

(Left) Captain William Hayes, who will command the schooner Charles S. Ashley, with his son, Bernard Hayes, six, as they arrived aboard the schooner yesterday. He is now skipper of the Martha E. Murley. They boarded the boat at Sagamore. Right, the Charles S. Ashley as she entered the harbor yesterday afternoon on the completion of her trip from Thomaston, Me., under command of her owner, Captain John G. Murley. The schooner had her namesake, Mayor Charles S. Ashley, and other New Bedford guests aboard on the trip from Sagamore.

DARTMOUTH HALL TO BE FINISHED SOON

May 2. 1926



Is Erected at Side of Old Structure

TOWN HALL IS NEARLY READY

Dartmouth Officers Soon to Move Into New Building --Ample Space for Future Years Provided

Dartmouth town officers will soon be installed in the offices of the new two-story brick building, recently erected by the side of the old town building. This new building is a handsome addition to the town's buildings. It was designed by Brown and Poole and erected by Theodore Loranger. The building is 40 by 62 feet in dimensions and is designed with a view of accommodating all of the town offices. A plan is in view to alter the old building by tearing away the partitions that separate the offices, thus adding a great deal more floor space to the seating hall. By the addition of a balcony the old building, used exclusively as an auditorium, may be fitted to seat more than twice its present capacity.

The new building is of the best fireproof construction, with sufficient space to care for the growth of the town and the need for additional office space. On the first floor offices for the slectmen, assessors, town clerk, collector, auditors and water board will be located. The offices of the school committee, superintendent of schools, board of health, sewer commissioners, town surveyor and building inspector will be on the second floor.

The town has voted to use its quota of the money to be refunded by the state from the surplus in the fund paid by the poll taxpayers of the state over a period of three years to provide for the bonus payments

27-27

30 Years in Navy Reviewed By Chief Boatswain's Mate

June 19 1927

Henry Duckgeischel Recalls Landing Parties in China and Central America

GOT GOOD CONDUCT CITATION FOR SERVICE

Survived Five Day Typhoon —Ship Tossed in Harbor by Tidal Waves

Activities of the American marines in Nicaragua and China bring back memories of other days to Chief Boatswain's Mate Henry Duckgeischel, U. S. N. retired, 15 Studley street, who saw service in landing parties in both Central America and China in the early days of his service in the Navy.

Mr. Duckgeischel was retired in 1914 after 30 years of service, but emerged from his retirement during the World war, serving from 1917 to 1919 when he was placed on the retired inactive list. During his service he saw many strange sights. But let him spin the yarn himself:

Chief Boatswain Mate Henry Duckgeischek

W BEDFORD-MADE CEDAR CHESTS ON DISPLAY

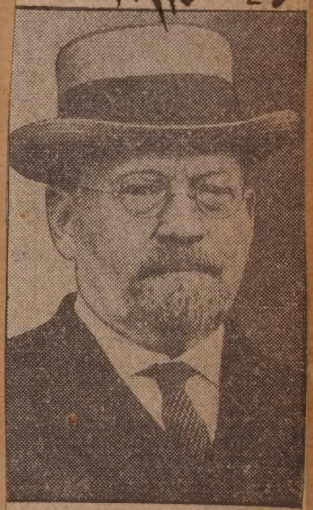
April 24 1927

At First National Bank

The photograph shows samples of the line of cedar chests manufactured by the Acushnet Saw Mills for the Northland Cedar Chest Company, a recently-formed New Bedford corporation. The exhibition opens to the public for two weeks beginning tomorrow.

HEART FAILS JUDGE

11/16 - 28



HUGO A. DUBUQUE.

JUDGE DUBUQUE DIES SUDDENLY

Superior Court Justice Succumbs to Heart Attack at Fall River Home

Had Just Returned from Boston Hospital, Apparently Recuperated

GH SCHOOL STUDENTS SHOW HOW THEY LOOKED IN THE OLD DAYS

Broomstick Brigade Keeps Eyes Right

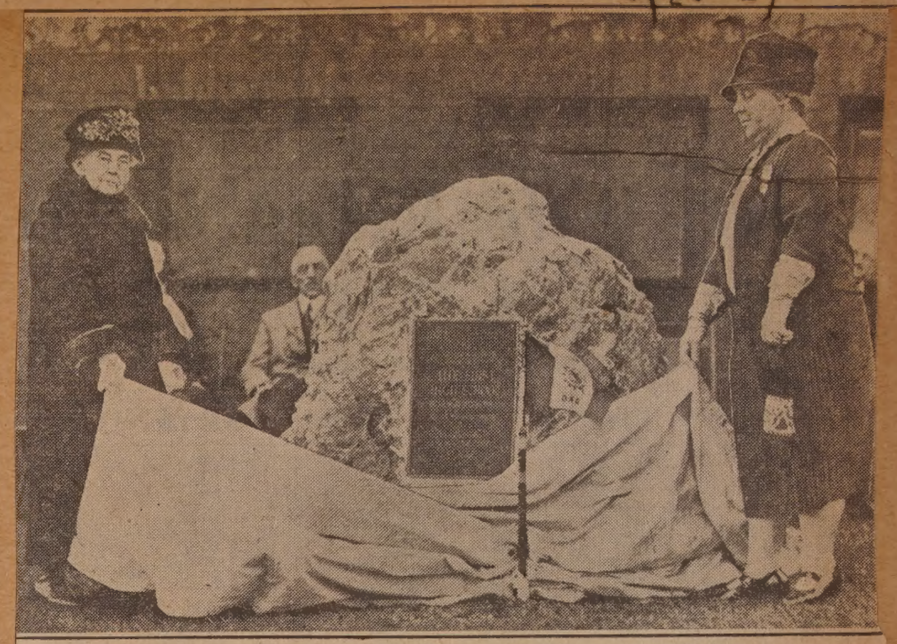
June 27, 1927.

Top: Plantagenets of 1927. Left to right—Misses Louise Sowle, Marguerite Weeks, Margaret Moher, Florence Chase, Barbara Clark, Rita Longpre, Stasia Wo[illegible]tuszewski, Mary Oliveira, Elizabeth Brightman, Eunice Turgeon, Wanda Dubiel, Helen Simmons, Rosamund Webber, Henrietta Gaucher, Sarah Openshaw and Ethel Morse. Center left: High School cadets of yesteryear. Posed by Colby Lewis, left, and Edward Howarth. Center: As they looked in the gay '90's. Graduates with class year and motto on sash. Left to right—Misses Mary Daniels, Violet Gilmore and Faith Ellis. Center right: Old fashioned sweethearts, Miss Madeline Jameson and George L'Heureux.

REMODELED—The old Tilton homestead in Tisbury has been renovated and remodeled into one of the beautiful homes of that summer colony.

TABLET AT CITY'S FIRST HIGH SCHOOL SIT

6/26-2



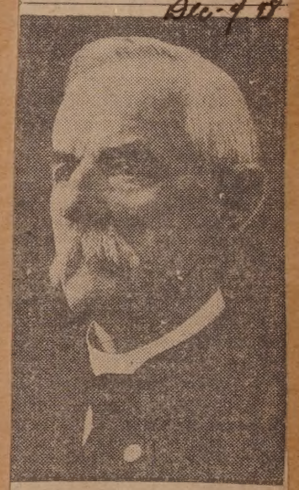
Alumna and D. A. R. Regent Unveil Memorial

Mrs. Almira C. Colby, left, oldest member of the alumni, and Mrs. Abbie D. S. Dodge, D. A. R. regent, are shown unveiling memorial tablet erected by New Bedford chapter, D. A. R. Charles T. Bonney, 48 years a teacher at the school, is seated at left of boulder.

Jan. 27, The Rev. Adrien Gauthier 1926.

OLD SOLDIER DIES

Dec-4 28



JOHN E. WILBUR.

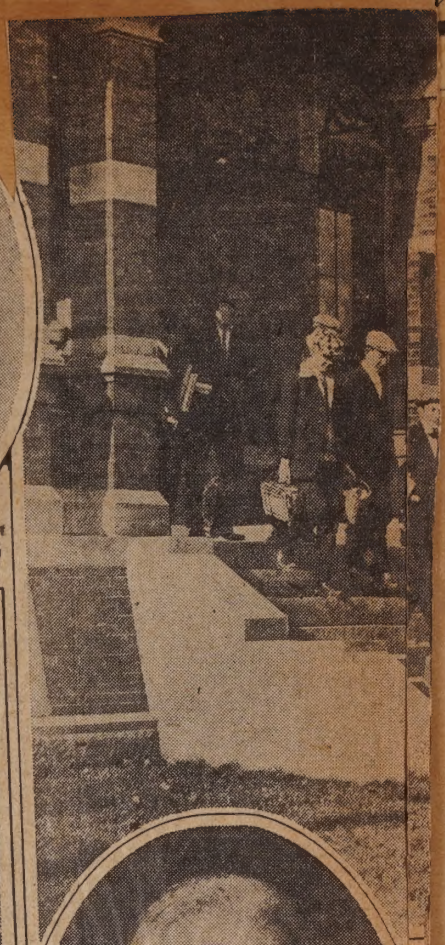
G. A. R. VETERAN DIES IN MARION

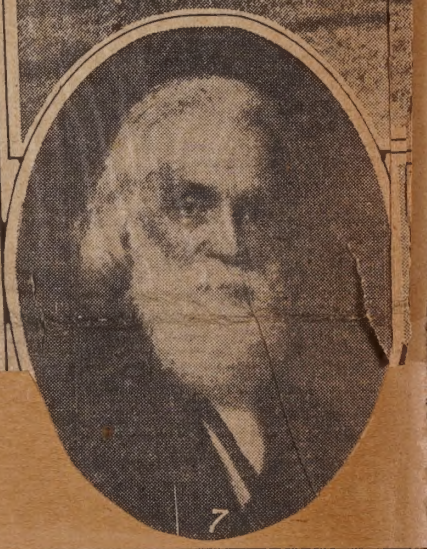
John E. Wilbur Expires at 82 After Short Illness

Native of Fairhaven Enlisted in Union Army in 1863

John E. Wilbur, one of Marion's few remaining veterans of the Civil war, died at his home in that town at 1:15 P. M. yesterday at the age of 82. He had been ill but a short time.

Mr. Wilbur was born in Fairhaven in 1846. In 1863, at the age of 17 he enlisted in the U. S. Army from Mattapoisett. Although he was not involved in many of the notable battles of the war, he experienced many of its hardships while stationed at various forts in the North.





MOBY DICK'S FLAG TO FLY

Herman Melville's Birthday to Be Observed at Round Hills

Code Book and Signals Explain Bunting at Morgan's Masthead

The Moby Dick flag, a blue ground with a great white whale floating on it, will fly over the Charles W. Morgan Monday in honor of Herman Melville. Aug. 1 is Melville's birthday, and his memory is perpetuated at Round Hills with a flag dedictated to his most famous literary creation.

An ingenious system of signal flags and a little codebook to go with it shows visitors the identity of the various flags that are flown on the whaleship. There are six small signal flags, and two masts, one set near the Morgan, the other in the field near the radio station. The flags are blue and white, and are numbered. No. 1 is all blue, No. 2 is half blue and half white, divided horizontally. No. 3 the same divided vertically, No. 4 is blue with a white square, No. 5 blue with a white cross, No. 6 is diagonally divided blue and white.

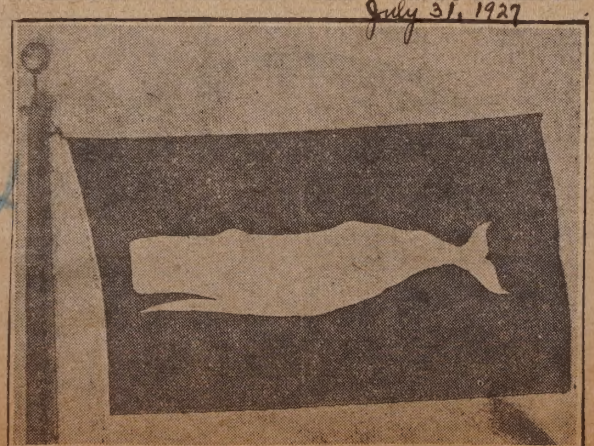
Each Flag Has Number.

Each house-flag has a number made up of four digits, and the four corresponding signal flags are raised on the two masts each day.

Tomorrow, for example, the Moby Dick, flag flies, whose number is 2,233. So two No. 2 and two No. 3 signal flags are up. Anyone who has the little codebook can identify the flag of the day by studying the flags pictured on the cover, then looking up the number listed within. Colonel Green carries a packet of these booklets with him in his electric runabout and has been generous with them to inquiring visitors.

WHITE WHALE AT MASTHEAD

July 31, 1927



Flag Honors Melville

DIES IN FAIRHAVEN

12-20-20

MISS HARRIET F. SWIFT.
Miss Swift, a native and lifelong resident of Fairhaven, died yesterday following a long illness at her home, 86 Laurel street. She was 76. She was employed for 40 years at the Atlas Tack company.

High School Principals and Buildings They Occupied

(1) Charles Sturtevant Moore; (2) Charles P. Rugg; (3) Exodus from Summer street school to present building, showing members of the class of 1913. At the right, leading the column, are three teachers, left to right, Edmund D. Searls, Miss Lydia J. Cranston and Miss Katherine B. Scribner. At the head of the file behind Mr. Searls is Leslie Ford, followed by Howard P. Davis and Charles Lipsitt; (4) Ray Greene Huling; (5) William Ervin Sargent; (6) New Bedford's first High school building, the "little green schoolhouse," on High street, first used as a High school in 1827; (7) John F. Emerson, principal of the first High school; (8) the second High school building on Middle street, later the Middle street grammar school; (9) the building on Summer street, first occupied in 1876 and last in 1912.

D HOUSE TO BE PRESERVED

Apr. 10 - 27

Barnabas Earle Structure in Apponegansett Sold to Mrs. E. S. Swift

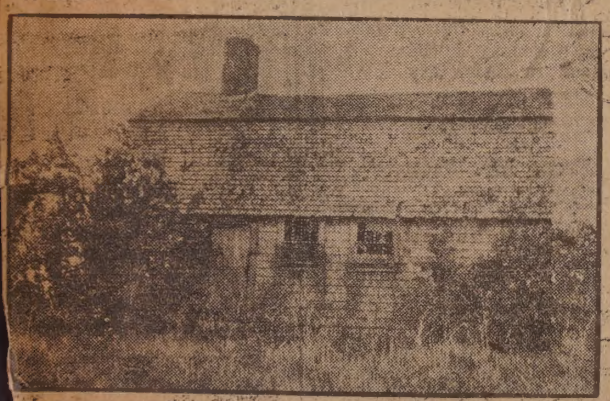
200 Year Old Structure Will Be Moved to Mishaum

Mrs. Edith Steele Swift, the wife of Robert Swift, Dartmouth, paid $1,810 for the 200-year old house and just more than one acre of land on the Russells Mills road about a half mile west of the Dartmouth Town House, offered at auction yesterday afternoon.

When Daniel W. Baker, the auctioneer, called for bids at 3 there were not less than 50 spectators present to witness the sale of what is one of the oldest houses in the town of Dartmouth, known as the old Barnabas Earle house. It has been unoccupied for a number of years. The sale yesterday was for the benefit of Abner W. Mosher, for whom Herbert Wing is guardian.

Mrs. Swift buys the house to move it to her home at Mishaum, South Dartmouth, intending to restore the ancient dwelling house and preserve it for its historic value. Contractors have looked over the house and pronounce it sound enough to be moved. Mrs. Swift found other bidders anxious to obtain the ancient structure, but her bid of $1,810, considered a a very good figure for the property, took the house and land. Mrs. Swift later offered the land separately, but the best price offered was $810, and Mrs. Swift bid it in at $820.

WILL BE SOLD AT AUCTION



Earle House in Dartmouth

March 22 nd. 1929.

OLD HOME TO GO UNDER HAMMER

Barnabas Earle House, About 200 Years Old, One of Earliest in Town

Acre of Land, Remnant of Original Estate, Included in Auction April 9

One of the oldest houses in the town of Dartmouth, the old Barnabas Earle home, situated about a half a mile west of the Dartmouth Town House at Apponegansett, is to be sold at auction Saturday afternoon, April 9, at 3.

The house is about 200 years old, and certainly it bears about it all the marks of venerable age. It was the home of Abner W. Mosher until about three years ago, but today it has the appearance of a deserted house. With it goes about one acre of land.

Such is the end of a house whose title roots reach back into the early history of the ancient town of Dartmouth, recalling the history of Ralph Earle, the father of Barnabas, was a captain of militia and fought off the Indians who bothered the earlier settlers about the head of Apponegansett river. The original Ralph Earle farmstead comprised 350 acres, the tract extending from Apponegansett river to Tucker road, and from the Town House road to the south. The homestead house was near the river on the south side of the road, a few rods east of the present home of Herbert Wing. Mr. Wing's father, Captain Benjamin Wing, acquired this farm, a part of the original Earle farm, and the original Ralph Earle house was standing as recently as the boyhood of Herbert Wing. The old well can be seen today, a few feet south of the road.

Ralph Earle died in 1718 and was buried in the family lot on what is now the farm of Herbert Wing. The burial place is a short distance southeast of the barn, and the grave is marked by a dark slate tablet. Ralph Earle devised his farm to his only son, Barnabas Earle, who at the age of 60 married. He died, leaving no children, so that the farm passed to his nephews, John and Benjamin Slocum.

There is every evidence that Barnabas Earle erected the house that now stands on the top of the hill west of the present Town House. The late Henry B. Worth, who made researches into many of the old Dartmouth records, was never able to satisfy himself as to the date when the present old house was erected. His research showed that Ralph Earle undoubtedly died in the old house; but in just what period, between 1718 and 1759, the present house was built has been in doubt. Mr. Worth, who was familiar with types of houses of this early period, found about the house marks indicating that it may have been built between 1725 and 1735.

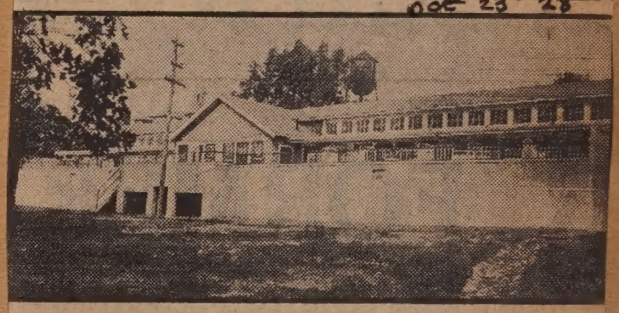
No Division Had Been Made.

When Barnabas Earle died, the original farm going to John and Benjamin Slocum, the nephews of Barnabas Earle, there had been no division of the original 350-acre tract In 1792 the property passed from the heirs of John and Benjamin Slocum to Paul Slocum, who in the same year passed the title to David Gifford. In 1796 Mr. Gifford sold to Elisha Sanford that part of the farm on which the present old house is located. Mr. Gifford erected the large house still standing next west at the edge of the hill. The old house, now separated from the original Earle tract, next passed from the heirs of Elisha Sanford to Walter Briggs. The title is next shown to be in James M. Gray, who acquired the property in 1868, and the succeeding owners were Elihu Gifford and then Benjamin Mosher, until it came to Abner W. Mosher, the present owner.

There is little about the old house to attract the ordinary searcher for a home. There are some fine wide old boards in some of the walls, and the walls in some of the rooms are covered with old tapestry paper. It is, in fact, rather a dreary looking old weather-beaten structure, but such is the imagination of the hunter of antiques in picturing scenes of an earlier day, that already Mr. Wing has had bids for the property. It must be sold at public sale, however, since Mr. Wing is selling the property as the guardian of Abner W. Mosher, acting under the authority of a license issued by the Probate Court.

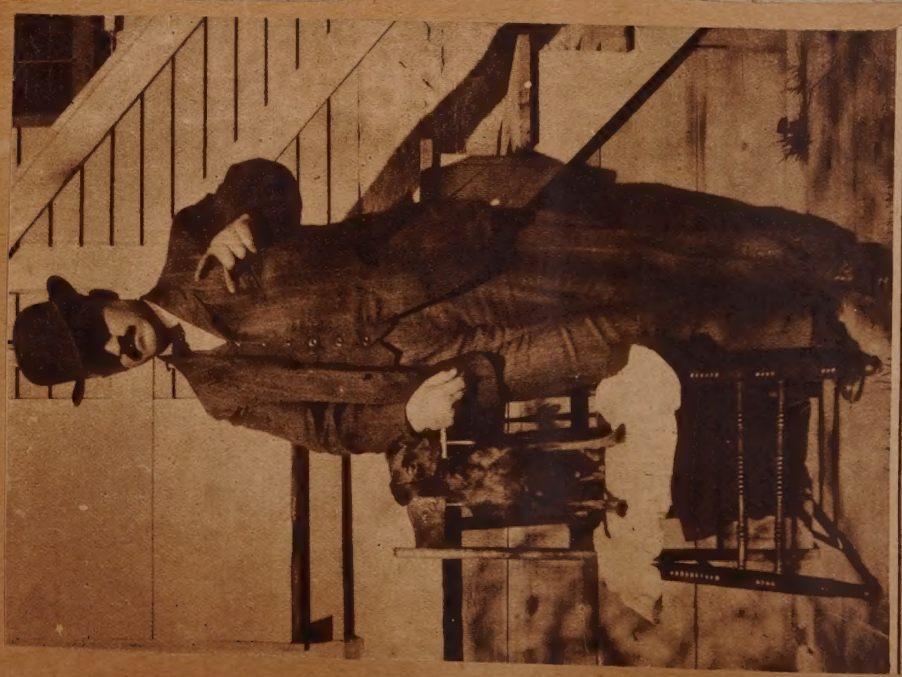
1—Sheedy's Theater, later the Savoy Theater, formerly on the south side of Union street, just east of Purchase.

WHERE SUN BATHS ARE GIVEN



NEW SOUTH PAVILION AT LAKEVILLE.

3—Rollo Lloyd.
4—Hathaway's Theater, Purchase street, east side, near Elm, now occupied by the W. T. Grant Company.
5—Theodore B. Baylies as he looked back in the days when he managed Sheedy's Theater and, later, the Savoy.



THE STOVE PIPE.—This picture of Frederick C. Luce might have been taken recently, judging from the derby perched on his head, but it was taken years ago, when derbies were in style.

Page Mill

May 15, 1927.

No longer a part of the Gosnold Mills, the Page Mill shown here passes this week into the control of the Kidder Company of New Bedford.

PRESIDENT OF NEW CORPORATION

May 15-27

Bentley W. Warren Jr.

Bentley W. Warren Jr., became president of the Page Mill this week, following transfer of the company's capital stock to the Kidder Company of New Bedford.

Missioner Survives Visit of Bandits

apr. 10. 27

The Rev. John J. Toomey

Apr. 10, 1927

PRESIDING MASTERS OF MASONIC LODGES

Apr 10-27

Will Participate in Temple Dedication

Top left, S. George Davenport Jr., Abraham H. Howland Jr., Lodge; right, Walter P. Morton, Quittieus Lodge; lower left, Arthur W. Babbitt, Paskamansett Lodge; Erford W. Poole, Eureka Lodge.

BARBER FOR 50 YEARS DIES

Dec 3- 1927

Harry R. Ellis Numbered Mayor Ashley Among Regular Patrons

Born Here in 1863, He Began to Learn Trade Soon After 10

Harry R. Ellis, 64, favorite barber of Mayor Charles S. Ashley, died at 7:40 A. M., yesterday at his home, 396 Kempton street. Complications resulting from three shocks suffered within the last six weeks caused his death. Six weeks ago he was stricken with the first shock while at lunch and was removed to his home, where he had since been confined.

Following the barber's trade for more than half a century, Mr. Ellis gained a wide circle of acquaintances in New Bedford. Mayor Ashley always went to Mr. Ellis for haircuts and many times for shaves. Mr. Ellis served Mayor Ashley as personal barber for about 30 years.

Mr. Ellis was born in New Bedford, Oct. 29, 1863, the son of J. Henry and HARRY R. ELLIS.

Kathryn R. Ellis, and resided here practically all his life. When he was five, he moved with his parents to Taunton, later lived in Newark, N. J., and while still a young man he came back to New Bedford. He was married in 1887 to Miss Julia A. Carter in this city.

At the time of his death Mr. Ellis was proprietor of a barber shop in room 212 of the Olympia building, 888 Purchase street. He had operated the place of business there since the building was erected. Prior to that time he was proprietor of shops on William and Purchase streets.

He learned the barber business from his father, who operated shops in New Bedford for many years. He was but little more than 10 when he started to learn the trade.

The survivors are Mrs. Ellis; a brother, William B. Ellis, New Bedford; a sister, Miss Mary Ellis, address unknown, and three nephews, Herbert Ellis, New Bedford; Mellnot Ellis, Springfield, and Harry R. Ellis 2d, Boston.

HAVE IMPORTANT PART IN NEW BEDFORD WOMAN'S CL

Officials for Coming Year

Important committees of the New Bedford Woman's club are represented by Mrs. George E. Kilpatrick, 1, education chairman; Mrs. Elmer A. MacGowan, 2, music chairman; Mrs. Laurence S. Perry, 3, and Miss Ethel B. France, 4, members of the nominating committee.

Mrs. A. C. Hines, 5, is corresponding secretary for the coming club year, and Mrs. Frank A. Mosher, 6, a director for the term expiring 1930.

VETERAN SUCCUMBS
Nov 5 - 1928

WILLIAM C. GIFFORD.

CONGRESSMAN'S FATHER IS DEAD

William C. Gifford, Santuit, G. A. R. Commander, Expires at 85

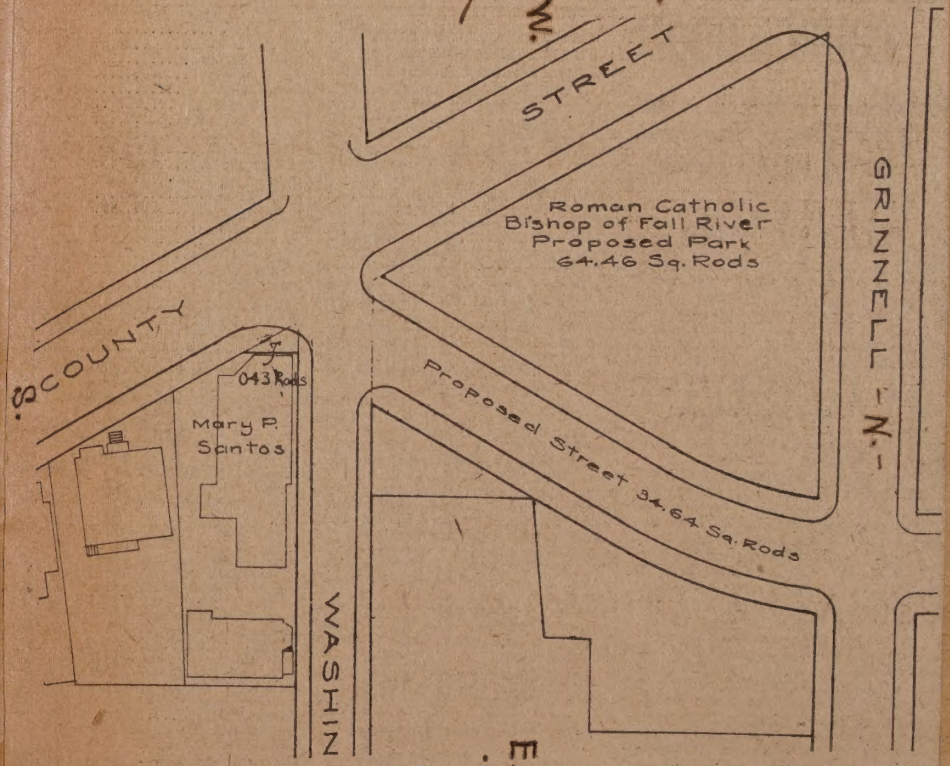
Native of West Barnstable Called Cape Cod Best Country He Knew

UB ACTIVITIES
May 29-27

THIRTY YEARS AGO—This photograph shows a group of workers in the old Bennett mills, now the Fairhaven mills. In the foreground are John Sullivan, overseer, and Alfred T. Leblanc, second hand. 1927.

PLEASANT STREET GROWS A BIT LONGER

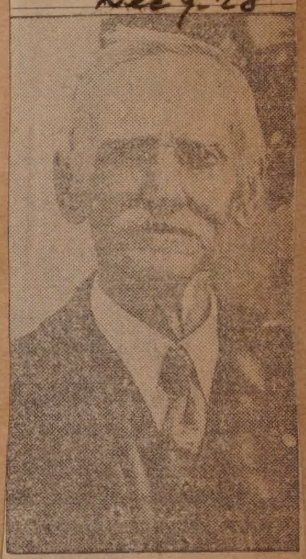
April 27-26



Extension in the South End

Work was begun yesterday on extending Pleasant street from Grinnell street to County street. To effect the extension the city took the property at Grinnell and County street owned by St. James's Roman Catholic church. After the street is cut through a triangular plot of land will remain and this will be used as a playground. A total of 99.10 rods was taken from the church. Of this 34.64 rods will be used for the street extension and 64.46 rods for the playground. A small plot comprising 0.43 rods was taken from Mrs. Mary Santos. The church will receive $27,203 for the land taken. Mrs. Santos is to be paid $100. This extension has been under consideration for a number of years.

BORN IN NANTUCKET
Dec 9-28



George C. Coffin, Former Street Lighting Superintendent, Dies at 84

George C. Coffin, 84, died at his home, 82 Walden street, from heart disease Friday after an illness of one month.

Mr. Coffin was born in Nantucket, Oct. 22, 1844, and came to New Bedford at the age of 16. He worked for 28 years for Fisher's bakery and then for 20 years served as superintendent here of the Welsbach Street Lighting Company of America, supervising the lighting of street lamps in this city. Before his retirement three years ago, Mr. Coffin was employed at the Nashawena mill. He was a member of Acushnet lodge of Odd Fellows for nearly 60 years and of the Provision Clerks Benefit association. He attended the Pleasant Street Methodist Episcopal church.

Surviving Mr. Coffin are his wife, Mary A., and one son, William E. Coffin, North Dartmouth.

WAIN HOUSE, DARTMOUTH, BEING MOVED TO PADANARAM

Building, Standing Nearly 150 Years on Russells Mills Road, Being Taken in Four Sections to Make Home for Miss Sarah E. Ricketson, New Owner

Another of the old houses in Dartmouth is to be moved from the site it has occupied for more than a century to another spot in the town. Miss Sarah E. Ricketson has purchased the so-called Swain house on the Russells Mills road, near the Head of Apponeganett river, and the house is to be moved in four pieces to the Ricketson estate on Ricketson Point, Padanaram, there to be again set up as it was erected a good many years ago. There are no records at hand as to the exact age of the house, but it is estimated to be more than 150 years old.

The residence has its present name from the late Captain William Swain, who lived there, but there is a prior connection with the John Ricketson family, and this accounts for the interest of Miss Sarah E. Ricketson, the daughter of the late John Ricketson. Miss Ricketson is a sister of Oliver Ricketson. The Swain house is to be moved to the east side of Ricketson Point, on the other side of the residence of her mother, Mrs. Clementine Ricketson, while the Oliver Ricketson house stands on the other side of the mother's home.

One of Fine Houses.

The Swain house was built as one of the fine residences of the town, for there are evidences of skilled workmanship and a lavish expenditure of money. There are eight fireplaces beside the two large fireplaces in the cellar with which are two large brick ovens, sufficiently extensive to indicate that cooking was done for a large number of people. Several of the rooms in which there are fireplaces have fine paneling to the top of the fireplaces. The timbers of the house are of hewn oak, in as good condition as on the day they were fitted together. The shaved cedar shingles on the walls are another indication of its extreme age.

The late Lloyd S. Swain, former cashier of the Merchants National Bank of this city, the son of Captain Swain was born in the house. Mrs. Herman L. Bliss, 873 Pleasant street, who lived there as a young girl, has pleasant recollections of her girlhood home. Mrs. Bliss is a granddaughter of Captain Swain.

Another Resident.

Another earlier resident was Charles M. Ray, the grandfather of Mrs. Charles E. Gifford, Padanaram. Mr. Ray was born in Nantucket, and he lived in the Swain house as a young man, remaining there until he was married. Mr. Ray was a cousin of Lloyd Swain.

The house is 39 feet on the front and it has a depth of 36.6 feet. Andrew A. Butts has the contract for taking the house down and setting it up again at Padanaram. Joseph J. England is to do the moving, taking each of the four pieces on a set of cast iron wheels and then towing the parts. The picture here shows the chimneys already removed. Saturday workmen removed the roof.

HOUSE, MORE THAN CENTURY OLD, HAS NEW SITE

May 1 27

Miss Sarah E. Ricketson Has Building Moved

PORTRAIT PRESENTED HOSPITAL

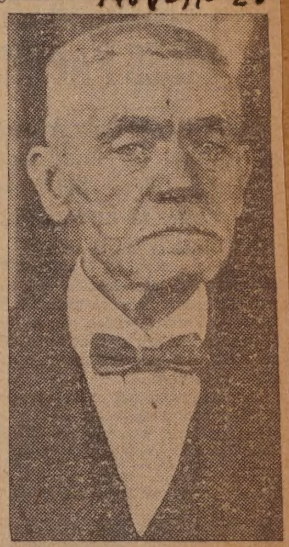
Nov 30 '27

Calvin Coolidge Jr.

This portrait of Calvin Coolidge Jr., by Ebin Comins, a former director of the Swain School of Design here, depicts the dead son of President and Mrs. Coolidge, sitting on the porch of the old Vermont homestead. It was recently hung in the American Red Cross and social center of the Walter Reed hospital in Washington, D. C., after being presented by Mrs. Coolidge.

MUSICIAN DIES

Nov 11 28



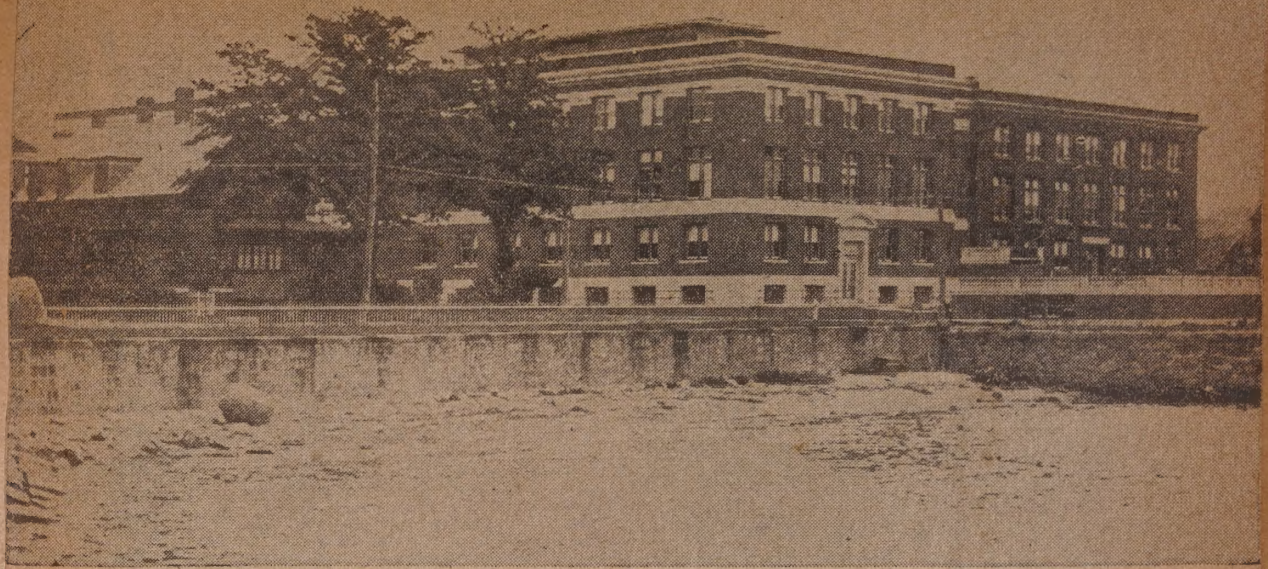
WILLIAM HENRY HABICHT.

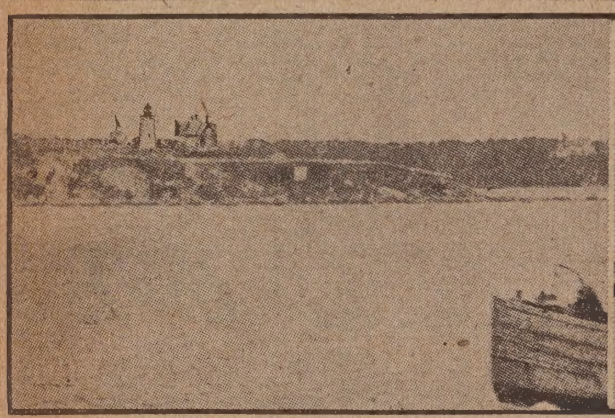
LONG ILLNESS PROVES FATAL

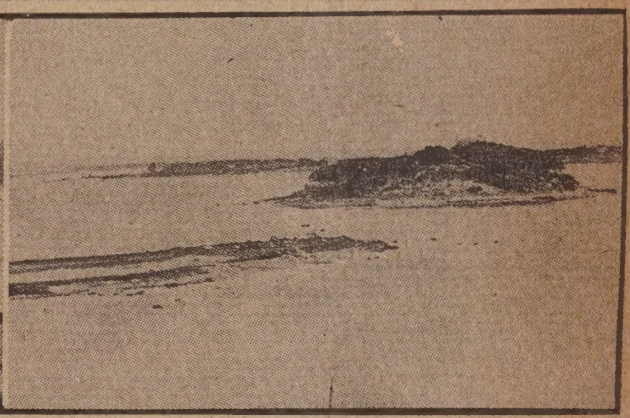
William Henry Habicht, Native of Bavaria, Expires at 73

One of Best Known Musicians in This Vicinity, He Was Also a Machinist

BUZZARDS BAY TOUR MAKES IDEAL HOLIDAY TRIP

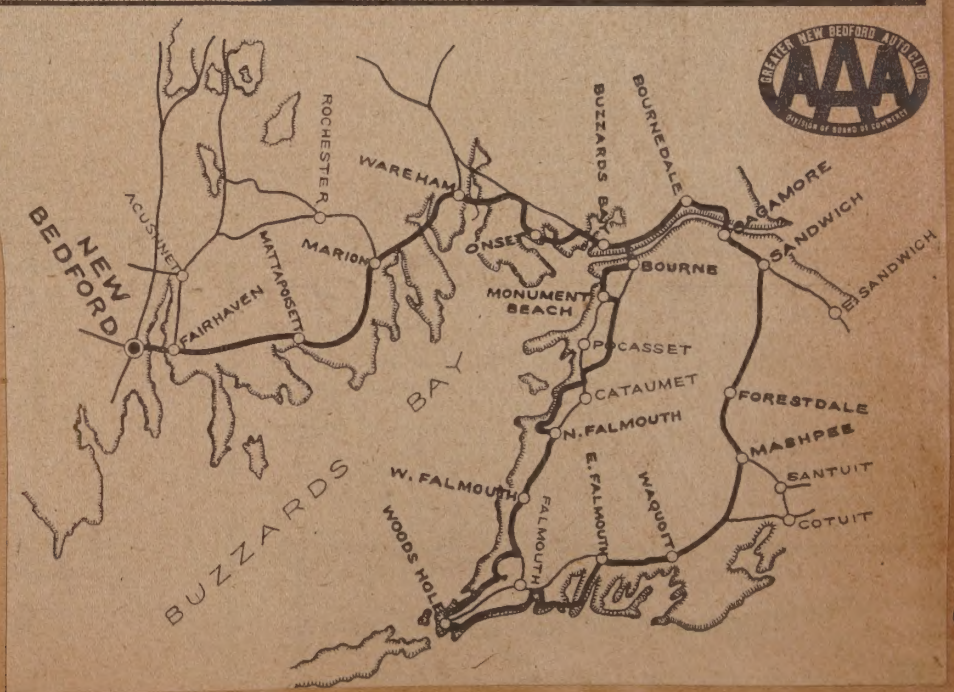






Points of Interest

Top left, Nobska Lighthouse at Woods Hole; top right, view of Onset bay and islands; center; Marine Biological Laboratories at Wood's Hole; below, map of Buzzards Bay tour, prepared by the greater New Bedford Auto Club.



OAK BLUFFS BEACH POSSIBILITIES SHOWN

June 5 - 1927

Store Development Depicted by Artist's Sketch

How the Vineyard Grove company contended it could develop the shore land at Oak Bluffs, which the town seized for $7,500 and for which a Superior Court jury here later awarded payment of $77,250. The sketch which was submitted as evidence by the former owners of the beach pictures a development of decorative stores facing the main highway and back to the water.

As Seized Strip Looks Today

How the town has improved the beach since its seizure by the erection of concrete bulkheads and the planting of turf.

As It Used to Be

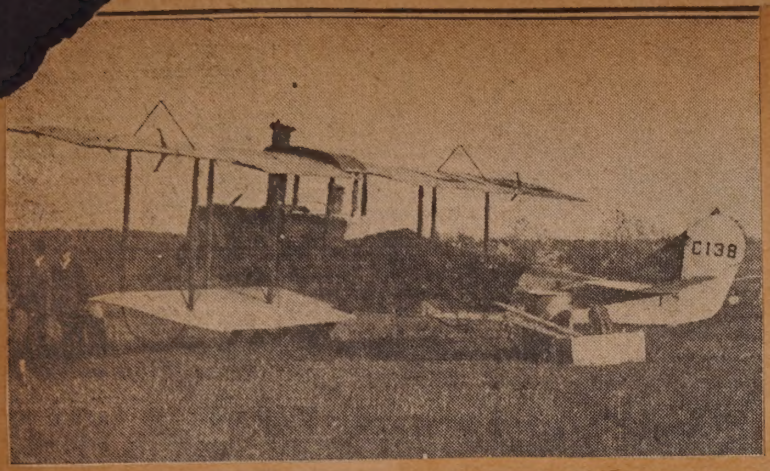
A glimpse of the undeveloped beach under the Vineyard Grove management and Moses Miller, president of the company.

—Photo by Bachrach.

MARRIED AT CHURCH—Mrs. Albert W. Holmes Jr., the former Miss Annabelle Hillman, wore the bridal groom's mother at her marriage Sept. 11 at Trinity M. E. church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic G. Hillman, 231 Pope street. 1927.

VETERAN CITY EMPLOYES—Left to right: James Crane, John Quinn, Willard Poole, Terrence Rogers, and Gardner Spooner. 1927

UNCLE SAM TRIES AIR STRATEGY ON GYPSY MOTH

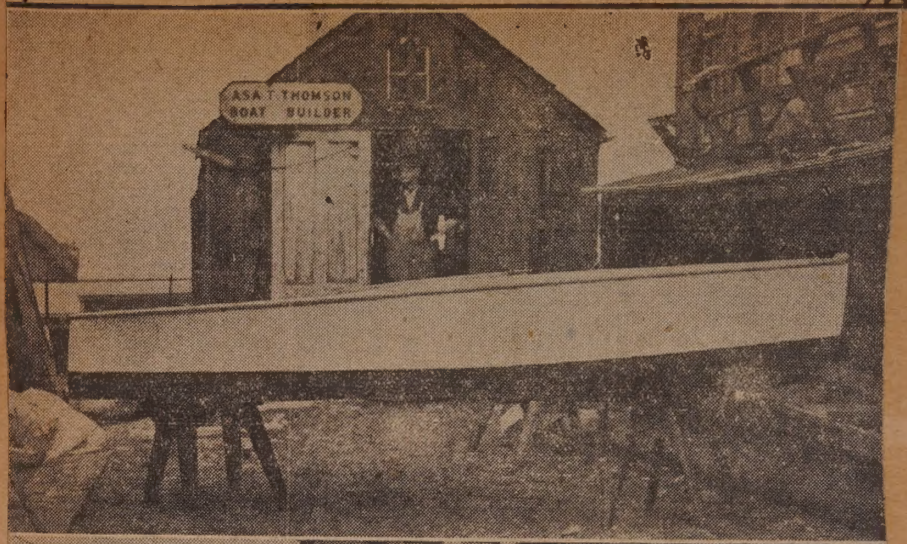


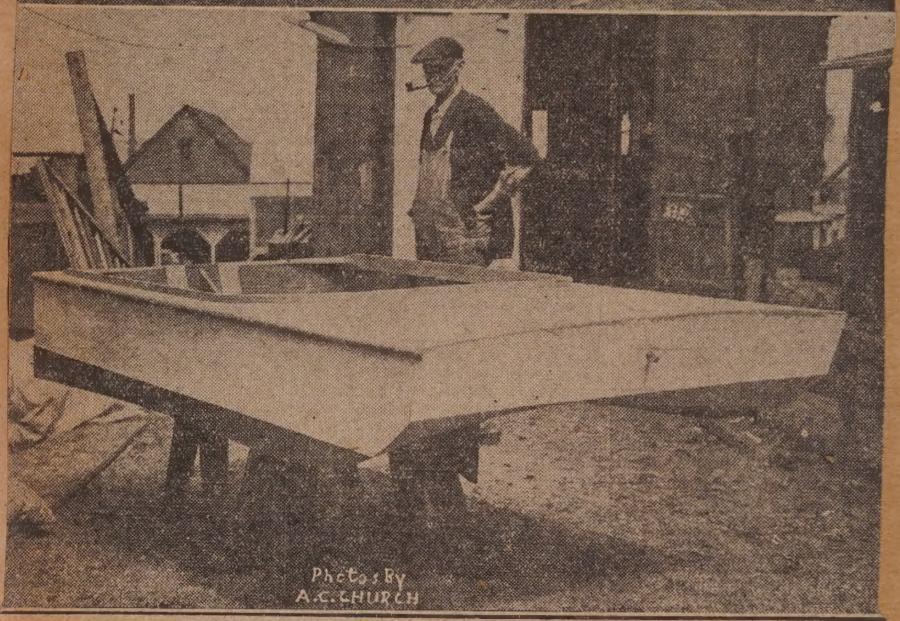
At North Dartmouth Research Station

Above, the Curtiss J. N. C. type, low speed plane used to spray infested trees with poison powder, and the truck spray which shoots insecticide from the ground into the lair of the gypsy moth. Below, F. A. Daily of the U. S. Bureau of Entomology tagging twigs of an oak selected for experimental spraying. Right, the staff of the research party confers on methods to improve the poison distributing attachment. The airplane pilot, E. H. Conerton, sits on the distributor. Others, left to right, are airplane mechanic L. T. Flewellin; Dwight F. Barnes, director of the work; S. J. Dennis, consulting engineer, and, standing, A. F. Burgess, head of moth work [illegible] Bureau of Entomology.

MASTER MAKER OF PRAMS AND SEA CU...

May 8. 27





Asa T. Thomson at His Work

Above, left, a completed sea cub with the Thomson shop in background; below, a pram passing inspection; at right, Asa T. Thomson, veteran boat builder.

OWNER OF BLUE WORKS DIES

11/24/28

Henry V. Davis, 76, Succumbs to Attack of Heart Disease

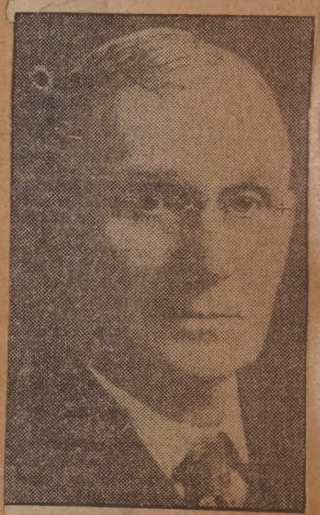
World War Put End to Business at Morgan and Chancery Streets

Henry V. Davis, 76, for many years the owner of the old blue works plant, which was once in operation at Chancery and Morgan streets, died suddenly at his home, 25 Ocean street, at 12:50 A. M. yesterday. He had been in good health and spent Thursday afternoon at the Elks club playing cards. He ate a hearty supper Thursday night, and shortly afterward complained of pains in the chest. Angina pectoris was assigned as the cause of death.

Born in this city, the son of the late Henry V., and Jane Taber Davis, Mr. Davis had made his home in New Bedford all his life. He received his childhood education at a boarding school in Middleboro and then attended Middle Street school here.

World War Halted Business.

Later Mr. Davis entered the blue works business with his father. The main buildings of the plant were torn down more than 30 years ago, but



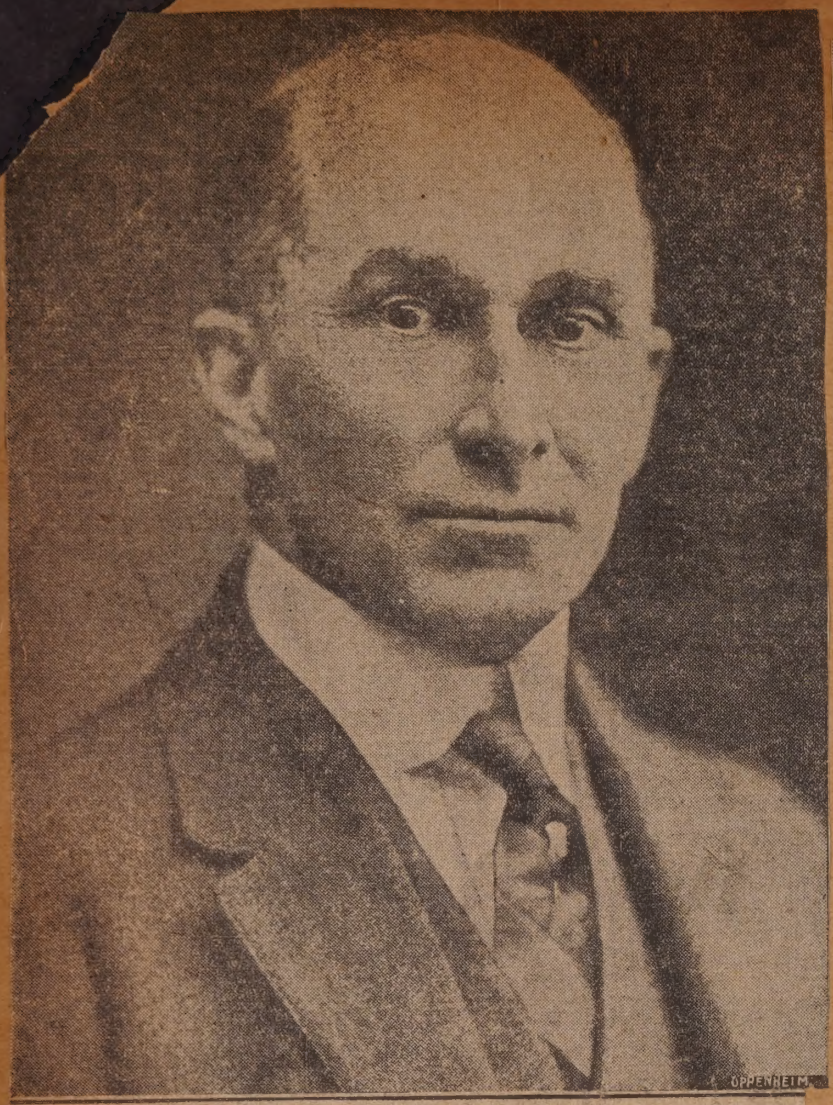
HENRY V. DAVIS.

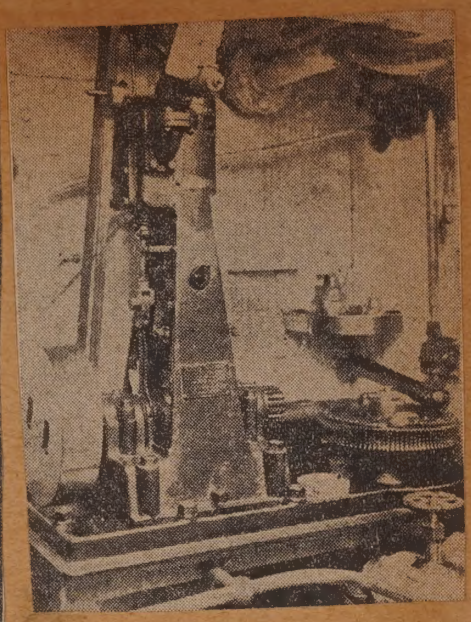
Mr. Davis continued the manufacture of cyanide of potassium until the start of the World war. Since most of the raw products used at the chemical works were imported from Germany, Mr. Davis found it necessary to retire.

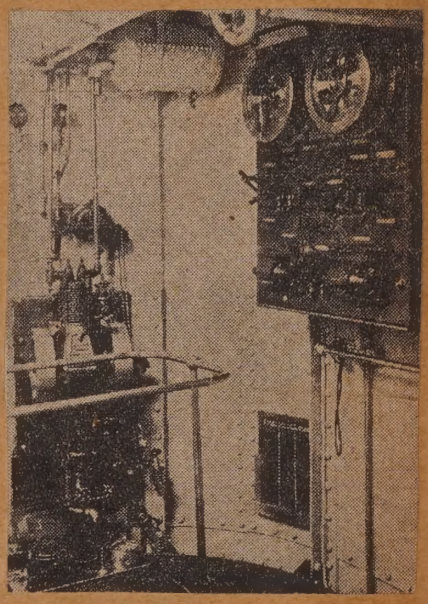
He was twice married, first to Eunice Eaton about 56 years ago, and for the second time to B. Margaret Davis, about 28 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. B. Margaret Divis, three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Rotch, Mrs. Jane D. Hartley, and Mrs. Eunice Hatton, and four sons, William T., Nicholas S., Henry V. and Robert S. Davis, all by his first wife, and 13 grandchildren.

Mr. Davis was a member of the Elks and the Odd Fellows.







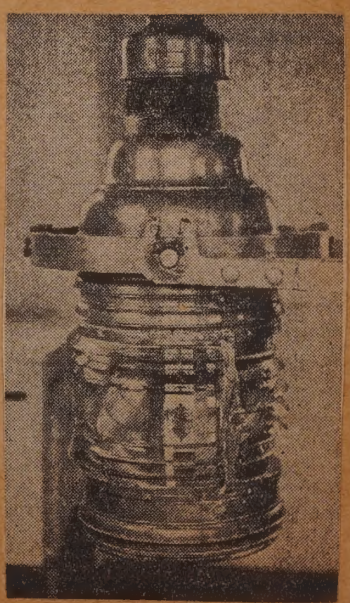
Guardians of Massachusetts Shipping

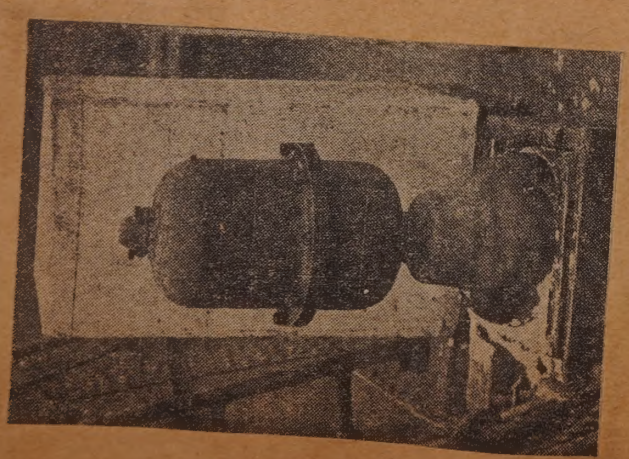
Feb. 21, 1926.

Captain George E. Eaton, Superintendent of the Second District of the United States Lighthouse Service, and samples of the aids to navigation he superintends.

Above, left to right, upright engine operating the automatic whistle of Relief Lightship No. 85 (she's labelled Nantucket and makes her home port in New Bedford harbor). The big cog at the left controls the timing of the blasts. At right of next picture, air compressor that operates the No. 85's submarine signal. At left in same picture, switch controlling automatic light flash. Next, one of the lanterns which flashes from masts of the No. 85. There are three lanterns on each mast. Fourth, submarine signal, suspended from the bow of the boat, which sends warning rings through the waves to be detected by listeners below the water line on other ships.

Below, a disabled gas buoy being unloaded on the P. & R. wharf by the lightship tender Anemone. Her light has been broken off. Note the mushroom anchor suspended from the derrick. At sea this anchors the buoy. Left, one of Captain Eaton's lightship.





CRUISER WHICH COMES HERE

Oct-7-'27

The H. M. S. Capetown

The Capetown, a light cruiser attached to the Atlantic squadron of the British Navy, will come to New Bedford Oct. 18 for a five days visit. Plans for the entertainment of its officers and crew are being made by city officials and British societies.

OLD CHURCH IS STUDIO — C. Arnold Slade, the artist, has converted the old Methodist church building of Truro, which he bought some time ago, into a studio, which he opens to the public in the summer season.

...AN LANDMARKS FLAVOR BRISTOL TOUR

Top, "Writing Rock" on Eastern bank of Taunton River opposite South Dighton village. Characters thereon purported to have been written by Norsemen in 1003; center, New Bedford Pumping Station at Quittacas Pond; bottom right, Pratt Free School in Titicut, founded in 1856. Bottom left: map of 70-mile tour.

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

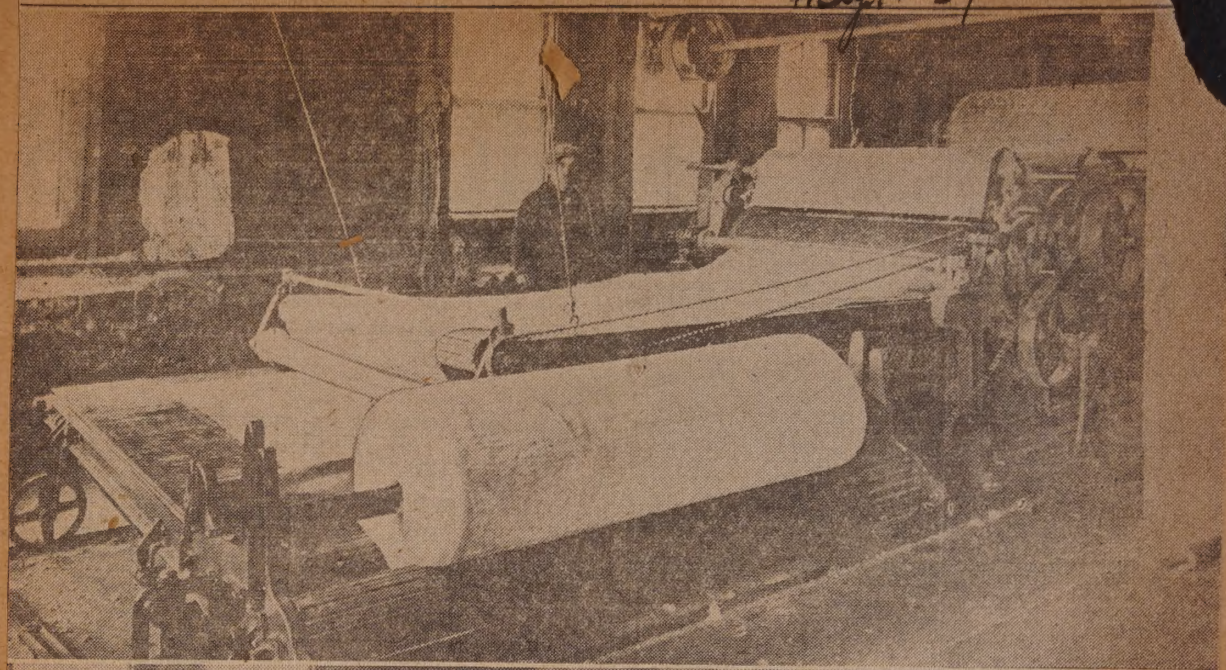
MRS. JOHN BREHAUT.

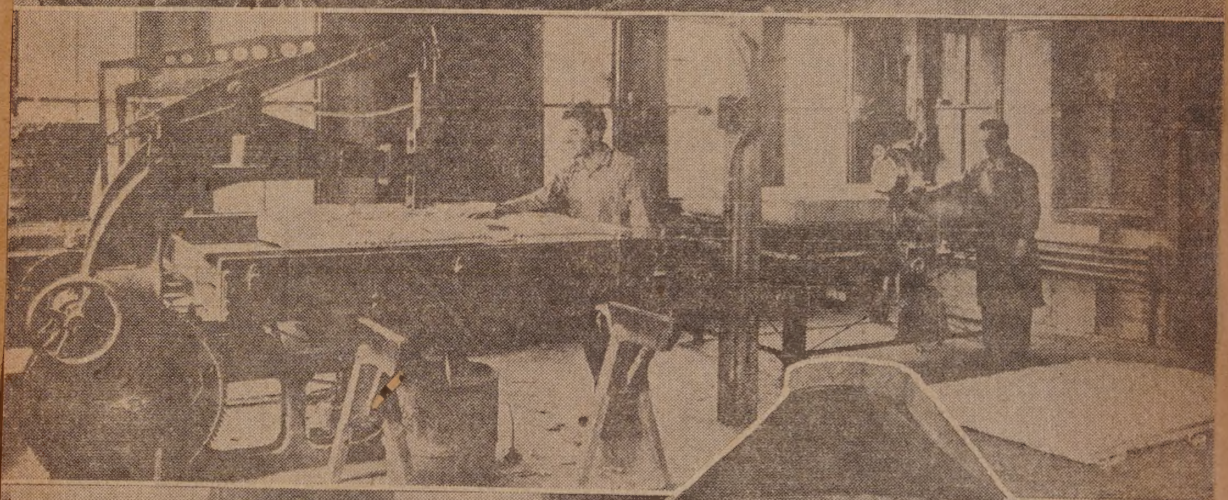
FARMER'S WIFE ACTIVE AT 86

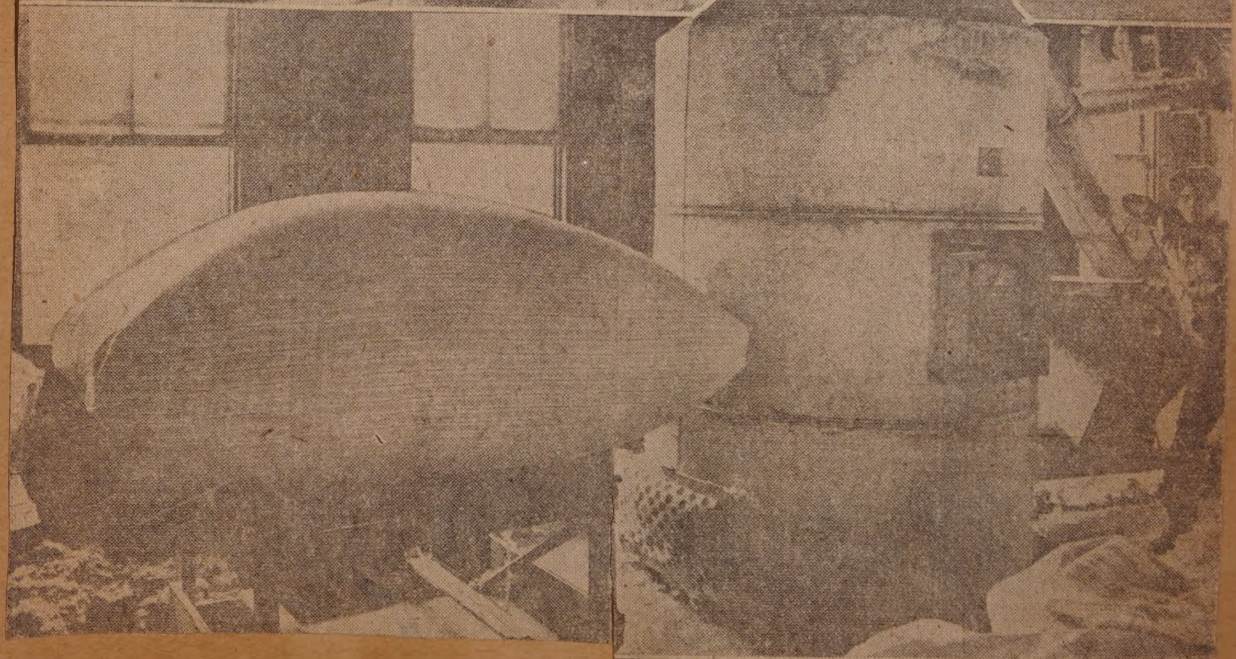
Mrs. John Brehaut, Dartmouth, Has Lived in Same House 44 Years

Husband Devotes Time to Caring for Poultry and Small Garden

May 10 27







At Rubin Plant

At the plant of J. Rubin and Sons this modern equipment is installed to facilitate the making of fine bedding. The upper picture shows the garnetting machine and Blanmeyer lapper used to convert combed cotton waste into layers of felt. In the center, to the left, a man is shown operating the automatic tufting machine, and to the right, a machine is forming and [illegible] roll-edge on a [illegible] shown an inflated [illegible] the blower

June 5, 1927 The Marine Figures in the Pickles Reef Disaster

Upper left, the Doxford under escort, from a crayon by Mabel F. Martin. Below, tug Right Arm. At right, the Doxford in dry dock.

—Photo by Rodgers

TUGS SEEK HAVEN — A goodly company of seagoing tugs are shown at Vineyard Haven, where they have put in because of the excellent shelter from storms which its harbor provides.

IERCE & KILBURN

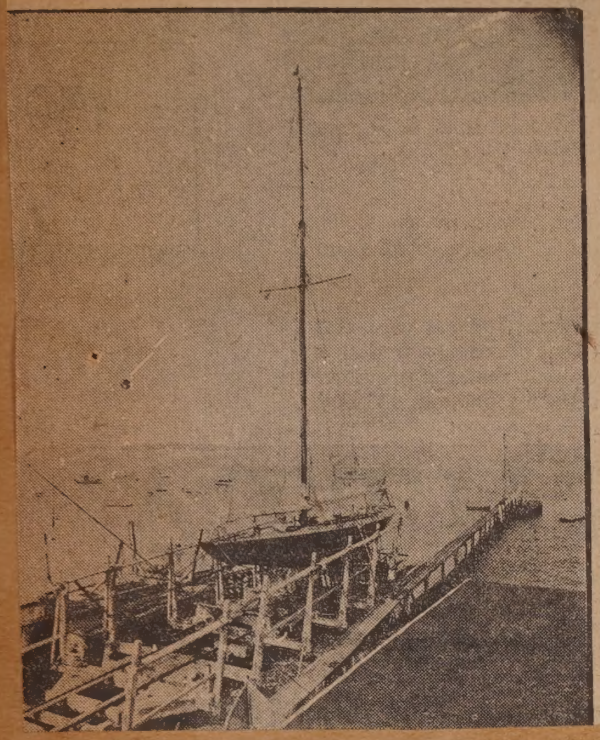
MARINE CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIRS

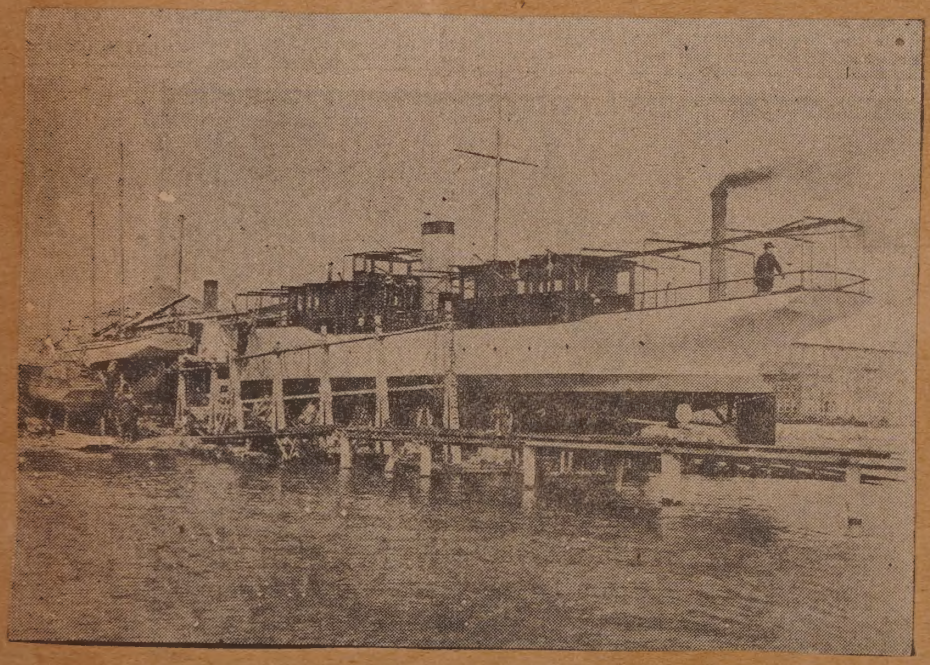
5 Marine Railways

May 30, 1926.

BASIN & LAND STORAGE

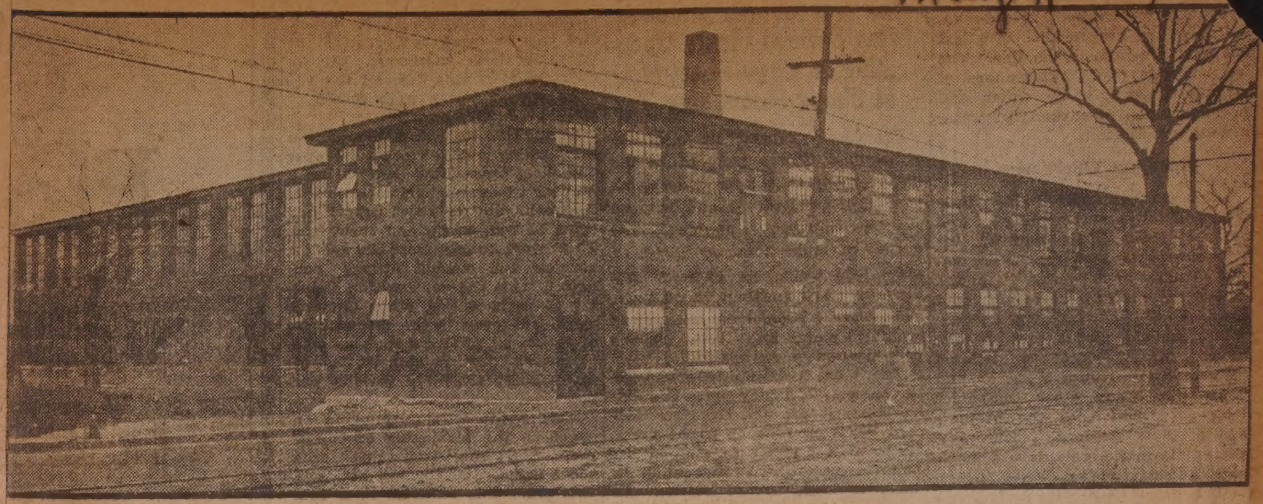
Residence Construction and Alterations





NEW BEDFORD'S LARGEST SILK WEAVING ESTABLISHMEN

May 1 - 27

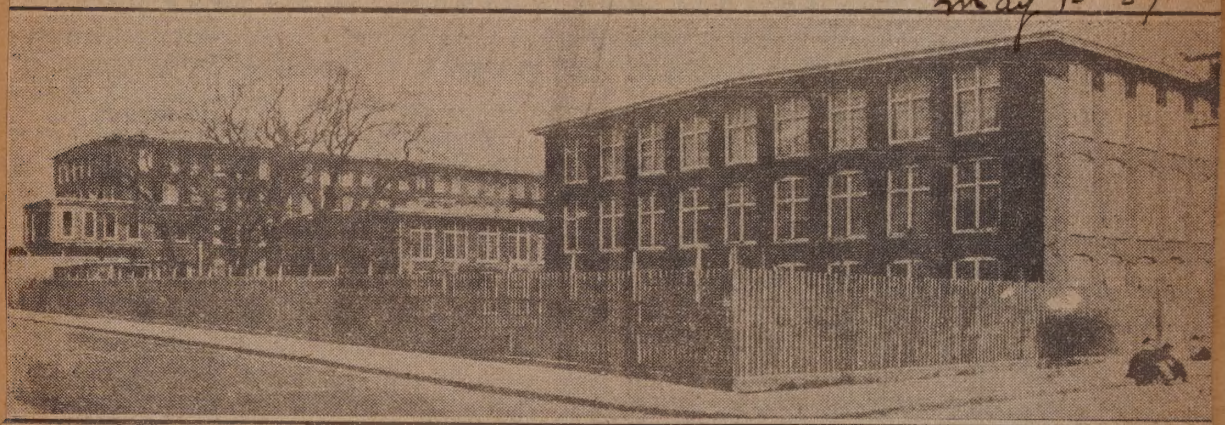


Gilt Edge Silk Mills

The plant of the Gilt Edge Silk Mills Company, located at the extreme west end of Kempton street, is shown here.

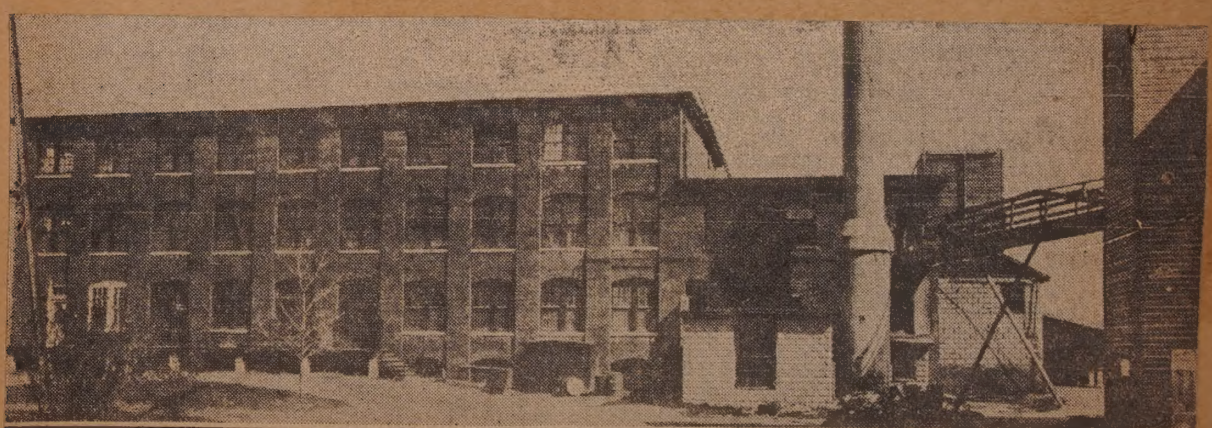
SHOWING FOR PAST YEAR CONSIDERED VERY GOOD

May 1- 27



Acushnet Mills

This New Bedford textile mill has 3,441 looms and 114,240 spindles engaged in making sateens, twills, shirtings, plain and fancy silk filled goods.



Hersom's Plant

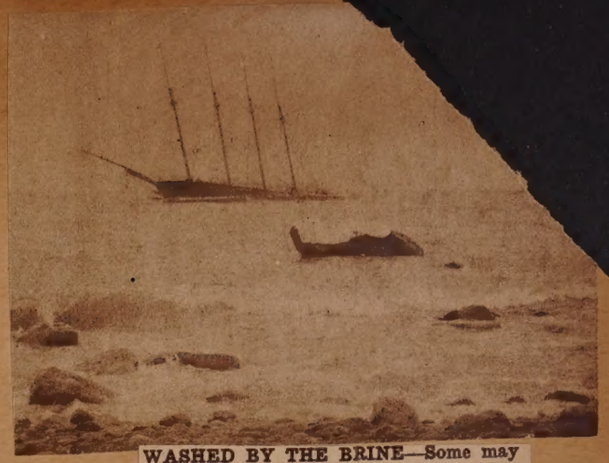
May 1, 1927.

This is the factory of Thomas Hersom and Company on Howard avenue, where Best soap and Neverfail fertilizer are made.

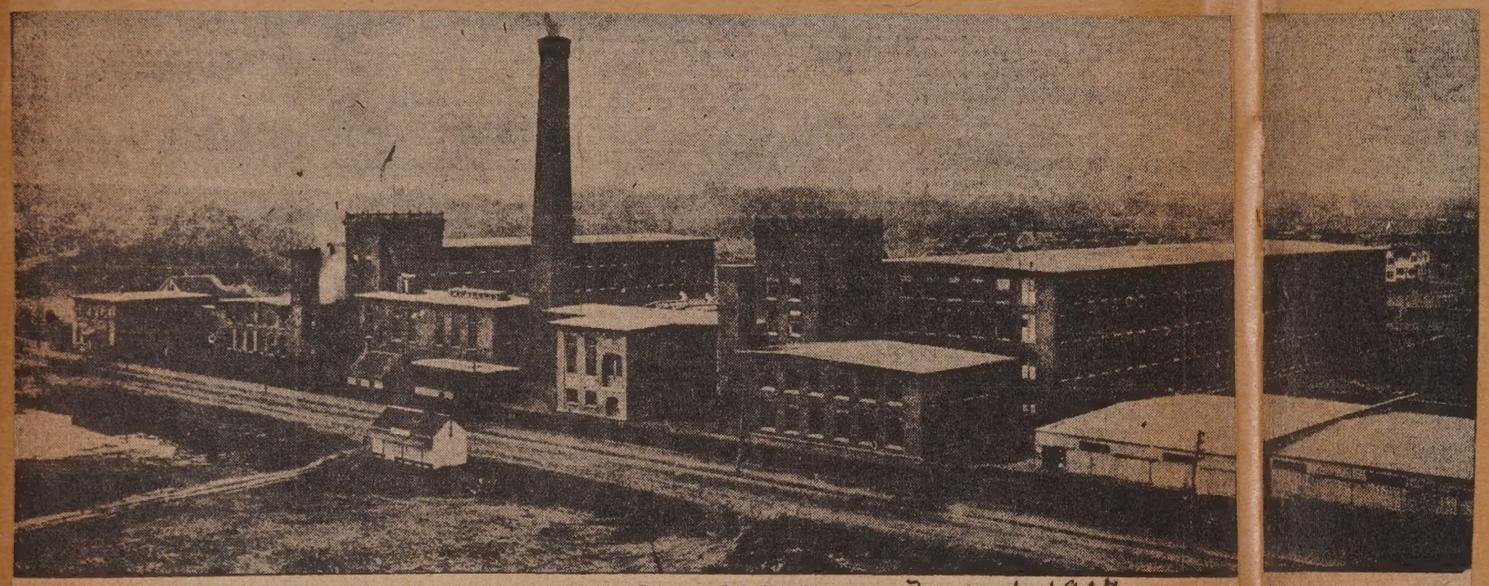
J. I. PAULDING PLANT WHERE ELECTRIC SWITCHES AND [illegible]CKETS ARE MADE

Becoming Nationally Known May 1, 1927.

Millions of electrical switches, sockets, fuse-boxes, wall plates and similar supplies are made in the J. I. Paulding plant (formerly the old wax [illegible]factory). The plant has been repeatedly enlarged.

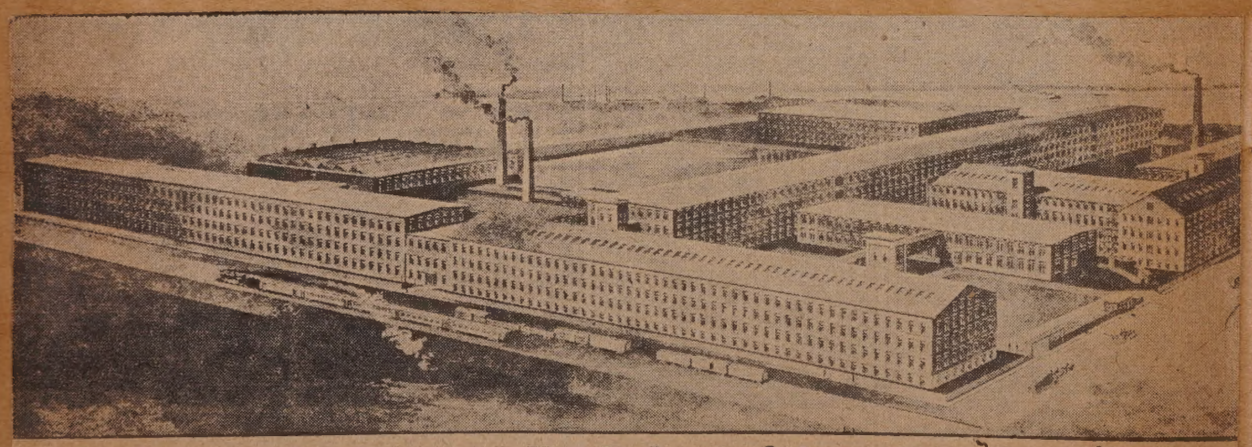


WASHED BY THE BRINE—Some may recall having seen at Cuttyhunk a few years ago aground off the shore the coal ship, Douglass [illegible] beethorne.



Gosnold Mills May 1, 1927.

This 86,036-spindle, 3,187-loom plant, using large quantities of silk and rayon, has recently begun paying extensive attention to the manufacture [illegible] of novelty cloths. One of its departments constitutes one of the largest silk-weaving establishments in the city.



New Bedford's Oldest Mill May 1, 1927

Manufacturing sheets, pillow cases, oxfords, lawns, fancies, poplins, high grade yarns, and yacht duck, Wamsutta Mills, established in 1846, has ma[illegible] gressive management a place among the leaders in the American textile world which fell to it naturally on the basis of senio[illegible] intained through its pro-[illegible] vity.

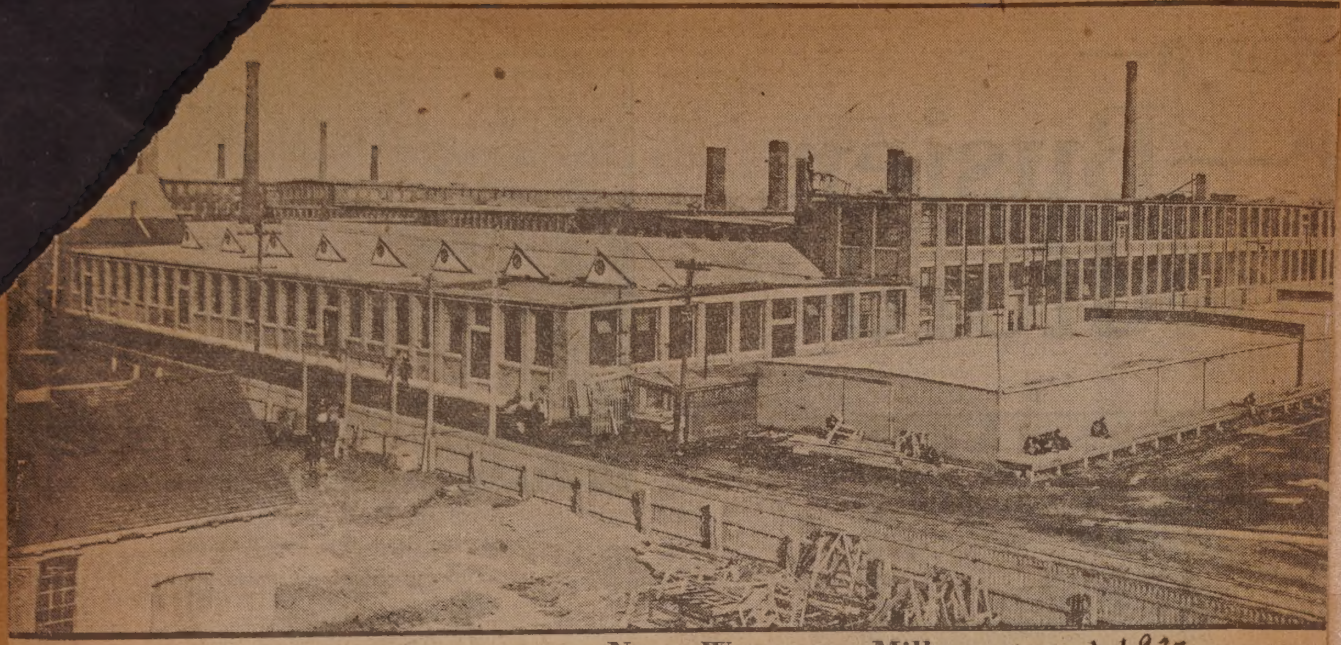
HOLMES HAS BIG CAPACITY FOR MERCERIZED YARNS

may 1-27

Spins Fine Yarns

The Holmes Manufacturing Company is one of the fine combed yarn spinning concerns that cluster at New Bedford. It is the only plant equipped to do its own mercerizing, and not only processes its own yarns but does mercerizing for outside customers on a commission basis.

NT OF TAUNTON-NEW BEDFORD COPPER WORKS Ma

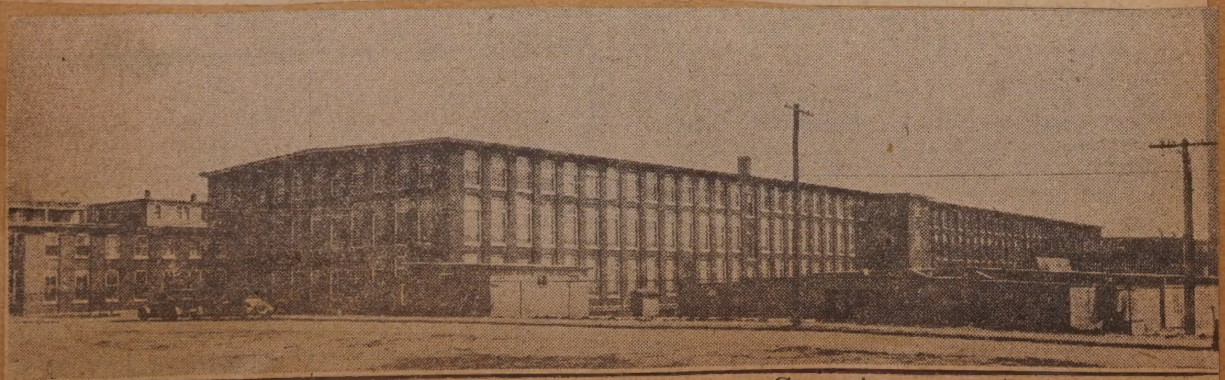


Near Wamsutta Mills May 1, 1927

Enlarged rolling mill and copper making establishment situated on North Front street, New Bedford.

Old Colony Silk Mills May 1, 1927

Plant established here by Old Colony Silk Mills for throwing silk. The company's weaving department occupies an entirely different site.



Bristol Manufacturing Co. May 1, 1927.

This New Bedford fine goods mill, producing cotton and silk goods, plain and fancies, and novelty constructions, has 67,040 spindles and [illegible] looms. Investors respect it for the solidity of its financial situation.

y 1, 1927.

Quarrying New Bedford Granite

may 1.'27

View of section of Sullivan quarries on Hathaway road, New Bedford, where Sullivan Granite comes from.

DOWN IN OSTERVILLE—Osterville Baptist church stands at the right in this view of Post Office square, at the intersection of Main street and Wianno avenue, that village.

DUSTRIAL PLANTS CLUSTERED ALONG WATERFRONT AND NEAR RAILROAD

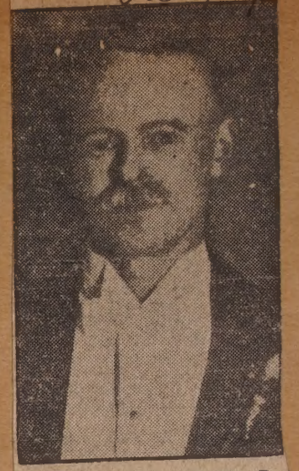
Aeroplane View of City

May 1, 1927.

(1) Nashawena Mill's new Plant B, (formerly Manomet No. 3). (2) Nonquitt Spinning Co. (3) Nashawena Mills, Plant A. (4) Manomet Mills No. 1 and 2. (5) Whitman Mills. (6) Pierce Manufacturing Co. Plant. (7) Soule Mill. (8) Fairhaven Mills. (9) Bristol Manufacturing Co. (10) Grinnell Manufacturing Co. (11) New Bedford Copper Co. (12) Wamsutta Mills. (13) Hill & Cutler (Cotton Waste Plant.) (14) New Bedford Gas and Edison Light Co., Power Plant. (15) Pairpoint Corporation. (16) Quissett Mill. (17) City Manufacturing Co. (18) Potomska Mills. (19) Acushnet Mills. (20) Dartmouth Manufacturing Co. (21) Hathaway Manufacturing Co. (22) Butler Mills. (23) Holmes Manufacturing Co. (24) Booth Manufacturing Co. (25) Kilburn Mill. (26) Page Manufacturing Co. (27) Gosnold Mills. (28) Fisk Rubber Co. (Ninigret Division). (29) Sharp Manufacturing Co. (30) Morse Twist Drill and Machine Co. (31) National Spun Silk Co. (32) New Bedford Cotton Mills Corp. (33) Neild Manufacturing Co. (34) Union Stores plant of New Bedford Storage Warehouse Co., in which are located New Bedford Silk Mills, Milan Silk Mills, Atlas Plywood Corporation and part of the Old Colony Silk Mills and part of Lambeth Rope Corp. (35) Talby Mill. (36) Beacon Mills. (37) Pierce Brothers Ltd. (38) Atlas Tack Co. (39) Acushnet Process Co. (40) Hersom Soap Factory. (41) New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Terminal Shops. (42) Ted Toy-lers Inc. (43) Devon Mills. (44) Pemaquid Mills. (45) I. L. Marrow Co. Plant. (46) Nye's Oil Works.

ORGANIST NAMED

Oct 29-27



Albert Airey to Begin Duties at North Baptist Church

The official board of the North Baptist church has announced the appointment of Albert Airey, 210 Chestnut street, for the last 11 years organist and choirmaster of St. James's Episcopal church, as church organist. He will begin his duties Sunday, Nov. 6, playing for both morning and evening services.

Mr. Airey will in addition take the direction of the North Baptist choir. He resigned from the St. James's church position last April.

ATTENDANTS FOR BOOK EXHIBIT

Nov-18.28

GIRL SCOUTS SERVE IN LIBRARY

Girl Scouts from three troops are shown here acting as attendants at the book exhibit in the children's department of the Free Public library last week in connection with national book week. They are: seated, Muriel Ferguson, Poppy troop; standing, left to right, Helen Swan, Crocus troop, and Mary Owen, Thistle troop. This week, known as Scout week, inaugurates a campaign for funds in this city for the Girl Scouts.

RAILROAD YARDS AND MAINTENANCE SHOPS IN NEW BEDFORD

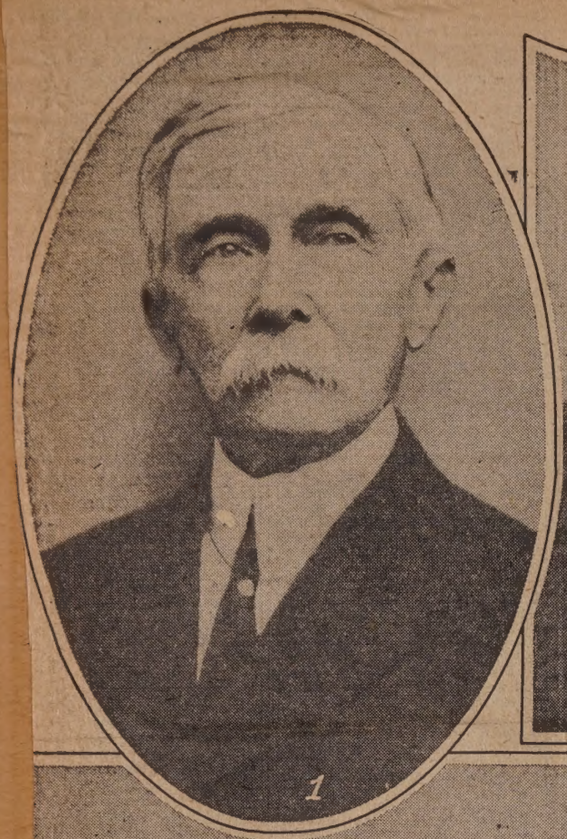
May 1 st 27

New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad

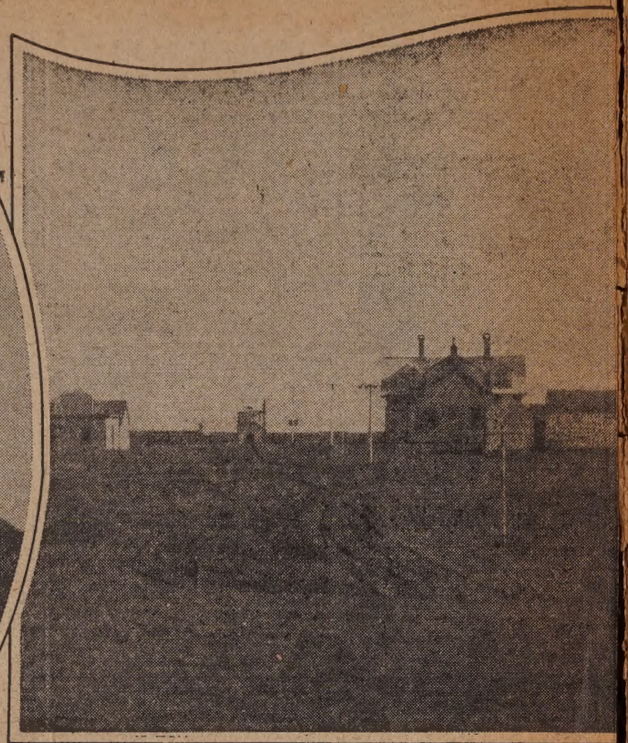
Here are shown the yards in which are made up the trains which carry New Bedford products to all parts of the United States.

saac Morton Small, Marine Reporting Agent at Highland Lig[illegible]ht, Has Watched Vessels Round Peninsula Since '61 -- Recalls How Square-Riggers Were Supplanted by S[illegible]hooners, Which Later Gave Way to Steamships

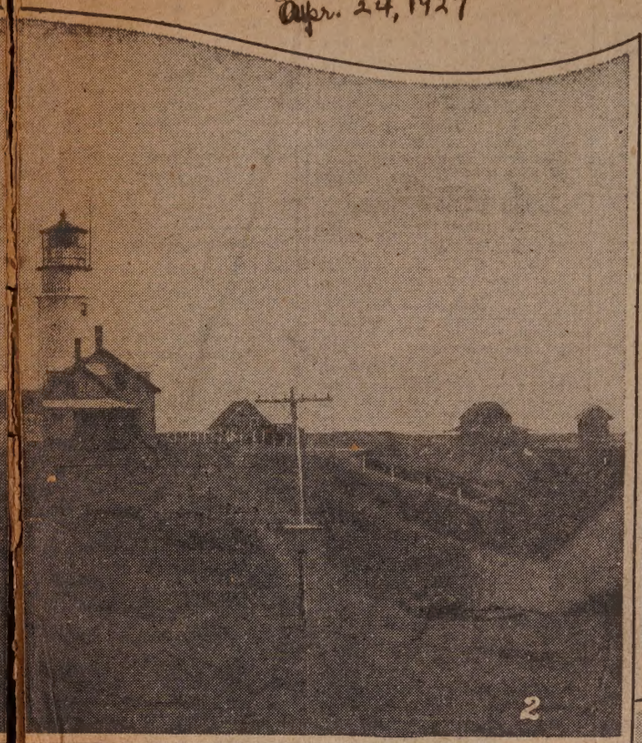
Aug. 24, 1927



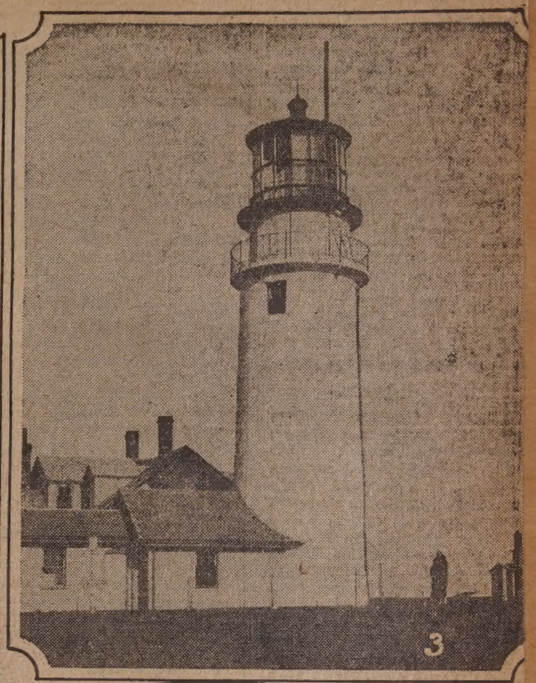
1

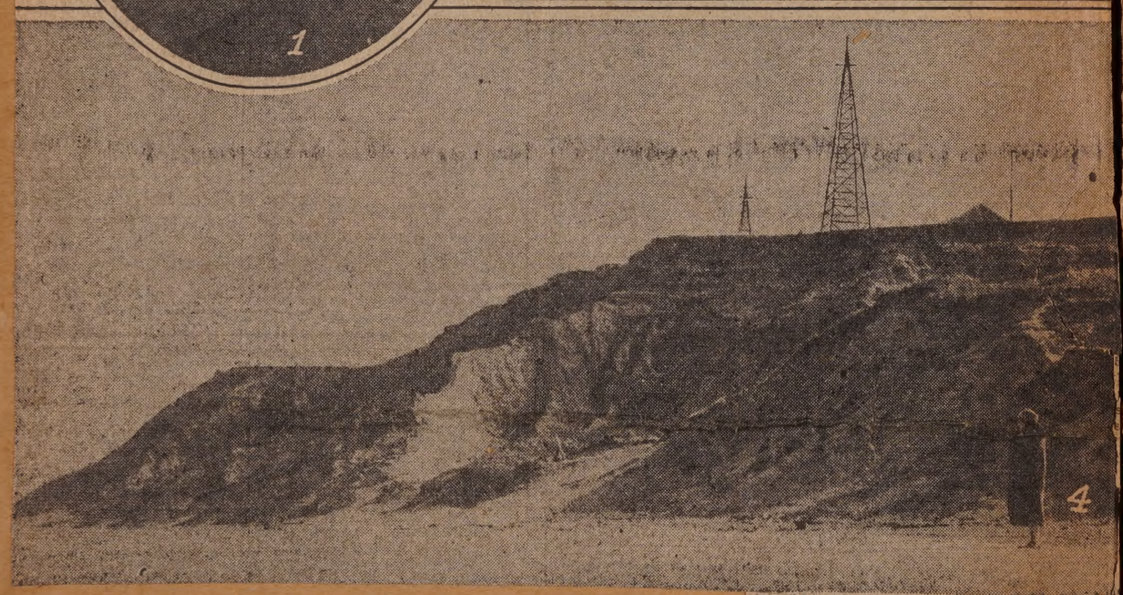


2

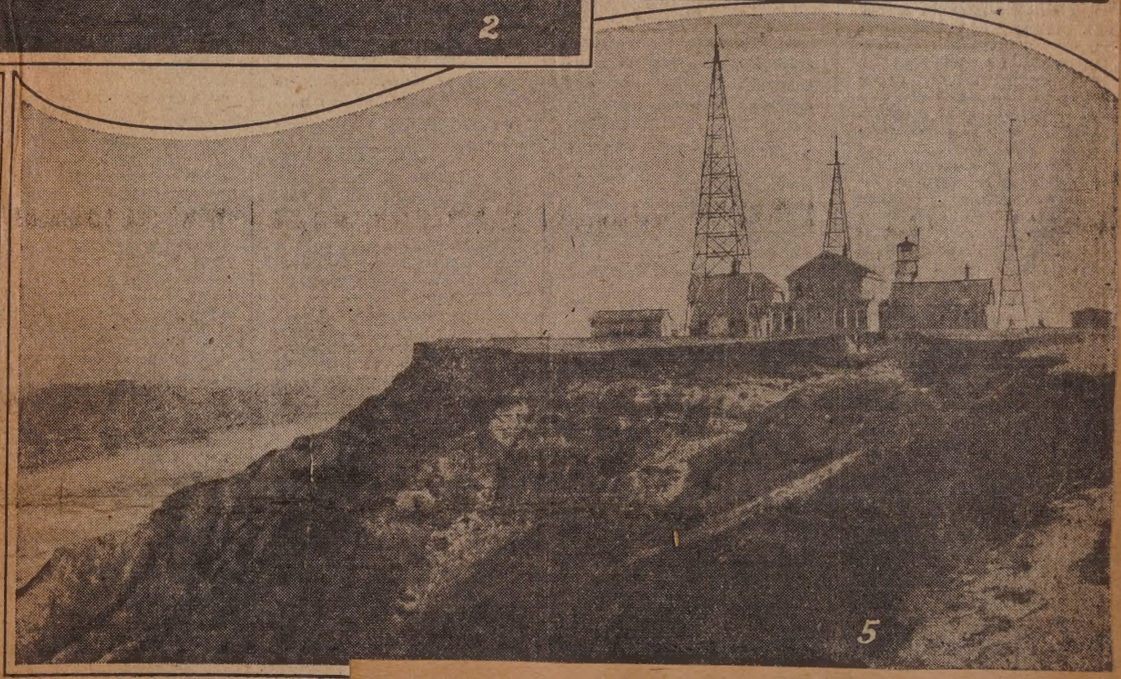


3





4



5

Where Practiced Ey[illegible]e Looks Out to Sea

(1) Isaac Morton Small. (2) Fed[illegible]eral reservation at Highland Light. (3) Highland Light. (4) Beach and bluffs, s[illegible]rmounted by Navy radio compass station. (5) Bluffs at Highland Light. The Smal[illegible]s' home is the house in the foreground with six windows on the first floor visible. The bluffs have receded 40 feet in his lifetime, Mr. Small says.

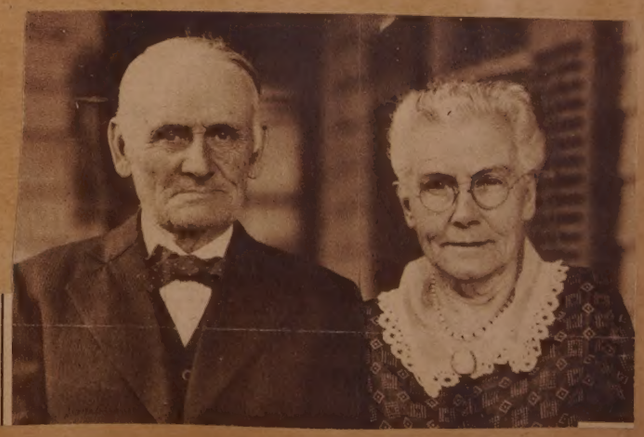
PROBABLE COURSE OF CAPE-NANTUCKET SWIM SHOWN

Currents Easier Near Island

The map indicates the probable course entrants in the proposed Craigville beach-to-Nantucket swim will be forced to take, owing to the influence of the tidal currents. Starting at Craigville beach, on Cape Cod, in the morning, as it is proposed to do, they will be swept by a westerly tide almost as far in that direction, it is believed, as they will be able to swim southward, before the tide turns. When they have arrived at a point somewhere west and south of Horseshoe shoal, it is expected, they will take advantage of the turn of the tide to the east and swim in a southeasterly direction, past Cross Rip lightship and into the quieter waters off Nantucket island. From there on in to shore they will meet comparatively favorable swimming conditions, including less current, and warmer and quieter water. The arrows indicate the approximate direction of the current in various parts of the sound. It will be noted that along the north side the eastward and westward flow are not in directly opposite directions, as elsewhere. May 15, 1927.

CAMP MEETING—This shows the Warren, R. I., delegation at a Methodist camp meeting in the days of the old Marthas Vineyard Campmeeting sociation.

VINEYARD CHURCH—This picture of the Methodist church at Vineyard Haven was taken in 1868.

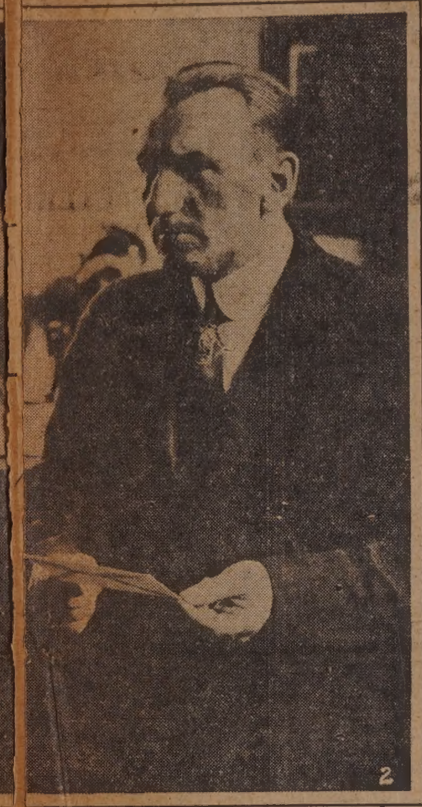


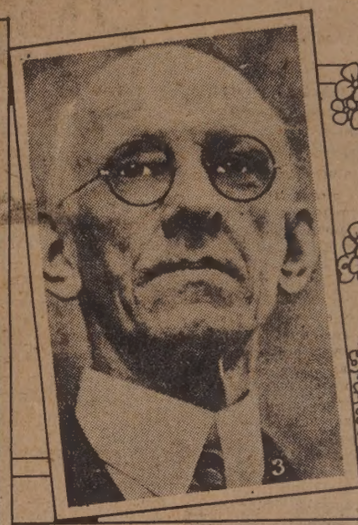
Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Weeks, 474 Washington street, who recently observed their 1927 60th wedding anniversary, are both 81. They were married at Wilson, Me.

ETHODIST CONFERENCE RETURNS AFTER 14 YEARS

Last Previous Session of Southern New England Body in This City Was Held at Pleasant Street Church in 1913 -- Planning Program and Entertainment Is Huge Task -- Is Notable Inspirational Gathering

3/30
1927





Planning for the Conference

(1) Dr. Robert L. Roberts, district superinte[ndent of New Bedford district; (2) the Rev. L. C. Harris, pastor of Trinity Church, c[onfers with Alphonso H. Smith, chairman of the general committee on conference arr[angements; (3) the Rev. L. G. Horton, Mansfield, a former New Bedford pastor, who i[s secretary of the conference; (4) the Rev. John Bridgford, Brockton, conference tre[surer; (5) members of the general committee on conference arrangements, readin[g from left to right—top row, Curtis H. Stiles, Charles Mitchell, Edmund D. Searls; [middle row, Mr. Harris, A. H. Smith, chairman; F. Milton Potter; lower row, Miss Alic[e G. Anthony, Mrs. William H. Tripp, Mrs. I. A. Crapo, Mrs. Florence Potter and Mr[. John H. Newland; (6) the Rev. Amos M. Bruce, pastor Wesley M. E. Church, [his city, conference statistician; (7) new view of Trinity M. E. Church, this city, wh[ere conference will meet this year.

CORRESPONDING SECRETARY — Secretarial duties are in charge of Miss Delia J. Girard, corresponding secretary.

OFFICERS OF L'ALLIANCE MUSICALE FRANCO-AMERICAINE

Nov. 1927

SERVES —Miss daughte Moise F street, cale's t

—Frenette Photo

AS TREASURER Cecile Rouillier, r of Mr. and Mrs. Louillier, 241 Myrtle is L'Alliance Musi- reasurer.

—Photo by Kororek.

VICE PRESIDENT — Mrs. Joseph J. Pothier, 107 Hatch street, is vice president of the musical organiza-

—Photo by Jack Harper

DIRECTS LARGE CHOIR — Mrs. S. A. Lamoureux, soprano, is director of the chorus of 75 women's voices training for the annual concert of the organization, to be given in the spring.

Pettingill Photo

FORMER DIRECTOR — Mrs. Marie Antoinette R. Comeau, soprano, who recently went on a stage tour, formerly directed the chorus of L'Alliance Musicale

HEADS MUSICAL GROUP —Mrs. J. Ubalde Paquin, 1306 Acushnet avenue, is president of L'Alliance Musical Franco-Americaine.

COMPANIES SINGERS — Miss Cecile Z. Dion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Dion, 207 Mt. Pleasant street, is the piano accompanist.

JEWELER BUILDS RACING SLOOP

June 24.28

MANUEL P. ROSE AND SHIP

Manuel P. Rose, North End jeweler, shown with his Black Hawk, a model of a class C Marconi rigged sloop. The model is 54 inches long, and the single mast stands 85 inches in height. Mr. Rose is anxious to race his boat against any other near its class and size.

PLAN ACCEPTE

FREDERIC A. DELANO.

DELANO PLAN BENEFITS PERSIA

Nation to Get Tariff Autonomy for Giving Up Opium According to Fairhaven Native's Project

Geneva, Sept. 15 (AP)—Persia has won on three points after officially announcing acceptance of the project of Frederic A. Delano, Washington, D. C., to substitute other crops for opium on Persian soil. Her representatives to the League of Nations, who include Colonel Daniel W. MacCormack, Boston, succeeded yesterday in getting the assembly committee to adopt a resolution advocating complete tariff autonomy for Persia and the removal of tariff restrictions imposed on Persian goods by all the countries participating in this system.

Persia, furthermore, got through an amendment declaring that the countries which manufacture narcotic drugs should follow Persia's example in hitting at the opium evil by restricting their manufacture of morphine, heroin and cocaine.

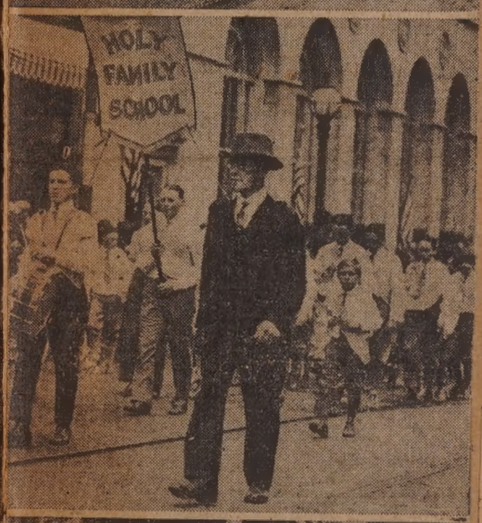
The American followers of the anti drug movement, among them Mrs. Hamilton Wright, Washington, D. C., heartily rejoiced over the day's results as tending to prove that the League is determined to do something definite to wipe out the world wide drug traffic.

Colonel MacCormack, in his final speech before the committee, emphasized that Persia for a century has had her industry stifled, commerce ruined and population impoverished because foreign traders, thanks to the customs control, have been able to undersell the native producers.

He warned that, unless the nations were unshackled from the customs bondage, it would probably have to revert to the previous scale of opium exportation, since the saturation point in taxation had been reached.

ROLL AND FLAGS FLY AS ROTARY BOYS' DAY PARADERS MARCH THROUGH CITY

may 8-27



Striking Contingents in Yesterday's Procession

A few of the striking contingents in the Rotary Boys' Day parade yesterday. Upper left—The Thomas R. Rodman group. Upper right—St. Mary's parochial school followed these drums and banners. Center left—President Clark W. Holcomb at the head of the Rotary paraders. Center, right, Holy Family boys left their hats at home. Bottom left, the Vocational School section following the High School R. O. T. C. battalion up Union street. Bottom, right, a few of the little fellows from the Ashley School.

Photo by Walter Birdsall

A FOREST FREAK—Not many pines can grow up in the shelter of two protecting rocks, but that is what this one, standing about a mile west of Rochester center, on the Acushnet road, apparently did.

WHEN LATE RESIDENTS CAMPED IN MAINE—This old time picture recalls a summer when the late A. Frank Clark, extreme left, and the late Rev. Matthew C. Julien, third from left, spent a vacation "down East." Mr. Julien served the Trinitarian church as pastor for 42 years.

...YS' DAY BRINGS OUT YOUTHFUL MARCHERS, 3,472 STRONG

May 8th 1927

Ingraham School Paraders Adjudged Best Appearing

Above, the head of the Robert C. Ingraham School procession, which was judged the best appearing in the Boys' Day parade yesterday, for the third successive year.

Center, the John B. deVales School boys typified a former Whaling City bidding welcome to new industries. They pressed the Ingraham School hard for first place as the best appearing, and won honorable mention.

Below, the Betsey B. Winslow School boys made a fine showing for marching and costuming, thereby winning honorable mention.

EXCAVATING ⟶ This was a familiar sight on William street 15 years ago, when the new high school building was being constructed. 1927-15=1912.

HOST TO SOUTH BRISTOL FARMERS' CLUB

July 16 27

Job S. Gidley With Guests

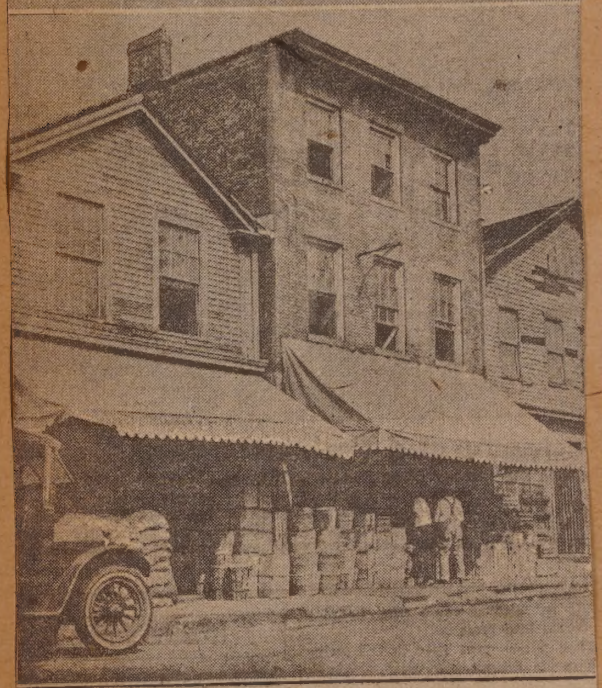
The first field meeting of the South Bristol Farmers' club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Job S. Gidley, Tucker road, Dartmouth. This picture shows Mr. Gidley, the host, with three of his guests. Left to right are Mr. Gidley, George A. Fuller, Daniel Dean and Nat P. Sowle.

FLAPPERS OF YESTERYEAR—These flappers of years past are somewhat different from the present day specie, with their skirts abbreviated at the knee, their tight fitting hats, short sleeves and low necked dresses.

TEENTH CENTURY BELLES-

BUILDINGS SEE INDUSTRIAL CHANGES

July 31-27-



Linked with City's Past

Widening of lower Union street dooms structures that have survived industrial transition of city. Above, building at Union and South Water street has housed whaling firms, shoe and hardware stores, hotel and saloons. Below, one of first brick business blocks erected on South Water street. Iron crane on facade originally carried sign of shoe dealer.

HONOR PLANNED FOR BIRTHDAY

NOV. 17. 27

Miss Alice M. Fish, Fairhaven, Guest Tomorrow at Unitarian Church Luncheon on 92d Anniversary

On her 92d birthday today, Miss Alice M. Fish, 20 William street, Fairhaven, is to be honored by members of Unitarian Memorial church, Fairhaven, at the church's annual Christmas luncheon and sale. Miss Fish is a lifelong member of the church and an active worker in the congregation.

Miss Fish will be the guest of honor at noon at the luncheon in the parish house. She will be seated at a special table bearing a large birthday cake, decorated with candles.

MISS ALICE M. FISH.

Despite her advanced age, Miss Fish is keen mentally and active physically. Frequently she is able to get out on the city streets to attend church functions. She reads, writes, and does fancy work as she chooses. As recently as Sept. 11, last, she unveiled a bronze tablet at Fort Phoenix, Fairhaven, which commemorates the first naval engagement of the Revolutionary war. She is a granddaughter of Captain Nathaniel Pope, one of those who commanded the naval force that captured the two British vessels.

PASTOR DIES ... CONNECTICU...

The Rev. Willis G. Brown, 74, Formerly Preached Here

Death from Angina Pectoris Occurs at Daughter's Home

15? Sept. 1927

The Rev. Willis G. Brown, pastor of Advent Christian church in this city and in Fairhaven for a number of years, died last night of angina pectoris at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Cargil, 520 Thompson avenue, Easthaven, Conn. He was 74, and had been ill four or five months.

THE REV. WILLIS G. BROWN

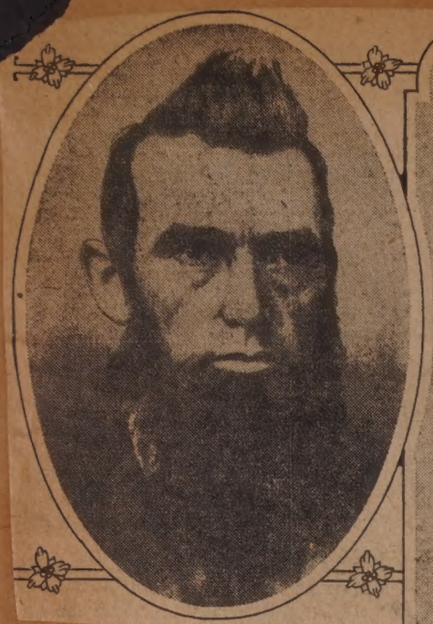
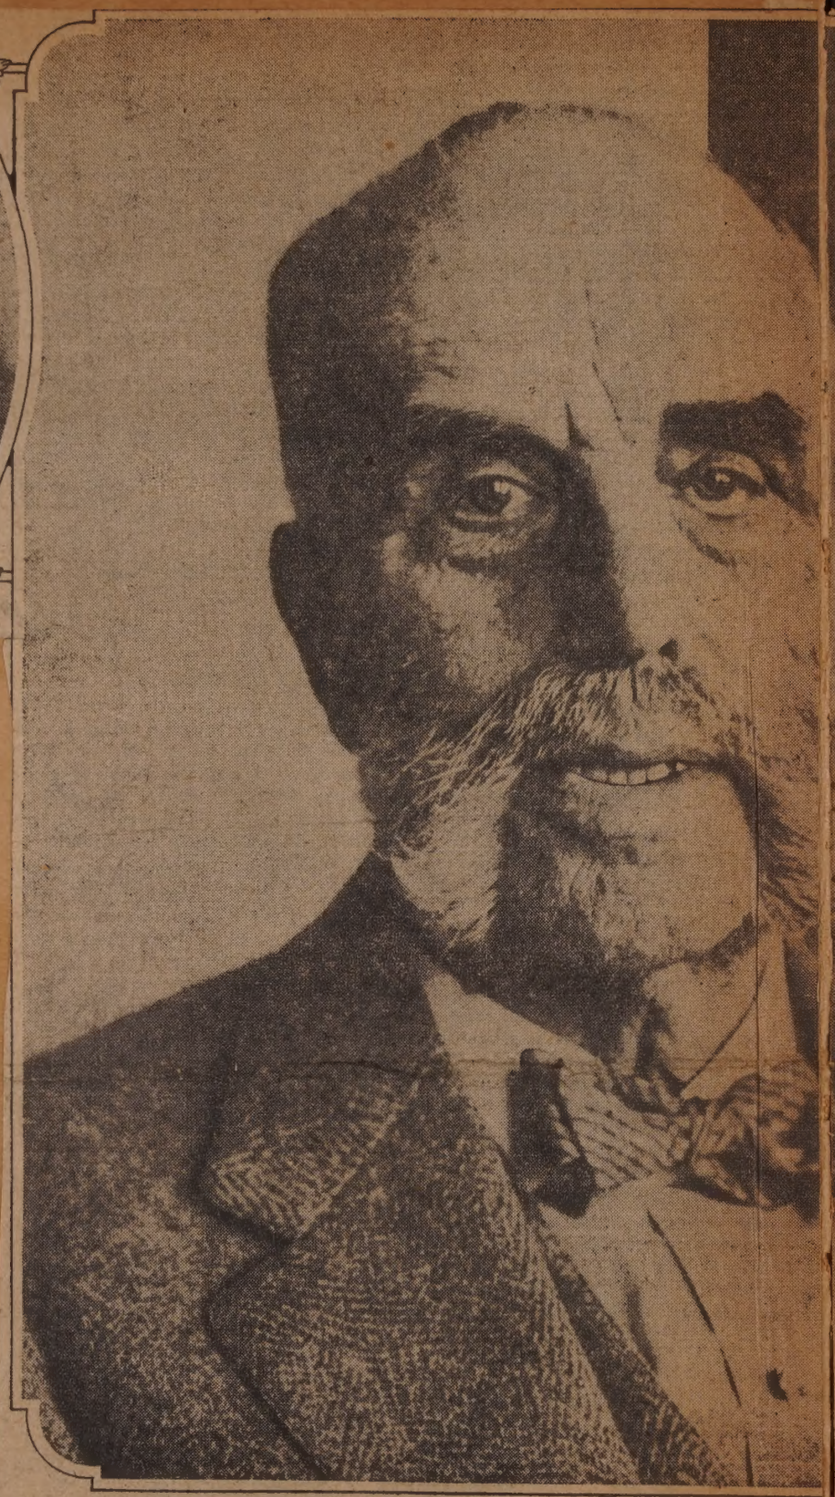
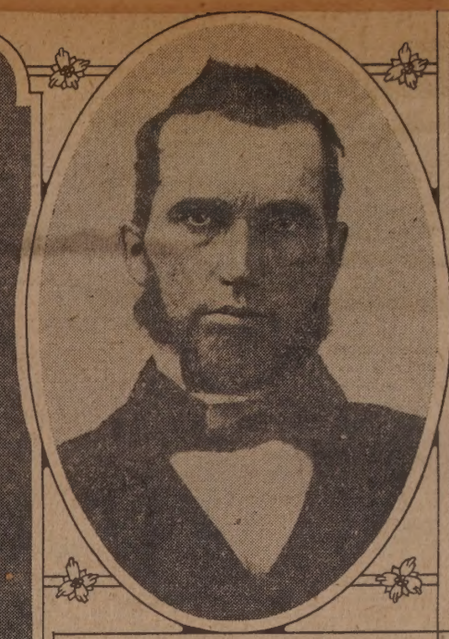
Mr. Brown's last pulpit service was in Eatontown, N. J., where he supplied for several months before going to live with Mrs. Cargil. He refused a call as permanent pastor in Eatontown because of his advanced years. About a year ago he made to trip to California to visit a son, Willis H. Brown, Pasadena. He held various offices in the southern district of the Massachusetts conference of his church, including the presidency, and served as president of the Neighborhood conventions of this vicinity.

Many Years in Ministry.

Prior to coming to New Bedford in 1913, Mr. Brown had served 41 years in the ministry. He was born and brought up in Orrington, Me. Among his pastorates were Plymouth, Pittsfield, N. H., North Adams and Newburyport. His wife, Mrs. Permelia K. Brown, died two years ago. He leaves four children by his first marriage, Mrs. Cargil, Willis H. Brown, Mrs. Percy M. Leavitt, Hartford, Conn., and Karl Brown, this city.







Andrew E. Hathaway and His Paren

Andrew E. Hathaway as he appears today and, lower right, as he looked when he left s office at 16. Upper right, his father, John M. Hathaway, as a young man, and (left) as he a mother, Mrs. Elizabeth (Studley) Hathaway, Bakerville, is at the upper right.

ts Jan. 30, 1927.

hool and started in his father's stable peared shortly before his death. His

Jan. 24 1928.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Horan

Dr. and Mrs. Horan leaving St. Lawrence's church following their wedding Monday.

From the Hathaway Family Album

Feb. 6, 1927.

Upper left: Mrs. Elizabeth Tallman, Andrew E. Hathaway's sister. Upper right: Four generations, Mr. Hathaway's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Studley Hathaway; her son, Mr. Hathaway; his daughter, Mrs. Mary Hathaway Sears; and her daughter, now Mrs. Garry DeN. Hough Jr. of Springfield.

Lower left: Mr. Hathaway at the age of 17. Lower right: Mr. Hathaway's wife, who died about five years ago.

RECTOR RETURNS

THE REV. A. E. JOHNSON.

The Rev. Alfred Evan Johnson, on of the old rectors of St. Martin's Epis copal church, in memory of whose wif the present church was built, will oc cupy the pulpit of St. Martin's at the morning service and will assist the rec tor at the evening service. Mr. John son is at present professor of history at Cathedral School for Girls, Orlando Fla.

NEW DOG DELIGHTS

Ashley with Peter Brown

Peter Brown is the name chosen by Mayor Charles S. Ashley for th cocker spaniel given him by Alderman George H. Cushing. Since th death of Towser, another pet of the mayor, seven years ago, Mr. Ashl has been without a dog.

1919

Feb. 13, 1927.

From Mr. Hathaway's Memories

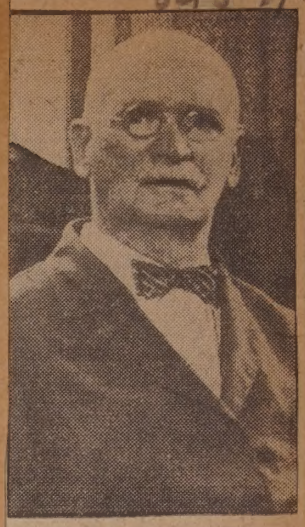
Top, left: Andrew E. Hathaway's blacksmith shop as it looked a few years ago, after he had sold it to Frank McGowan. William J. Edgerton and Mr. McGowan at the left, while Mr. Hathaway and the late James F. Smith are to be seen standing in the center of the picture.

Top, right: Mr. Hathaway as he appeared during the early days of the horse cars.

Bottom, left: Governor John L. Bates, who once drove the horse car shown at the bottom right, the first horse car on Marthas Vineyard, running from Highland Park to the Camp Grounds, Cottage City.

Bottom, middle: New Bedford in the days when the horse cars were gradually giving way to the trolley cars. The picture was taken at Union and Purchase streets, looking northeast.

PILGRIMS' KIN



ROBERT NELSON TINKHAM.

DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Robert Nelson Tinkham, 76, Expires at His Park Street Home

Was Descendant of One of Early Proprietors of Dartmouth

Robert Nelson Tinkham, 76, died at 7:10 P. M. Monday at his home, 80 Park street, following a lengthy illness. Although he had been in ill health for five years he had been confined to his bed for only two months.

Born in North Bridgewater.

Mr. Tinkham was born in North Bridgewater, the son of David Wilbur Tinkham and Eliza Ann Higgins Tinkham. He was a descendant of John Tinkham, one of the early proprietors of Dartmouth and was a descendant of two who came over to America on the Mayflower, Peter Brown on the maternal side and Stephen Hopkins on the paternal side.

Mr. Tinkham came to New Bedford when he was 19 and started work as a moulder at the New Bedford Iron works. He held the distinction of making the pipes of the first water main in New Bedford in the first year of his employment here.

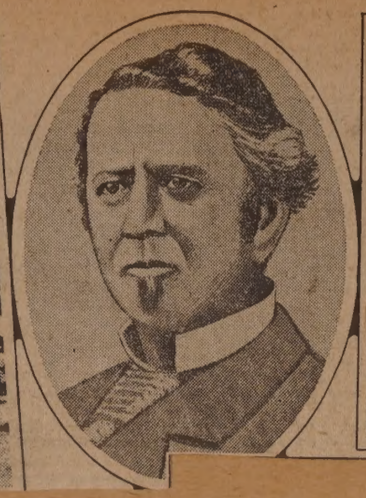
He was employed at the New Bedford Iron works, the Fairhaven Iron foundry and the Acushnet Iron works at various times since coming here and in his later years he was foreman of the Acushnet foundry. He retired five years ago.

Member of Odd Fellows.

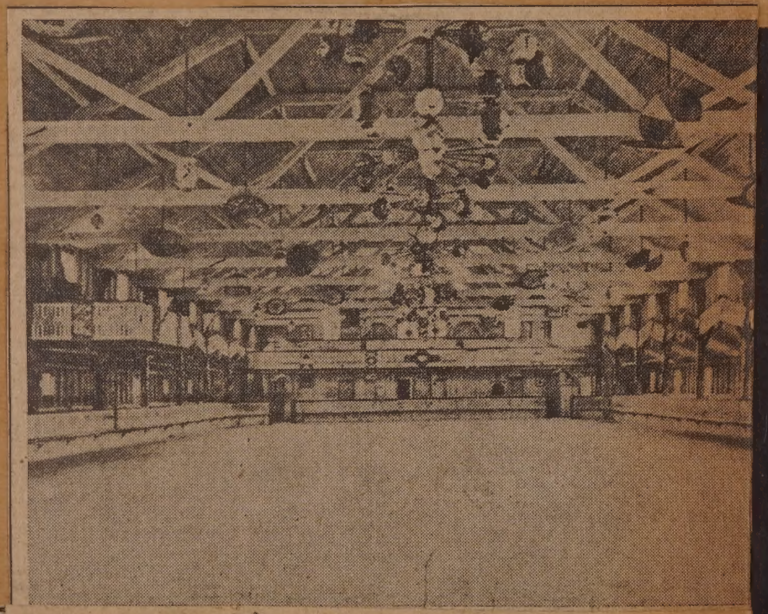
Mr. Tinkham was a former member of Vesta lodge of Odd Fellows. He was a communicant of St. Lawrence's church.

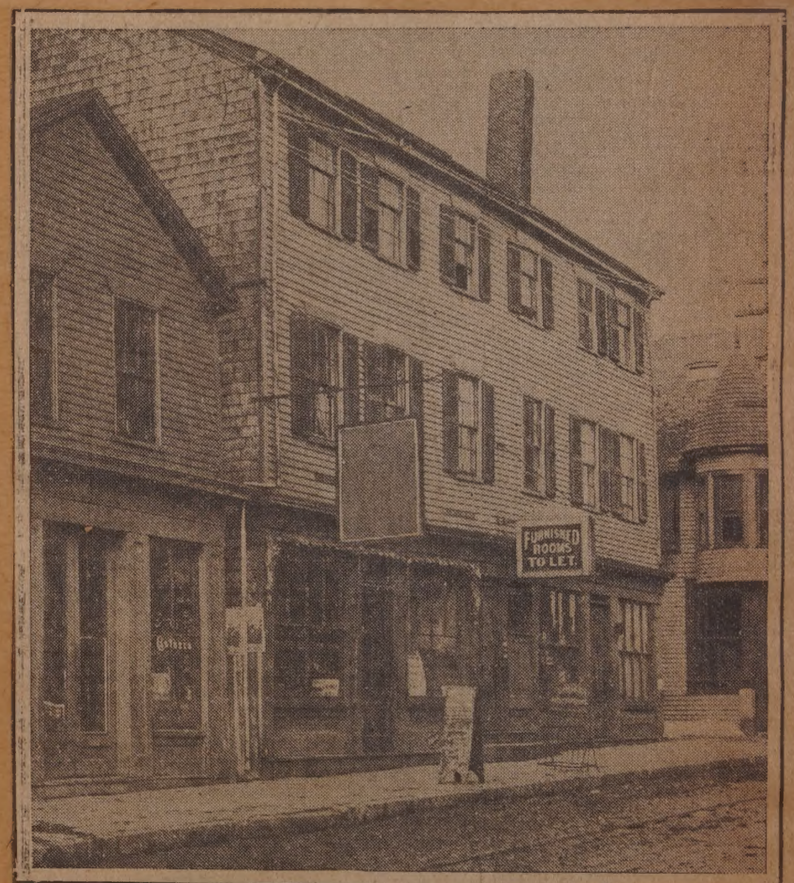
Besides his widow, Mrs. Hannah M. Tinkham, Mr. Tinkham is survived by three sons, William N. Tinkham, Robert D. Tinkham and George H. Tinkham, all of New Bedford; three daughters, Mrs. Robert Sibor and Miss Hannah A. Tinkham, New Bedford, and Miss Mary F. Tinkham, New York city; a sister, Mrs. Charles Gould, Brockton, and three grandchildren, Althea and William K. Tinkham and Donald W. Sibor, New Bedford.

...er Johnson, Who Saved Many Victims in City of Col...mbus Shipwreck in 1884, Was Exploited on Show Tou...
Until Liquor Cost His Job--Indian Was ...ound Slain in Boat Off Egg Island



The interesting story of Peter Johnson, hero of the City of Columbus wreck off Gay Head, and of how Andrew E. Hathaway exhibited him later throughout this part of the country, is told today in the fourth installment of Mr. Hathaway's autobiography. Included in the tale is the story of Johnson's tragic death. Mr. Hathaway also gives insight into life at the old Peoples House on Second street and a character sketch of Andrew J. Dam and Gus White, proprietors there. Another chapter in his life story will appear next Sunday.





PLACED IN ST. JAMES'S CHURCH
January 19-1928

St. Peter and St. James new statues, St. Peter, left, and St. James, right, have been installed recently in the vestibule of St. James's Catholic church.

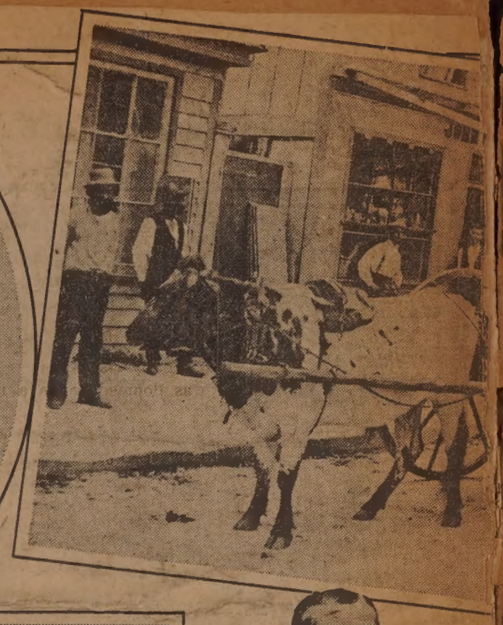
Faces and Places in Hathaway Memory Book

Oct. 20, 1927.

Upper left: Liberty Hall, Purchase and William streets, northwest corner. Andrew J. Dam, proprietor of the Peoples, later the Sheridan, House. Adelphi Rink, County and Mill streets, southeast corner, exterior. John M. Hathaway, son of Andrew E. Hathaway, as a boy with his high-wheeled bicycle.

Center: Peter Johnson, hero of the City of Columbus disaster, later murdered on Egg Island, as he appeared when Mr. Hathaway exhibited him. Adelphi Rink, interior in gala attire. Frank C. "Bannie" Bancroft of national baseball fame, who owned the Rink.

Bottom: The Sheridan House as it appeared in later years, Second street at Barkers Lane.



In this, the fifth installment of Andrew E. Hathaway's life story, Mr. Hathaway begins the account of the most interesting part of his career in a wide variety of business enterprises, that which he devoted to the show business. Known as a showman particularly throughout New England, he has also left his theatrical mark in practically every section of the United States. He was a young man when he first entered the show world as told in this chapter. Today, at the age of 80, he still maintains his keen interest in things theatrical. Anecdotes of the road with various traveling shows back in the days when P. T. Barnum was showing the way to purveyors of popular amusement are started in this chapter. Next Sunday, Mr. Hathaway will narrate his interesting and amusing experiences with the Uncle Tom Shows.

Rollie Pray Then and Today Feb 27, 1927.

Top, left: Roland G. Pray in his latest photograph and, right, as he looked as a youth with the same type high collar, doing lithograph work for "The Mammoth Aggregation."
Top, center: Baggage smashing as the troupe found it in the South.
Botom, left: Andrew E. Hathaway as he looked in the '90's.
Bottom, center: Count Rosebud, nucleus of Mr. Hathaway's own London Museum road show.

FORMER TEACHER DIES SUDDENLY

Nov. 22-27

Miss Lillie B. Allen

Miss Allen wore this colonial costume for a lecture she once delivered before the Fort Phoenix chapter, D. A. R. She died suddenly yesterday on a train as it was pulling out of South station, Boston, for the West. Miss Allen, who formerly taught school in Lynn, retired in June and returned to Fairhaven to live. In September she entertained Fort Phoenix chapter at a grandmothers' day party there.

Memories of Uncle Tom Days Mar. 13, 1927.

Center: Andrew E. Hathaway as he looks today.
Left: Winnie Shannon, who played "Eva" with the early Uncle Tom's Cabin shows.
Right, top: "Cinnamon," red-headed Negro boy, who joined Mr. Hathaway's Tom show in Ohio. The photograph is a double exposure, showing Cinnamon in sober mood shaking hands with himself in jollier frame of mind.
Right, bottom: Two boys who were picked up in the South by Mr. Hathaway and made good in small parts with the show.

FAMILY OF NEW MINISTER

9-17-27

Mrs. G. A. Porter and Daughter

PLEASANT STREET M. E. CHURCH MUST FORGET PAST, PASTOR SAYS

The Rev. Governor A. Porter, Successor to Guy Willis Holmes, Realizes He Faces Hard Task, but Believes Bright Future Ahead---To Push Young People's Work

GE-YELLOWED PAPERS SPIN COURT HISTOR

Documents Tucked Away in Third District Courthouse Unfold Story of Progress of Jurisprudence in New Bedford from Justice of Peace to Police and District Court

March 21-1926

C. P. MAXFIELD IS HEART VICTIM

Retired Fairhaven Business Man Dies of Long Illness 7/31

Former Selectman Honored with Mayor Ashley by Jap Mikado 1928

Charles P. Maxfield, native and lifelong resident of Fairhaven, died Monday at his home, 85 Bridge street, Fairhaven. He had been a sufferer from heart disease for two years and had been confined to his bed for the past four weeks.

From 1884 to his retirement in 1910 Mr. Maxfield was a member of the plumbing and tinsmithing firm of Coggeshall and Maxfield, 26 North Second street. Since his retirement the business has been conducted by his son, Charles A. Maxfield, under his own name.

CHARLES P. MAXFIELD.

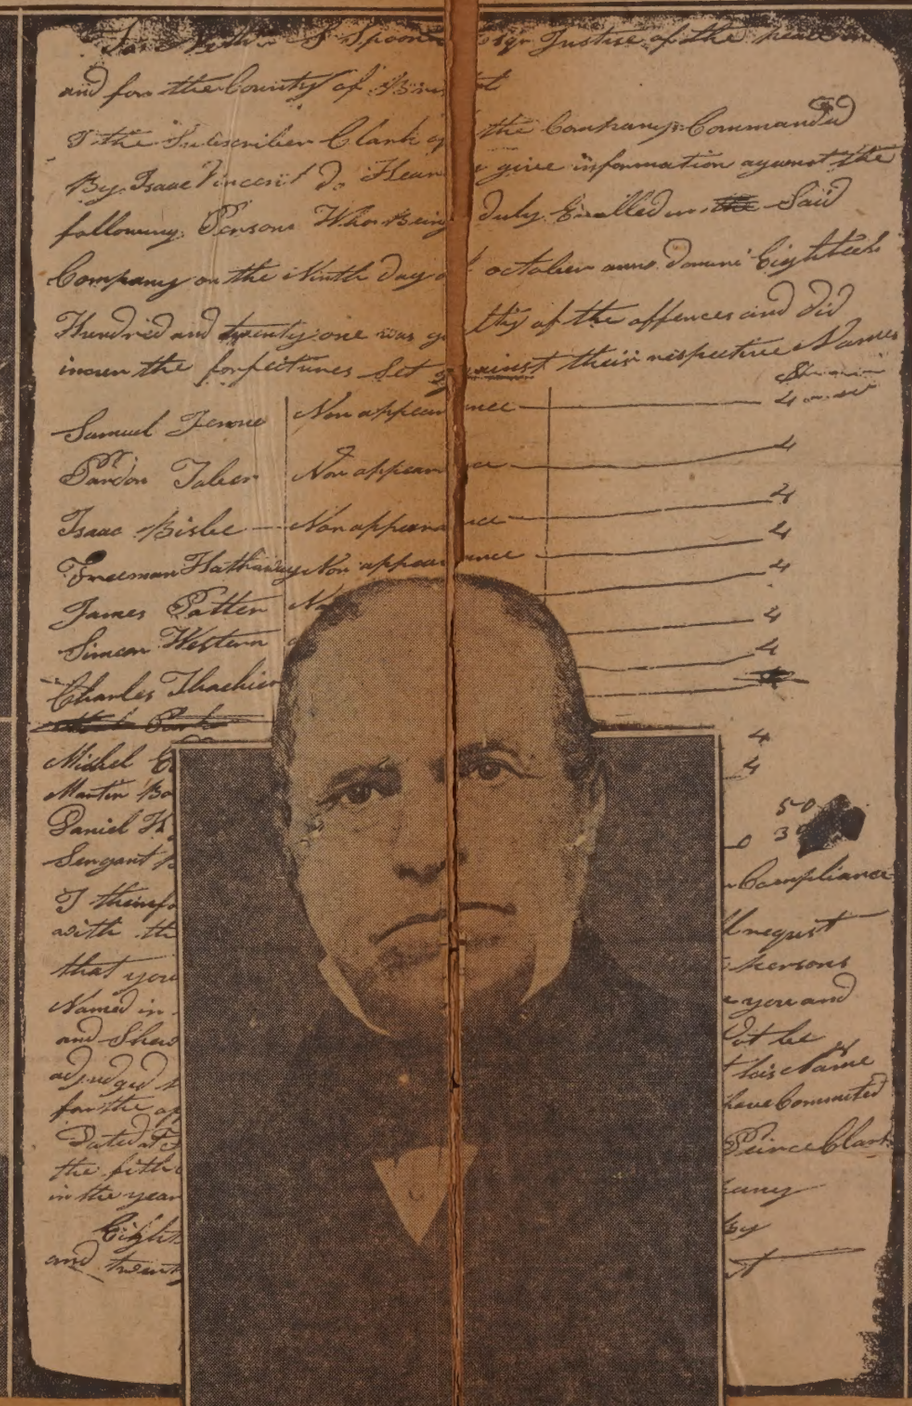
Medal Sent From Japan.

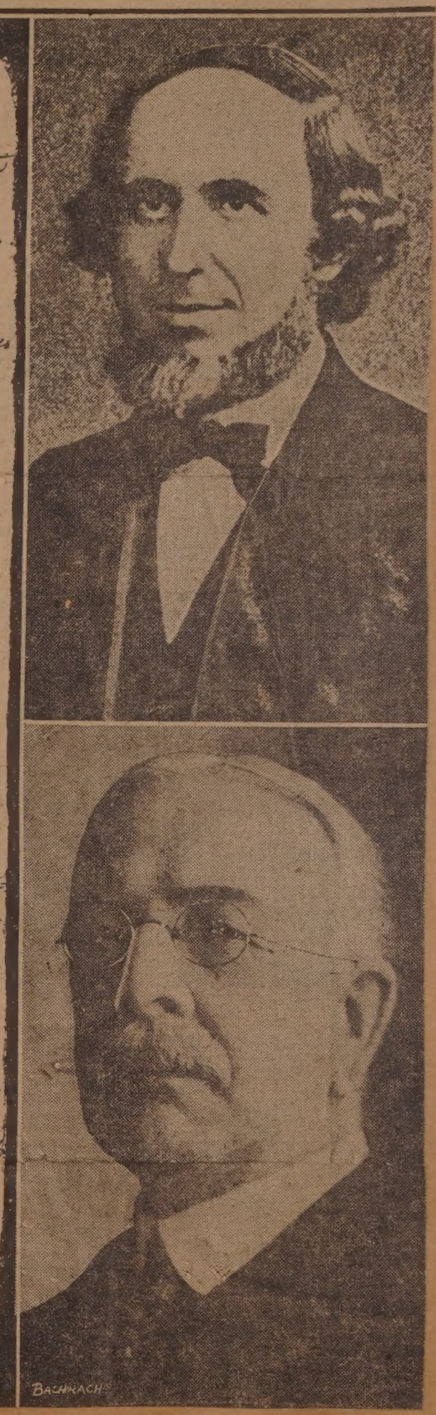
He was a former president of the New Bedford Veteran Firemen's association. Nine years ago, with Mayor Charles S. Ashley, Mr. Maxfield received the third class Order of the Sacred Treasure, an honorary decoration from the mikado of Japan. The decorations were tokens of appreciation for the part paid by the two in receiving Viscount Ishii, former Japanese ambassador to this country, on a visit to New Bedford and Fairhaven.

Widow, Two Sons Survive.

In 1911 and for a time thereafter Mr Maxfield served as selectman and overseer of the poor in Fairhaven. He was a member of George H. Taber lodge, A. F. and A. M., Fairhaven, and of Sutton commandery, New Bedford.

Mr. Maxfield is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Maxfield, two sons, Charles A Maxfield, this city, and Warren S Maxfield, Pittsfield, and nine grandchildren.





Five justices of Third District Court since its establishment in 1834, upper left, Oliver Prescott, second justice; upper right, Robert C. Pitman, third justice; lower left Alanson Borden, fourth justice; lower right, Frank A. Milliken, presiding; bottom center, Nathaniel S. Spooner, first justice.

In the center is one of the oldest papers extant. It is dated 1821 and is a warrant for delinquent members of the militia company commanded by Isaac Vincent.

WING HISTORIAN DIES IN MAINE

11-25-28

Mrs. Emma B. Chamberlin Succumbs at Brunswick in Her 81st Year

Leaves Many Acquaintances Among Family Members Here and on Cape

Mrs. Emma Bartlett (Wing) Chamberlin, for many years historian of the Wing Family of America, Inc., died yesterday at her home in Brunswick, Me., in her 81st year. As a frequent attendant at the Wing family reunions at Sandwich and New Bedford, and a contributor to the Owl, the family magazine, Mrs. Chamberlin had many acquaintances among the Wing connection in this city and on the Cape. Daughter of Samuel S. and Mary (Cook) Wing, she was born in Brunswick Dec. 8, 1847. In 1884 she married Eugene G. Chamberlin of Boston, a representative of an insurance company, in whose interests he subsequently removed to Chicago, where they long made their home until his death more than 20 years ago.

MRS. EMMA B. CHAMBERLIN.

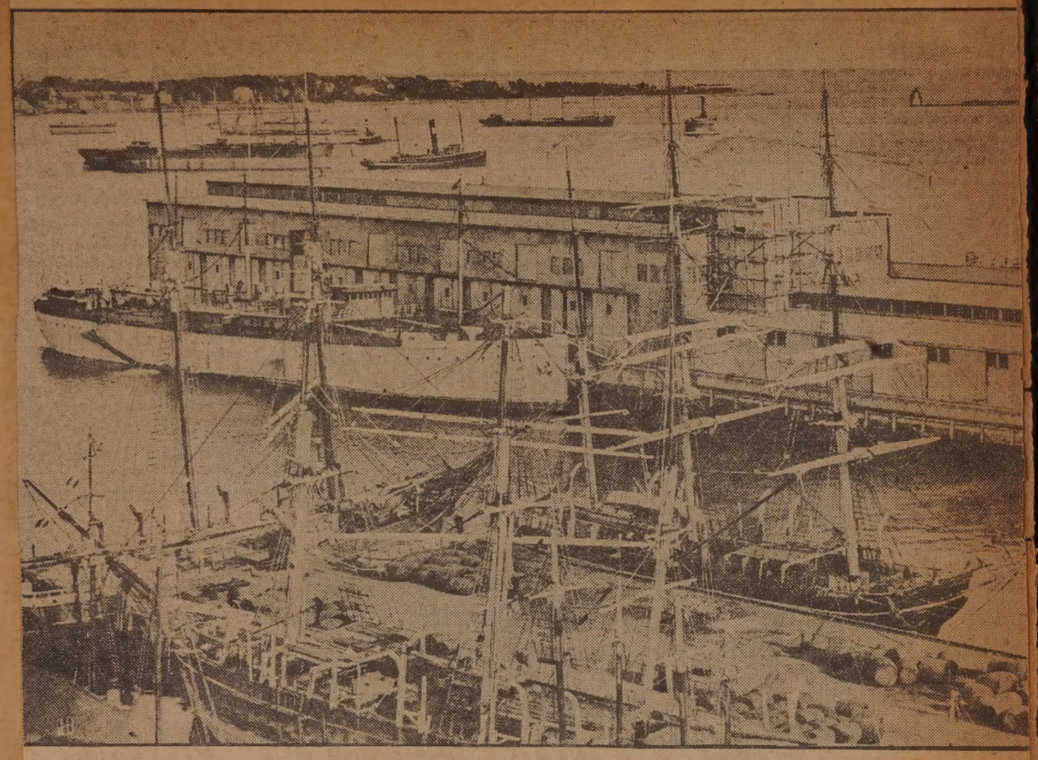
Mrs. Chamberlin had since resided in Brunswick and devoted much of her time to genealogical research. Descended from at least 13 of the Mayflower passengers she was especially interested in investigations among Plymouth families, as well as the Wing lines. She was a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, the Alden Kindred of America, and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Louisa F. Emery, widow of Edwin Emery of this city, living in Malden, in her 88th year, and by a number of nieces and nephews. Among the latter are William M. Emery of this city, Edwin P. Emery, Boston, and Clarence P. Emery, Pueblo, Colo.

STATE PIER AND PART OF NEW



BEDFORD'S EXTENSIVE WATERFRONT

May 1, 1927.

Ample Facilities for Ocean Going Craft

Picture shows a part of the city's waterfront, with city piers in foreground. Long pier with building on end is State Pier, which is sought as location for big cotton goods converting plant. New York boat docks at pier just beyond State Pier

—Photo by Jack Harper

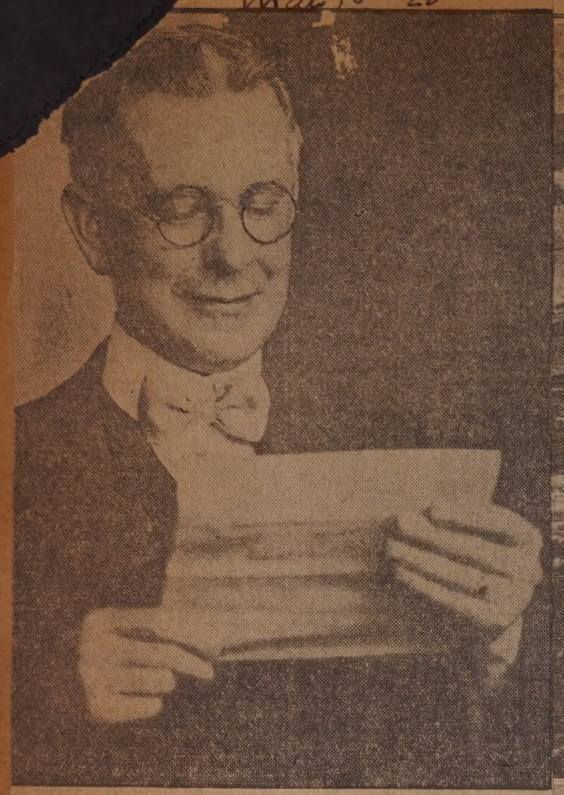
BEAUTIFUL ESTATE—The home and grounds of Barney Zeitz are one of the show places of Mattapoisett. Lo ted on the main thoroughfare through the town the attractive pool and pillars are a familiar sight to autoists driving through that section.

E SMILES ON HIM

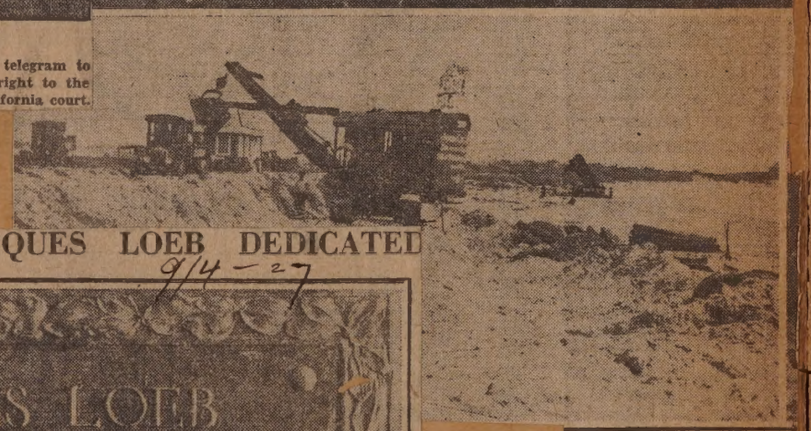
May 16-28

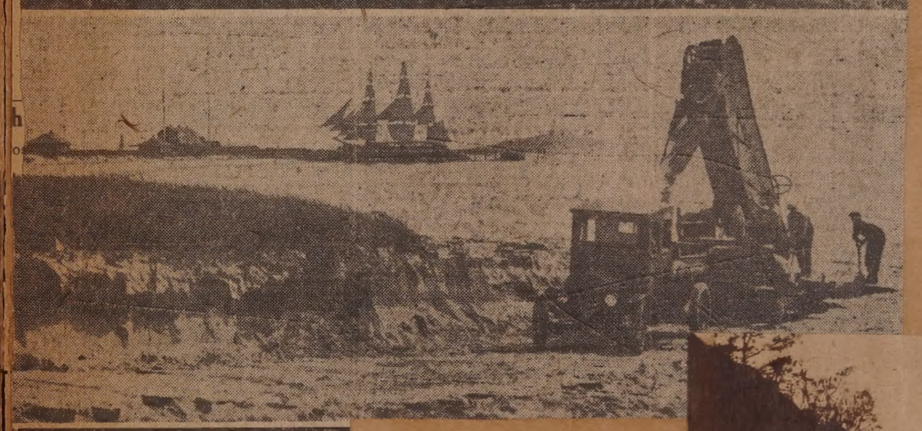


HENRY L. BARKER SMILES BACK

Mr. Barker, New Bedford resident, yesterday read a telegram to his chief counsel, Charles Mitchell, announcing that his right to the bulk of his father's $300,000 estate has been upheld by a California court.

HOW BUILDING OF ROUND H ILLS AIR PORT IS BEING PUSHED





Colonel Green's Energy Brings Progress

A panoramic view of the site of Colonel Green's projected air port at Round Hills with the Mo[rgan] in the background. The big picture and the closeup show steam [shovels] and trucks at work on the huge task of filling the low lands.

Aug. 24, 1927.

MEMORIAL TABLET JACQUES LOEB DEDICATED

9/4-27

Physiologist Honored at Woods Hole

This bronze memorial tablet to the celebrated physiologist, Jacques Loeb, was recently dedicated at the Marine Biological laboratory, Woods Hole, where Professor Loeb used to carry on some of his research. It has a conspicuous place on a wall of the Laboratory corridor.

Elected President of Woman's Republican Group of New Bedford

MRS. G. WALTER WILLIAMS.

May 5, 1928

Photo by George H. Atwood

STONE FACE FACES THE NORTH—Man's image in stone is seen on the side of Joshua's mountain, Assonet, facing the valley to the north. Tradition says it was once worshiped by the early Indians.

Feb. 12, 1928.

—Photo by Howard M. Wood.

THE SOURCE OF OUR ICE—This excellent view of Turners pond, Shawmut avenue, north, shows the beauty spot from which some of the ice for New Bedford comes.

ELLIS L. HOWLAND.

ELLIS L. HOWLAND IS KILLED IN FALL ON OFFICE STAIRS

8/16-27

Former Member of Standard Staff Plunges Down Two Flights in New York Building; Was Grocery Department Editor of Journal of Commerce

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Ellis L. Howland, editor of the grocery department, Journal of Commerce, was killed last night when he fell two flights down the stairs from the fourth floor of an office building at 6 Harrison street. Mr. Howland was 59, and lived at 146 Hicks street, Brooklyn.

In company with Morris L. Toulme, secretary of the National Wholesale Grocers' association, in whoce office he had called, and with his brother, Captain John V. Howland, of the steamship Editor, of the Barber lines, Mr. Howland was leaving the office to have dinner with his brother and Mr. Toulme in a Brooklyn hotel.

Mr. Howland, leading the trio, tripped on the top step of the fourth floor stairs. He rolled over the landing on the third floor and fell to the second floor, landing where his head struck a banister post. He was pronounced dead by Dr. Belmont, of Beekman Street hospital, who was summoned.

Mr. Howland was a resident of New Bedford for more than 20 years, coming to this city as a boy with his parents. He was born in Providence May 24, 1868. He was 13 when his family removed to this city. Mr. Howland attended public school here and in 1887 was graduated from New Bedford High school. He had been active in the High School cadets and during his senior year was captain.

Joined The Standard.

Following a year in the clothing business in the employ of Sanders & Barrows here and by the two succeeding years at the Acushnet mill, Mr. Howland became a member of The Standard news staff. His connection with the news department of The Standard continued for 14 years, until in the winter of 1904 he became managing editor of the Fall River Herald, when that newspaper began publication of a morning edition. Mr. Howland remained in Fall River only a short time before going to New York to become grocery trade editor of the New York Journal of Commerce. He continued his connection with this New York newspaper, with the exception of two years, during the rest of his life.

After two years residence in Battle Creek, Mich., when he was a special representative of the W. K. Kellogg company, Mr. Howland returned to the New York Journal of Commerce in February, 1911. In addition to conducting the grocery department in the New York Journal of Commerce, Mr. Howland had conducted the automobile department. In 1919, he became news editor of the newspaper, and for several years he directed the news policies of the publication.

Through his long connection with the grocery trade, Mr. Howland had established himself as an authority in merchandising methods. He was frequently a speaker at national and state conventions of food organizations, and his work tok him all over the United States.

Made Reputation Here.

Mr. Howland, during the 14 years that he remained a member of the news staff of The Standard, became one of the best known newspapermen in southern Massachusetts. He was for five years correspondent of the Boston Herald. But it was his connection with musical associations that made Mr. Howland best known. He had an excellent tenor voice, and during his years in New Bedford and in later years, he was active in many musical organizations.

Mr. Howland was one of the originators of the movement that resulted in establishing the Old Dartmouth Historical society. Mr. Howland was much interested in the preservation of the historic lore and the material things that connected the modern city with its great historic past. Mr. Howland read a paper before the Unity club here Jan. 17, 1903, and the interest which had been aroused and which culminated in this presentation of the need of such a society resulted in the formation of the Old Dartmouth Historical society, Mr. Howland becoming its first secretary. This movement, begun 24 years ago, has resulted in an enduring organization, and Mr. Howland may be counted one of those chiefly responsible in arousing the interest that resulted in its inception.

N. D. GIFFORD IS DEAD AT 55

Dec 2 '27

Poultry Dealer Succumbs After Loss of Strength in Long Illness

Born Near South Westport, He Was Recognized for Business Ability

Nelson Davis Gifford, 55, for many years one of the leading poultry and egg dealers of this vicinity, died Thursday noon at his home in South Westport following an extended illness.

Mr. Gifford had been in failing health for two or three years and had been confined to his bed since August, gradually losing his strength.

Attended Westport Schools.

Mr. Gifford was born on the old homestead now converted into the poultry farm and was the son of William and Beulah A. Gifford.

After attending Westport schools Mr. Gifford aided his father, who conducted a small store in addition to the farm, and following his father's death Mr. Gifford continued to operate the farm.

Known as Hilltop Poultry farm, Mr. Gifford's poultry business started on the old homestead soon after his marriage more than 30 years ago and had built up an enviable reputation as a poultry dealer. He took great pride in his long list of customers in New Bedford with whom he had done business since starting as a poultry dealer.

NELSON D. GIFFORD.

His farm at several times had as many as 18,000 dozen eggs and had hatched 35,000 chickens annually. This year it had produced 3,000 Rhode Island Red pullets. The majority of Mr. Gifford's products were sold on the New Bedford market.

Widow, Four Children Survive.

Mr. Gifford was a member of the Friends meeting house, Allens neck.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Mary Gifford, he is survived by three sons, the Rev. Nelson D. Gifford, recently returned from serving as a missionary in China, where he experienced the Nanking looting by Cantonese soldiers; Ralph E. Gifford, who aids in the operation of the farm; and Lincoln S. Gifford, student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; a daughter, Miss Ila M. Gifford, attending school in Providence; a sister, Mrs. Lot B. Haskins, Smith Mills, and a brother, Arthur W. Gifford, Westport.

TOM MANCHESTER, 82, REVISITS HAUNTS OF HAPPY BOYHOOD

Proudly Exhibits Piece of Liberty Hall Bell, Which as Boy of Seven, He Tolled 70 Times for Death of Daniel Webster in 1852 ---Travels Alone from Washington

July 19-27

Young in heart and mind, despite his almost 82 years, Tom W. Manchester, a native of New Bedford who always enjoys returning to the haunts of his boyhood, has been spending a happy two weeks in this city since he arrived here July 2 after journeying alone from Washington, D. C., where he has long made his home.

Still Accomplished Traveler.

To emphasize the fact that Mr. Manchester traveled alone is perhaps to give a false impression. True, a fall which he had recently has not increased his agility, and yet a half hour's conversation with him certainly does not leave the impression that he is any less an accomplished traveler than he was when he was "on the road," now a good many years ago.

Tom Manchester, he prefers to call himself. He had traveled all over this country, and while he thinks the West is great—and knows whereof he speaks, having lived there for years—he is glad to get back to New Bedford again, where he finds many old friends and many places that he knew as a child.

There is one place in New Bedford that Mr. Manchester remembers especially well—better perhaps than any other, with the exception of the house at North and Purchase streets where he was born—and that is the site of the Merchants National bank.

TOM W. MANCHESTER.

Tolled Bell for Daniel Webster.

An interesting story concerns Mr. Manchester's memories of this spot. Here it was that old Liberty hall stood, back in the '40s and early '50s. His father, William H. Manchester, was sexton of the Congregational church, which stood then, as it does now, at Purchase and Elm streets. The bell in its tower tolled the town's curfew at 9, and tolled as well other hours of the day, besides calling the congregation to worship on Sunday.

As sexton, his father had charge of the bell in Liberty hall for a time one year while the church bell was being removed and replaced. Mr. Manchester was known as a particularly skillled bellringer, so that the duty of assisting his parent on Oct. 26, 1852, in tolling the bells for Daniel Webster, who had died two days before in Marshfield, fell upon the boy of seven as a double honor. His consciousness of that fact is undimmed to this day, for he tells the story with a fervor that is infectuous.

old hall, although in the early days William street was not "cut through."

It is memories of this kind that have brought Mr. Manchester back to New Bedford, repeatedly since he left here with his parents in 1855 to live in Boston. He came back the first time in 1869. He paid another visit in 1898, and in the period from 1898 until 1911 returned each year, on the last of this series of annual pilgrimages sleeping in the house in which he was born. This place, he said, is now a part of the Lincoln hotel. From 1911 until 1917 he did not visit New Bedford, but in the latter year he returned again. That trip was the last until he arrived here July 2, all the more eager after his 10 years' absence.

In the meantime life had been full of interest and color for Tom Manchester, who had served as postmaster and country editor in a little town in Illinois, who had worked as corresponednt for The Milwaukee Sentinel and The Chicago Tribune while editing The Outlook at Beloit, Wis., who had gone all over the Middle West as a traveling salesman, who had served in the Civil war, a member of Company H, 143d Illinois Infantry, and who had carried his activities into the Texas of the old Southwest, in the days when "the cowboys came in at night and shot up the town."

Looked back upon, it has been a glamorous existence, as a comfortable talk with Mr. Manchester goes a long way to prove. It brought to a man born and reared in New England an appreciation of the freshness and vigor, as well as the openheartedness, of the West—a land which he defends as if he had been born there. But it did not blot out the remembrance of friendships and incidents of childhood, in a town which after scores of years draws him back again and again as the years pass.

Lives 30 Years in Washington.

Mr. Manchester has lived for 30 years now in Washington, D. C. Five years ago he was retired from the government printing office on an annuity, after 25 years in its employ, and after 35 years in the service of the government.

Although he has no relatives here now, Mr. Manchester finds ample company and entertainment on his visits to New Bedford in his old friends and acquaintances. One of them is Walter P. Morton, manager of the North End branch of the Merchants National bank.

Another, whom he had not seen for a good many years, is Colonel E. H. R. Green, Round Hills, South Dartmouth.

"The world is not so large," Mr. Manchester has concluded after knocking about over a sizeable part of it, at least, in his travels over this country. "I'll tell you what I mean."

And he went on to relate how one day in St. Louis he ran across George D. Barnard, who has remembered his home city by a beautiful monument which now stands at Buttonwood park. Mr. Manchester was "on the road" then, and was in search of a place to get his book rebound, seeing that it was frayed and worn.

He stepped into a bookbindery and met there his old schoolmate. They not seen each other for years. "He bound the book in turkey morocco," Mr. Manchester said, laughing, "and when I went to pay him for it he wouldn't take a cent." Mr. Barnard, it was explained, learned the bookbinding business with Israel Parsons at his bookstore here.

See last column on page

See last column on page

INVENTOR GETS PATENT RIGHTS

Henry Poirier Perfects Self-Threading Loom Shuttle After Years

Device Eliminates Illegal "Kiss of Death," Makes Threading Easy

9/27

After years of careful study and patient, painstaking labor, Henry Poirier, 79 Ellen street, has invented a self-threading loom shuttle that not only eliminates the illegal "kiss of death," but, according to its inventor, also permits easy threading and prevents de-threading.

Mr. Poirier filed his application for the patent rights on his invention Oct. 26, 1925, and has just been notified that they were granted Tuesday, Aug. 9.

The shuttle, which, despite the improvements it offers, is simplicity itself, represents 10 years of labor by Mr. Poirier in the little workshop in the cellar of his home. He started his work even before the law was passed making illegal the old type of shuttle, called "the kiss of death" because the operative sucked the thread through the eye, often thereby causing transmission of disease germs.

The improved shuttle of Mr. Poirier is described at some length, with a full page of drawings, in the official Gazette of the United States Patent office, just issued.

It relates, the Gazette asserts, to loom shuttles and, more particularly, to a thread retainer and eye for the threading slot.

It is the object of the invention to provide an improved shuttle eye and thread retainer in a shuttle to permit easy threading and to prevent de-threading of the shuttle eye. For this purpose, two cylindrical guides, disposed at right angles to each other, and communicating with the threading slot, are provided.

Attorney Praises Invention.

One of the guides is disposed in a transverse horizontal passage in the shuttle, while the other guide or thread retainer, is placed in a vertical passage communicating with the horizontal passage. The shuttle is threaded by hand.

At the present time, Mr. Poirier is not decided just what his next step with regard to his invention will be. Obtaining the patent rights for it was, of course, first necessary. Now he is waiting while a few of the improved shuttles are being manufactured. When this is done, he will make some effort to put the shuttles into general use. He does not intend to sell his patent rights to it, he said this morning.

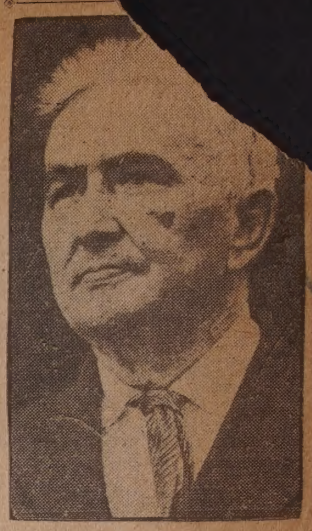
His attorney in this city, James P. Doran, said yesterday that in his opinion the device is an unusually fine one. "Even a novice can handle the new threading device," he asserted. "No experience is necessary or practice is neded. Besides, it is especially adapted to silk yarn work."

Mr. Poirier is a native of Canada. He has made his home in New Bedford for 53 years, many of which have been spent at 79 Ellen street. He has a wife, three daughters and one son.

He has been employed as third hand, second hand and loomfixer in the Pierce, Soule and Bristol mills in this city. Nearly three years ago he was injured in the Bristol mill, where at that time he had been working five years as a loomfixer. He has not worked since, and will not be able, he asserts, ever to work in the mill again. He is receiving compensation for his injuries, which included the breaking of his knee cap in a fall. He was confined to his bed for a long time by the injury.

This is not his first invention. About 16 years ago, he says, he invented an improvement on the tamper of a loom. It was installed on some 1,600 looms at the Butler mill, but "somebody else got it away from me, even though I held the patent rights."

PAT



HENRY POIRIER.

Continued from column 1

"My father put me up there in the tower of Liberty hall," he will tell you, "gave me his watch and clasped my hands around the clapper of the old bell. 'Now, take this watch,' he said, and when I strike the church bell you wait half a minute and then strike this one, repeating it after me each time until we have tolled 70. Be very careful, now,' he cautioned me, 'for Daniel Webster was 70 years old and we must strike the bell exactly 70 times. You,' he said, 'will toll the last stroke.'

"Proud? Man, let me tell you, I was proud. I shall never forget it as long as I live. The dates all come back to me just as well as they did years ago. And people ask me how I remember all these things."

Liberty hall burned Nov. 9, 1854, Mr. Manchester goes on to explain. The bell was melted in the flames of the old wooden building. "And here," taking a piece of bronze metal from his pocket, "is a piece of it. I got it over at the library just today. Another person in New Bedford, who showed me a tea ball which her father, Rodney French, then mayor, had molded from the remains.

Frequent Visitor Here.

Still another piece, Mr. Manchester said, is embedded in the tablet on the Merchants National bank building, which was erected on the site of the

See column 2

Continued from col. 2

Accompanied Brother on Paper Route.

One of Mr. Manchester's pleasant memories is that of going with his brother, William Z. Manchester, morning and evening, while the latter carried The Mercury and The Standard, back in 1853 and 1854. Carrying the same papers at that time was Henry H. Rogers.

Mr. Manchester has two sons, both living in Texas. One, William L. Manchester, is in business at Forth Worth, and the other, Luther L. Manchester, is employed in a bank at Amarillo.

Apparently New Bedford has changed without alienating Mr. Manchester, for while he marvels at its splendid growth in the years that he has known it, he says he is "among his own people" when he comes here. He particularly noted the growth of the North End in the past few decades, commenting that "it used to go about as far north as the engine house and that was all."

When he leaves Wednesday for an outing in New Hampshire before returning to Washington, Tom Manchester will feel that he has spent a pleasant holiday in New Bedford. He leaves no doubt of it in the minds of those who have renewed an old acquaintance with him and exchanged reminiscences to while away the time.

On Aug. 7, he will celebrate his 82nd birthday, a man of wide experience and of remarkable preservation and vitality.

End

SMILE YOUR BEST—Mrs. Samuel B. Bowne is making movies of Miss A. E. Donald and Miss K. T. Andrews at the biennial Nantucket Main street fete. During these festivities, the main thoroughfare is turned into fair ground with booths, stands and places for games. It is for the benefit of Cottage hospital at Nantucket. 1927.

CHAMPION RIFLE SHOTS—The Bay State rifle team won the city championship, in 1886, in a league composed of eight teams. In the organization, besides the winners, were representatives from Engine No. 4, Engine No. 6, Twist Drills, Eurekas, Independents, City Guards and Off Shots. In the picture, front row (left to right), William Ames, James Denham, J. Byron Bradford, captain; John Crussils and George Frost. Back row, Paul Wing, Edward Carter, Lewis Damon, Samuel E. Gabriel, John Frazer and Frank Nimes, target attendant.

Papers of Sept. 4, 1927.

BRONZE TABLET DEDICATED—The New Bedford section of L'Union Nationale des Combattants recently dedicated a bronze palm The tablet, sent from the mother section in Paris, was placed on the wall in the Free Public library beside the city roll of honor Front row, left to right, Marcel Seguer, Roger Bavoux, Jean Schwartz, president, Charles Lame Sr., Alfred Methis. Second row Emile Ruez, Henry Remy, Irenee Colle, Jules Grim. Back row, Jean C. Didier, Charles Persin, Abel Bavoux Jr., Leon Foix, Ernest Eltis, Charles Weiss.

1927

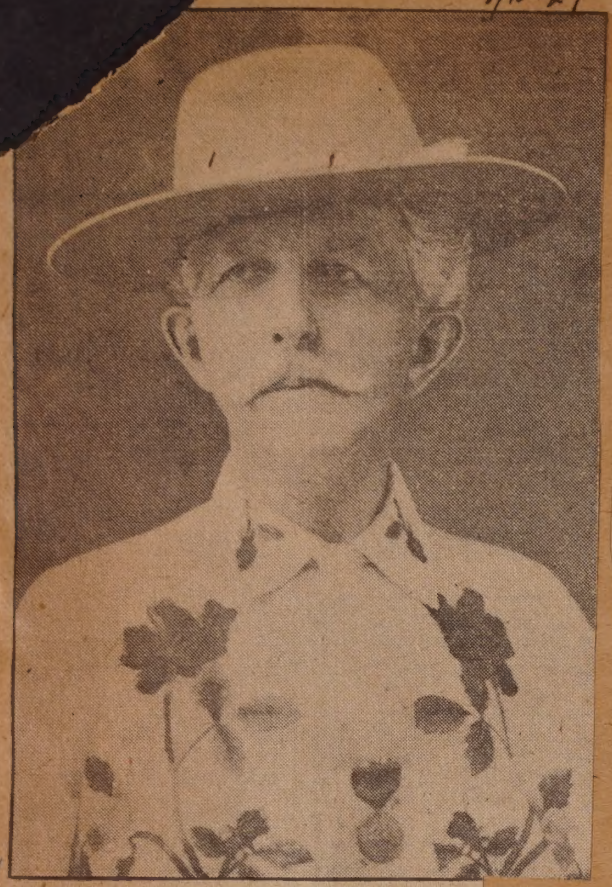
AT LEAST 80 YEARS OLD—This interesting old color engraving reproducing The Larder Invaded, by Sir Edwin Landseer, is among the family hei looms treasured by Charles H. Purrington, 166 Park street. He says it i at least 80 years old.

1927

TWO OLD ANTIQUES—Charles H. Purrington, 166 Park street, is shown seated on a handsome inlaid chair. The design is worked in mother of pearl. The tray of hammered copper he holds is dated 1620. The center reproduces in color a painting of Charles I of England.

N OLD FRONTIER DIES

8/10-27



Daniel A. Lakin

—Photo by Lynwood M. Chace

PAINTING SQUARE-RIGGER—Harry Neyland, director of the Swain School of Design, interprets on canvas a picturesque square-rigger tied up at Merrills wharf. 1927.

INDIAN FIGHTER IS DEAD HERE

Daniel A. Lakin, Orderly to General Custer, Dies at 77

Was Acquainted with Buffalo Bill and Personal Friend of "Wild Bill" Hickok

"Captain" Daniel A. Lakin, 77, who served General Custer as orderly in his fight against the Sioux and Cheyenne Indians, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph M. Cyr, 571 Cottage street, Monday following a four weeks' illness with cerebral hemorrhages.

Friend of "Wild Bill" Hickok.

As a member of the Seventh U. S. calvary under General Custer Mr. Lakin fought Indians in the West for five years. He knew the famous Buffalo Bill (Colonel William F. Cody) well and was a personal friend of the historic plainsman, "Wild Bill" Hickok.

Mr. Lakin was born in Lincoln, the son of Jacob and Mary Lakin, and when 17 enlisted in the U. S. calvary under General Custer. After five years of service in warring against Indians of the West he gave up the military life to become a conductor on the Fitchburg branch of the Boston and Maine railway. Later he left the employment of the railroad to become a guard at the Massachusetts reformatory, Concord.

He remained at Concord for 31 years, retiring in 1916 to come to New Bedford to live with his daughter. His wife, Mrs. Georgia Kent Lakin, died in Concord 27 years ago.

Recognized by Mrs. Custer.

When Mrs. Custer spoke at a reunion held in Concord some time ago Lakin was pleased that she recognized him, changed as he was from the days when he was orderly to her husband, and one of his treasured pictures is the one she sent to him after meeting him at the reunion.

Mr. Lakin was a member of Royal Arcanum, the Concord council of Odd Fellows, the National Indian War Veterans' organization and the Tri-Mountain branch of the Army and Navy union. He was also a member of the Union church, Concord.

Besides Mrs. Cyr he is survived by another daughter, Mrs. John F. Leavitt, Norwell, and three grandchildren. The body will be buried in Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Concord.

IN THE DAYS OF REAL SPORT—A party of New Bedford persons seen in the little train that runs to the top of Mt. Washington in New Hampshire. The thrill of the ride was to ride down in the tender, which is hitched to the end of the train going up. This picture was taken in 1907.

NEW BEDFORD— wharf scene

—Redfern Photo

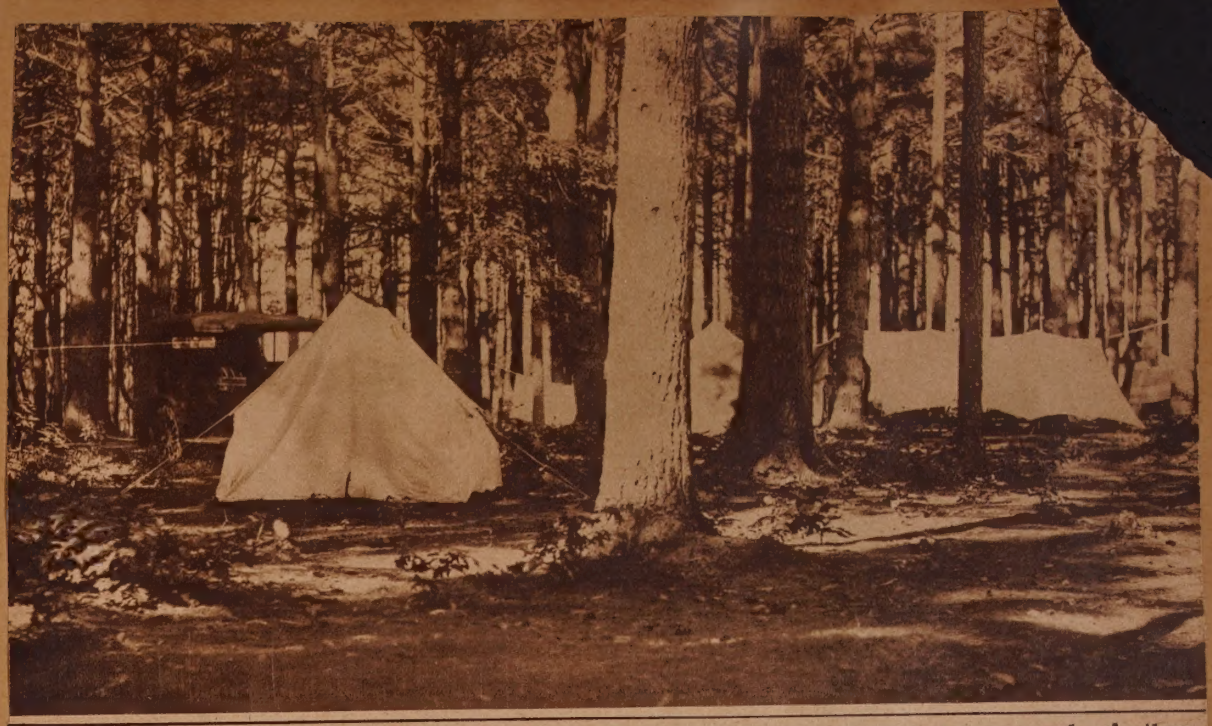
EMPLOYES HAVE OUTING—This photograph was taken at the Fisk Rubber company's clambake at Sylvan Grove, July 17, 1927.

COLONEL GREEN OUT FOR RIDE—In his newest automobile, a specially built electric, Colonel E. H. R. Green, Round Hills, is shown riding in New Bedford, accompanied by his chauffeur. 1927.

ANDREW P. DOYLE—This photograph taken in 1910 shows the late representative, at left, in conference with F and Game Commissioners George H. Garfield, John W. Delano, Marion, and Dr. George W. Field, and Samue Lowe, extreme right.

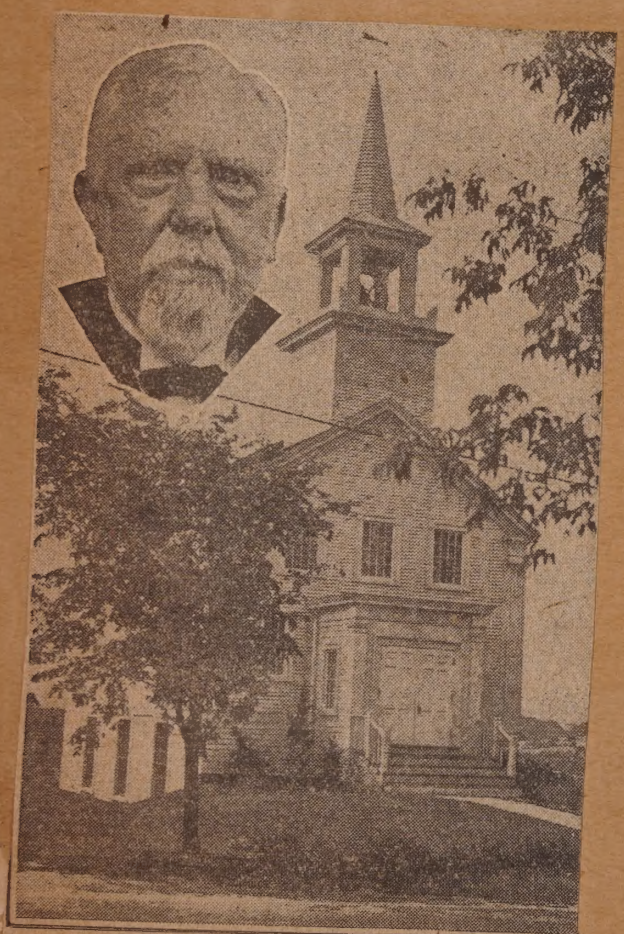


WE'RE TENTING TONIGHT—Numerous campers take advantage of the invitation to pitch their tents and make themselves at home in the quiet Holmes Memorial woods, Marion. 1927.

AN OUTDOOR INCINERATOR—In this huge fireplace in the Holmes Memorial woods, Marion, the campers burn their refuse.

RENOVATED CHURCH ONCE INDIAN MISSION

July 16-27



Cataumet M. E. Church

Exterior and newly decorated interior of Methodist Episcopal church at Cataumet, the Rev. Robert E. Bisbee, pastor.

CHURCH HAS MOVED TWICE

Rededicated Cataumet Edifice Was Founded in 1765 for Indians

Entire Building Has Been Redecorated and Renovated

[Standard Cape Cod Bureau.]

Cataumet, July 16.—The Methodist Episcopal church, rededicated here last Sunday by Bishop William F. Anderson, was built more than 150 years ago, and has been moved twice before it was renovated this year. Founded in 1765 as a chapel for the Indians of Sagamore, it was moved about 1851 to Cataumet, and for almost 50 years stood in the old burying ground across the road from the present site. In the early '90s the church was brought across the road to the place where it now stands. At that time new windows were put in and some other improvements made.

Church Is Enlarged.

Last August the congregation started a movement to improve the old church, and work was begun in the winter. Now it is a cool and inviting little building, white without and within, its old-fashioned charm preserved rather than destroyed by the renovations. An addition to the building at the rear gives room for the pulpit, and the wall space behind the pulpit has been decorated with a panel of dull-red tapestry. The red-brown glass leaded windows have been replaced by many-paned tall windows of frosted glass. The old-fashioned pews have been painted white with the arms stained mahogany, and the entire interior of the building is finished in white. The impression on a warm day is of coolness and peace. For the benefit of the winter parishioners, a new central heating plant has been installed in the basement, a gift of Mrs. W. T. Rich, Newton and Boston, a member of the congregation during the summer.

Pastor One of Oldest in Service.

The pastor, the Rev. Robert E. Bisbee, is one of the oldest clergymen in the Methodist conference in active service. He retired from active service several years ago, but came to Cataumet in 1925, as a supply pastor. He has been here ever since. His son, the Rev. Joseph G. Bisbee, is a member of the same conference, holding a pastorate at Little Compton. Mr. Bisbee has served in the Methodist church for 51 years.

Willis Hill, Boston, a summer member of the Cataumet church, was in charge of the committee on building, and Clifton H. Handy, Cataumet, was in active charge of the work. The renovations were planned and designed by John T. Whitmore, a Boston architect, who gave his services.

J. HODGDON, 57, DIES AT HOME

Prominent Jeweler Fails to Recover After Recent Operation

Leader in Credit Trade Leaves Wife, Two Sons, and Grandchildren

Edward J. Hodgdon, for many years a jeweler in this city, died yesterday at his home after a six months illness with liver complaint. He had undergone an operation at the Phillips house, Massachusetts General hospital, Boston, and after four weeks at the hospital returned to his home. He was 57 years of age.

Mr. Hodgdon was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in October, 1870. In 1872 his parents moved to Haverhill, where his father died in 1881. He attended public schools there until he was 14, and was then employed in a shoe factory until 1901. In that year he began the foundation of the credit jewelry business, dealing in diamonds and watches.

EDWARD J. HODGDON.

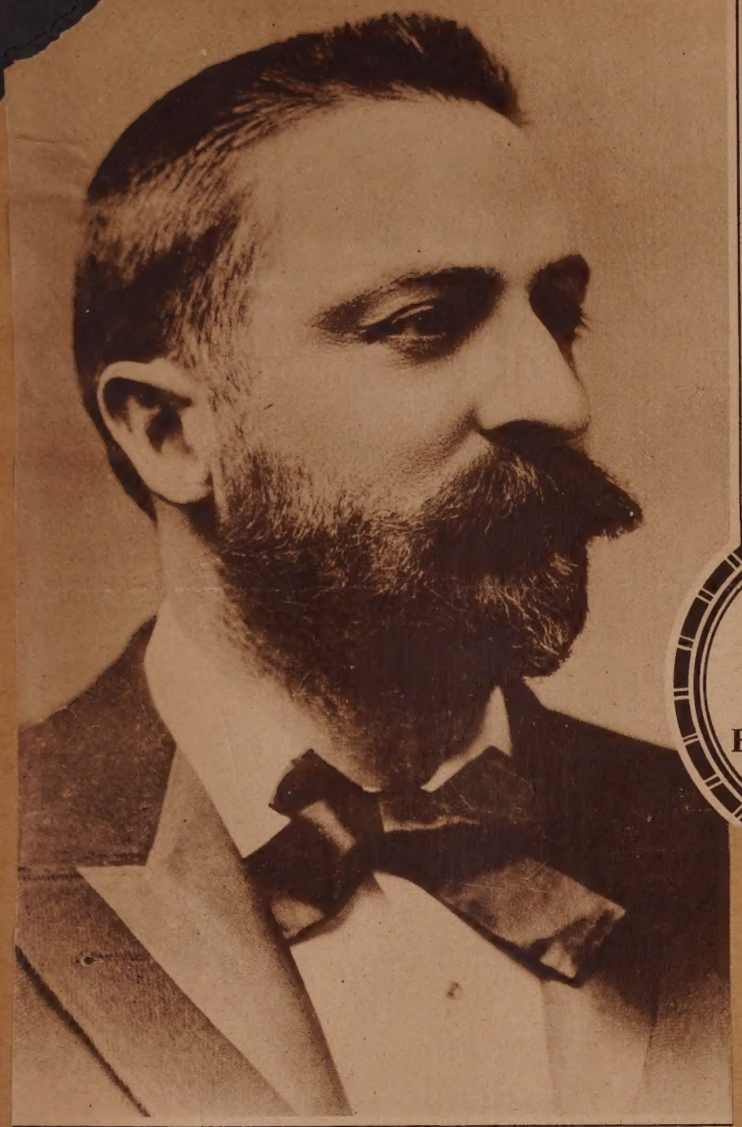
In 1910 Mr. Hodgdon established a store in New Bedford, and a year later closed up his store in Haverhill, making this city his sole field of business. Shortly after, he moved to this city, and had made his home here since.

Mr. Hodgdon is survived by his wife, Mrs. E. Josephine Hodgdon, two sons, Herbert J. and Raymond F. Hodgdon, and two grandsons, Herbert J. Hodgdon Jr., and Edward Niles Hodgdon, all of this city. He also leaves a brother, Fred M. Hodgdon, Boston, and one sister, Mrs. W. Fred Wildes, Haverhill. Mr. Hodgdon was a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks and the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

OLD CAPE COD MILL—Activity long since ceased in the old Brewster grist mill in the foreground, now practically rebuilt by its new owner, Arthur C. Hastings, West Harwich. The square white house is the site of an old stage coach tavern, while the house on the hill is the home of Benjamin F. Ellis, oldest man in the town.

BUILT TO LAST—This West Barnstable dwelling, built 150 years ago by Winslow Crocker, is now the home of his 80-year-old grandson, George F. Crocker. Heavy double pine panels form all the walls. The chimney, to which all fireplaces in the house have separate openings, contains 30,000 bricks, the owner says.



AN EARLY PORTRAIT—Charles S. Ashley as a young man is shown in this photograph, taken in the early career of the many-times-elected mayor.

PAGES FROM THE STORY OF A BUSY MAYOR'S LIFE

CLOTHING GIVEN AWAY—Mr. Ashley, center figure in the carriage, and his partner of the clothing business days, Stephen D. Peirce, right, are shown in the procession held every Christmas when they went about distributing clothing free to the poor.

SANDING CRANBERRY VINES—It is a simple matter to spread sand over the cranberry bogs while they are still covered with ice. Joseph D. Graca, East Wareham, is busy with the shovel.

IN MEAT BUSINESS—A holiday scene in front of the Charles S. Ashley market, of other days, was a scene to be remembered, what with so many fowl and pigs awaiting preparation for the feast. Mr. Ashley is at the right.

W. B. HI... AGED 8...

Opened First Immigra... Office in This City in 1900

Civil War Veteran Friend of Senator Lodge and Secretary Gage

William B. Hinkley who on Feb. 21st last observed his 86th birthday, died Tuesday at his home, 57 Clinton street after a long and active life, having retired only when he was 80 years old. He was for 35 years in the government service. Only within the past month or two has Mr. Hinkley been failing from the remarkable health he had enjoyed up to that time.

WILLIAM B. HINKLEY.

Wounded three times while fighting as a soldier in the Civil War and discharged as the result of injuries when he received a rifle bullet through his leg, Mr. Hinkley was, successively, clerk in the navy yard at Boston, proprietor of a hotel in Connecticut, clerk in the office of the auditor for the war department, Washington, and then for 22 years inspector in charge of the immigration office in this city.

Mr. Hinkley was a "downeaster" born in Bath, Me., Feb. 21, 1842, the son of the late Daniel B. Hinkley, who was first a farmer and then a shipbuilder. Of all his brothers and sisters, Mr. Hinkley has only one living, James L. Hinkley, of Detroit.

Mr. Hinkley lived his early life in his native city, and when the Civil War came on he enlisted in the Third Maine Regiment of Infantry, serving in the Union Army for a period of two years and two months, at the end of which time he was discharged because of wounds. He received his first wound at the first Battle of Bull Run, when a rib was shattered by a rifle ball. He was twice wounded at the Battle of Chantilly, getting a bullet through the shoulder and another through the calf of one of his legs. This was at the engagement in which General Philip Kearny was killed. Mr. Hinkley was sent to a Washington hospital, remaining there for six weeks, when he was invalided home and sent to a hospital in Augusta, Me. He was later treated in a Boston hospital, and after treatment extending over a long period his leg was straightened and he was able to resume work once more.

For a short time, after his discharge, during the war, Mr. Hinkley was in charge of an armed guard that operated on steamers plying between Boston and St. Johns, the guard being placed on the steamers to prevent possible attempts at seizure by Rebel naval forces.

Mr. Hinkley's first employment, after leaving the service, was as a clerk in the old Winthrop House at the corner of Boylston and Tremont streets in Boston, and following this he became a clerk at the Charlestown Navy Yard, later receiving the appointment of engineer's storekeeper at the Navy Yard. He remained for five years, leaving there to go to Bristol, Conn., where he bought out the old Gridley House there. While in Bristol he also built what was then known as Hinkley's block and

LEADERS IN THE FAIRHAVEN MOTHERS CLUB

—Oki Seizo Photo

A BOARD MEMBER — Mrs. Charles E. Lumbard, 102 Laurel street, Fairhaven, is another member of the board of directors.

—Oki Seizo Photo

ONE OF THE DIRECTORS — Mrs. Charles Stolte, Green street, Fairhaven, is a member of the board of directors.

—Photo by Bachrach.

THE NEW PRESIDENT— Mrs. Zephaniah W. Pease, wife of the editor of The Morning Mercury, was recently elected president of the club.

—Oki Seizo Photo

INTERESTED IN CHILDREN — Mrs. T. J. Foley, 14 William street, Fairhaven, is chairman of the child welfare committee.

—Oki Seizo Photo

HOLDS THE GAVEL SOMETIMES—Mrs. Franklyn J. Davies, 19 Cottage street, Fairhaven, is vice president of the organization.

—Oki Seizo Photo

SHE HANDLES THE MONEY—Mrs. Arthur Emery, 71 Green street, Fairhaven, is the treasurer of the organization.

—Oki Seizo Photo

ORIGINATOR OF THE INTERESTING PROGRAMS—Mrs. Warren L. Swett, 109 Laurel street, Fairhaven, is chairman of the program committee.

—Oki Seizo Photo

CHECKS ON THE BOOKS — Mrs. Alfred Wilbor, 92 Laure street, Fairhaven, is t auditor for the club.

—Oki Seizo Photo

BRINGS THE SUNSHINE—Mrs. H. H Browne, 38 Walnut street, Fairhaven, is chairman of the sunshine committee.

—Oki Seizo Photo

WRITER OF LETTERS—Mrs. James Parkinson, 32 Linden avenue, Fairhaven, is the corresponding secretary.

—Oki Seizo Photo

RECOMMENDS BOOKS FOR READING — Mrs. C. F. Kendrick, 471 Main street, Fairhaven, is chairman of the books committee.

—Oki Seizo Photo

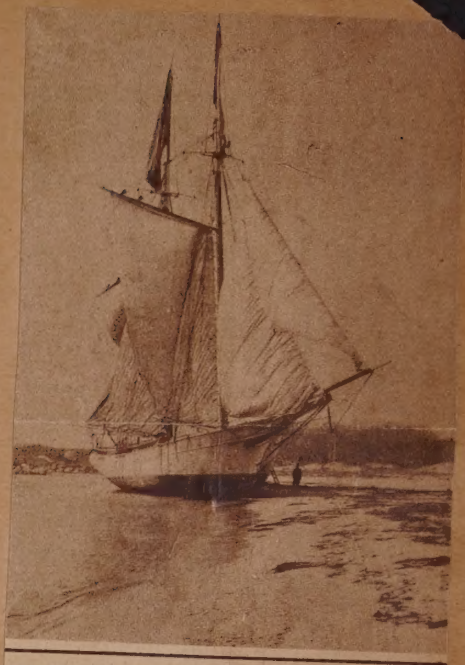
KEEPER OF THE RECORDS—Mrs. A. F. Spangenberg, 38 Cedar street, Fairhaven, is the corresponding secretary.

LENDS A HAND — Mrs. E. S. Whitney Jr., 216 North Main street, Fairhaven, is chairman of the lend a hand committee.



ON THE BEACH AT NAUSHON—The Island City, "fast and dry" on the shore at Naushon some years ago. Feb. 5, 1928.

COMMITTEE HEAD — Mrs. Bryant M. Brownell, 17 Cottage street, Fairhaven, is chairman of the ways and means committee.

SNOWBOUND. When this photograph of Orchard street, south of Hawthorn, was taken after a January storm had laid a heavy mantle, sleighs and not automobiles were the favorite vehicle of transportation.

Theodosia D. Chase Photo

THE SEA AT HORSENECK — Now calm, now raging, the sea at Horseneck presents a variety of moods. Here it is seen a little bit wrathful viewed from one of the sand dunes.

It was not so long ago when the "horseless carriage" attracted an election day crowd near the old Willis street Police station. E. G. Bullard is at the wheel and seated beside him is John I. Bryant, county commissioner.

ONCE stab stop plac built is n and WIFT'S TAVERN — When the Barn- Boston coach about a century ago ed at Sagamore, Swift's tavern was the where it changed horses. The house, about 235 years ago and added to since, w jointly owned by the Ellen Swift estate Mrs. Chester Crosby. Feb. 5, 1928.

R. O. T. C. OFFICERS—The fall group of officers and sponsors of the high school R. O. T. C. unit are, left to right, first row: Colonel Harry P. Wilbur, training officer; Major Frank White, Captain Milton Hathaway; second row: Captain Louis Sleight, Honorary Captain and Battalion Sponsor Miss Barbara Hersey, Honorary Lieutenant and Company B Sponsor Miss Mildred Sullivan; third row: Lieutenant Walter W. Bonner, Second Lieutenant William B. Macy, Lieutenant Nathaniel Tripp, Second Lieutenant John Carew, Battalion Adjutant Irving Chesler, Lieutenant J. Colby Lewis, and Second Lieutenant Allison R. Dorman Jr. Nov. 4, 1927.

WHERE THE EAGLE NESTS—Above this ancient and attractive doorway of the home of C. F. Battey, Head of Westport, rests a small bronze eagle with wings spread over the door. Occupants of the house do not know when it was put there or by whom, but do know it has been there for many decades. 1927

HEAD O... WESTPORT—Rural peace and quiet hang in mid... morn... ng over the little village where hurry and bustle are not and s... mple contentment abides. 1927

ARRANGE Y. W. C. A. FUND C...

Finance Committee Members

Preparation of the Y. W. C. A. campaign for funds is due to the work of the finance committee of the association. In the front row are Mrs. Arthur D. Delano, Miss Lydia M. Chace, president; Mrs. Roy B. Guild, chairman of the committee; and Mrs. Arthur Seabury. Back row, Miss Mary Frances Cross, general secretary; Mrs. Albert Holmes, auditor; Mrs. David Beaman and Mrs. Willis E. Longee.

ABOUT TWO DECADES AGO—The south side of Union street, between Pleasant and Sixth, has changed a great deal since this photograph was taken. In the doorway are James Cleary and William Peirce. The young man at the extreme right is Julius Rusitzky. Jan. 15, 1928.

VINE ENCLOSES PORCH—The beautiful silver lace vine which grows on the porch of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Bonney's home, 241 Reed street, was at its best when this photograph was made. Mrs. Bonney is on the porch. 1927

CHARM OF CENTURY AGO RESTORED TO OLD BRISTOL COUNTY HOMES

Dec 4, 1927

LIVINGROOM HEARTH—Colonial furnishings harmonize with the fireplace in the living room of the home of Mrs. Lizzie J. Howland, Berkley. They include the Boston rocker, brass candlesticks, old glass dishes, lamp, and tea caddy.

CORNER OF DININGROOM — This restored diningroom in the old farmhouse at Segreganset is one of the interesting examples of preserving the colonial quality in modernized homes, pointed to by the extension service of the Bristol County Agricultural school.

OFFERS QUIET WELCOME—The doorway shown in this picture is in the remodeled house of Mrs. Ruth Swift Linnell, Segreganset. It is one of the examples of colonal design adapted to modern purposes which is cited by the extension service.

FARMHOUSE DOORWAY — Flanked by trellises and facing a hedge-lined front walk, this old doorway has an admirable setting. It is in a farmhouse at Bristol County Agricultural school, which was rebuilt in 1926 in its 126th year.

19TH CENTURY FIREPLACE—A house built in 1800 and restored in 1926 at the Bristol County Agricultural school contains this example of Colonial design in library fireplaces, characterized by wide paneling and simple, effective carving.

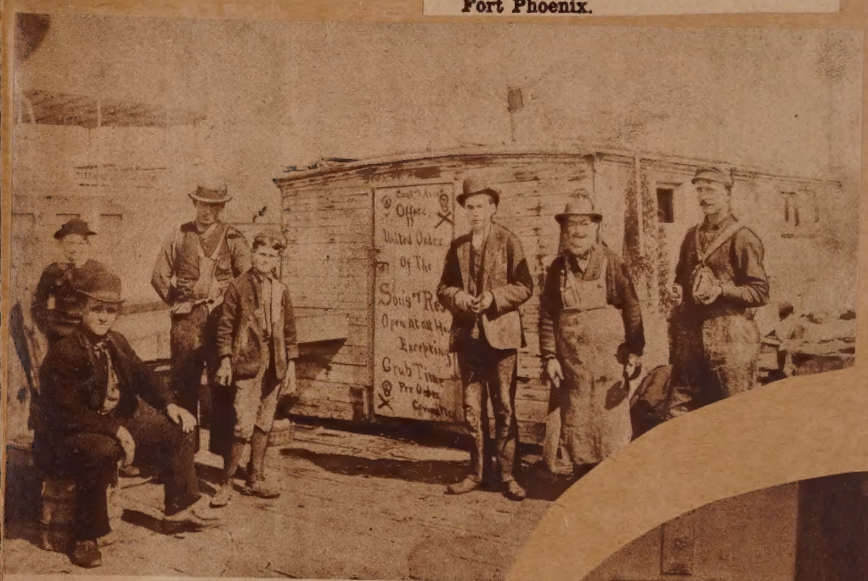
WELSBACH LAMPLIGHTERS—This photograph, taken about a quarter of a century ago on the south side of High street, east of Purchase, recalls the boys who lighted the gas lights on New Bedford streets. George Coffin, standing directly in front of the open door in the back row had charge of the boys. Everett Cowing and Manuel Enos are at extreme right. Among the others are, middle row, William E. White, William M. Miller, William Coffin, A. A. Talmage, Thomas A. Cunniff, a Mr. Phinney and John H. Hollihan; bottom row, Patrick Ennis, John M. Champion, and others.

Jan. 15, 1928

MINSTREL PLAYERS IN 1905—Many will recall these faces as they appeared in the cast of the Dartmouth club minstrel show, March 1 and 2, 1905. Among the entertainers are: First row, left to right: Chester L. Hill, Clarence H. Brownell, Fred C. Lewis, Harry L. Pope, Charles W. Morrison, Ernest W. Lee, Bryant M. Brownell, Louis R. Kerr. Second row: E. W. Hunt, F. L. Hoxie, Dr. James E. Pease, Fred W. Morrison, William S. Cook, John McCullough, Walter H. Bassett, C. E. Whiting, Ellis L. Howland, and Everett C. Tripp. Among those in the back row are William N. Jewett, A. B. Fuller, Harry Marsh, Merton L. Hathaway, Charles P. Emerson, Charles T. Heron, Henry H. Howard Jr., Dr. N. B. Nesbett, Frank H. Macy, Augustus Wood, James H. Higham, Frank H. Murkland, George W. B. Britt, Albert H. Pierce, Lester S. Cornell, William A. Coe, Dexter B. Goodwin, Edgar Lord, and Elton S. Wilde.

REAMER DEPARTMENT EMPLOYES—These were familiar faces at the Morse Twist Drill company plant a few years back. Left to right they are: Front row: William Kirby, John Baylies, Charles Malmedie, Joseph Ashley and William Hammond. Middle row: Charles Sherman, Thomas Laurence, Thomas J. Borden, William Spicer, Charles Chase, and John Fuller. Back row: George Slocum, William Mackie, Frank Crapo, Benjamin Groves, Joseph Babcock, and William Caswell.

A FAMILY REUNION—This photograph of the Taber family was taken on the occasion of a well-attended outing at Fort Phoenix.



AN OLD LANDMARK—This shanty on the wharf south of the island boat wharf with the legend on the door "Office, United Order of the Sons of Rest. Open at all hours excepting grub time," was a familiar landmark to the whalemen of the '80's. The men in the photograph are, left to right: Edward Russell (who decorated the door); Harry West, city wharfinger, now at pier three; James N. Conway, contractor, and Gilbert Burgess and Alonzo Holmes, both now dead.

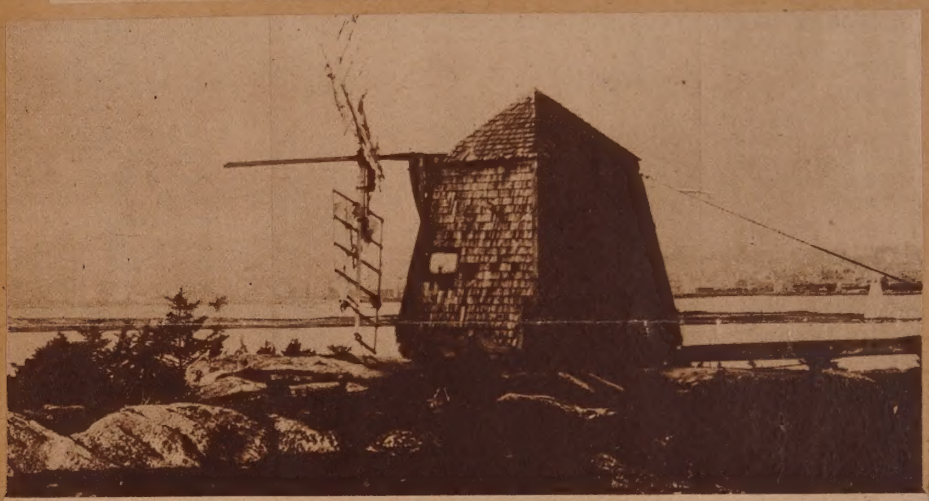
ART COMPANY EMPLOYES IN 1895—The Taber Art company employed this staff three decades ago: Left to right, front row. Lawrence Cannon, John Williams, and John MacFarland. Second row: Laura Tripp, Miss Della Almy, Miss White, Mrs. Thomas Robbins, and Antone Star. In the back row are Antone Frates, Antone Zerbone, Thomas Wood, Charles Wright, and George Rivers. Feb. 5, 1928

WHERE CENTRAL MARKET ONCE STOOD—More than three decades ago, when North Sixth street was roughly paved with cobbled stones, James Mills owned the Central market. In the photograph are left to right, James H. Winslow, now in the real estate business; the late Henry Howland, and Charles L. Ricketson. The wagon belonged to George S. Taber. At the left is another view of the old Central market, taken four years later (Christmas, 1898). The market was located in the Bartlett building, next to the headquarters of the Central Union association.

Jan. 22. 1928.

READY FOR THE TRIP—About 15 years ago this party boarded the tug J. T. Sherman and visited the quarantine station. The two youngsteers are Joseph A. Frazer Jr. and John B. Sullivan. In the middle rom are Charles R. Slocum, Dr. Joseph A. Frazier, the host, James J. Moore, Jesse Willey, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan and Captain George S. Anthony. Standing on the deck are Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Sullivan and Captain Joseph Murray. 1928-15-193

1928
THEN A LANE, NOW A STREET—Old time residents of New Bedford can remember the days when Kempton street, from Acushnet avenue to Second street, cobble paved and with one sidewalk, was hardly more than a wide lane.



ONCE A FAIRHAVEN LANDMARK—Babbitt's windmill for many years stood upon the rock foundation at Fort Phoenix and watched New Bedford grow from a thriving whaling city to a textile center.

WHEN PURCHASE STREET WAS GROWING UP—Haskell and Tripp's dry goods store was located on the present site of the Union Street Railway waiting station. 1928

DIES 1927

The Rev. Louis N. Blanchet Formerly Curate in Three Churches Here

The Rev. Louis Norbert Blanchet, pastor of St. Jean Baptiste church, Fall River, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon at the rectory on Tucker street, was the first curate of St. Anne's church, here and had also served as curate at St. Anthony's and Sacred Heart churches.

While the priest had not been in the best of health, his condition had never caused concern among the other priests or his parishioners.

Father Blanchet celebrated one of the masses yesterday morning in honor of the Feast of All Saints and returned to the rectory. He went to his room on the second floor about 10, and when he failed to come to the dinner table he curate, the Rev. Joseph Bourque, investigated.

The curate found Father Blanchet seriously ill in his room and called Dr. Donat J. Milot, who has previously cared for the pastor. Dr. Milot called Dr. J. A. Barre for a consultation, but the priest died a short time after the arrival of the physicians. Dr. Milot said that a cerebral hemorrhage was the cause of death.

In the summer Father Blanchet spent several weeks in Canada and his parishioners thought he appeared greatly benefited at the time of his return Sept. 1.

Father Blanchet was born and spent his early days in Canada. After his ordination he was accepted by the late Bishop Harkins of Providence. He later served as curate at the Notre Dame church, Fall River.

Since he became pastor of St. Jean Baptiste church, the French parish in the Maplewood section of Fall River has made many advances. Under the direction of Father Blanchet, a new church was completed in the summer of 1926 and plans are now going forward for the construction of a new parochial school.

FORTY YEARS AGO IN OUR OFFICE—The mechanical staff of The Standard posed for this photograph in the summer of 1886. They are, left to right, first row: Charles N. Smith, B. Frank Penney, Ezekiel C. Gardiner, James Dignam, Augustus Smith, Herbert B. Gardiner, Leonard L. Stephenson and Frederick F. Ellis. Back row: Frederick B. Sylvester, Stephen H. Shepherd, William Kelley, James T. Clark, Martin L. Hathaway, Georg W. H. Brownell, Charles E. Pierce, James A. Russell, Frank S. Tallman, James I. Bearse, William A. Hamer, Alexander Gillis, Joseph A. Taber, William E. Tourtellot, Benjamin F. Hinckley, and Warren P. Tobey.

Feb. 5, 1928

HOME HAS SEVEN CHIMNEYS—Down on the Cape, at Bass River, stands this group of buildings, the summer home of Charles Davis, mine owner and engineer. The seven chimneys give outlets for 15 open fireplaces.

Jan. 15, 1928

HISTORIC CAPE HOME—Just 200 years after Columbus discovered America the home how occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Pratt was built in Sandwich. Originally occupied by the Meltiah Bourne family, it has since been held by the Judge E. S. Whittemore descendants. Insert in circle above shows Mr. Pratt.

1928

—A. F. Packard Photo.

WITH MAJESTIC SERENITY—Just as the sun in the west was lighting a golden path, the bark Lina, sailing from New Bedford for the Cape Verde Islands, turned its prow into the dusk.

Jan. 29, 1928.

RUGGED SIMPLICITY—This old Cape Cod church building, the house of worship for the Congregationalists in North Falmouth, has been recently remodeled and repainted. The Rev. Charles W. Mock is pastor.

DEAD AT 67

CHARLES CRANSTON LEE.

8/31-1927

RETIRED LETTER CARRIER DEAD

Charles Cranston Lee, in Poor Health Several Years, Succumbs Suddenly---Postman 35 Years

Charles Cranston Lee, 67, died at his home, 115 Sycamore street, early yesterday morning. Mr. Lee has been in poor health for several years. For 35 years, Mr. Lee was a letter carrier. He retired in 1924. He was apopinted a substitute letter carrier, July 12, 1889, and a regular carrier, Nov. 1, 1892. His route was in the North during practically all of his long service and he saw that section of the city grow from a small outlying district to a thriving business center.

During his 35 years in the postal service, Mr. Lee took a lively interest in the development of the northern section of this city.

Mr. Lee was born in this city in 1860, son of John Charles and Ada Anthony Lee. His early education was received at the Fifth Street Grammar school from which he was graduated at 14. He then entered the employ of Amasa Bullard on Cheapside, serving at the same time the Standard and the Mercury on the Hawthorn street route. Subsequently he taught school in Maryland, kept books for a concern in Boston, and worked as polisher for Pierce and Bushnell on Water street.

MARRIED 50 YEARS

2-27

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Habicht Have Lived in Fairhaven for Decade

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Habicht, 73 Laurel street, Fairhaven, observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage yesterday.

They had no formal observance of the event. Mr. and Mrs. Habicht were married by the Rev. Edmund Rowland, D. D., who was at that time rector of Grace Episcopal church. The ceremony was performed at the rectory of the church. Before her marriage, Mrs. Habicht was Miss Margaret Patterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Habicht have made their home in Fairhaven for the past 10 years. Previously they lived in New Bedford for many years. For almost 49 years, Mr. Habicht played in musical organizations in this section. His favorite instrument was the B flat cornet. Mr. and Mrs. Habicht have four children, Mrs. Ernest Gifford, New Bedford, Miss Emma L. Habicht, A. Martin P. Habicht and Henry P. Habicht, all of Fairhaven.

HARWICH TOWN HALL—This structure, erected in 1885 for use as a theater in Harwich, is one of the tallest wooden buildings on the Cape. Caleb Chase, a Boston coffee dealer, made a Christmas gift of the building to the town in 1903.

PRIEST COMES FROM PARISH IN ATTLEBORO

The Rev. Manuel G. Salvador Feels He Is Really Coming Home Again

NAMED TO SUCCEED PASTOR ILL IN AZORES

The Rev. Thomas F. McNulty, Native of This City, Goes to Attleboro Church

Feeling, as he himself expressed it, that in coming to New Bedford to assume the pastorate of St. John the Baptist church, he is "really coming home again," the Rev. Manuel G. Salvador, for the last three years pastor of the Church of the Holy Ghost, Attleboro, Tuesday was getting established again in the parish where five years ago he served as assistant.

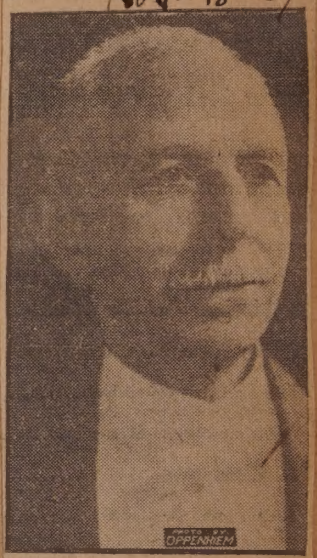
RETURNS TO CHURCH HERE

Oct 5-27

The Rev. Manuel G. Salvador

HONORED AT 72

Nov-18-27



John W. Frasier, Retired Postal Worker, Guest at Celebration

John W. Frasier, who retired from service in the New Bedford post office seven years ago, was guest of honor at a dinner at the roof garden of New Bedford hotel last evening in celebration of his 72d birthday.

There were 53 in attendance. Remarks were made by John McCullough, Fire Chief Edward F. Dahill, Judge James P. Doran, John F. Goggin, Joseph F. Francis, William J. Kerwin and others.

Mr. Frasier was born in this city Nov. 17, 1855. After some years in the grocery business, he was appointed as a regular on the post office staff here in May, 1888, being promoted a year later. He served many years as assistant superintendent of carriers and as superintendent, and was chief of the foreign division.

Mr. and Mrs. Frasier observed their 53d wedding anniversary Oct. 18 last.

AND YOUNG FROM FAR AND NEAR ATTEND

9/8-27

Interesting Jenney Family Members

(1) and (2) Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenney, who motored to the reunion from Torrington, Conn., starting at 4:30 A. M. yesterday. (3) The oldest and the youngest Jenney descendants at the meeting, left Robert Franklin Doane, five, 326 Arnold street; right, William Burgess Jenney, 87, 174 Grinnell street. (4) and (5) Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Chace, Pine Castle, Fla., whose home was farthest from Fort Phoenix.

BOSTON WOMAN BUYS COUNTY STREET HOME

9/25-27

Read Property Will Be Renovated

The large two-story residence on the east side of County street, opposite the Bristol county courthouse, has been sold to Mrs. Maud W. Lawrence, Boston, who will make the house her home after extensive interior alterations have been made. The property was sold by Stanley G. Baker for the estate of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Read. The house has been vacant for more than three years, since the death of Mrs. Read. The large residence, erected a good many years ago, when this was a fashionable residential section of the city, has 20 rods of land, the lot having a frontage of 50 feet on County street and an approximate depth of 100

PETER-PRESCOTT NUPTIALS HELD AT UNITARIAN CHURCH

9/3-27

Reception and Wedding Breakfast Follow at Marianno, North Dartmouth Estate---Couple to Live in Cambridge, Where Bridegroom Is Senior at Harvard

NEW GIRL SCOUT [illegible]

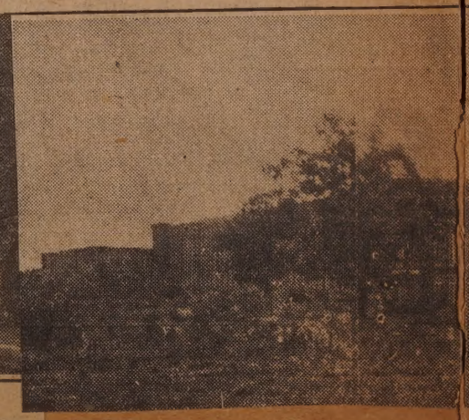
9/22

Miss Agnes Marshall

Miss Marshall, who begins work Oct. 1, as director of the New Bedford Girl Scouts, will be guest of honor at a reception Oct. 6, given by the Girl Scout officers of the New Bedford council. She is a Scout herself, has taken college courses in scouting and troop management and directors' courses at Camp Edith Macy, New York, and has had practical experience as scouting director at Franklin County camp, Ohio. Miss Marshall comes from Columbus, Ohio.

MANOMET NO. 4 MILL, LARGEST TIRE FABRIC UNIT IN WORLD, SOLD TO FIRESTONE

Oct. 2, 1927.



Will Start Up Soon

The picture shows a new view of Manomet Mill No. 4, which has just been purchased by the Firestone Tire and Rubber company. It is taken from the northeast corner of the plant, looking southwest, and gives some idea of the tremendous size of the mill, which is the largest single tire-fabric unit in the world. The [illegible]-shed containing the big tire fabric looms is shown at the distance [illegible] the mill, which is near-

...BE ...BE ALTERED

...entist's Office to Be Arranged for in Residence Purchased by James H. Miskell

The residence at the northeast corner of County and Walnut streets was sold last week by the estate of Mrs. Elizabeth K. Wood to James H. Miskell. Mr. Miskell will later make his home there, and alterations are to be made at the north side of the house on the County street front, making it suitable for a suite of dentist's offices to be occupied by Louis Miskell. The changes will be of a character conforming to the present type of the house.

This house was built for the late William Wood from plans by Nat C. Smith about 30 years ago. Zebina B. Davis was the contractor, and the residence is of fine construction, with the interior finished in quartered oak and mahogany. The house has been on the market since the death of Mrs. Wood, and Mr. Miskell purchases from the executor of the estate, Joseph Milliken.

The property has a frontage of 91.55 feet on County street, 70 feet on Walnut street and contains 24 rods of land. The 1927 assessed valuation of the property is $17,500, which includes the house valued at $12,750 and the land at $4,750.

COUNTY STREET RESIDENCE SOLD 9/18/27

Property Purchased By James H. Miskell

BRONZE WHALEMAN HAS NEW HARPOON

Vandal's Work Repaired 9/15-27

New Bedford's bronze whaleman has received a new harpoon, the first in his career of 14 years. It was cast to the order of the city by the Gorham company, Providence, in bronze to match the statue, and was fastened in place today. The new bronze shaft replaces one broken off weeks ago by some vandal who carried the broken end away. The whaleman's harpoon had been broken before, but the piece had been found and fastened back on the shaft. In vain last time did the police search for the perpetrator of the deed and the missing piece, to save the city the cost of a new one. That, incidentally, came to nearly $100, about 20 times what an ordinary whaling iron might cost yesterday.

CHOSEN COMMANDER

DEC. 9 - 27

Henry N. Seymour Heads United Spanish War Veterans

At the annual election of officers of the Charles V. Gridley camp, United Spanish War Veterans, held last Saturday, Henry N. Seymour, 16 Holly street, senior vice commander last year, was elected commander, succeeding Walter Rawcliffe who had held that office the past two years.

Mr. Seymour enlisted in 1898 from Plattsburg, N. Y., at the time of President McKinley's first call for volunteers, and was detailed with Company A, 21st infantry, to duty in Cuba. He was stationed there with this company 14 months. In 1902 he re-enlisted and served a second period, with the 20th Company Coast Artillery, Army of Occupation, in Cuba, until 1905.

The new commander came to New Bedford 17 years ago and has been since prominent in the affairs of the Spanish War Veterans. He is a carpenter.

COMMITTEE ENTERTAINS BANKERS 9/7-27

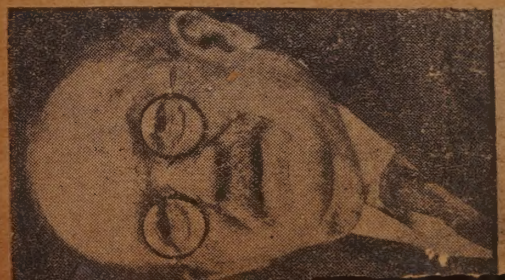
Plan Convention Program

Committee of New Bedford Savings banks entertaining the Massachusetts Savings Banks association here at three days' meeting this week. Left to right, Elmer A. MacGowan, treasurer of the New Bedford Institution for Savings; Harold Ashworth, of the New Bedford Institution for Savings, and William F. Turner, treasurer of the New Bedford Five Cents Savings bank.

70th BIRTHDAY DINNER ATTENDED BY SISTERS 9/23/27

Warren S. Barker Youngest of Group

Warren S. Barker, 32 Underwood street, Fall River, celebrated his 70th birthday Wednesday by a dinner a which the guests included his five sisters, all older than himself, their total ages coming to 480 years. The reunion was the family's first in eight or 10 years. The oldest in the group was Mrs. David A. Sisson, South Dartmouth, who is 91. The others were Mrs. Lemuel Potter, 87, who spends her years alternately with her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Wing, South Dartmouth, and her son, Dr. C. A. Potter, St. Charles, Ill., and is now with Mrs. Wing; Mrs. J. Earl Damon, 82, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Fenner C. Brownell, 76, and Miss Emma F. Barker, 74, Fall River. Mrs. Damon is spending a few days before her return to Washington with Mrs. Wing. Mrs. Sisson, who lives with her grandson, Kendall Sisson, South Dartmouth, is a guest at the Wings for the occasion. Mr. Barker and his sisters were children of William and Rebecca Barker, who brought up a family of 10 children on their farm on Chase road, Dartmouth. All lived to manhood and womanhood. There were four children also by a previous marriage who lived to maturity.

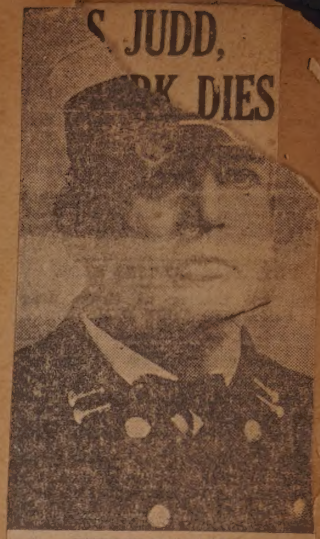


HENRY A. GRAY. Dec. 24, 1927.

GED MUSICIAN DEAD AT 78

ry Asa Gray, One of ew Bedford Orchestra nion Founders, Long Ill

S. JUDD, ...RK DIES



JOHN W. DONAGHY. Dec 20, 1927.

DISTRICT CHIEF DONAGHY DEAD

Fire Official Succumbs to Pneumonia Attack in His 62d Year

Born in New Bedford, He Was with Department About 40 Years

Miss E. Lucile Palmer, Reference Librarian, Accepts Attleboro Appointment

Library Worker to Assume Duties Jan. 9; Has Been Here Since 1925

Miss E. Lucile Palmer, for the past two years reference librarian at the Free Public library, has been appointed librarian at Attleboro. She assumes her new duties Jan. 9. Miss Palmer will succeed Mrs. Lucinda F. Spofford, who is to be librarian at Arlington.

Miss Palmer came to New Bedford from Middleboro, where she was librarian. She was reference librarian at Western Reserve university, Cleveland, before assuming the Middleboro post. She is a graduate of Simm... college, 1921. She is the dau... the Rev. Stephen G. P...

MISS E. LUCILE PALMER. Dec 19, 1927.

The Attleboro libr... ma...

UTE AND DESIGNER

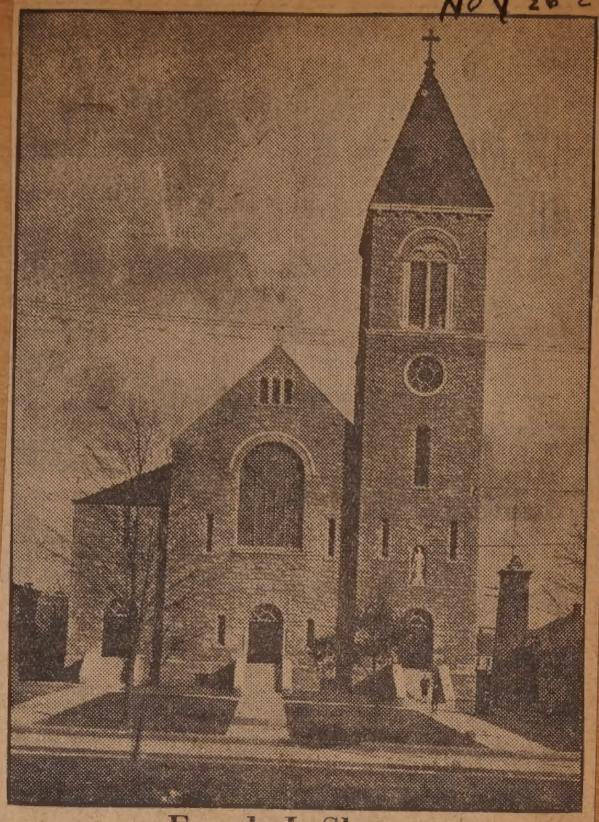
Sept 9. 27

For Unknown's Paris Tomb

Wreath which will be placed on the tomb of the unknown soldier in Paris by Major John A. Stitt as a tribute from the city of New Bedford. The wreath was designed by Miss Laura C. Bessette, secretary to Mayor Ashley. Miss Bessette is among those from here who sails on the Scythia today to attend the Legion convention in Paris.

ST. KILIAN'S CHURCH

Nov 26-27



Facade Is Shown

Photograph, taken recently by Thomas Whittle, 275 Phillips avenue, gives an excellent front view of the new St. Kilian's church. Note the unusual design of the front elevation.

#GOES TO CAPITAL

7/24-27

Former Manomet Officer Joins Textile Division

Edgar C. Crosby, for 18 years cost accountant with the Manomet mill) of this city, has accepted a post in the Textile division of the Department of Commerce. As one of the assistants in the study of new and more extensive uses for cotton, he is working with four other men representing other parts of the cotton trade. Mr. Crosby's interests in the work will be those of New England mills on the practical end. Other assistants represent the selling end, raw cotton production, and the various geographical sectors of the industry, each with its own particular characteristics and interests. Mr. Crosby is already in Washington and is presently inaugurating his duties with research work in the Bureau of Standards. His home here is at 104 Hazard street. His family plans to join him in Washington after the summer months. His daughter, Dorothy, who has just been graduated from Bridgewater Normal school, will remain here to teach in Fairhaven next year. Winifred Crosby, a student at New Bedford High, and E. C. Crosby Jr., who has but recently begun his primary school studies, will accompany their mother to Washington.

REPRESENTS COTTON MILL

7/24-27

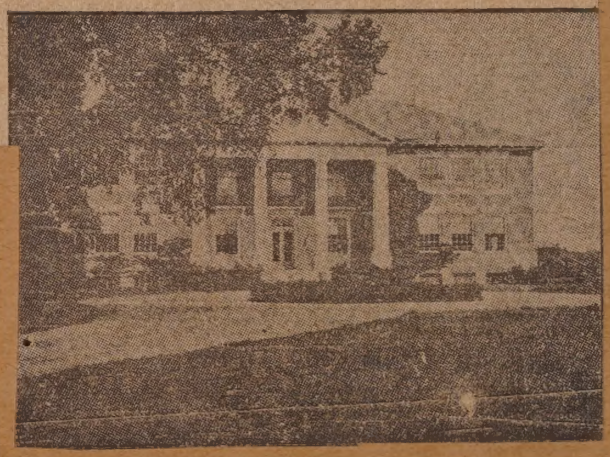
Edgar C. Crosby

MASSACHUSETTS'S OLD MAN OF THE MOUNTAIN

aug 28 27

AT ASSONET

Joshua's Mountain near Assonet bares this rugged profile to the motorist's gaze. The smaller photograph shows the main school building of the Bristol County Agricultural school.



LEWIS S. JUDD, NEW YORK, DIES

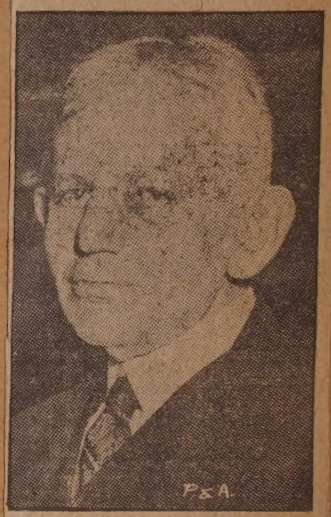
Fairhaven Native Reference Librarian 42 Years of Astor and New York Public Library

3/10/28

Lewis S. Judd, for 42 years reference librarian of the New York Public Library and the Astor Library, died Thursday of heart disease at his home, 110 West 124th street, New York. He was 69.

Mr. Judd was a native of Fairhaven, the son of the late Lewis S. Judd, who for many years conducted the paraffin works in this city. A brother, the late Walter H. Judd, was for many years at the head of the Fairhaven Iron Foundry.

Although he entered the Astor Library in 1884, two years after his graduation from Amherst college, Mr. Judd never lost his interest in Fairhaven and made occasional visits to the town to renew acquaintanceships of his youth. He was graduated from Fairhaven High school in the class of 1875, the class consisting of six boys and five girls.



LEWIS S. JUDD.

Mr. Judd contributed to The History of Fairhaven, part of his writings dealing with the history of the churches in the town. He also wrote a poem on the occasion of the first Old Home Week observed in Fairhaven.

After joining the staff of the Astor Library as assistant reference librarian, he continued at that position when the library became part of the New York Public Library in 1897. For several years previous to his retirement in 1926 he had charge of the Stuart Collection. He also wrote The History of the Broadway Tabernacle.

Mr. Judd was of Pilgrim stock, and traced his ancestry to Governors Bradford and Winthrop of this state. He is survived by a wife, Kathleen.

On the occasion of his 40th anniversary in the Astor and New York libraries, Mr. Judd was widely interviewed because of his many acquaintances and recollections of famous writers and notable public men.

BRANCH LIBRARIAN

after 28.28

BACHRACH

MISS ELIZABETH CORNELL.

LEAVES DARTMOUTH

Thomas Anderson Resigns Designers Position to Open Own Office

Thomas Anderson, designer at the Dartmouth mill for the past three and one half years, has resigned his position, and yesterday severed his connection with the company in order to go into business for himself as a textile designer on commission. Mr. Anderson was formerly designer for the Pawtucket Textile company of Pawtucket. Trained in Lancashire, as a graduate of the Bradford Technical college, he served as assistant designer in English mills, one a cotton mill and another a silk mill, coming to the United States in 1923.